24.18–25.21: The reign of Zedekiah; second fall of Jerusalem and its destruction; the second deportation. This section is repeated in Jer. ch. 52 with certain changes; 25.1–12 is found in Jer.39.1–10 with changes; compare the parallel in 2 Chr.36.11–21. 24.18: More information about Zedekiah is found in Jer. chs. 21; 24; 27; 29; 32; 37; 38; Ezek.17.11–21. 24.20b–25.7: The sad story hastens to its woeful conclusion. In spite of his oath of allegiance (2 Chr.36.13; Ezek.17.13), Zedekiah began to plot with Egypt and other nations against the Chaldeans (Jer. 27.3–7; Ezek.17.15), and rebelled against the king of Babylon. Jerusalem was besieged, and after terrible privation (25.3; Dt.28.52–57; Lam.4.10), fell in the eleventh year of King Zedekiah, 587 or 586 B.C. The king was tortured and carried to Babylon, where he died (Jer.52.11). 25.8–12: The temple, the palace, and all the houses of Jerusalem were burned, and the walls were broken down. A second deportation was carried out (see 24.10–17 n.), the number taken being only 832, the rest of the people who were left in the city and the deserters who had deserted to the king of Babylon, together with the rest of the multitude, Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard carried into exile.¹² But the captain of the guard left some of the poorest of the land to be vinedressers and plowmen.

13 And the pillars of bronze that were in the house of the LORD, and the stands and the bronze sea that were in the house of the LORD, the Chalde'ans broke in pieces, and carried the bronze to Babylon.¹⁴ And they took away the pots, and the shovels, and the snuffers, and the dishes for incense and all the vessels of bronze used in the temple service,¹⁵ the firepans also, and the bowls. What was of gold the captain of the guard took away as gold, and what was of silver, as silver.¹⁶ As for the two pillars, the one sea, and the stands, which Solomon had made for the house of the LORD, the bronze of all these vessels was beyond weight.¹⁷ The height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, and upon it was a capital of bronze; the height of the capital was three cubits; a network and pomegranates, all of bronze, were upon the capital round about. And the second pillar had the like, with the network.

18 And the captain of the guard took Serai'ah the chief priest, and Zephani'ah the second priest, and the three keepers of the threshold;¹⁹ and from the city he took an officer who had been in command of the men of war, and five men of the king's council who were found in the city; and the secretary of the commander of the army who mustered the people of the land; and sixty men of the people of the land who were found in the city.

²⁰ And Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah.

²¹ And the king of Babylon smote them, and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was taken into exile out of its land.

22 And over the people who remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left, he appointed Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, son of Shaphan, governor.

²³ Now when all the captains of the forces in the open country¹ and their men heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedali'ah governor, they came with their men to Gedali'ah at Mizpah, namely, Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah, and Joha'nan the son of Kare'ah, and Serai'ah the son of Tanhu'meth the Netoph'athite, and Jazani'ah the son of the Ma-ac'athite.

²⁴ And Gedali'ah swore to them and their men, saying, "Do not be afraid because of the Chalde'an officials; dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you."²⁵ But in the seventh month,

Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah, son of Eli'shama, of the royal family, came with ten men, and attacked and killed Gedali'ah and the Jews and the Chalde'ans who were with him at

according to Jer.52.29. 13-17: All the valuable equipment of the temple was carried to Babylon. 18-21: All remaining leaders were executed. 22-26: This section does not appear in Jer. ch. 52; there is, however, an expanded account in Jer.40.7-41.18. In Jer.40.6 and chs. 42-43, the prophet is brought into the story. It is a cause for amazement that Jeremiah is not mentioned even once in 2 Kings, whereas the book of Jeremiah contains a wealth of additional information about the last days of Judah.

25.22-26: The governorship of Gedaliah. 22-24: The abolition of the monarchy and the appointment of Gedaliah as a native governor under Chaldean control should have meant peace and stability for Judah. Gedaliah's father, Ahi'kam, had been a trusted adviser of Josiah (22.12) and a friend of Jeremiah (Jer.26.24). Gedaliah himself was well disposed toward the prophet (Jer.39.14; 40.6), and enjoyed the confidence of his fellow citizens (Jer.40.11-12). 25-26: The dastardly assassination of this good man by Ishmael, a member of the deposed royal family, brought about utter chaos and ruin (Jer.40.13-41.18); see the evaluation of the situation by the Deuteronomic editor of the book of Jeremiah in Jer.44.1-14.

Mizpah. ²⁸ Then all the people, both small and great, and the captains of the forces arose, and went to Egypt; for they were afraid of the Chalde'ans.

27 And in the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoi'achin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, Evil-mero'dach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, graciously freed Jehoi'achin king of Judah from prison; ²⁸ and he spoke kindly to him, and gave him a seat above the seats of the kings who were with him in Babylon. ²⁹ So Jehoi'achin put off his prison garments. And every day of his life he dined regularly at the king's table; ³⁰ and for his allowance, a regular allowance was given him by the king, every day a portion, as long as he lived.

25.27-30: Jehoiachin in exile. Also found in Jer.52.31-34. From about 560 B.C., shortly before he finished the book in about 550 (see Introduction to 1 Kings), the second Deuteronomist received this report that Jehoiachin was still safe, and was enjoying favored treatment by the king of Babylon. The report has been partially confirmed by archaeological researches. The writer may have used this information to end his book with a note of modest hope, as though to say (in spite of 24.9): the Davidic dynasty has not been snuffed out.

CHRONICLES

In the Hebrew Bible 1 and 2 Chronicles were originally a single book, as were 1 and 2 Samuel and also 1 and 2 Kings (see p. 330). The two books of Chronicles are now usually considered to have been part of a larger work which included the books of Ezra and Nehemiah (see Introduction to Ezra).

The purpose of 1 and 2 Chronicles, like that of 1 and 2 Kings, is theological and idealistic. There is practically no attempt to present history as we understand the word. The Chronicler wishes to advocate a certain pattern of religious life for his own day, and to indicate what a proper kingdom of his people under God would be like. He does this by describing the reigns of David and Solomon in particular, not as they actually had been, but as they ought to have been. David, especially, is highly idealized, and becomes the real founder of the temple and its ritual. A primary interest of the Chronicler is in the staff of the post-exilic temple, the organization of the priests, Levites, musicians, custodians, and others. Because of his manifest concern with Levites and singers in particular, it has been conjectured that the Chronicler was both a Levite and a singer.

The sources used by the Chronicler are mainly the books of Samuel and Kings, which are often quoted verbatim though never mentioned by name. Likewise utilized are parts of Genesis, Exodus, Numbers, Joshua, and Ruth. In addition, about sixteen titles of other sources are mentioned, such as "the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah," "the Chronicles of Samuel the Seer," "the Chronicles of Nathan the Prophet," "the Commentary on the Book of Kings," and the like. It is probable that all of these titles refer to parts of a single book, now lost. Though in a few instances the Chronicler seems to have had better information than that incorporated in other canonical books, most of the changes and additions came from the writer's strong sense of what ought to have been as a pattern for conduct in his own time and in the future.

If Ezra-Nehemiah are a part of the Chronicler's work, our books cannot be dated before about 400 B.C. Some scholars date them as late as 250 B.C., well into the Greek period. Since the evidences of Greek influence are few, it is well to adopt an intermediate date of 350-300 B.C.

Chapters 1-9 of 1 Chronicles present a series of genealogies. The Chronicler, or the final editor of his book, wished to make it clear that he was dealing with the true Chosen People. Chapters 10-29 are the Chronicler's account of David as a great monarch and the founder of the temple and its ritual.

Compare Gen.10.6-20. 17-27: The sons of Shem, or the Semites. The Hebrews (Eber) belonged to this group, and from it emerged Abram or Abraham. Such modern terms as "Hamitic" and "Semitic" have linguistic, rather than racial, connotations. Ancient classifications (such as sons of Shem) were based more on considerations of geography and cultural (not racial) affinity. Verses 17-23 are condensed from Gen.10.21-31, vv. 24-27 from Gen.11.10-26. 28-33: From Abraham sprang both Isaac, the progenitor of the Edomites and Israelites (v. 34), and Ishmael, the progenitor of the Arabs (compare Gen.25.1-4,12-18). 34-37: The Chronicler does not use the personal name Jacob at all, but only the community term, Israel. Esau (Edom) is given special attention as the brother of Israel. 38-42: Seir is another name for Edom (Gen.36.8, 20-30). 43-54: The kings . . . of Edom, compare Gen.36.31-43.

2 These are the sons of Israel: Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Is'sachar, Zeb'ulun, ² Dan, Joseph, Benjamin, Naph'tali, Gad, and Asher. ³ The sons of Judah: Er, Onan, and Shelah; these three Bath-shu'a the Canaanitess bore to him. Now Er, Judah's first-born, was wicked in the sight of the LORD, and he slew him. ⁴ His daughter-in-law Tamar also bore him Perez and Zerah. Judah had five sons in all.

⁹ The sons of Hezron, that were born to him: Jerah'meel, Ram, and Chelu'bai. ¹⁰ Ram was the father of Ammin'adab, and Ammin'adab was the father of Nahshon, prince of the sons of Judah. ¹¹ Nahshon was the father of Salma, Salma of Bo'az, ¹² Bo'az of Obed, Obed of Jesse. ¹³ Jesse was the father of Eli'ab his first-born, Abin'adab the second, Shim'ea the third, ¹⁴ Nathan'el the fourth, Raddai the fifth, ¹⁵ Ozem the sixth, David the seventh; ¹⁶ and their sisters were Zeru'iah and Ab'igail. The sons of Zeru'iah: Abi'shai, Jo'ab, and As'ahel, three. ¹⁷ Ab'igail bore Ama'sa, and the father of Ama'sa was Jether the Ish'maelite.

¹⁸ Caleb the son of Hezron had children by his wife Azu'bah, and by Jer'ioth; and these were her sons: Jeshur, Shobab, and Ardon. ¹⁹ When Azu'bah died, Caleb married Ephrath, who bore him Hur. ²⁰ Hur was the father of Uri, and Uri was the father of Bez'alel.

²¹ Afterward Hezron went in to the daughter of Machir the father of Gilead, whom he married when he was sixty years old; and she bore him Segub; ²² and Segub was the father of Ja'ir, who had twenty-three cities in the land of Gilead. ²³ But Geshur and Aram took from them Havvoth-ja'ir, Kenath and its villages, sixty towns. All these were descendants of Machir, the father of Gilead. ²⁴ After the death of Hezron, Caleb went in to Eph'rathah, ^a the wife of Hezron his father, and she bore him Ashhur, the father of Teko'a.

²⁵ The sons of Jerah'meel, the first-born of Hezron: Ram, his first-born, Bunah, Oren, Ozem, and Ahi'jah. ²⁶ Jerah'meel also had another wife, whose name was At'arah; she was the mother of Onam. ²⁷ The sons of Ram, the first-born of Jerah'meel: Ma'az, Jamin, and Eker. ²⁸ The sons of Onam: Sham'mai and Jada. The sons of Sham'mai: Nadab and Abi'shur. ²⁹ The name of Abi'shur's wife was Ab'ihail, and she bore him Ahban and Molid. ³⁰ The sons of Nadab: Seled and Ap'pa-im; and Seled died childless. ³¹ The sons of Ap'pa-im: Ishi. The sons of Ishi: Sheshan. The sons of Sheshan: Ahlai. ³² The sons of Jada, Sham'mai's brother: Jether and Jonathan; and Jether died childless. ³³ The sons of Jonathan: Peleth and Zaza. These were the descendants of Jerah'meel. ³⁴ Now Sheshan had no sons, only daughters; but Sheshan had an Egyptian slave, whose name was Jarha. ³⁵ So Sheshan gave his daughter in marriage to Jarha his slave; and she bore him Attai. ³⁶ Attai was the father of Nathan and Nathan of Zabad. ³⁷ Zabad was the father of Ephlal, and Ephlal of Obed. ³⁸ Obed was the father of Jehu, and Jehu of Azari'ah. ³⁹ Azari'ah was the father of Helez, and Helez of Ele-a'sah. ⁴⁰ Ele-a'sah was the father of Sismai, and Sismai of Shallum. ⁴¹ Shallum was the father of Jeka-

4.1-43: The descendants of Judah and Simeon. The writer takes a genealogical excursion into the early days of the tribes of Judah and Simeon (compare Jos. chs. 15 and 19). These two tribes were closely related (Gen.29.33,35), and Simeon was finally absorbed into Judah and lost its identity (note its absence in Dt. ch. 33).

Beer-sheba, Mola'dah, Ha'zar-shu'al, ²⁹ Bilhah, Ezem, Tolad, ³⁰ Bethu'el, Hormah, Ziklag, ³¹ Beth-mar'caboth, Ha'zar-su'sim, Beth-biri, and Shara'im. These were their cities until David reigned. ³² And their villages were Etam, A'in, Rimmon, Tochen, and Ashan, five cities, ³³ along with all their villages which were round about these cities as far as Ba'al. These were their settlements, and they kept a genealogical record.

³⁴ Mesho'bab, Jamlech, Joshah the son of Amazi'ah, ³⁵ Jo'el, Jehu the son of Joshibi'ah, son of Serai'ah, son of As'i-el, ³⁶ Eli-o-e'nai, Ja-ako'-bah, Jeshohai'ah, Asai'ah, Ad'i-el, Jesim'iel, Benai'ah, ³⁷ Ziza the son of Shiphi, son of Allon, son of Jedai'ah, son of Shimri, son of Shemai'ah – ³⁸ these mentioned by name were princes in their families, and their fathers' houses increased greatly. ³⁹ They journeyed to the entrance of Gedor, to the east side of the valley, to seek pasture for their flocks, ⁴⁰ where they found rich, good pasture, and the land was very broad, quiet, and peaceful; for the former inhabitants there belonged to Ham. ⁴¹ These, registered by name, came in the days of Hezeki'ah, king of Judah, and destroyed their tents and the Me-u'nim who were found there, and exterminated them to this day, and settled in their place, because there was pasture there for their flocks. ⁴² And some of them, five hundred men of the Simeonites, went to Mount Se'ir, having as their leaders Pelati'ah, Ne-ari'ah, Rephai'ah, and Uz'ziel, the sons of Ishi; ⁴³ and they destroyed the remnant of the Amal'ekites that had escaped, and they have dwelt there to this day.

5 The sons of Reuben the first-born of Israel (for he was the first-born;

but because he polluted his father's couch, his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph the son of Israel, so that he is not enrolled in the genealogy according to the birthright; ² though Judah became strong among his brothers and a prince was from him, yet the birthright belonged to Joseph), ³ the sons of Reuben, the first-born of Israel: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. ⁴ The sons of Jo'el: Shemai'ah his son, Gog his son, Shim'e-i his son, ⁵ Micah his son, Re-ai'ah his son, Ba'al his son, ⁶ Be-er'ah his son, whom Til'gath-pilne'ser king of Assyria carried away into exile; he was a chieftain of the Reubenites. ⁷ And his kinsmen by their families, when the genealogy of their generations was reckoned: the chief, Je-i'el, and Zechari'ah, ⁸ and Bela the son of Azaz, son of Shema, son of Jo'el, who dwelt in Aro'er, as far as Nebo and Ba'al-me'on. ⁹ He also dwelt to the east as far as the entrance of the desert this side of the Euphra'tes, because their cattle had multiplied in the land of Gilead. ¹⁰ And in the days of Saul they made war on the Hagrites, who fell by their hand; and they dwelt in their tents throughout all the region east of Gilead.

¹¹ The sons of Gad dwelt over against them in the land of Bashan as far as Sal'ecah: ¹² Jo'el the chief, Shapham the second, Ja'nai, and Shaphat in Bashan. ¹³ And their kinsmen according to their fathers' houses: Michael, Meshul'lam, Sheba, Jo'rai, Jacan, Zi'a, and Eber, seven. ¹⁴ These were the sons of Ab'ihail the son of Huri, son of Jaro'ah, son of Gilead, son of Michael, son of Jeshish'ai, son of Jahdo, son of Buz; ¹⁵ Ahi the son of Ab'di-el, son of Guni, was chief in their fathers' houses; ¹⁶ and they dwelt in

5.1-26: The descendants of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, the tribes located east of the Jordan. 1-10: Reuben was traditionally connected with Judah (Gen.29.32,35), but by remaining east of the Jordan lost power and influence (Gen.35.22; Dt.33.6). The Joseph tribes (sons of Joseph) became dominant (Gen.49.22-26; Dt.33.13-17), yet from Judah sprang a prince, David, the greatest figure of the past, and the prototype of the Messiah to come. 11-17: Gad was just north of Reuben and seems to have been stronger and more important

Gilead, in Bashan and in its towns, and in all the pasture lands of Sharon to their limits. ¹⁷ All of these were enrolled by genealogies in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jerobo'am king of Israel.

¹⁹ They made war upon the Hagrites, Jetur, Naphish, and Nodab; ²⁰ and when they received help against them, the Hagrites and all who were with them were given into their hands, for they cried to God in the battle, and he granted their entreaty because they trusted in him. ²¹ They carried off their livestock: fifty thousand of their camels, two hundred and fifty thousand sheep, two thousand asses, and a hundred thousand men alive. ²² For many fell slain, because the war was of God. And they dwelt in their place until the exile.

stirred up the spirit of Pul king of Assyria, the spirit of Til'gath-pilne'ser king of Assyria, and he carried them away, namely, the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manas'seh, and brought them to Halah, Habor, Hara, and the river Gozan, to this day.

6ⁿ The sons of Levi: Gershom, Kohath, and Merar'i. ² The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uz'ziel. ³ The children of Amram: Aaron, Moses, and Miriam. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abi'hu, Elea'zar, and Ith'amar. ⁴ Elea'zar was the father of Phin'ehas, Phin'ehas of Abishu'a, ⁵ Abishu'a of Bukki, Bukki of Uzzi, ⁶ Uzzi of Zerahi'ah, Zerahi'ah of Merai'oth, ⁷ Merai'oth of Amari'ah, Amari'ah of Ahi'tub, ⁸ Ahi'tub of Zadok, Zadok of Ahim'a-az, ⁹ Ahim'a-az of Azari'ah, Azari'ah of Joha'nan, ¹⁰ and Joha'nan of Azari'ah (it was he who served as priest in the house that Solomon built in Jerusalem). ¹¹ Azari'ah was the father of Amari'ah, Amari'ah of Ahi'tub, ¹² Ahi'tub of Zadok, Zadok of Shallum, ¹³ Shallum of Hilki'ah, Hilki'ah of Azari'ah, ¹⁴ Azari'ah of Serai'ah, Serai'ah of Jehoz'adak; ¹⁵ and Jehoz'adak went into exile when the LORD sent Judah and Jerusalem into exile by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.

¹⁶ The sons of Levi: Gershom, Kohath, and Merar'i. ¹⁷ And these are the names of the sons of Gershom: Libni and Shim'e-i. ¹⁸ The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and

All these tribes were carried into exile by the Assyrians, according to the tradition utilized in these verses (compare 2 Kg.15.29).

6.1-81: The lineage of the Levites. 1-5: The Levites were an ancient warlike tribe (Gen. 49.5-7) that became a priestly caste (Dt.33.8-10; Jg.17.9-13; 18.19). The line running through Zadok (v. 8; compare 2 Sam.8.17) produced the chief priests, which are here traced down to the Exile (compare Gen.46.11; Ex.6.18-19; Num.26.59-60). 16-48: Other Levites, not of the privileged priestly family, performed auxiliary duties in the temple, such as singing (the service of song, v. 31). David is credited with instituting the musical service of the temple as it existed in the Chronicler's own day, somewhat as Moses is credited with all the laws in Deuteronomy. Prominent family names associated with these singers were Heman (v. 33), Korah (v. 37), Asaph (v. 39), and Ethan (v. 44); see the titles to Pss. 73-83; 88-89. The Chronicler himself probably belonged to one of these groups. 49-53: To be a priest in the Chronicler's time it was necessary to be a descendant of Aaron; to be a high priest, one had to be a descendant of Zadok. 54-81: Territory allotted to Levitical clans before the Levites had become a priestly cast supported by other Israelites and thus needing no land (Num.26.62). and Beth-she'mesh with its pasture lands; ⁶⁰ and from the tribe of Benjamin, Geba with its pasture lands, Al'emeth with its pasture lands, and An'athoth with its pasture lands. All their cities throughout their families were thirteen.

⁶¹ To the rest of the Ko'hathites were given by lot out of the family of the tribe, out of the half-tribe, the half of Manas'seh, ten cities. ⁶² To the Gershomites according to their families were allotted thirteen cities out of the tribes of Is'sachar, Asher, Naph'tali, and Manas'seh in Bashan. ⁶³ To the Merar'ites according to their families were allotted twelve cities out of the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zeb'ulun. ⁶⁴ So the people of Israel gave the Levites the cities with their pasture lands. ⁶⁵ They also gave them by lot out of the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin these cities which are mentioned by name.

⁷¹ To the Gershomites were given out of the half-tribe of Manas'seh: Golan in Bashan with its pasture lands and Ash'taroth with its pasture lands; ⁷² and out of the tribe of Is'sachar: Kedesh with its pasture lands, Dab'erath with its pasture lands, ⁷³ Ramoth with its pasture lands, and Anem with its pasture lands; ⁷⁴ out of the tribe of Asher: Mashal with its pasture lands, Abdon with its pasture lands, ⁷⁵ Hukok with its pasture lands, and Rehob with its pasture lands; ⁷⁶ and out of the tribe of Naph'tali: Kedesh in Galilee with its pasture lands, Ham'mon with its pasture lands, and Kiriatha'im with its pasture lands. ⁷⁷ To the rest of the Merar'ites were allotted out of the tribe of Zeb'ulun: Rim'mono with its pasture lands, Tabor with its pasture lands, ⁷⁸ and beyond the Jordan at Jericho, on the east side of the Jordan, out of the tribe of Reuben: Bezer in the steppe with its pasture lands, Jahzah with its pasture lands, ⁷⁹ Ked'emoth with its pasture lands, and Meph'a-ath with its pasture lands; ⁸⁰ and out of the tribe of Gad: Ramoth in Gilead with its pasture lands, Mahana'im with its pasture lands, ⁸¹ Heshbon with its pasture lands, and Jazer with its pasture lands.

⁷ The sons' of Is'sachar: Tola, Pu'ah, Jashub, and Shimron, four. ² The sons of Tola: Uzzi, Rephai'ah, Je'ri-el, Jah'mai, Ibsam, and Shem'uel, heads of their fathers' houses, namely of Tola, mighty warriors of their generations, their number in the days of David being twenty-two thousand six hundred. ³ The sons of Uzzi: Izrahi'ah. And the sons of Izrahi'ah: Michael, Obadi'ah, Jo'el, and Isshi'ah, five, all of them chief men; ⁴ and along with them, by their generations, according to their fathers' houses, were units of the army for war, thirty-six thousand, for they had many wives and sons. ⁵ Their kinsmen belonging to all the families of Is'sachar were in all eighty-seven thousand mighty warriors, enrolled by genealogy.

Becher, and Jedi'a-el, three. ⁷ The sons of Bela: Ezbon, Uzzi, Uzziel, Jer'imoth, and Iri, five, heads of fathers' houses, mighty warriors; and their enrollment by genealogies was twenty-two thousand and thirty-four.

¹³ The sons of Naph'tali: Jah'zi-el, Guni, Jezer, and Shallum, the offspring of Bilhah.

¹⁴ The sons of Manas'seh: As'ri-el, whom his Aramean concubine bore; she bore Machir the father of Gilead. ¹⁵ And Machir took a wife for Huppim and for Shuppim. The name of his sister was Ma'acah. And the name of the second was Zeloph'ehad; and Zeloph'ehad had daughters. ¹⁶ And Ma'acah the wife of Machir bore a son, and she called his name Peresh; and the name of his brother was Sheresh; and his sons were Ulam and Rakem. ¹⁷ The sons of Ulam: Bedan. These were the sons of Gilead the son of Machir, son of Manas'seh. ¹⁸ And his sister Hammo'lechet bore Ishhod, Abi-e'zer, and Mahlah. ¹⁹ The sons of Shemi'da were Ahi'an, Shechem, Likhi, and Ani'am.

²⁰ The sons of E'phraim: Shuthe'lah, and Bered his son, Tahath his son, Ele-a'dah his son, Tahath his son, ²¹ Zabab his son, Shuthe'lah his son, and Ezer and E'le-ad, whom the men of Gath who were born in the land slew, because they came down to raid their cattle. ²² And E'phraim their father mourned many days, and his brothers came to comfort him. ²³ And E'phraim went in to his wife, and she conceived and bore a son; and he called his name Beri'ah, because evil had befallen his house. ²⁴ His daughter was She'erah, who built both Lower and Upper Beth-hor'on, and Uzzen-she'erah. ²⁵ Rephah was his son, Resheph his son, Telah his son, Tahan his son, ²⁶ Ladan his son, Ammi'hud his son, Eli'shama his son, ²⁷ Nun his son, Joshua his son. ²⁸ Their possessions and settlements were Bethel and its towns, and eastward Na'aran, and westward Gezer and its towns, Shechem and its towns, and Ayyah and its towns; ²⁹ also along the borders of the Manas'sites, Beth-she'an and its towns, Ta'anach and its towns, Megid'do and its towns, Dor and its towns. In these dwelt the sons of Joseph the son of Israel.

8 Benjamin was the father of Bela his first-born, Ashbel the second, Ahar'ah the third, ² Nohah the fourth, and Rapha the fifth.³ And Bela had sons: Addar, Gera, Abi'hud,⁴ Abishu'a, Na'aman, Aho'ah,⁵ Gera, Shephu'phan, and Hiram.⁶ These are the sons of Ehud (they were heads of fathers' houses of the inhabitants of Geba, and they were carried into exile to Mana'hath):⁷ Na'aman,⁸ Ahi'jah, and Gera, that is, Heglam,⁹ who was the father of Uzza and Ahi'hud.⁸ And Shahara'im had sons in the country of Moab after he had sent away Hushim and Ba'ara his wives.⁹ He had sons by Hodesh his wife: Jobab, Zib'i-a, Mesha, Malcam,¹⁰ Je'uz, Sach'i'a, and Mirmah. These were his sons, heads of fathers' houses.¹¹ He also had sons by Hushim: Abi'tub and Elpa'al.¹² The sons of Elpa'al: Eber, Misham, and Shemed, who built Ono and Lod with its towns,¹³ and Beri'ah and Shema (they were heads of fathers' houses of the inhabitants of Ai'jalon, who put to flight the inhabitants of Gath);¹⁴ and Ahi'o, Shashak, and Jer'emoth.¹⁵ Zebadi'ah, Arad, Eder,¹⁶ Michael, Ishpah, and Joha were sons of Beri'ah.¹⁷ Zebadi'ah, Meshul'lam, Hizki, Heber,¹⁸ Ish'merai, Izli'ah, and Jobab were the sons of Elpa'al.¹⁹ Jakim, Zichri, Zabdi,²⁰ Eli-e'nai, Zil'lethai, Eli'el,²¹ Adai'ah, Bera'i'ah, and Shimrath were the sons of Shim'e-i.²² Ishpan, Eber, Eli'el,²³ Abdon, Zichri, Hanan,²⁴ Hanani'ah, Elam, Anthothi'jah,²⁵ Iphdei'ah, and Penu'el were the sons of Shashak.²⁶ Sham'sherai, Shehari'ah, Athali'ah,²⁷ Ja-areshi'ah, Eli'jah, and Zichri were the sons of Jero'ham.²⁸ These were the heads of fathers' houses, according to their generations, chief men. These dwelt in Jerusalem.

29 Je-i'el^u the father of Gibeon dwelt in Gibeon, and the name of his wife was Ma'acah.³⁰ His first-born son: Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Ba'al, Nadab,³¹ Gedor, Ahi'o, Zecher,³² and Mikloth (he was the father of Shim'e-ah). Now these also dwelt opposite their kinsmen in Jerusalem, with their kinsmen.³³ Ner was the father of Kish, Kish of Saul, Saul of Jonathan, Mal'chishu'a, Abin'adab, and Esh-ba'al;³⁴ and the son of Jonathan was Mer'ib-ba'al; and Mer'ib-ba'al was the father of Micah.³⁵ The sons of Micah: Pithon, Melech, Tare'a, and Ahaz.³⁶ Ahaz was the father of Jeho'addah; and Jeho'addah was the father of Al'emeth, Az'maveth, and Zimri; Zimri was the father of Moza.³⁷ Moza was the father of Bin'e-a; Raphah was his son, Ele-a'sah his son, Azel his son.³⁸ Azel had six sons, and these are their names: Azri'kam, Bo'cheru, Ish'mael, She-ari'ah, Obadi'ah, and Hanan. All these were the sons of Azel.³⁹ The sons of Eshek his brother: Ulam his first-born, Je'ush the second, and Eliph'elet the third.⁴⁰ The sons of Ulam were men who were mighty warriors, bowmen, having many sons and grandsons, one hundred and fifty. 8.1-40: The descendants of Benjamin. Benjamin was given special treatment because Jerusalem (v. 28) belonged traditionally to this tribe (Jos.18.28), and perhaps because from it came Saul (v. 33), who, though disliked by the Chronicler (10.13-14), was nevertheless the first king of Israel and the predecessor of David. Verse 28 is usually taken to mean that there were numerous Benjaminites in Jerusalem in the Chronicler's own time. 33-34: The names Eshbaal and Meribbaal are correctly transmitted (see 2 Sam.2.8 n. and 4.4 n.).

Elka'nah, who dwelt in the villages of the Netoph'athites.

²⁸ Some of them had charge of the utensils of service, for they were required to count them when they were

Ephraim and Manasseh dwelt in Jerusalem. In earlier times people of these tribes did not live in Jerusalem, but in the Chronicler's time representatives of "all Israel" (the post-exilic Jews) did live there. 17-34: In these paragraphs is developed the idea that David established (with the help of Samuel) all the arrangements of the temple and its services which were carried on into post-exilic times. Since David did not actually accomplish the building of the temple, he must perforce have utilized the tent of meeting (or "tabernacle"), the portable shrine that preceded brought in and taken out. ²⁹ Others of them were appointed over the furniture, and over all the holy utensils, also over the fine flour, the wine, the oil, the incense, and the spices. ³⁰ Others, of the sons of the priests, prepared the mixing of the spices, ³¹ and Mattithi'ah, one of the Levites, the first-born of Shallum the Ko'rahite, was in charge of making the flat cakes. ³² Also some of their kinsmen of the Ko'hathites had charge of the showbread, to prepare it every sabbath.

³³ Now these are the singers, the heads of fathers' houses of the Levites, dwelling in the chambers of the temple free from other service, for they were on duty day and night. ³⁴ These were heads of fathers' houses of the Levites, according to their generations, leaders, who lived in Jerusalem.

³⁹ Ner was the father of Kish, Kish of Saul, Saul of Jonathan, Mal'chishu'a, Abin'adab, and Eshba'al; ⁴⁰ and the son of Jonathan was Mer'ib-ba'al; and Mer'ib-ba'al was the father of Micah. ⁴¹ The sons of Micah: Pithon, Melech, Tahr'e-a, and Ahaz; ⁴² and Ahaz was the father of Jarah, and Jarah of Al'emeth, Az'maveth, and Zimri; and Zimri was the father of Moza. ⁴³ Moza was the father of Bin'e-a; and Rephai'ah was his son, Ele-a'sah his son, Azel his son. ⁴⁴ Azel had six sons and these are their names: Azri'kam, Bo'cheru, Ish'mael, She-ari'ah, Obadi'ah, and Hanan; these were the sons of Azel.

10 Now the Philistines fought against Israel; and the men of Israel fled before the Philistines, and fell slain on Mount Gilbo'a. ² And the Philistines overtook Saul and his sons; and the Philistines slew Jonathan and Abin'adab and Mal'chishu'a, the sons of Saul. ³ The battle pressed hard upon Saul, and the archers found him; and he was wounded by the archers. ⁴ Then Saul said to his armor-bearer, "Draw your sword, and thrust me through with it, lest these uncircumcised come and make sport of me." But his armor-bearer would not; for he feared greatly. Therefore Saul took his own sword, and fell upon it. ⁵ And when his armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he also fell upon his sword, and died. ⁶ Thus Saul died; he and his three sons and all his house died together. ⁷ And when all the men of Israel who were in the valley saw that the army^w had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead, they forsook their cities and fled; and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

In spite of his dislike of Saul, the Chronicler hesitated to relate the disgraceful exposure of the bodies. 13-14: The Chronicler brings Saul into his story mainly in contrast with David to the greater glory of the latter (see 1 Sam.31.10-13 n.). Medium, 1 Sam.28.3-25.

ness; he was unfaithful to the LORD in that he did not keep the command of the LORD, and also consulted a medium, seeking guidance,¹⁴ and did not seek guidance from the LORD. Therefore the LORD slew him, and turned the kingdom over to David the son of Jesse.

|| Then all Israel gathered together to David at Hebron, and said, "Behold, we are your bone and flesh."² In times past, even when Saul was king, it was you that led out and brought in Israel; and the LORD your God said to you, 'You shall be shepherd of my people Israel, and you shall be prince over my people Israel.'³ So all the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron; and David made a covenant with them at Hebron before the LORD, and they anointed David king over Israel, according to the word of the LORD by Samuel.

4 And David and all Israel went to Jerusalem, that is Jebus, where the Jeb'usites were, the inhabitants of the land.⁵ The inhabitants of Jebus said to David, "You will not come in here." Nevertheless David took the stronghold of Zion, that is, the city of David.⁶ David said, "Whoever shall smite the Jeb'usites first shall be chief and commander." And Jo'ab the son of Zeru'iah went up first, so he became chief.⁷ And David dwelt in the stronghold; therefore it was called the city of David.⁸ And he built the city round about from the Millo in complete circuit; and Jo'ab repaired the rest of the city.⁹ And David became greater and greater, for the LORD of hosts was with him.

10 Now these are the chiefs of David's mighty men, who gave him strong support in his kingdom, together with all Israel, to make him king, according to the word of the LORD concerning Israel.¹¹ This is an account of David's mighty men: Jasho'be-am, a Hach'monite, was chief of the three;^x he wielded his spear against three hundred whom he slew at one time.

12 And next to him among the three mighty men was Elea'zar the son of Dodo, the Aho'hite.¹³ He was with David at Pas-dam'mim when the Philistines were gathered there for battle. There was a plot of ground full of barley, and the men fled from the Philistines.¹⁴ But he^y took his^y stand in the midst of the plot, and defended it, and slew the Philistines; and the LORD saved them by a great victory.

15 Three of the thirty chief men went down to the rock to David at the cave of Adullam, when the army of Philistines was encamped in the valley of Reph'aim.¹⁶ David was then in the stronghold; and the garrison of the Philistines was then at Bethlehem.¹⁷ And David said longingly, "O that some one would give me water to drink from the well of Bethlehem which is by the gate!"¹⁸ Then the three mighty men broke through the camp of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem which was by the gate, and took and brought it to David. But David would not drink of it; he poured it out to the LORD,¹⁹ and said, "Far be it from me before my God that I should do this. Shall I drink the lifeblood of these men? For at the risk of their lives they brought it." Therefore he would not drink it. These things did the three mighty men.

11.1-47: The accession of David, the capture of Jerusalem, and a list of David's mighty warriors. 1-3: Omitting all the problems and troubles of 2 Sam. chs. 1-4, the Chronicler sees David quickly and easily anointed king over all Israel. The source is 2 Sam.5.1-3, except the last phrase, which is condensed from 1 Sam.16.1-13. 4-9: The source is 2 Sam.5.6-10. name beside the three. ²¹ He was the most renowned^a of the thirty,^z and became their commander; but he did not attain to the three.

²² And Benai'ah the son of Jehoi'ada was a valiant man^b of Kabzeel, a doer of great deeds; he smote two ariels^c of Moab. He also went down and slew a lion in a pit on a day when snow had fallen. ²³ And he slew an Egyptian, a man of great stature, five cubits tall. The Egyptian had in his hand a spear like a weaver's beam; but Benai'ah went down to him with a staff, and snatched the spear out of the Egyptian's hand, and slew him with his own spear. ²⁴ These things did Benai'ah the son of Jehoi'ada, and won a name beside the three mighty men. ²⁵ He was renowned among the thirty, but he did not attain to the three. And David set him over his bodyguard.

²⁶ The mighty men of the armies were As'ahel the brother of Jo'ab, Elha'nan the son of Dodo of Bethlehem, ²⁷ Shammoth of Harod,^d Helez the Pel'onite, ²⁸ Ira the son of Ikkeish of Teko'a, Abi-e'zer of An'athoth, ²⁹ Sib'becai the Hu'shathite, I'lai the Aho'hite, ³⁰ Ma'harai of Netoph'ah, Heled the son of Ba'anah of Netoph'ah, ³¹ Ithai the son of Ribai of Gib'e-ah of the Benjaminites, Benai'ah of Pira'thon, ³² Hurai of the brooks of Ga'ash, Abi'el the Ar'bathite, ³³ Az'maveth of Baha'rum, Eli'ahba of Sha-al'bon, ³⁴ Hashem^e the Gi'zonite, Jonathan the son of Shagee the Har'arite, ³⁵ Ahi'am the son of Sachar the Har'arite, Eli'phal the son of Ur, ³⁶ Hephher the Meche'rathite, Ahi'jah the Pel'onite, ³⁷ Hezro of Carmel, Na'arai the son of Ezbai, ³⁸ Jo'el the brother of Nathan, Mibhar the son of Hagri, ³⁹ Zelek the Ammonite, Na'harai of Be-er'oth, the armor-bearer of Jo'ab the son of Zeru'iah, ⁴⁰ Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite, ⁴¹ Uri'ah the Hittite, Zabab the son of Ahlai, ⁴² Ad'ina

the son of Shiza the Reubenite, a leader of the Reubenites, and thirty with him, ⁴³ Hanan the son of Ma'acah, and Josh'aphat the Mithnite, ⁴⁴ Uzzi'a the Ash'terathite, Shama and Je-i'el the sons of Hotham the Aro'erite, ⁴⁵ Jedi'a-el the son of Shimri, and Joha his brother, the Tizite, ⁴⁶ Eli'el the Ma'havite, and Jer'ibai, and Joshua-vi'ah, the sons of El'na-am, and Ithmah the Mo'abite, ⁴⁷ Eli'el, and Obed, and Ja-asi'el the Mezo'ba-ite.

12 Now these are the men who came to David at Ziklag, while he could not move about freely because of Saul the son of Kish; and they were among the mighty men who helped him in war. ² They were bowmen, and could shoot arrows and sling stones with either the right or the left hand; they were Benjaminites, Saul's kinsmen. ³ The chief was Ahi-e'zer, then Jo'ash, both sons of Shema'ah of Gib'e-ah; also Je'zi-el and Pelet the sons of Az'maveth; Ber'acah, Jehu of An'athoth, ⁴ Ishma'iah of Gibeon, a mighty man among the thirty and a leader over the thirty; Jeremiah,^f Jaha'ziel, Joha'nán, Joz'abad of Gede'rah, ⁵ Elu'zai,^g Jer'imoth, Beali'ah, Shemari'ah, Shephati'ah the Har'uphite; ⁶ Elka'nah, Isshi'ah, Az'arel, Jo-e'zer, and Jasho'be-am, the Ko'rahites; ⁷ and Jo-e'lah and Zebadi'ah, the sons of Jero'ham of Gedor.

⁸ From the Gadites there went over to David at the stronghold in the wilderness mighty and experienced warriors, expert with shield and spear, whose faces were like the faces of lions, and who were swift as gazelles upon the mountains: ⁹ Ezer the chief, Obadi'ah second, Eli'ab third, ¹⁰ Mishman'nah fourth, Jeremiah fifth, ¹¹ Attai

sixth, Eli'el seventh, ¹² Joha'nān eighth, Elza'bad ninth, ¹³ Jeremiah tenth, Mach'bannai eleventh. ¹⁴ These Gadites were officers of the army, the lesser over a hundred and the greater over a thousand. ¹⁵ These are the men who crossed the Jordan in the first month, when it was overflowing all its banks, and put to flight all those in the valleys, to the east and to the west.

¹⁶ And some of the men of Benjamin and Judah came to the stronghold to David. ¹⁷ David went out to meet them and said to them, "If you have come to me in friendship to help me, my heart will be knit to you; but if to betray me to my adversaries, although there is no wrong in my hands, then may the God of our fathers see and rebuke you." ¹⁸ Then the Spirit came upon Ama'sai, chief of the thirty, and he said,

"We are yours, O David;
and with you, O son of Jesse!
Peace, peace to you,
and peace to your helpers!
For your God helps you."

Then David received them, and made them officers of his troops.

¹⁹ Some of the men of Manas'sēh deserted to David when he came with the Philistines for the battle against Saul. (Yet he did not help them, for the rulers of the Philistines took counsel and sent him away, saying, "At peril to our heads he will desert to his master Saul.") ²⁰ As he went to Ziklag these men of Manas'sēh deserted to him: Adnah, Joz'abad, Jedi'a-el, Michael, Joz'abad, Eli'hu, and Zil'lethai, chiefs of thousands in Manas'sēh. ²¹ They helped David against the band of raiders;^h for they were all mighty men of valor, and were commanders in the army. ²² For from day to day men kept coming to David to help him, until there was a great army, like an army of God.

²³ These are the numbers of the divisions of the armed troops, who came to David in Hebron, to turn the kingdom of Saul over to him, according to the word of the LORD. ²⁴ The men of Judah bearing shield and spear were six thousand eight hundred armed troops. ²⁵ Of the Simeonites, mighty men of valor for war, seven thousand one hundred. ²⁶ Of the Levites four thousand six hundred. ²⁷ The prince Jehoi'ada, of the house of Aaron, and with him three thousand seven hundred. ²⁸ Zadok, a young man mighty in valor, and twenty-two commanders from his own father's house. ²⁹ Of the Benjaminites, the kinsmen of Saul, three thousand, of whom the majority had hitherto kept their allegiance to the house of Saul. ³⁰ Of the Ephraimites twenty thousand eight hundred, mighty men of valor, famous men in their fathers' houses. ³¹ Of the half-tribe of Manas'sēh eighteen thousand, who were expressly named to come and make David king. ³² Of Is'sachar men who had understanding of the times, to know what Israel ought to do, two hundred chiefs, and all their kinsmen under their command. ³³ Of Zeb'ulun fifty thousand seasoned troops, equipped for battle with all the weapons of war, to help Davidⁱ with singleness of purpose. ³⁴ Of Naph'tali a thousand commanders with whom were thirty-seven thousand men armed with shield and spear. ³⁵ Of the Danites twenty-eight thousand six hundred men equipped for battle. ³⁶ Of Asher forty thousand seasoned troops ready for battle. ³⁷ Of the Reubenites and Gadites and the half-tribe himself, are here highly idealized. They are as much soldiers of the future as of the past. 19-22: The Chronicler's revised version of 1 Sam. chs. 29-30. That Manasseh deserted to David in this manner is not historically attested. But in the ideal future, all the tribes, northern as well as southern, would flock to the new David to form a great army, like an army of God. 23-37: The writer now returns to the enthronement scene of 11.1-3. The total number of fighting men listed here is fantastic, historically speaking; but in the new age of the new David, things will of Manas'seh from beyond the Jordan, one hundred and twenty thousand men armed with all the weapons of war.

38 All these, men of war, arrayed in battle order, came to Hebron with full intent to make David king over all Israel; likewise all the rest of Israel were of a single mind to make David king. 39 And they were there with David for three days, eating and drinking, for their brethren had made preparation for them. 40 And also their neighbors, from as far as Is'sachar and Zeb'ulun and Naph'tali, came bringing food on asses and on camels and on mules and on oxen, abundant provisions of meal, cakes of figs, clusters of raisins, and wine and oil, oxen and sheep, for there was joy in Israel.

13 David consulted with the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, with every leader. 2 And David said to all the assembly of Israel, "If it seems good to you, and if it is the will of the LORD our God, let us send abroad to our brethren who remain in all the land of Israel, and with them to the priests and Levites in the cities that have pasture lands, that they may come together to us. 3 Then let us bring again the ark of our God to us; for we neglected it in the days of Saul." 4 All the assembly agreed to do so, for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.

5 So David assembled all Israel from the Shihor of Egypt to the entrance of Hamath, to bring the ark of God from Kir'iath-je'arim. 6 And David and all Israel went up to Ba'- alah, that is, to Kir'iath-je'arim which belongs to Judah, to bring up from there the ark of God, which is called by the name of the LORD who sits enthroned above the cherubim. 7 And they carried the ark of God upon a new cart, from the house of Abin'adab, and Uzzah and Ahi'o'j were driving the cart. 8 And David and all Israel were making merry before God with all their might, with song and lyres and harps and tambourines and cymbals and trumpets.

9 And when they came to the threshing floor of Chidon, Uzzah put out his hand to hold the ark, for the oxen stumbled. 10 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Uzzah; and he smote him because he put forth his hand to the ark; and he died there before God. 11 And David was angry because the LORD had broken forth upon Uzzah; and that place is called Pe'rez-uz'za^k to this day. 12 And David was afraid of God that day; and he said, "How can I bring the ark of God home to me?" 13 So David did not take the ark home into the city of David, but took it aside to the house of O'bed-e'dom the Gittite. 14 And the ark of God remained with the household of O'bed-e'dom in his house three months; and the LORD blessed the household of O'bed-e'dom and all that he had.

be different. 38-40: In line with the interpretation suggested in the preceding notes, there is in these verses a kind of Messianic banquet (compare Is.25.6-8; Jl.3.18; Mt.26.29; Mk.14.25).

13.1-14: David's concern to bring the ark to Jerusalem. The Chronicler partly reverses the order of 2 Samuel, placing his version of 2 Sam.6.2-11, which is the source of the present chapter, ahead of his treatment of 2 Sam.5.11-25 (in ch. 14). 2 Sam.6.12-19 is then utilized in 15.25-16.3. The purpose of this rearrangement is probably to show the new David's primary concern with ecclesiastical rather than military matters, in spite of his skill in the latter (compare 14.17). 1-4: In the times of the historical David, the distinction between priests and Levites did not exist. 5: The Shihor of Egypt, the eastern branch of the Nile delta; the entrance of Hamath was in Syria. The cherubim, see 1 Sam.4.4 n.

14.1-17: David's family and his defeat of the Philistines. The source is 2 Sam.5.11-25. The Chronicler adds v. 17 to make his new David (see 12.23-37 n.) a military figure feared throughout the world.

build a house for him.² And David perceived that the LORD had established him king over Israel, and that his kingdom was highly exalted for the sake of his people Israel.

3 And David took more wives in Jerusalem, and David begot more sons and daughters.⁴ These are the names of the children whom he had in Jerusalem: Shammu'a, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon,⁵ Ibhar, Eli'shu-a, El'pelet,⁶ Nogah, Nepheg, Japhi'a,⁷ Eli'shama, Beeli'ada, and Eliph'elet.

8 When the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines went up in search of David; and David heard of it and went out against them.⁹ Now the Philistines had come and made a raid in the valley of Reph'aim.¹⁰ And David inquired of God, "Shall I go up against the Philistines? Wilt thou give them into my hand?" And the LORD said to him, "Go up, and I will give them into your hand."¹¹ And he went up to Ba'al-pera'zim, and David defeated them there; and David said, "God has broken through^l my enemies by my hand, like a bursting flood." Therefore the name of that place is called Ba'al-pera'zim.^m ¹² And they left their gods there, and David gave command, and they were burned.

13 And the Philistines yet again made a raid in the valley.¹⁴ And when David again inquired of God, God said to him, "You shall not go up after them; go around and come upon them opposite the balsam trees."¹⁵ And when you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, then go out to battle; for God has gone out before you to smite the army of the Philistines."¹⁶ And David did as God commanded him, and they smote the Philistine army from Gibeon to Gezer.¹⁷ And the fame of David went out into all lands, and the LORD brought the fear of him upon all nations.

15 David built houses for himself in the city of David; and he prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched a tent for it.² Then David said, "No one but the Levites may carry the ark of God, for the LORD chose them to carry the ark of the LORD and to minister to him for ever."³ And David assembled all Israel at Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the LORD to its place, which he had prepared for it.⁴ And David gathered together the sons of Aaron and the Levites:⁵ of the sons of Kohath, Uri'el the chief, with a hundred and twenty of his brethren;⁶ of the sons of Merar'i, Asai'ah the chief, with two hundred and twenty of his brethren;⁷ of the sons of Gershon, Jo'el the chief, with a hundred and thirty of his brethren;⁸ of the sons of Eli-za'phan, Shemai'ah the chief, with two hundred of his brethren;⁹ of the sons of Hebron, Eli'el the chief, with eighty of his brethren;¹⁰ of the sons of Uz'ziel, Ammin'adab the chief, with a hundred and twelve of his brethren.¹¹ Then David summoned the priests Zadok and Abi'athar, and the Levites Uri'el, Asai'ah, Jo'el, Shemai'ah, Eli'el, and Ammin'adab,¹² and said to them, "You are the heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites; sanctify yourselves, you and your brethren, so that you may bring up the ark of the LORD, the God of Israel, to the place that I have prepared for it."¹³ Because you did not carry it the first time,ⁿ the LORD our God broke forth upon us, because we did not care for it in the way that is ordained."¹⁴ So the priests and the Levites sanctified themselves to bring up the ark of the LORD, the God of Israel.¹⁵ And the Levites carried the ark of God upon their shoulders with the poles, as Moses had commanded according to the word of the LORD.

15.1-29: The ark is brought to Jerusalem. The Chronicler returns to his interest in the new David as an ecclesiastical figure (see ch. 13 n.). 1-15: Note the emphasis on the Levites, who did not exist as a special class in the time of the historical David; they are not even mentioned in 2 Sam. ch. 6. 16-24: The musical arrangements here set forth were largely drawn from the 16 David also commanded the chiefs of the Levites to appoint their brethren as the singers who should play loudly on musical instruments, on harps and lyres and cymbals, to raise sounds of joy. ¹⁷ So the Levites appointed Heman the son of Jo'el; and of his brethren Asaph the son of Berechi'ah; and of the sons of Merar'i, their brethren, Ethan the son of Kusha'iah; ¹⁸ and with them their brethren of the second order, Zechari'ah, Ja-a'ziel, Shemi'ramoth, Jehi'el, Unni, Eli'ab, Benai'ah, Ma-asei'ah, Mattithi'ah, Eliph'elehu, and Miknei'ah, and the gatekeepers O'bed-e'dom and Je-i'el. ¹⁹ The singers, Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, were to sound bronze cymbals; ²⁰ Zechari'ah, A'zi-el, Shemi'ramoth, Jehi'el, Unni, Eli'ab, Ma-asei'ah, and Benai'ah were to play harps according to Al'amoth; ²¹ but Mattithi'ah, Eliph'elehu, Miknei'ah, O'bed-e'dom, Je-i'el, and Azazi'ah were to lead with lyres according to the Shem'inith. ²² Chenani'ah, leader of the Levites in music, should direct the music, for he understood it. ²³ Berechi'ah and Elka'nah were to be gatekeepers for the ark. ²⁴ Shebani'ah, Josh'aphat, Nathan'el, Ama'sai, Zechari'ah, Benai'ah, and Elie'zer, the priests, should blow the trumpets before the ark of God. O'bed-e'dom and Jehi'ah also were to be gatekeepers for the ark.

25 So David and the elders of Israel, and the commanders of thousands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD from the house of O'bed-e'dom with rejoicing. ²⁶ And because God helped the Levites who were carrying the ark of the covenant of the LORD, they sacrificed seven bulls and seven rams. ²⁷ David was clothed with a robe of fine linen, as also were all the Levites who were carrying the ark, and the singers, and Chenani'ah the leader of the music of the singers; and David wore a linen ephod. ²⁸ So all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, to the sound of the horn, trumpets, and cymbals, and made loud music on harps and lyres.

29 And as the ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, Michal the daughter of Saul looked out of the window, and saw King David dancing and making merry; and she despised him in her heart.

16 And they brought in the ark of God, and set it inside the tent which David had pitched for it; and they offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before God. ² And when David had finished offering the burnt offerings and the peace offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD, ³ and distributed to all Israel, both men and women, to each a loaf of bread, a portion of meat,^o and a cake of raisins.

4 Moreover he appointed certain of the Levites as ministers before the ark of the LORD, to invoke, to thank, and to praise the LORD, the God of Israel. ⁵ Asaph was the chief, and second to him were Zechari'ah, Je-i'el, Shemi'ramoth, Jehi'el, Mattithi'ah, Eli'ab, Benai'ah, O'bed-e'dom, and Je-i'el, who were to play harps and lyres; Asaph was to sound the cymbals, ⁶ and Benai'ah and Jaha'ziel the priests were to blow trumpets continually, before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 Then on that day David first appointed that thanksgiving be sung to the LORD by Asaph and his brethren.

- ⁸ O give thanks to the LORD, call on his name, make known his deeds among the peoples!
- ⁹ Sing to him, sing praises to him,
tell of all his wonderful works!
- ¹⁰ Glory in his holy name;
let the hearts of those who seek the LORD rejoice!
- ¹¹ Seek the LORD and his strength,
seek his presence continually!
- ¹² Remember the wonderful works that he has done,
the wonders he wrought, the judgments he uttered,
- ¹³ O offspring of Abraham his servant,
sons of Jacob, his chosen ones!
- ¹⁴ He is the LORD our God;
his judgments are in all the earth.
- ¹⁵ He is mindful of his covenant for ever,
of the word that he commanded,
for a thousand generations,
- ¹⁶ the covenant which he made with Abraham,
his sworn promise to Isaac,
- ¹⁷ which he confirmed as a statute to Jacob,
as an everlasting covenant to Israel,
- ¹⁸ saying, "To you I will give the land of Canaan,
as your portion for an inheritance."
- ¹⁹ When they were few in number,
and of little account, and sojourners in it,

do my prophets no harm!"
- ²³ Sing to the LORD, all the earth!
Tell of his salvation from day to day.
- ²⁴ Declare his glory among the nations,
his marvelous works among all the peoples!
- ²⁵ For great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised,
and he is to be held in awe above all gods.
- ²⁶ For all the gods of the peoples are idols;
but the LORD made the heavens.

strength and joy are in his place.
- ²⁸ Ascribe to the LORD, O families of the peoples,
ascribe to the LORD glory and strength!
- ²⁹ Ascribe to the LORD the glory due his name;
bring an offering, and come before him!
- Worship the LORD in holy array;
- ³⁰ tremble before him, all the earth;
yea, the world stands firm, never to be moved.
- ³¹ Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice,
and let them say among the nations, "The LORD reigns!"
- ³² Let the sea roar, and all that fills it,
let the field exult, and everything in it!
- ³³ Then shall the trees of the wood sing for joy
before the LORD, for he comes to judge the earth.
- ³⁴ O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good;
for his steadfast love endures for ever!

"Deliver us, O God of our salvation,
and gather and save us from among the nations,
that we may give thanks to thy holy name,
and glory in thy praise.
- ³⁶ Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting!"

Then all the people said "Amen!" and praised the LORD.

37 So David left Asaph and his brethren there before the ark of the covenant of the LORD to minister continually before the ark as each day required,³⁸ and also O'bed-e'dom and his^p sixty-eight brethren; while O'bed-e'dom, the son of Jedu'thun, and Hosah were to be gatekeepers.³⁹ And he left Zadok the priest and his brethren the priests before the tabernacle of the LORD in the high place that was at Gibeon,⁴⁰ to offer burnt offerings to the LORD upon the altar of burnt offering continually morning and evening, according to all that is written in the law of the LORD which he commanded Israel.⁴¹ With them were Heman and Jedu'thun, and the rest of those chosen and expressly named to give thanks to the LORD, for his steadfast love endures for ever.⁴² Heman and Jedu'thun had trumpets and cymbals for the music and instruments for sacred song. The sons of Jedu'thun were appointed to the gate.

¶ Now when David dwelt in his house, David said to Nathan the prophet, "Behold, I dwell in a house of cedar, but the ark of the covenant of the LORD is under a tent."² And Nathan said to David, "Do all that is in your heart, for God is with you."

3 But that same night the word of the LORD came to Nathan,⁴ "Go and tell my servant David, 'Thus says the LORD: You shall not build me a house to dwell in.'⁵ For I have not dwelt in a house since the day I led up Israel to this day, but I have gone from tent to tent and from dwelling to dwelling.⁶ In all places where I have moved with all Israel, did I speak a word with any of the judges of Israel, whom I commanded to shepherd my people, saying, 'Why have you not built me a house of cedar?'"⁷ Now therefore thus shall you say to my servant David, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, I took you from the pasture, from following the sheep, that you should be prince over my people Israel;⁸ and I have been with you wherever you went, and have cut off all your enemies from before you; and I will make for you a name, like the name of the great ones of the earth.'⁹ And I will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, that they may dwell in their own place, and be disturbed no more; and violent men shall waste them no more, as formerly,¹⁰ from the time that I appointed judges over my people Israel; and I will subdue all your enemies. Moreover I declare to you that the LORD will build you a house.¹¹ When your days are fulfilled to go to be with your fathers, I will raise up your offspring after you, one of your own sons, and I will establish his kingdom.¹² He shall build a house for me, and I will establish his throne for ever.¹³ I will be his father, and he shall be my son; I will not take my steadfast love from him, as I took it from him who was before you,¹⁴ but I will confirm him in my house and in my kingdom for ever and his throne shall be established for ever.'¹⁵ In accordance with all these words, and in accordance with all this vision, Nathan spoke to David.

16 Then King David went in and sat before the LORD, and said, "Who am I, O LORD God, and what is my house, that thou hast brought me thus far?¹⁷ And this was a small thing in thy eyes, O God; thou hast also spoken of thy servant's house for a great while to come, and hast shown

18 After this David defeated the Philistines and subdued them, and he took Gath and its villages out of the hand of the Philistines.

2 And he defeated Moab, and the Mo'abites became servants to David and brought tribute.

3 David also defeated Hadade'zer

king of Zobah, toward Hamath, as he went to set up his monument⁹ at the river Euphra'tes. ⁴ And David took from him a thousand chariots, seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand foot soldiers; and David hamstringed all the chariot horses, but left enough for a hundred chariots. ⁵ And when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadade'zer king of Zobah, David slew twenty-two thousand men of the Syrians. ⁶ Then David put garrisons⁹ in Syria of Damascus; and the Syrians became servants to David, and brought tribute. And the LORD gave victory to David wherever he went. ⁷ And David took the shields of gold which were carried by the servants of Hadade'zer, and brought them to Jerusalem. ⁸ And from Tibhath and from Cun, cities of Hadade'zer, David took very much bronze; with it Solomon made the bronze sea and the pillars and the vessels of bronze.

9 When To'u king of Hamath heard that David had defeated the whole army of Hadade'zer, king of Zobah, ¹⁰ he sent his son Hador'am to King David, to greet him, and to congratulate him because he had fought against Hadade'zer and defeated him; for Hadade'zer had often been at war with To'u. And he sent all sorts of articles of gold, of silver, and of bronze; ¹¹ these also King David dedicated to the LORD, together with the silver and gold which he had carried off from all the nations, from Edom, Moab, the Ammonites, the Philistines, and Am'alek.

12 And Abi'shai, the son of Zeru'iah, slew eighteen thousand E'domites in the Valley of Salt. ¹³ And he put garrisons in Edom; and all the E'domites became David's servants. And the LORD gave victory to David wherever he went.

18.1-17: David's further military prowess. This chapter and the two following resume the theme of ch. 14 (see note there). The idealized David was both a great military leader and a noble founder of religious institutions. 1-13: David defeats the Philistines, Moabites, Syrians

14 So David reigned over all Israel; and he administered justice and equity to all his people. ¹⁵ And Jo'ab the son of Zeru'iah was over the army; and Jehosh'aphat the son of Ahi'lud was recorder; ¹⁶ and Zadok the son of Ahi'tub and Ahim'elech the son of Abi'athar were priests; and Shavsha was secretary; ¹⁷ and Benai'ah the son of Jehoi'ada was over the Cher'ethites and the Pel'ethites; and David's sons were the chief officials in the service of the king.

19 Now after this Nahash the king of the Ammonites died, and his son reigned in his stead. ² And David said, "I will deal loyally with Hanun the son of Nahash, for his father dealt loyally with me." So David sent messengers to console him concerning his father. And David's servants came to Hanun in the land of the Ammonites, to console him. ³ But the princes of the Ammonites said to Hanun, "Do you think, because David has sent comforters to you, that he is honoring your father? Have not his servants come to you to search and to overthrow and to spy out the land?" ⁴ So Hanun took David's servants, and shaved them, and cut off their garments in the middle, at their hips, and sent them away; ⁵ and they departed. When David was told concerning the men, he sent to meet them, for the men were greatly ashamed. And the king said, "Remain at Jericho until your beards have grown, and then return."

6 When the Ammonites saw that they had made themselves odious to David, Hanun and the Ammonites sent a thousand talents of silver to hire chariots and horsemen from Mesopotamia, from Aram-ma'acah, and from Zobah. ⁷ They hired thirty-two thousand chariots and the king of Ma'acah with his army, who came and encamped before Med'eba. And the Ammonites were mustered from their cities and came to battle. ⁸ When David heard of it, he sent Jo'ab and all the army of the mighty men. ⁹ And the Ammonites came out and drew up in battle array at the entrance of the city, and the kings who had come were by themselves in the open country.

10 When Jo'ab saw that the battle was set against him both in front and in the rear, he chose some of the picked men of Israel, and arrayed them against the Syrians; ¹¹ the rest of his men he put in the charge of Abi'shai his brother, and they were arrayed against the Ammonites. ¹² And he said, "If the Syrians are too strong for me, then you shall help me; but if the Ammonites are too strong for you, then I will help you. ¹³ Be of good courage, and let us play the man for our people, and for the cities of our God; and may the LORD do what seems good to him."

¹⁴ So Jo'ab and the people who were with him drew near before the Syrians for battle; and they fled before him. ¹⁵ And when the Ammonites saw that the Syrians fled, they likewise fled before Abi'shai, Jo'ab's brother, and entered the city. Then Jo'ab came to Jerusalem.

16 But when the Syrians saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they sent messengers and brought out the Syrians who were beyond the Euphrates, with Shophach the commander of the army of Hadade'zer at their head. ¹⁷ And when it was told David, he gathered all Israel together, and crossed the Jordan, and came to them, and drew up his forces against them. And when David set the battle in array against the Syrians, they fought with him. ¹⁸ And the Syrians fled before Israel; and David slew of the Syrians the men of seven thousand chariots, and forty thousand foot soldiers, and killed also Shophach the commander of their army. ¹⁹ And when the servants of Hadade'zer saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they made peace with David, and became subject to him. So the Syrians were not willing to help the Ammonites any more.

19.1-19: David defeats the Ammonites and their Syrian (Aramean) allies. The Chronicler omits 2 Sam. ch. 9, having already declared (10.6) that the whole house of Saul had disappeared. The theme of David's military prowess is continued, the source being 2 Sam. ch. 10 with a few changes.

20 In the spring of the year, the time when kings go forth to battle, Jo'ab led out the army, and ravaged the country of the Ammonites, and came and besieged Rabbah. But David remained at Jerusalem. And Jo'ab smote Rabbah, and overthrew it. ² And David took the crown of their king^u from his head; he found that it weighed a talent of gold, and in it was a precious stone; and it was placed on David's head. And he brought forth the spoil of the city, a very great amount. ³ And he brought forth the people who were in it, and set them to labor^v with saws and iron picks and axes;^w and thus David did to all the cities of the Ammonites. Then David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.

4 And after this there arose war with the Philistines at Gezer; then Sib'becai the Hu'shathite slew Sip'pai, who was one of the descendants of the giants; and the Philistines were subdued. ⁵ And there was again war with the Philistines; and Elha'nán the son of Ja'ir slew Lahmi the brother of Goliath the Gittite, the shaft of whose spear was like a weaver's beam. ⁶ And there was again war at Gath, where there was a man of great stature, who had six fingers on each hand, and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in number; and he also was descended from the giants. ⁷ And when he taunted Israel, Jonathan the son of Shim'e-a, David's brother, slew him. ⁸ These were descended from the giants in Gath; and they fell by the hand of David and by the hand of his servants.

21 Satan stood up against Israel, and incited David to number Israel. ² So David said to Jo'ab and the commanders of the army, "Go, number Israel, from Beer-sheba to Dan, and bring me a report, that I may know their number." ³ But Jo'ab said, "May the LORD add to his people a hundred times as many as they are! 20.1-8: The conquest of Ammon; further wars with the Philistines. 1: The first two sentences of this verse come from 2 Sam. 11.1; to get the last sentence the Chronicler turned to 2 Sam. 12.26, thus eliminating the story of David's adultery with Bathsheba, his murder of her husband, and the prophet's rebuke of the king for his conduct. The omission is perfectly in order, since the Chronicler was not writing history, and the new David in the new age would certainly not be guilty of such conduct, nor would a prophet have occasion to rebuke him. 2-3: The source is 2 Sam. 12.30-31 (see 2 Sam. 12.30 n.). 4-8: The writer now jumps to 2 Sam. 21.18-22 for source material, thus eliminating a whole series of discreditable incidents: the violent and immoral conduct of David's sons, Absalom's rebellion, David's flight and weak sentimentality, the disaffection of the northern tribes, Joab's control over David; the execution of more of Saul's descendants. 5: The addition of the words Lahmi the brother of would seem to be for the purpose of resolving the conflict between 1 Sam. ch. 17 and 2 Sam. 21.19 as to who killed Goliath (see 1 Sam. 17.4 n.).

21.1-22.1: The census, the plague, and the acquisition of a site for the sanctuary. This story, based upon 2 Sam. ch. 24, though not altogether to the credit of David, was used by the Chronicler as the introduction to the next section of his book because the outcome of the trouble in the story was the fixing of the temple site, and the Chronicler from here on is concerned with David as the real founder of the temple. 1: Satan replaces "the anger of the LORD" of 2 Sam. 24.1. During the more than five hundred years since the writing of the earlier account, a considerable theological change had taken place. In the thinking of Biblical men, God came to be considered as doing only good; and the figure of Satan (the word means "adversary") was developed to account for evil and misfortune (compare Rev. 12.9). For earlier conceptions of them my lord's servants? Why then should my lord require this? Why should he bring guilt upon Israel?"⁴ But the king's word prevailed against Jo'ab. So Jo'ab departed and went throughout all Israel, and came back to Jerusalem.⁵ And Jo'ab gave the sum of the numbering of the people to David. In all Israel there were one million one hundred thousand men who drew the sword, and in Judah four hundred and seventy thousand who drew the sword.⁶ But he did not include Levi and Benjamin in the numbering, for the king's command was abhorrent to Jo'ab.

⁷ But God was displeased with this thing, and he smote Israel.⁸ And David said to God, "I have sinned greatly in that I have done this thing. But now, I pray thee, take away the iniquity of thy servant; for I have done very foolishly."⁹ And the LORD spoke to Gad, David's seer, saying,¹⁰ "Go and say to David, 'Thus says the LORD, Three things I offer you; choose one of them, that I may do it to you.'"¹¹ So Gad came to David and said to him, "Thus says the LORD, 'Take which you will:¹² either three years of famine; or three months of devastation by your foes, while the sword of your enemies overtakes you; or else three days of the sword of the LORD, pestilence upon the land, and the angel of the LORD destroying throughout all the territory of Israel.' Now decide what answer I shall return to him who sent me."¹³ Then David said to Gad, "I am in great distress; let me fall into the hand of the LORD, for his mercy is very great; but let me not fall into the hand of man."

¹⁴ So the LORD sent a pestilence upon Israel; and there fell seventy thousand men of Israel.¹⁵ And God sent the angel to Jerusalem to destroy it; but when he was about to destroy it, the LORD saw, and he repented of the evil; and he said to the destroying angel, "It is enough; now stay your hand." And the angel of the LORD was standing by the threshing floor of Ornan the Jeb'usite.¹⁶ And David lifted his eyes and saw the angel of the LORD standing between earth and heaven, and in his hand a drawn sword stretched out over Jerusalem. Then David and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, fell upon their faces.¹⁷ And David said to God, "Was it not I who gave command to number the people? It is I who have sinned and done very wickedly. But these sheep, what have they done? Let thy hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be against me and against my father's house; but let not the plague be upon thy people."

¹⁸ Then the angel of the LORD commanded Gad to say to David that David should go up and rear an altar to the LORD on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jeb'usite.¹⁹ So David went up at Gad's word, which he had spoken in the name of the LORD.²⁰ Now Ornan was threshing wheat; he turned and saw the angel, and his four sons who were with him hid themselves.²¹ As David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David and went forth from the threshing floor, and did obeisance to David with his face to the ground.²² And David said to Ornan, "Give me the site of the threshing floor that I may build on it an altar to the LORD—give it to me at its full price—that the plague may be averted from the people."²³ Then Ornan said to David, "Take it; and let my lord the king do what seems good to him; see, I give the oxen for burnt offerings, and the threshing sledges for the wood, and the wheat for a cereal offering. I give it all."²⁴ But King David said to Ornan, "No, but I will buy it for the full price; I will not take for the LORD what is yours, nor offer burnt offerings which cost me nothing."²⁵ So David paid Ornan six hundred shekels of gold by weight for the site. ²⁶ And David built there an altar to the LORD and presented burnt offerings and peace offerings, and called upon the LORD, and he answered him with fire from heaven upon the altar of burnt offering. ²⁷ Then the LORD commanded the angel; and he put his sword back into its sheath.

28 At that time, when David saw that the LORD had answered him at the threshing floor of Ornan the Jeb'usite, he made his sacrifices there. ²⁹ For the tabernacle of the LORD, which Moses had made in the wilderness, and the altar of burnt offering were at that time in the high place at Gibeon; ³⁰ but David could not go before it to inquire of God, for he was afraid of the sword of the angel of the LORD. ¹ Then David said, "Here shall be the house of the LORD God and here the altar of burnt offering for Israel."

2 David commanded to gather together the aliens who were in the land of Israel, and he set stonecutters to prepare dressed stones for building the house of God. ³ David also provided great stores of iron for nails for the doors of the gates and for clamps, as well as bronze in quantities beyond weighing, ⁴ and cedar timbers without number; for the Sidonians and Tyrians brought great quantities of cedar to David. ⁵ For David said, "Solomon my son is young and inexperienced, and the house that is to be built for the LORD must be exceedingly magnificent, of fame and glory throughout all lands; I will therefore make preparation for it." So David provided materials in great quantity before his death.

6 Then he called for Solomon his son, and charged him to build a house for the LORD, the God of Israel. ⁷ David said to Solomon, "My son, I had it in my heart to build a house to the name of the LORD my God. ⁸ But the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 'You have shed much blood and have waged great wars; you shall not build a house to my name, because you have shed so much blood before me upon the earth. ⁹ Behold, a son shall be born to you; he shall be a man of peace. I will give him peace from all his enemies round about; for his name shall be Solomon, and I will give peace and quiet to Israel in his days. ¹⁰ He shall build a house for my name. He shall be my son, and I will be his father, and I will establish his royal throne in Israel for ever.' ¹¹ Now, my son, the LORD be with you, so that you may succeed in building the house of the LORD your God, as he has spoken concerning you. ¹² Only, may the LORD grant you discretion and understanding, that when he gives you charge over Israel you may keep the law of the LORD your God. ¹³ Then you will prosper if you are careful to observe the statutes and the ordinances which the LORD commanded Moses for Israel. Be strong, and of good courage. Fear not;

22.2-19: David makes preparations for the construction of the temple. According to the earlier record, David may have thought of building a temple (1 Kg. 5.2-6), but it was Solomon who made and executed the plans, with the aid of Hiram of Tyre (1 Kg. chs. 5-7). The Chronicler regarded the temple as Judaism's greatest institution, and the new David as his nation's most important human figure. be not dismayed. ¹⁴ With great pains I have provided for the house of the LORD a hundred thousand talents of gold, a million talents of silver, and bronze and iron beyond weighing, for there is so much of it; timber and stone too I have provided. To these you must add. ¹⁵ You have an abundance of workmen: stonecutters, masons, carpenters, and all kinds of craftsmen without number, skilled in working ¹⁶ gold, silver, bronze, and iron. Arise and be doing! The LORD be with you!"

¹⁷ David also commanded all the leaders of Israel to help Solomon his son, saying, ¹⁸ "Is not the LORD your God with you? And has he not given you peace on every side? For he has delivered the inhabitants of the land into my hand; and the land is subdued before the LORD and his people. ¹⁹ Now set your mind and heart to seek the LORD your God. Arise and build the sanctuary of the LORD God, so that the ark of the covenant of the LORD and the holy vessels of God may be brought into a house built for the name of the LORD."

23 When David was old and full of days, he made Solomon his son king over Israel.

² David assembled all the leaders of Israel and the priests and the Levites. ³ The Levites, thirty years old and upward, were numbered, and the total was thirty-eight thousand men. ⁴ "Twenty-four thousand of these," David said, "shall have charge of the work in the house of the LORD, six thousand shall be officers and judges, ⁵ four thousand gatekeepers, and four thousand shall offer praises to the LORD with the instruments which I have made for praise." ⁶ And David organized them in divisions corresponding to the sons of Levi: Gershom, Kohath, and Merari.

⁷ The sons of Gershom^x were Ladan and Shim'e-i. ⁸ The sons of Ladan: Jehi'el the chief, and Zetham, and Jo'el, three. ⁹ The sons of Shim'e-i: Shelo'moth, Ha'zi-el, and Haran, three. These were the heads of the fathers' houses of Ladan. ¹⁰ And the sons of Shim'e-i: Jahath, Zina, and Je'ush, and Beri'ah. These four were the sons of Shim'e-i. ¹¹ Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second; but Je'ush and Beri'ah had not many sons, therefore they became a father's house in one reckoning.

¹² The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uz'ziel, four.

¹³ The sons of Amram: Aaron and Moses. Aaron was set apart to consecrate the most holy things, that he and his sons for ever should burn incense before the LORD, and minister to him and pronounce blessings in his name for ever. ¹⁴ But the sons of Moses the man of God were named among the tribe of Levi. ¹⁵ The sons of Moses: Gershom and Elie'zer. ¹⁶ The sons of Gershom: Sheb'uel the chief. ¹⁷ The sons of Elie'zer: Rehabi'ah the chief; Elie'zer had no other sons, but the sons of Rehabi'ah were very many. ¹⁸ The sons of Izhar: Shelo'mith the chief. ¹⁹ The sons of Hebron: Jeri'ah the chief, Amari'ah the second, Jaha'ziel the third, and

23.1-32: David organizes the Levites and assigns them their duties. In the time of the historical David there was no special class of Levites (see notes on ch. 6). But to the Chronicler and in his time, more than five hundred years later, they were very important (see Introduction); hence they must be brought into relationship with David. 1: This single verse moves swiftly all the way from 1 Kg.1.1 to 1 Kg.2.1. 2-6: On the use of men thirty years old and upward, compare Num.4.3; this was apparently older practice (but see Num.8.24). When more elaborate ritual required more men, the age for beginning service was apparently lowered to twenty years, as in vv. 24,27. On the instruments, see ch. 26, and compare Am.6.5. 7-21: These Jekame'am the fourth.²⁰ The sons of Uz'ziel: Micah the chief and Isshi'ah the second.

21 The sons of Merar'i: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli: Elea'zar and Kish.²² Elea'zar died having no sons, but only daughters; their kinsmen, the sons of Kish, married them.²³ The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jer'emoth, three.

24 These were the sons of Levi by their fathers' houses, the heads of fathers' houses as they were registered according to the number of the names of the individuals from twenty years old and upward who were to do the work for the service of the house of the LORD.²⁵ For David said, "The LORD, the God of Israel, has given peace to his people; and he dwells in Jerusalem for ever."²⁶ And so the Levites no longer need to carry the tabernacle or any of the things for its service"—²⁷ for by the last words of David these were the number of the Levites from twenty years old and upward—²⁸ "but their duty shall be to assist the sons of Aaron for the service of the house of the LORD, having the care of the courts and the chambers, the cleansing of all that is holy, and any work for the service of the house of God;²⁹ to assist also with the showbread, the flour for the cereal offering, the wafers of unleavened bread, the baked offering, the offering mixed with oil, and all measures of quantity or size.³⁰ And they shall stand every morning, thanking and praising the LORD, and likewise at evening,³¹ and whenever burnt offerings are offered to the LORD on sabbaths, new moons, and feast days, according to the number required of them, continually before the LORD.³² Thus they shall keep charge of the tent of meeting and the sanctuary, and shall attend the sons of Aaron, their brethren, for the service of the house of the LORD."

24 The divisions of the sons of Aaron were these. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abi'hu, Elea'zar, and Ith'amar.² But Nadab and Abi'hu died before their father, and had no children, so Elea'zar and Ith'amar became the priests.³ With the help of Zadok of the sons of Elea'zar, and Ahim'elech of the sons of Ith'amar, David organized them according to the appointed duties in their service.⁴ Since more chief men were found among the sons of Elea'zar than among the sons of Ith'amar, they organized them under sixteen heads of fathers' houses of the sons of Elea'zar, and eight of the sons of Ith'amar.⁵ They organized them by lot, all alike, for there were officers of the sanctuary and officers of God among both the sons of Elea'zar and the sons of Ith'amar.⁶ And the scribe Shemai'ah the son of Nethan'el, a Levite, recorded them in the presence of the king, and the princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahim'elech the son of Abi'athar, and the heads of the fathers' houses of the priests and of the Levites; one father's house being chosen for Elea'zar and one chosen for Ith'amar.

7 The first lot fell to Jehoi'arib, the second to Jedai'ah,⁸ the third to Harim, the fourth to Se-o'rim,⁹ the fifth to Malchi'jah, the sixth to Mij'amin,¹⁰ the seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abi'jah,¹¹ the ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecani'ah,¹² the eleventh to Eli'ashib, the twelfth to Jakim,¹³ the thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jesheb'e-ab,¹⁴ the fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Im-verses were probably inspired by Num. chs. 3; 4; 8, at least in part. 24-32: The new duties of the Levites are here more carefully defined.

24.1-31: David organizes the priests. David organized not only the Levites (ch. 23), but also the priests. Thus the highest ecclesiastical activity stemmed from the new David. 1-6: See Num.3.2-4. 3: Zadok . . . and Ahimelech, this should read "Zadok . . . and Abiathar"; compare vv. 6,31; 18.16; see also 2 Sam.8.16-18 n. 4: The priests, at least in theory, were organized into twenty-four groups or divisions. 7-19: A detailed exposition of the twenty-four divisions as they were or should have been in the Chronicler's own day. ²⁰ And of the rest of the sons of Levi: of the sons of Amram, Shu'ba-el; of the sons of Shu'ba-el, Jehde'iah. ²¹ Of Rehabí'ah: of the sons of Rehabí'ah, Isshí'ah the chief. ²² Of the Iz'harites, Shelo'moth; of the sons of Shelo'moth, Jahath. ²³ The sons of Hebron: ^y Jerí'ah the chief, ^z Amari'ah the second, Jaha'ziel the third, Jekame'am the fourth. ²⁴ The sons of Uz'ziel, Micah; of the sons of Micah, Shamir. ²⁵ The brother of Micah, Isshí'ah; of the sons of Isshí'ah, Zechari'ah. ²⁶ The sons of Merar'i: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Ja-azi'ah: Beno. ²⁷ The sons of Merar'i: of Ja-azi'ah, Beno, Shoham, Zaccur, and Ibri. ²⁸ Of Mahli: Elea'zar, who had no sons. ²⁹ Of Kish, the sons of Kish: Jerah'meel. ³⁰ The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jer'imoth. These were the sons of the Levites according to their fathers' houses. ³¹ These also, the head of each father's house and his younger brother alike, cast lots, just as their brethren the sons of Aaron, in the presence of King David, Zadok, Ahim'elech, and the heads of fathers' houses of the priests and of the Levites.

25 David and the chiefs of the service also set apart for the service certain of the sons of Asaph, and of Heman, and of Jedu'thun, who should prophesy with lyres, with harps, and with cymbals. The list of those who did the work and of their duties was: ² Of the sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethani'ah, and Ashare'lah, sons of Asaph, under the direction of Asaph, who prophesied under the direction of the king. ³ Of Jedu'thun, the sons of Jedu'thun: Gedali'ah, Zeri, Jeshai'ah, Shim'e-i, ^a Hashabi'ah, and Mattithi'ah, six, under the direction of their father Jedu'thun, who prophesied with the lyre in thanksgiving and praise to the LORD. ⁴ Of Heman, the sons of Heman: Bukki'ah, Mattani'ah, Uz'ziel, Shebu'el, and Jer'imoth, Hanani'ah, Hana'ni, Eli'athah, Giddal'ti, and Romam'ti-e'zer, Joshbekash'ah, Mallo'thi, Hothir, Maha'zi-oth. ⁵ All these were the sons of Heman the king's seer, according to the promise of God to exalt him; for God had given Heman fourteen sons and three daughters. ⁶ They were all under the direction of their father in the music in the house of the LORD with cymbals, harps, and lyres for the service of the house of God. Asaph, Jedu'thun, and Heman were under the order of the king. ⁷ The number of them along with their brethren, who were trained in singing to the LORD, all who were skilful, was two hundred and eighty-eight. ⁸ And they cast lots for their duties, small and great, teacher and pupil alike.

⁹ The first lot fell for Asaph to Joseph; the second to Gedali'ah, to him and his brethren and his sons, twelve; ¹⁰ the third to Zaccur, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹¹ the fourth to Izri, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹² the fifth to Nethani'ah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹³ the sixth to Bukki'ah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁴ the seventh to Jeshare'lah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁵ the eighth to Jeshai'ah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁶ the ninth to Mattani'ah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁷ the tenth to Shim'e-i, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁸ the eleventh to Az'arel, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ¹⁹ the twelfth to Hashabi'ah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁰ to the thirteenth, Shu'ba-el, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²¹ to the fourteenth, Mattithi'ah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²² to the fifteenth, to Jer'emoth, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²³ to the sixteenth, to Hanani'ah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁴ to the seventeenth, to Joshbekash'ah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁵ to the eighteenth, to Hana'ni, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁶ to the nineteenth, to Mallo'thi, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁷ to the twentieth, to Eli'athah, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁸ to the twenty-first, to Hothir, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ²⁹ to the twenty-second, to Giddal'ti, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ³⁰ to the twenty-third, to Maha'zi-oth, his sons and his brethren, twelve; ³¹ to the twenty-fourth, to Romam'ti-e'zer, his sons and his brethren, twelve.

Lk.1.5. 20-31: A supplementary list of Levites, having some names in common with 23.7-23.

25.1-31: David organizes the musicians. 1-8: Corresponding to the twenty-four divisions of priests (ch. 24) are projected twenty-four divisions of musicians, arranged under three great names, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun (compare 6.31-48; 15.16-24; 16.4-7,37-42; 23.5). Here Jeduthun takes the place of Ethan in some of the other lists. According to 23.5 the total number of musicians was thought to be four thousand but here (v. 7) only two hundred and eighty-eight (24×12) are considered. For a more primitive use of music by a seer (v. 5) in order that he might be aided to prophesy (v. 1), see 2 Kg.3.15; for a still more primitive example, see 1 Sam.10.5. 9-31: This is a highly artificial alternating arrangement of the names of vv. 2-4.

26 As for the divisions of the gatekeepers: of the Ko'rahites, Meshelemi'ah the son of Ko're, of the sons of Asaph. ² And Meshelemi'ah had sons: Zechari'ah the first-born, JEDI'a-el the second, Zebadi'ah the third, Jath'ni-el the fourth, ³ Elam the fifth, Jehoha'nán the sixth, Eli-e-ho-e'-nai the seventh. ⁴ And O'bed-e'dom had sons: Shemai'ah the first-born, Jehoz'abad the second, Jo'ah the third, Sachar the fourth, Nethan'el the fifth, ⁵ Am'mi-el the sixth, Is'sachar the seventh, Pe-ul'lethai the eighth; for God blessed him. ⁶ Also to his son Shemai'ah were sons born who were rulers in their fathers' houses, for they were men of great ability. ⁷ The sons of Shemai'ah: Othni, Reph'a-el, Obed, and Elza'bad, whose brethren were able men, Eli'hu and Semachi'ah. ⁸ All these were of the sons of O'bed-e'dom with their sons and brethren, able men qualified for the service; sixty-two of O'bed-e'dom. ⁹ And Meshelemi'ah had sons and brethren, able men, eighteen. ¹⁰ And Hosah, of the sons of Merar'i, had sons: Shimri the chief (for though he was not the first-born, his father made him chief), ¹¹ Hilki'ah the second, Tebali'ah the third, Zechari'ah the fourth: all the sons and brethren of Hosah were thirteen.

Some of the names also seem artificial, since the last seven or eight of them are formed from words often used in prayer: "be gracious," "I magnify," "I exalt," "fulfil," "abundantly," "visions."

26.1-32: Organization of the gatekeepers, treasurers, and other functionaries. The Chronicler concludes his presentation of the organization of the Levites in the service of the temple (compare 9.17-27; 15.23-24; 16.37-42; Ps.84.10). 1-11: It is obvious from such names as Korahites (6.37), Asaph (6.39), and Obed-edom (15.21) that the gatekeepers were considered to be closely related to the musicians. All told there were four thousand (23.5), though only ninety-three (62 + 18 + 13, vv. 8.9,11) are considered here. 12-19: Here the Chronicler forgets entirely his historical pose and describes the temple as it is in his time, mentioning the four sides on the east,

Watch corresponded to watch. ¹⁷ On the east there were six each day,^b on the north four each day, on the south four each day, as well as two and two at the storehouse; ¹⁸ and for the parbar^c on the west there were four at the road and two at the parbar. ¹⁹ These were the divisions of the gatekeepers among the Ko'rahites and the sons of Merar'i.

²² The sons of Jehi'eli, Zetham and Jo'el his brother, were in charge of the treasures of the house of the LORD. ²³ Of the Am'ramites, the Iz'harites, the He'bronites, and the Uzzi'elites—²⁴ and Sheb'uel the son of Gershom, son of Moses, was chief officer in charge of the treasures. ²⁵ His brethren: from Elie'zer were his son Rehabi'ah, and his son Jeshai'ah, and his son Joram, and his son Zichri, and his son Shelo'moth. ²⁶ This Shelo'moth and his brethren were in charge of all the treasures of the dedicated gifts which David the king, and the heads of the fathers' houses, and the officers of the thousands and the hundreds, and the commanders of the army, had dedicated. ²⁷ From spoil won in battles they dedicated gifts for the maintenance of the house of the LORD. ²⁸ Also all that Samuel the seer, and Saul the son of Kish, and Abner the son of Ner, and Jo'ab the son of Zeru'iah had dedicated—all dedicated gifts were in the care of Shelo'moth^e and his brethren.

27 This is the list of the people of Israel, the heads of fathers' houses, the commanders of thousands and hundreds, and their officers who served the king in all matters concerning the divisions that came and went, month after month throughout the year, each division numbering twenty-four thousand:

commander, for the third month, was Benai'ah, the son of Jehoi'ada the priest, as chief; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ⁶ This is the Benai'ah who was a mighty man of the thirty and in command of the thirty; Ammiz'abad his son was in charge of his division. ⁷ As'ahel the brother of Jo'ab was fourth, for the fourth month, and his son Zebadi'ah after him; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ⁸ The fifth commander, for the fifth month, was Shamhuth, the Iz'rahite; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ⁹ Sixth, for the sixth month, was Ira, the son of Ikkeshe the Teko'ite; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ¹⁰ Seventh, for the seventh month, was Helez the Pel'onite, of the sons of E'phraim; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ¹¹ Eighth, for the eighth month, was Sib'becai the Hu'shathite, of the Ze'rahites; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ¹² Ninth, for the ninth month, was Abi-e'zer of An'athoth, a Benjaminite; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ¹³ Tenth, for the tenth month, was Ma'harai of Netoph'ah, of the Ze'rahites; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ¹⁴ Eleventh, for the eleventh month, was Benai'ah of Pira'thon, of the sons of E'phraim; in his division were twenty-four thousand. ¹⁵ Twelfth, for the twelfth month, was Heldai the Netoph'athite, of Oth'ni-el; in his division were twenty-four thousand.

son of Az'riel; ²⁰ for the E'phraimites, Hoshe'a the son of Azazi'ah; for the half-tribe of Manas'seh, Jo'el the son of Pedai'ah; ²¹ for the half-tribe of Manas'seh in Gilead, Iddo the son of Zechari'ah; for Benjamin, Ja-a'si-el the son of Abner; ²² for Dan, Az'arel the son of Jefo'hani. These were the leaders of the tribes of Israel. ²³ David did not number those below twenty years of age, for the LORD had promised to make Israel as many as the stars of heaven. ²⁴ Jo'ab the son of Zeru'iah began to number, but did not finish; yet wrath came upon Israel for this, and the number was not entered in the chronicles of King David.

²⁵ Over the king's treasures was Az'maveth the son of Ad'i-el; and over the treasures in the country, in the cities, in the villages and in the towers, was Jonathan the son of Uzzi'ah; ²⁶ and over those who did the work of the field for tilling the soil was Ezri the son of Chelub; ²⁷ and over the vineyards was Shim'e-i the Ra'mathite; and over the produce of the vineyards for the wine cellars was Zabdi the Shiphmite. ²⁸ Over the olive and sycamore trees in the Shephe'lai was Ba'al-ha'nani the Gede'rite; and over the stores of oil was Jo'ash. ²⁹ Over the herds that pastured in Sharon was Shitrai the Shar'onite; over the herds in the valleys was Shaphat the son of Adlai. ³⁰ Over the camels was Obil the Ish'maelite; and over the she-asses was Jehde'iah the Meron'othite. Over the flocks was Jaziz the Hagrite. ³¹ All these were stewards of King David's property.

king's friend. ³⁴ Ahith'ophel was succeeded by Jehoi'ada the son of Benai'ah, and Abi'athar. Jo'ab was commander of the king's army.

28 David assembled at Jerusalem all the officials of Israel, the officials of the tribes, the officers of the divisions that served the king, the commanders of thousands, the commanders of hundreds, the stewards of all the property and cattle of the king and his sons, together with the palace officials, the mighty men, and all the seasoned warriors. ² Then King David rose to his feet and said: "Hear me, my brethren and my people. I had it in my heart to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and for the footstool of our God; and I made preparations for building. ³ But God said to me, 'You may not build a house for my name, for you are a warrior and have shed blood.' ⁴ Yet the LORD God of Israel chose me from all my father's house to be king over Israel for ever; for he chose Judah as leader, and in the house of Judah my father's house, and among my father's sons he took pleasure in me to make me king over all Israel. ⁵ And of all my sons (for the LORD has given me many sons) he has chosen Solomon my son to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of the LORD over Israel. ⁶ He said to me, 'It is Solomon your son who shall build my house and my courts, for I have chosen him to be my son, and I will be his father. ⁷ I will establish his kingdom for ever if he continues resolute in keeping my commandments and my ordinances, as he is today.' ⁸ Now therefore in the sight of all Israel, the assembly of the LORD, and in the hearing of our God, observe and seek out all the commandments of the LORD your God; that you may possess this good land, and leave it for an inheritance to your children after you for ever.

9 "And you, Solomon my son, know the God of your father, and serve him with a whole heart and with a willing mind; for the LORD searches all hearts, and understands every plan and thought. If you seek him, he will be found by you; but if you forsake him, he will cast you off for ever. ¹⁰ Take heed now, for the LORD has chosen you to build a house for the sanctuary; be strong, and do it."

11 Then David gave Solomon his son the plan of the vestibule of the temple, and of its houses, its treasuries, its upper rooms, and its inner chambers, and of the room for the mercy seat; ¹² and the plan of all that he had in mind for the courts of the house of the LORD, all the surrounding chambers, the treasuries of the house of God, and the treasuries for dedicated gifts; ¹³ for the divisions of the priests and of the Levites, and all the work of the service in the house of the LORD; for all the vessels for the service in the house of the LORD, ¹⁴ the weight of gold for all golden vessels for each service, the weight of silver vessels for each service, ¹⁵ the weight of the golden lampstands and their lamps, the weight of gold for each lampstand and its lamps, the weight of silver for a lampstand and its lamps, according to the use of each lampstand in the service, ¹⁶ the weight of gold for each table for the showbread, the silver for the 20 Then David said to Solomon his son, "Be strong and of good courage, and do it. Fear not, be not dismayed; for the LORD God, even my God, is with you. He will not fail you or forsake you, until all the work for the service of the house of the LORD is finished. ²¹ And behold the divisions of the priests and the Levites for all the service of the house of God; and with you in all the work will be every willing man who has skill for any kind of service; also the officers and all the people will be wholly at your command."

29 And David the king said to all the assembly, "Solomon my son, whom alone God has chosen, is young and inexperienced, and the work is great; for the palace will not be for man but for the LORD God. ² So I have provided for the house of my God, so far as I was able, the gold for the things of gold, the silver for the things of silver, and the bronze for the things of bronze, the iron for the things of iron, and wood for the things of wood, besides great quantities of onyx and stones for setting, antimony, colored stones, all sorts of precious stones, and marble. ³ Moreover, in addition to all that I have provided for the holy house,

I have a treasure of my own of gold and silver, and because of my devotion to the house of my God I give it to the house of my God: ⁴ three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir, and seven thousand talents of refined silver, for overlaying the walls of the house, ⁵ and for all the work to be done by craftsmen, gold for the things of gold and silver for the things of silver. Who then will offer willingly, consecrating himself today to the LORD?"

6 Then the heads of fathers' houses made their freewill offerings, as did also the leaders of the tribes, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and the officers over the king's work. ⁷ They gave for the service of the house of God five thousand talents and ten thousand darics of gold, ten thousand talents of silver, eighteen thousand talents of bronze, and a hundred thousand talents of iron. ⁸ And whoever had precious stones gave them to the treasury of the house of the LORD, in the care of Jehi'el the Gershonite. ⁹ Then the people rejoiced because these had given willingly, for with a whole heart they had offered freely to the LORD; David the king also rejoiced greatly.

10 Therefore David blessed the LORD in the presence of all the assembly; and David said: "Blessed art thou, O LORD, the God of Israel our father, for ever and ever. ¹¹ Thine, O LORD, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty; for all that is in the heavens and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all. ¹² Both riches and

The golden chariot may have been suggested by Ps.18.10 and Ezek.1.4-21. 19: David is said to have received plans for the temple in much the same way as Moses traditionally received plans for the tabernacle (Ex. ch. 25). It is not clear whether the writing is thought of as done by David or the LORD (compare Ex.24.4,12; 31.18; 34.1,27-28; Dt.5.22).

29.1-30: The investiture of Solomon and the death of David. 1: The word palace is probably an error for "house," meaning the temple. 2-5: Compare 22.14-16. 6-9: The call for a freewill offering again follows the tradition of Moses (see 28.19 n.; compare Ex.25.1-9; 35.4-29). Darics were originally coins of Persian origin; compare Ezra 8.27. 10-19: David's prayer of farewell, a beautiful composition of the Chronicler, reflecting the best theology of his time honor come from thee, and thou rulest over all. In thy hand are power and might; and in thy hand it is to make great and to give strength to all.¹³ And now we thank thee, our God, and praise thy glorious name.

14 "But who am I, and what is my people, that we should be able thus to offer willingly? For all things come from thee, and of thy own have we given thee.¹⁵ For we are strangers before thee, and sojourners, as all our fathers were; our days on the earth are like a shadow, and there is no abiding.¹

16 O LORD our God, all this abundance that we have provided for building thee a house for thy holy name comes from thy hand and is all thy own.¹⁷ I know, my God, that thou triest the heart, and hast pleasure in uprightness; in the uprightness of my heart I have freely offered all these things, and now I have seen thy people, who are present here, offering freely and joyously to thee.¹⁸ O LORD, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, our fathers, keep for ever such purposes and thoughts in the hearts of thy people, and direct their hearts toward thee.¹⁹ Grant to Solomon my son that with a whole heart he may keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, performing all, and that he may build the palace for which I have made provision."

20 Then David said to all the assembly, "Bless the LORD your God." And all the assembly blessed the LORD, the God of their fathers, and bowed their heads, and worshiped the LORD, and did obeisance to the king.²¹ And they performed sacrifices to the LORD, and on the next day offered burnt offerings to the LORD, a thousand bulls, a thousand rams, and a thousand lambs, with their drink offerings, and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel;²² and they ate and drank before the LORD on that day with great gladness.

And they made Solomon the son of David king the second time, and they anointed him as prince for the LORD, and Zadok as priest.²³ Then Solomon sat on the throne of the LORD as king instead of David his father; and he prospered, and all Israel obeyed him.²⁴ All the leaders and the mighty men, and also all the sons of King David, pledged their allegiance to King Solomon.²⁵ And the LORD gave Solomon great repute in the sight of all Israel, and bestowed upon him such royal majesty as had not been on any king before him in Israel.

26 Thus David the son of Jesse reigned over all Israel.²⁷ The time that he reigned over Israel was forty years; he reigned seven years in Hebron, and thirty-three years in Jerusalem.²⁸ Then he died in a good old age, full of days, riches, and honor; and Solomon his son reigned in his stead.²⁹ Now the acts of King David, from first to last, are written in the Chronicles of Samuel the seer, and in the Chronicles of Nathan the prophet, and in the Chronicles of Gad the seer,³⁰ with accounts of all his rule and his might and of the circumstances that came upon him and upon Israel, and upon all the kingdoms of the countries.

CHRONICLES

The general character and problems of 2 Chronicles are discussed in the Introduction to 1 Chronicles, for 1 and 2 Chronicles were originally a single book. Taking up the story of the monarchy where 1 Chronicles leaves off, chs. 1 to 9 of 2 Chronicles present the reign of Solomon from the viewpoint of the Chronicler; his Solomon is an ideal figure, second only to David in importance. The greater part of the book, chs. 10–36, is the Chronicler's account of the period of the Divided Monarchy, Judah and Israel (see "Survey of . . . Bible Lands," §§ 11–12). He writes as little as possible about the northern kingdom (Israel), since to him it did not represent the true Israel and hence was not really important. His hostility toward the northern kingdom is sometimes attributed to hatred of the Samaritans. The Chronicler was at the same time aware of the grave apostasy of the southern kingdom (Judah). Accepting the Deuteronomic view that national calamity is the result of national sin, he found sufficient reason for the disaster that overtook Judah. He interpreted the past as a warning for his own time and for the future.

SOLOMON THE SON OF DAVID ESTABLISHED himself in his kingdom, and the LORD his God was with him and made him exceedingly great.

2 Solomon spoke to all Israel, to the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, to the judges, and to all the leaders in all Israel, the heads of fathers' houses. ³ And Solomon, and all the assembly with him, went to the high place that was at Gibeon; for the tent of meeting of God, which Moses the servant of the LORD had made in the wilderness, was there. ⁴ (But David had brought up the ark of God from Kir'iath-j'e'arim to the place that David had prepared for it, for he had pitched a tent for it in Jerusalem.) ⁵ Moreover the bronze altar that Bez'alel the son of Uri, son of Hur, had made, was there before the tabernacle of the LORD. And Solomon and the assembly sought the LORD. ⁶ And Solomon went up there to the bronze altar before the LORD, which was at the tent of meeting, and offered a thousand burnt offerings upon it.

7 In that night God appeared to Solomon, and said to him, "Ask what I shall give you." ⁸ And Solomon said to God, "Thou hast shown great and steadfast love to David my father, and hast made me king in his stead. ⁹ O LORD God, let thy promise to David my father be now fulfilled, for thou hast made me king over a people as many as the dust of the earth. ¹⁰ Give me now wisdom and knowledge to go out and come in before this people, for who can rule this thy people, that is so great?" ¹¹ God answered Solomon, "Because this was in your heart, and you have not asked possessions, wealth, honor, or the life of those who hate you, and have not even asked long life, but have asked wisdom and knowledge for yourself that you may rule my people over whom I have made you king, ¹² wisdom and knowledge are granted to you. I will also give you riches, possessions, and honor, such as none of the kings had who were before you,

1.1–17: Solomon receives wisdom. 2–6: Our author passes over the machinations and murders of 1 Kg. chs. 1–2, also the marriage alliance with Egypt of 1 Kg.3.1–2, and begins his account of Solomon with a religious act, the visit to the high place at Gibeon. The ark of the covenant is introduced into the story (contrast 1 Kg.3.3–15) to make less objectionable a visit to a high place (compare 1 Kg.3.3; 2 Kg.23.5; 1 Chr.21.29). Bezazel and the bronze altar, compare Ex. 27.1–2; 31.1; 1 Chr.2.20. 7–13: This episode, very creditable to Solomon, is here abridged from 1 Kg.3.3–15; the statement that it was a dream has been removed. Also removed is the story of the judgment between the two harlots (1 Kg.3.16–28). 9: People as many as the dust of the earth, compare 1 Kg.4.20. 14–17: This section is taken from 1 Kg.10.26–29.

¹³ So Solomon came from^a the high place at Gibeon, from before the tent of meeting, to Jerusalem. And he reigned over Israel.

even highest heaven, cannot contain him? Who am I to build a house for him, except as a place to burn incense before him? ⁷ So now send me a man skilled to work in gold, silver, bronze, and iron, and in purple, crimson, and blue fabrics, trained also in engraving, to be with the skilled workers who are with me in Judah and Jerusalem, whom David my father provided. ⁸ Send me also cedar, cypress, and algum timber from Lebanon, for I know that your servants know how to cut timber in Lebanon. And my servants will be with your servants, ⁹ to prepare timber for me in abundance, for the house I am to build will be great and wonderful. ¹⁰ I will give for your servants, the hewers who cut timber, twenty thousand cors of crushed wheat, twenty thousand cors of barley, twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oil."

¹¹ Then Hiram the king of Tyre answered in a letter which he sent to Solomon, "Because the LORD loves his people he has made you king over them." ¹² Hiram also said, "Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who made heaven and earth, who has given King David a wise son, endued with discretion and understanding, who will build a temple for the LORD, and a royal palace for himself.

¹³ "Now I have sent a skilled man, endued with understanding, Hiram-abi, ¹⁴ the son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father was a man of Tyre. He is trained to work in gold, silver, bronze, iron, stone, and wood, and in purple, blue, and crimson fabrics and fine linen, and to do all sorts of engraving and execute any design that may be assigned him, with your craftsmen, the craftsmen of my lord, David your father. ¹⁵ Now therefore the wheat and barley, oil and wine, of which my lord has spoken, let him send to his servants; ¹⁶ and we will cut whatever timber you need from Lebanon, and bring it to you in rafts by sea to Joppa, so that you may take it up to Jerusalem."

17 Then Solomon took a census of all the aliens who were in the land of Israel, after the census of them which David his father had taken; and there were found a hundred and fifty-three thousand six hundred. ¹⁸ Seventy thousand of them he assigned to bear burdens, eighty thousand to quarry in the hill country, and three thousand six hundred as overseers to make the people work.

3 Then Solomon began to build the house of the LORD in Jerusalem on Mount Mori'ah, where the LORD had appeared to David his father, at the place that David had appointed, on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jeb'usite. ² He began to build in the second month of the fourth year of his reign. ³ These are Solomon's measurements^d for building the house of God: the length, in cubits of the old standard, was sixty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits. ⁴ The vestibule in front of the nave of the house was twenty cubits long, equal to the width of the house;^e and its height was a hundred and twenty cubits. He overlaid it on the inside with pure gold. ⁵ The nave he lined with cypress, and covered it with fine gold, and made palms and chains on it. ⁶ He adorned the house with settings of precious stones. The gold was gold of Parva'im. ⁷ So he lined the house with gold—its beams, its thresholds, its walls, and its doors; and he carved cherubim on the walls.

8 And he made the most holy place; its length, corresponding to the breadth of the house, was twenty cubits, and its breadth was twenty cubits; he overlaid it with six hundred talents of fine gold. ⁹ The weight of the nails was one shekel^f to fifty shekels of gold. And he overlaid the upper chambers with gold.

10 In the most holy place he made two cherubim of wood^g and overlaid^h them with gold. ¹¹ The wings of the cherubim together extended twenty cubits: one wing of the one, of five cubits, touched the wall of the house, and its other wing, of five cubits, touched the wing of the other cherub; ¹² and of this cherub, one wing, of five cubits, touched the wall of the house, and the other wing, also of five cubits, was joined to the wing of the first cherub. ¹³ The wings of these cherubim extended twenty cubits; the cherubimⁱ stood on their feet, facing the nave. ¹⁴ And he made the veil of blue and purple and crimson fabrics mentioned in 1 Kg.5.9. 17-18: In the new Israel of the Chronicler (see Introduction to 1 Chronicles) aliens must of course perform the forced labor, though the historical arrangement was quite otherwise (compare 1 Kg.5.13-18, especially v. 13; also 1 Kg.9.22; 12.4).

3.1-17: Details of the building. This is a condensed and rewritten version of 1 Kg. ch. 6 and 1 Kg.7.15-22 (see notes there). 1: The name Moriah appears only here and in Gen.22.2, where another location is probably to be understood. Ornan the Jebusite, in 2 Sam.24.16 "Araunah" (compare 1 Chr.21.15). 3: Cubits, see 1 Kg.6.2-6 n. The cubits of the old standard were larger, being about twenty inches in length. 4: In 1 Kg.6.2 the height of the main part of the building is given as "thirty cubits"; here the measurement hundred and twenty cubits, given as the height of the vestibule, is either a textual error or a typical exaggeration of the Chronicler to emphasize the impressiveness of the ideal temple. 6: The location of Parvaim is unknown; it may be Arabia (see Ophir, 1 Kg.9.28 n.). 8-9: Compare 1 Kg.6.19-22, where much gold is already in evidence; but six hundred talents (about 40,000 lbs.) stands here only and fairly staggers the imagination, which is perhaps what the Chronicler intended to do in his zeal to make the ideal temple impressive. 10-14: Abridged from 1 Kg.6.23-28. Cherubim, see 1 Sam.4.4 n. The description of the veil before the most holy place (the inner room at the rear of the temple, sometimes called the "holy of holies") is drawn from a similar feature of the tabernacle (Ex.26.31). The historical temple of Solomon had doors at this point (1 Kg.6.31). At the time of the Chron-

and fine linen, and worked cherubim on it.

15 In front of the house he made two pillars thirty-five cubits high, with a capital of five cubits on the top of each. ¹⁶ He made chains like a necklace^j and put them on the tops of the pillars; and he made a hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chains. ¹⁷ He set up the pillars in front of the temple, one on the south, the other on the north; that on the south he called Jachin, and that on the north Bo'az.

4 He made an altar of bronze, twenty cubits long, and twenty cubits wide, and ten cubits high. ² Then he made the molten sea; it was round, ten cubits from brim to brim, and five cubits high, and a line of thirty cubits measured its circumference. ³ Under it were figures of gourds,^k for thirty^l cubits, compassing the sea round about; the gourds^k were in two rows, cast with it when it was cast. ⁴ It stood upon twelve oxen, three facing north, three facing west, three facing south, and three facing east; the sea was set upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward. ⁵ Its thickness was a handbreadth; and its brim was made like the brim of a cup, like the flower of a lily; it held over three thousand baths. ⁶ He also made ten lavers in which to wash, and set five on the south side, and five on the north side. In these they were to rinse off what was used for the burnt offering, and the sea was for the priests to wash in.

7 And he made ten golden lampstands as prescribed, and set them in the temple, five on the south side and five on the north. ⁸ He also made ten tables, and placed them in the temple, five on the south side and five on the north. And he made a hundred basins of gold. ⁹ He made the court of the priests, and the great court, and doors for the court, and overlaid their doors with bronze; ¹⁰ and he set the sea at the southeast corner of the house.

11 Hiram also made the pots, the shovels, and the basins. So Hiram finished the work that he did for King Solomon on the house of God: ¹² the two pillars, the bowls, and the two capitals on the top of the pillars; and the two networks to cover the two bowls of the capitals that were on the top of the pillars; ¹³ and the four hundred pomegranates for the two networks, two rows of pomegranates for each network, to cover the two bowls of the capitals that were upon the pillars. ¹⁴ He made the stands also, and the lavers upon the stands, ¹⁵ and the one sea, and the twelve oxen underneath it. ¹⁶ The pots, the shovels, the forks, and all the equipment for these Hiram-abi made of burnished bronze for King Solomon for the house of the LORD. ¹⁷ In the plain of the Jordan the king cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zer'edah. ¹⁸ Solomon made all these things in great quantities, so that the weight of the bronze was not ascertained.

19 So Solomon made all the things that were in the house of God: the golden altar, the tables for the bread of the Presence, ²⁰ the lampstands and their lamps of pure gold to burn before the inner sanctuary, as prescribed; ²¹ the flowers, the lamps, and the tongs, of purest gold; ²² the snuffers, basins, dishes for incense, and firepans, of pure gold; and the sockets^m of the temple, for the inner doors to the most holy place and for the doors of the nave of the temple were of gold.

This chapter is taken mainly from 1 Kg.7.23-51, omitting vv. 27-37. 1: The altar of bronze is not mentioned in 1 Kg. ch. 7, but it appears in 1 Kg.8.64 and 2 Kg.16.14. 5-6: On the idea that the sea was for the priests to wash in, see 1 Kg.7.23-26 n. 5 Thus all the work that Solomon did for the house of the LORD was finished. And Solomon brought in the things which David his father had dedicated, and stored the silver, the gold, and all the vessels in the treasures of the house of God.

2 Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel and all the heads of the tribes, the leaders of the fathers' houses of the people of Israel, in Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion. 3 And all the men of Israel assembled before the king at the feast which is in the seventh month. 4 And all the elders of Israel came, and the Levites took up the ark. 5 And they brought up the ark, the tent of meeting, and all the holy vessels that were in the tent; the priests and the Levites brought them up. 6 And King Solomon and all the congregation of Israel, who had assembled before him, were before the ark, sacrificing so many sheep and oxen that they could not be counted or numbered. 7 So the priests brought the ark of the covenant of the LORD to its place, in the inner sanctuary of the house, in the most holy place, underneath the wings of the cherubim. 8 For the cherubim spread out their wings over the place of the ark, so that the cherubim made a covering above the ark and its poles. 9 And the poles were so long that the ends of the poles were seen from the holy place before the inner sanctuary; but they could not be seen from outside; and they are there to this day.

10 There was nothing in the ark except the two tables which Moses put there at Horeb, where the LORD made a covenant with the people of Israel, when they came out of Egypt. 11 Now when the priests came out of the holy place (for all the priests who were present had sanctified themselves, without regard to their divisions; 12 and all the Levitical singers, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, their sons and kinsmen, arrayed in fine linen, with cymbals, harps, and lyres, stood east of the altar with a hundred and twenty priests who were trumpeters; 13 and it was the duty of the trumpeters and singers to make themselves heard in unison in praise and thanksgiving to the LORD), and when the song was raised, with trumpets and cymbals and other musical instruments, in praise to the LORD,

"For he is good,

the house, the house of the LORD, was filled with a cloud, 14 so that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud; for the glory of the LORD filled the house of God.

6 Then Solomon said, "The LORD has said that he would dwell in thick darkness.

2 I have built thee an exalted house, a place for thee to dwell in for ever."

3 Then the king faced about, and blessed all the assembly of Israel, while all the assembly of Israel stood.

5.1-14: Bringing the ark of the covenant into the temple. This is drawn mainly from 1 Kg.8.1-11, with the insertion of a section on the priests and the Levitical singers (vv. 11b-13a), in which the Chronicler was particularly interested (see Introduction to 1 Chronicles); compare 1 Chr. chs. 25-26. 4: The Levites are substituted for "the priests" of the source (1 Kg.8.3).

6.1-42: Solomon's address to the people and his prayer of dedication. This whole chapter, with the exception of vv. 13 and 41-42, is taken with little change from 1 Kg.8.12-52 (see the notes there). Verses 4-11 are the address to the people and vv. 12-42 the prayer of dedication. The bronze platform of v. 13, added by the Chronicler, provides a proper place for Solomon to kneel; the regular place of prayer before the altar was sacred to the priests, according to usage at the time of the Chronicler. Verses 41-42, adapted from Ps.132.8-10, provide a fitting conclusion, showing the idealized Solomon to be a very devout and holy man, yet reminding the reader that David is, after all, the more important figure; do not turn away the face of means "do not reject"; thy anointed one is king Solomon himself.

the God of Israel, who with his hand has fulfilled what he promised with his mouth to David my father, saying, ⁵ 'Since the day that I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city in all the tribes of Israel in which to build a house, that my name might be there, and I chose no man as prince over my people Israel; ⁶ but I have chosen Jerusalem that my name may be there and I have chosen David to be over my people Israel.' ⁷ Now it was in the heart of David my father to build a house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel. ⁸ But the LORD said to David my father, 'Whereas it was in your heart to build a house for my name, you did well that it was in your heart; ⁹ nevertheless you shall not build the house, but your son who shall be born to you shall build the house for my name.' ¹⁰ Now the LORD has fulfilled his promise which he made; for I have risen in the place of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and I have built the house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel. ¹¹ And there I have set the ark, in which is the covenant of the LORD which he made with the people of Israel."

¹² Then Solomon stood before the altar of the LORD in the presence of all the assembly of Israel, and spread forth his hands. ¹³ Solomon had made a bronze platform five cubits long, five cubits wide, and three cubits high, and had set it in the court; and he stood upon it. Then he knelt upon his knees in the presence of all the assembly of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven; ¹⁴ and said, "O LORD, God of Israel, there is no God like thee, in heaven or on earth, keeping covenant and showing steadfast love to thy servants who walk before thee with all their heart; ¹⁵ who hast kept with thy servant David my father what thou didst declare to him; yea, thou didst speak with thy mouth, and with thy hand hast fulfilled it this day.

Israel, keep with thy servant David my father what thou hast promised him, saying, 'There shall never fail you a man before me to sit upon the throne of Israel, if only your sons take heed to their way, to walk in my law as you have walked before me.' ¹⁷ Now therefore, O LORD, God of Israel, let thy word be confirmed, which thou hast spoken to thy servant David.

¹⁸ "But will God dwell indeed with man on the earth? Behold, heaven and the highest heaven cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I have built! ¹⁹ Yet have regard to the prayer of thy servant and to his supplication, O LORD my God, hearkening to the cry and to the prayer which thy servant prays before thee; ²⁰ that thy eyes may be open day and night toward this house, the place where thou hast promised to set thy name, that thou mayest hearken to the prayer which thy servant offers toward this place. ²¹ And hearken thou to the supplications of thy servant and of thy people Israel, when they pray toward this place; yea, hear thou from heaven thy dwelling place; and when thou hearest, forgive.

²⁴ "If thy people Israel are defeated before the enemy because they have sinned against thee, when they turn again and acknowledge thy name, and pray and make supplication to thee in this house, ²⁵ then hear thou from heaven, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them again to the land which thou gavest to them and to their fathers.

²⁶ "When heaven is shut up and there is no rain because they have sinned against thee, if they pray toward this place, and acknowledge thy name, and turn from their sin, when thou dost afflict them, ²⁷ then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy servants, thy people Israel, when thou dost teach them the good way^a in which they should walk; and grant rain upon thy land, which thou hast given to thy people as an inheritance.

²⁸ "If there is famine in the land, if there is pestilence or blight or mildew or locust or caterpillar; if their enemies besiege them in any of their cities; whatever plague, whatever sickness there^b is; ²⁹ whatever prayer, whatever supplication is made by any man or by all thy people Israel, each knowing his own affliction, and his own sorrow and stretching out his hands toward this house; ³⁰ then hear thou from heaven thy dwelling place, and forgive, and render to each whose heart thou knowest, according to all his ways (for thou, thou only, knowest the hearts of the children of men); ³¹ that they may fear thee and walk in thy ways all the days that they live in the land which thou gavest to our fathers.

³² "Likewise when a foreigner, who is not of thy people Israel, comes from a far country for the sake of thy great name, and thy mighty hand, and thy outstretched arm, when he comes and prays toward this house, ³³ hear thou from heaven thy dwelling place, and do according to all for which the foreigner calls to thee; in order that all the peoples of the earth may know thy name and fear thee, as do thy people Israel, and that they may know that this house which I have built is called by thy name.

³⁴ "If thy people go out to battle against their enemies, by whatever way thou shalt send them, and they pray to thee toward this city which thou hast chosen and the house which I have built for thy name, ³⁵ then hear thou from heaven their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their cause.

³⁶ "If they sin against thee—for there is no man who does not sin—and thou art angry with them, and dost give them to an enemy, so that they are carried away captive to a land far or near; ³⁷ yet if they lay it to heart in the land to which they have been carried captive, and repent, and make supplication to thee in the land of their captivity, saying, 'We have sinned, and have acted perversely and wickedly'; ³⁸ if they repent with all their mind and with all their heart in the land of their captivity, to which they were carried captive, and pray toward their land, which thou gavest to their fathers, the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy name, ³⁹ then hear thou from heaven thy dwelling place their prayer and their supplications, and maintain their cause and forgive thy people who have sinned against thee. ⁴⁰ Now, O my God, let thy eyes be open and thy ears attentive to a prayer of this place.

7 When Solomon had ended his prayer, fire came down from heaven and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices, and the glory of the LORD filled the temple. ² And the priests could not enter the house of the LORD, because the glory of the LORD filled the LORD's house. ³ When all the children of Israel saw the fire come down and the glory of the LORD

upon the temple, they bowed down with their faces to the earth on the pavement, and worshiped and gave thanks to the LORD, saying,

"For he is good,
for his steadfast love endures for
ever."

4 Then the king and all the people offered sacrifice before the LORD.

⁵ King Solomon offered as a sacrifice twenty-two thousand oxen and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the king and all the people dedicated the house of God. ⁶ The priests stood at their posts; the Levites also, with the instruments for music to the LORD which King David had made for giving thanks to the LORD—for his steadfast love endures for ever—whenever David offered praises by their ministry; opposite them the priests sounded trumpets; and all Israel stood.

7 And Solomon consecrated the middle of the court that was before the house of the LORD; for there he offered the burnt offering and the fat of the peace offerings, because the bronze altar Solomon had made could not hold the burnt offering and the cereal offering and the fat.

8 At that time Solomon held the feast for seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great congregation, from the entrance of Hamath to the Brook of Egypt. ⁹ And on the eighth day they held a solemn assembly; for they had kept the dedication of the altar seven days and the feast seven days. ¹⁰ On the twenty-third day of the seventh month he sent the people away to their homes, joyful and glad of heart for the goodness that the LORD had shown to David and to Solomon and to Israel his people.

11 Thus Solomon finished the house of the LORD and the king's house; all that Solomon had planned to do in the house of the LORD and in his own house he successfully accomplished. ¹² Then the LORD appeared to Solomon in the night and said to him: "I have heard your prayer, and have chosen this place for myself as a house of sacrifice.

¹³ When I shut up the heavens so that there is no rain, or command the locust to devour the land, or send pestilence among my people, ¹⁴ if my people who are called by my name humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin and heal their land. ¹⁵ Now my eyes will be open and my ears attentive to the prayer that is made in this place. ¹⁶ For now I have chosen and consecrated this house that my name may be there for ever; my eyes and my heart will be there for all time.

¹⁷ And as for you, if you walk before me, as David your father walked, doing according to all that I have commanded you and keeping my statutes and my ordinances, ¹⁸ then I will establish your royal throne, as I covenanted with David your father, saying, 'There shall not fail you a man to rule Israel.'

house?" ²² Then they will say, 'Because they forsook the LORD the God of their fathers who brought them out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold on other gods, and worshiped them and served them; therefore he has brought all this evil upon them.' "

8 At the end of twenty years, in which Solomon had built the house of the LORD and his own house, ² Solomon rebuilt the cities which Hiram had given to him, and settled the people of Israel in them.

3 And Solomon went to Ha'math-zo'bah, and took it. ⁴ He built Tadmor in the wilderness and all the store-cities which he built in Hamath. ⁵ He also built Upper Beth-hor'on and Lower Beth-hor'on, fortified cities with walls, gates, and bars, ⁶ and Ba'alath, and all the store-cities that Solomon had, and all the cities for his chariots, and the cities for his horsemen, and whatever Solomon desired to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion. ⁷ All the people who were left of the Hittites, the Amorites, the Per'izzites, the Hivites, and the Jeb'usites, who were not of Israel, ⁸ from their descendants who were left after them in the land, whom the people of Israel had not destroyed—these Solomon made a forced levy and so they are to this day. ⁹ But of the people of Israel Solomon made no slaves for his work; they were soldiers, and his officers, the commanders of his chariots, and his horsemen. ¹⁰ And these were the chief officers of King Solomon, two hundred and fifty, who exercised authority over the people.

11 Solomon brought Pharaoh's daughter up from the city of David to the house which he had built for her, for he said, "My wife shall not live in the house of David king of Israel, for the places to which the ark of the LORD has come are holy."

12 Then Solomon offered up burnt offerings to the LORD upon the altar of the LORD which he had built before the vestibule, ¹³ as the duty of each day required, offering according to the commandment of Moses for the sabbaths, the new moons, and the three annual feasts—the feast of unleavened bread, the feast of weeks, and the feast of tabernacles. ¹⁴ According to the ordinance of David his father, he appointed the divisions of the priests for their service, and the Levites for their offices of praise and ministry before the priests as the duty of each day required, and the gatekeepers in their divisions for the several gates; for so David the man of God had commanded. ¹⁵ And they did not turn aside from what the king had commanded the priests and Levites concerning any matter and concerning the treasures.

16 Thus was accomplished all the work of Solomon from^a the day the foundation of the house of the LORD was laid until it was finished. So the house of the LORD was completed.

17 Then Solomon went to E'zion-ge'ber and Eloth on the shore of the sea, in the land of Edom. ¹⁸ And Hiram

8.1-18: Various activities of Solomon. This chapter is based on 1 Kg.9.10-28. 2: In 1 Kg. 9.10-14 Solomon ceded the cities to Hiram (here called Huram) to raise needed money; but here the cities go to Solomon. 3: This campaign is otherwise unknown; it is perhaps an adaptation of 1 Chr.18.3. 4: Tadmor is Palmyra, the great city of the Syrian desert, which could hardly be intended here; 1 Kg.9.18 reads "Tamar," a small place in southern Judah (Ezek.47.19; 48.28). 7-10: These verses follow 1 Kg.9.20-23 closely, except that in v. 10 a smaller number is given; usually the numbers of the Chronicler are larger (see 1 Chr.27.1 n.). 11: Compare 1 Kg.3.1; 7.8; 9.24. The reason given for moving the residence of the woman is an addition by the Chronicler (compare Ezek.44.9). 12-15: These verses are an expansion of 1 Kg.9.25 to bring these acts of Solomon in line with the ideas of the Chronicler. In v. 12 it is made clear that Solomon remained outside the sanctuary before the vestibule; only the priests could go inside (see 1 Kg.9.25 n.). 16: Added by the Chronicler. 17-18: Taken with a few changes from 1 Kg. 9.26-28 (see notes there.)

sent him by his servants ships and servants familiar with the sea, and they went to Ophir together with the servants of Solomon, and fetched from there four hundred and fifty talents of gold and brought it to King Solomon.

9 Now when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon she came to Jerusalem to test him with hard questions, having a very great retinue and camels bearing spices and very much gold and precious stones. When she came to Solomon, she told him all that was on her mind. ² And Solomon answered all her questions; there was nothing hidden from Solomon which he could not explain to her. ³ And when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, the house that he had built, ⁴ the food of his table, the seating of his officials, and the attendance of his servants, and their clothing, his cupbearers, and their clothing, and his burnt offerings which he offered at the house of the LORD, there was no more spirit in her.

5 And she said to the king, "The report was true which I heard in my own land of your affairs and of your wisdom, ⁶ but I did not believe their reports until I came and my own eyes had seen it; and behold, half the greatness of your wisdom was not told me; you surpass the report which I heard. ⁷ Happy are your wives!" Happy are these your servants, who continually stand before you and hear your wisdom! ⁸ Blessed be the LORD your God, who has delighted in you and set you on his throne as king for the LORD your God! Because your God loved Israel and would establish them for ever, he has made you king over them, that you may execute justice and righteousness." ⁹ Then she gave the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and a very great quantity of spices, and precious stones: there were no spices such as those which the queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon.

10 Moreover the servants of Hiram and the servants of Solomon, who brought gold from Ophir, brought al-gum wood and precious stones. ¹¹ And the king made of the al-gum wood steps^r for the house of the LORD and for the king's house, lyres also and harps for the singers; there never was seen the like of them before in the land of Judah.

12 And King Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all that she desired, whatever she asked besides what she had brought to the king. So she turned and went back to her own land, with her servants.

13 Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold, ¹⁴ besides that which the traders and merchants brought; and all the kings of Arabia and the governors of the land brought gold and silver to Solomon. ¹⁵ King Solomon made two hundred large shields of beaten gold; six hundred shekels of beaten gold went into each shield. ¹⁶ And he made three hundred shields of beaten gold; three hundred shekels of gold went into each shield; and the king put them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon. ¹⁷ The king also made a great ivory throne, and overlaid it with pure gold. ¹⁸ The throne had six steps and a footstool of gold, which were attached to the throne, and on each side of the seat were arm rests and two lions standing beside the arm rests, ¹⁹ while twelve lions stood there, one on each end of a step on the six steps. The like of it was never made in any kingdom. ²⁰ All King Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; silver was not considered as anything in the days of Solomon. ²¹ For the king's ships went to Tarshish with the servants of Hiram;

22 Thus King Solomon excelled all the kings of the earth in riches and in wisdom. ²³ And all the kings of the earth sought the presence of Solomon to hear his wisdom, which God had put into his mind. ²⁴ Every one of them brought his present, articles of silver and of gold, garments, myrrh, spices, horses, and mules, so much year by year. ²⁵ And Solomon had four thousand stalls for horses and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he stationed in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem. ²⁶ And he ruled over all the kings from the Euphrates to the land of the Philistines, and to the border of Egypt. ²⁷ And the king made silver as common in Jerusalem as stone, and cedar as plentiful as the sycamore of the Shephe'lah. ²⁸ And horses were imported for Solomon from Egypt and from all lands.

29 Now the rest of the acts of Solomon, from first to last, are they not written in the history of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahi'jah the Shi'lonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer concerning Jerobo'am the son of Nebat? ³⁰ Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years. ³¹ And Solomon slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father; and Rehobo'am his son reigned in his stead.

10 Rehobo'am went to Shechem, for all Israel had come to Shechem to make him king. ² And when Jerobo'am the son of Nebat heard of it (for he was in Egypt, whither he had fled from King Solomon), then Jerobo'am returned from Egypt. ³ And they sent and called him; and Jerobo'am and all Israel came and said to Rehobo'am, ⁴ "Your father made our yoke heavy. Now therefore lighten the hard service of your father and his heavy yoke upon us, and we will serve you." ⁵ He said to them, "Come to me again in three days." So the people went away.

6 Then King Rehobo'am took counsel with the old men, who had stood before Solomon his father while he was yet alive, saying, "How do you advise me to answer this people?" ⁷ And they said to him, "If you will be kind to this people and please them, and speak good words to them, then they will be your servants for ever." ⁸ But he forsook the counsel which the old men gave him, and took counsel with the young men who had grown up with him and stood before him. ⁹ And he said to them, "What do you advise that we answer this people who have said to me, 'Lighten the yoke that your father put upon us'?" ¹⁰ And the young men who had grown up with him said to him, "Thus shall you speak to the people who said to you, 'Your father made our yoke heavy, but do you lighten it for us'; thus shall you say to them, 'My little finger is thicker than my father's loins. ¹¹ And now, whereas my father laid upon you a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke. My father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.'"

12 So Jerobo'am and all the people came to Rehobo'am the third day, as the king said, "Come to me again the third day." ¹³ And the king answered them harshly, and forsaking the counsel of the old men, ¹⁴ King Rehobo'am spoke to them according to the counsel of the young men, saying, "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to it; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions." ¹⁵ So the king did not hearken to the people; for it was a turn of affairs brought about by God that the LORD might fulfil his word, which he spoke by Ahi'jah the Shi'lonite to Jerobo'am the son of Nebat.

16 And when all Israel saw that the king did not hearken to them, the people answered the king,

"What portion have we in David?

We have no inheritance in the son of Jesse.

Each of you to your tents, O Israel!

Look now to your own house, David."

So all Israel departed to their tents.

17 But Rehobo'am reigned over the people of Israel who dwelt in the cities of Judah. 18 Then King Rehobo'am sent Hador'am, who was taskmaster over the forced labor, and the people of Israel stoned him to death with stones. And King Rehobo'am made haste to mount his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem. 19 So Israel has been in rebellion against the house of David to this day.

|| When Rehobo'am came to Jerusalem, he assembled the house of Judah, and Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand chosen warriors, to fight against Israel, to restore the kingdom to Rehobo'am. 2 But the word of the LORD came to Shemai'ah the man of God: 3 "Say to Rehobo'am the son of Solomon king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, 4 'Thus says the LORD, You shall not go up or fight against your brethren. Return every man to his home, for this thing is from me.' " So they hearkened to the word of the LORD, and returned and did not go against Jerobo'am.

5 Rehobo'am dwelt in Jerusalem, and he built cities for defense in Judah. 6 He built Bethlehem, Etam, Teko'a, 7 Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam, 8 Gath, Mare'shah, Ziph, 9 Adora'im, Lachish, Aze'kah, 10 Zorah, Ai'jalon, and Hebron, fortified cities which are in Judah and in Benjamin. 11 He made the fortresses strong, and put commanders in them, and stores of food, oil, and wine. 12 And he put shields and spears in all the cities, and made them very strong. So he held Judah and Benjamin.

13 And the priests and the Levites that were in all Israel resorted to him from all places where they lived. 14 For the Levites left their common lands and their holdings and came to Judah and Jerusalem, because Jerobo'am and his sons cast them out from serving as priests of the LORD, 15 and he appointed his own priests for the high places, and for the satyrs, and for the calves which he had made. 16 And those who had set their hearts to seek the LORD God of Israel came after them from all the tribes of Israel to Jerusalem to sacrifice to the LORD, the God of their fathers. 17 They strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and for three years they made Rehobo'am the son of Solomon secure, for they walked for three years in the way of David and Solomon.

11.1-23: The beginning of the reign of Rehoboam. 1-4: These verses follow closely 1 Kg.12.21-24, in spite of a tendency in favor of the northern kingdom. The phrase all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, lacking in 1 Kg.12.23, is intended to make clear that the southern kingdom was the true Israel. In the older sources, "all Israel" means the northern tribes only (compare 2 Sam. 2.9; 1 Kg.12.18,20). After the fall of the northern kingdom, this name was gradually assumed by Judah. 5-12: These verses, which have no parallel in 1 Kings, are added for the purpose of showing the strength of Judah; they are probably based on a good source. 10,12: Benjamin, see 1 Kg.12.21-24 n. 13-17: These verses, also without parallel in 1 Kings, are designed to show that the northern kingdom (all Israel, v. 13; see vv. 1-4 n.) was faithless to the LORD; hence the priests and Levites flocked to the south. Other good people also came, and things went well for three years. 18-23: In 1 Kg. ch. 11, Solomon is reproached for having a multitude of wives and concubines. The Chronicler omits this section of his source. Here, in an account from an otherwise unknown source, he transfers some of the onus to Rehoboam.

son of David, and of Ab'ihail the daughter of Eli'ab the son of Jesse; ¹⁹ and she bore him sons, Je'ush, Shemari'ah, and Zaham. ²⁰ After her he took Ma'acah the daughter of Ab'salom, who bore him Abi'jah, Attai, Ziza, and Shelo'mith. ²¹ Rehobo'am loved Ma'acah the daughter of Ab'salom above all his wives and concubines (he took eighteen wives and sixty concubines, and had twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters); ²² and Rehobo'am appointed Abi'jah the son of Ma'acah as chief prince among his brothers, for he intended to make him king. ²³ And he dealt wisely, and distributed some of his sons through all the districts of Judah and Benjamin, in all the fortified cities; and he gave them abundant provisions, and procured wives for them."

12 When the rule of Rehobo'am was established and was strong, he forsook the law of the LORD, and all Israel with him. ² In the fifth year of King Rehobo'am, because they had been unfaithful to the LORD, Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem ³ with twelve hundred chariots and sixty thousand horsemen. And the people were without number who came with him from Egypt-Libyans, Suk'ki-im, and Ethiopians. ⁴ And he took the fortified cities of Judah and came as far as Jerusalem. ⁵ Then Shemai'ah the prophet came to Rehobo'am and to the princes of Judah, who had gathered at Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said to them, "Thus says the LORD, 'You abandoned me, so I have abandoned you to the hand of Shishak.'" ⁶ Then the princes of Israel and the king humbled themselves and said, "The LORD is righteous." ⁷ When the LORD saw that they humbled themselves, the word of the LORD came to Shemai'ah: "They have humbled themselves; I will not destroy them, but I will grant them some deliverance, and my wrath shall not be poured out upon Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak. ⁸ Nevertheless they shall be servants to him, that they may know my service and the service of the kingdoms of the countries."

⁹ So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem; he took away the treasures of the house of the LORD and the treasures of the king's house; he took away everything. He also took away the shields of gold which Solomon had made; ¹⁰ and King Rehobo'am made in their stead shields of bronze, and committed them to the hands of the officers of the guard, who kept the door of the king's house. ¹¹ And as often as the king went into the house of the LORD, the guard came and bore them, and brought them back to the guardroom. ¹² And when he humbled himself the wrath of the LORD turned from him, so as not to make a complete destruction; moreover, conditions were good in Judah.

¹³ So King Rehobo'am established himself in Jerusalem and reigned. Rehobo'am was forty-one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel to put his name there. His mother's name was Na'amah the Ammonitess. ¹⁴ And he did evil, for he did not set his heart to seek the LORD.

13 In the eighteenth year of King Jerobo'am Abi'jah began to reign over Judah. ² He reigned for three years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Micai'ah the daughter of U'riel of Gib'e-ah.

Now there was war between Abi'jah and Jerobo'am. ³ Abi'jah went out to battle having an army of valiant men of war, four hundred thousand picked men; and Jerobo'am drew up his line of battle against him with eight hundred thousand picked mighty warriors.

⁴ Then Abi'jah stood up on Mount Zemara'im which is in the hill country of E'phraim, and said, "Hear me, O Jerobo'am and all Israel!

⁸ "And now you think to withstand the kingdom of the LORD in the hand of the sons of David, because you are a great multitude and have with you the golden calves which Jerobo'am made you for gods. ⁹ Have you not driven out the priests of the LORD, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and made priests for yourselves like the peoples of other lands? Whoever comes to consecrate himself with a young bull or seven rams becomes a priest of what are no gods. ¹⁰ But as for us, the LORD is our God, and we have not forsaken him. We have priests ministering to the LORD who are sons of Aaron, and Levites for their service.

morning and every evening burnt offerings and incense of sweet spices, set out the showbread on the table of pure gold, and care for the golden lampstand that its lamps may burn every evening; for we keep the charge of the LORD our God, but you have forsaken him. ¹² Behold, God is with us at our head, and his priests with their battle trumpets to sound the call to battle against you. O sons of Israel, do not fight against the LORD, the God of your fathers; for you cannot succeed."

¹³ Jerobo'am had sent an ambush around to come on them from behind; thus his troops^w were in front of Judah, and the ambush was behind them. ¹⁴ And when Judah looked, behold, the battle was before and behind them; and they cried to the LORD, and the priests blew the trumpets. ¹⁵ Then the men of Judah raised the battle shout. And when the men of Judah shouted, God defeated Jerobo'am and all Israel before Abi'jah and Judah. ¹⁶ The men of Israel fled before Judah, and God gave them into their hand. ¹⁷ Abi'jah and his people slew them with a great slaughter; so there fell slain of Israel five hundred thousand picked men. ¹⁸ Thus the men of Israel were subdued at that time, and the men of Judah prevailed, because they relied upon the LORD, the God of their fathers. ¹⁹ And Abi'jah pursued Jerobo'am, and took cities from him, Bethel with its villages and Jesha'nah with its villages and Ephron^x with its villages. ²⁰ Jerobo'am did not recover his power in the days of Abi'jah; and the LORD smote him, and he died. ²¹ But Abi'jah grew mighty. and his sayings, are written in the story of the prophet Iddo.

14^y So Abi'jah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David; and Asa his son reigned in his stead. In his days the land had rest for ten years.^{2z} And Asa did what was good and right in the eyes of the LORD his God.³ He took away the foreign altars and the high places, and broke down the pillars and hewed down the Ashe'rim,⁴ and commanded Judah to seek the LORD, the God of their fathers, and to keep the law and the commandment.⁵ He also took out of all the cities of Judah the high places and the incense altars. And the kingdom had rest under him.⁶ He built fortified cities in Judah, for the land had rest. He had no war in those years, for the LORD gave him peace.⁷ And he said to Judah, "Let us build these cities, and surround them with walls and towers, gates and bars; the land is still ours, because we have sought the LORD our God; we have sought him, and he has given us peace on every side." So they built and prospered.⁸ And Asa had an army of three hundred thousand from Judah, armed with bucklers and spears, and two hundred and eighty thousand men from Benjamin, that carried shields and drew bows; all these were mighty men of valor.

9 Zerah the Ethiopian came out against them with an army of a million men and three hundred chariots, and came as far as Mare'shah.¹⁰ And Asa went out to meet him, and they drew up their lines of battle in the valley of Zeph'athah at Mare'shah.

¹¹ And Asa cried to the LORD his God,

"O LORD, there is none like thee to help, between the mighty and the weak. Help us, O LORD our God, for we rely on thee, and in thy name we have come against this multitude. O LORD, thou art our God; let not man prevail against thee."¹² So the LORD defeated the Ethiopians before Asa and before Judah, and the Ethiopians fled.¹³ Asa and the people that were with him pursued them as far as Gerar, and the Ethiopians fell until none remained alive; for they were broken before the LORD and his army. The men of Judah^a carried away very much booty.¹⁴ And they smote all the cities round about Gerar, for the fear of the LORD was upon them. They plundered all the cities, for there was much plunder in them.¹⁵ And they smote the tents of those who had cattle,^b and carried away sheep in abundance and camels. Then they returned to Jerusalem.

15 The Spirit of God came upon Azari'ah the son of Oded,² and he went out to meet Asa, and said to him, "Hear me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin: The LORD is with you, while you are with him. If you seek him, he will be found by you, but if you forsake him, he will forsake you."³ For a long time Israel was without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law;⁴ but when in their distress they turned to the LORD, the God of Israel, and sought him, he was found by them.⁵ In those times there was no peace to him who went out or to him who came in, for great

14.1-15: The beginning of the reign of Asa, and his great victory over the Ethiopians. In 1 Kings only a relatively brief passage (1 Kg.15.9-24) deals with Asa; here the story is expanded to three chapters (chs. 14; 15; 16). Asa is presented by the Chronicler as a man like David, great on the field of battle and diligent in religious reform. In the end, his religious loyalty flagged, and he had to be suitably punished. 1-5: Roughly parallel to 1 Kg.15.8-14. 6-8: Added by the Chronicler from another source (compare 1 Kg.15.23; Jer.41.9). 9-15: This is another legendary battle, like that of ch. 13, to show the power of the LORD. There is no hint of it elsewhere in the Bible. The Ethiopian may mean "the Egyptian" (see 2 Kg.19.9 n.) or "the Arabian," but no king named Zerah is otherwise known.

15.1-19: Asa's reform. 1-5: In this passage, which has no parallel, Asa is pictured as a great reformer, like Hezekiah and Josiah at a later date. The prophet Azariah the son of Oded is not disturbances afflicted all the inhabitants of the lands. ⁶ They were broken in pieces, nation against nation and city against city, for God troubled them with every sort of distress. ⁷ But you, take courage! Do not let your hands be weak, for your work shall be rewarded."

8 When Asa heard these words, the prophecy of Azari'ah the son of Oded,^c he took courage, and put away the abominable idols from all the land of Judah and Benjamin and from the cities which he had taken in the hill country of E'phraim, and he repaired the altar of the LORD that was in front of the vestibule of the house of the LORD.^d ⁹ And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and those from E'phraim, Manas'seh, and Simeon who were sojourning with them, for great numbers had deserted to him from Israel when they saw that the LORD his God was with him. ¹⁰ They were gathered at Jerusalem in the third month of the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa. ¹¹ They sacrificed to the LORD on that day, from the spoil which they had brought, seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep. ¹² And they entered into a covenant to seek the LORD, the God of their fathers, with all their heart and with all their soul; ¹³ and that whoever would not seek the LORD, the God of Israel, should be put to death, whether young or old, man or woman. ¹⁴ They took oath to the LORD with a loud voice, and with shouting, and with trumpets, and with horns. ¹⁵ And all Judah rejoiced over the oath; for they had sworn with all their heart, and had sought him with their whole desire, and he was found by them, and the LORD gave them rest round about.

16 Even Ma'acah, his mother, King Asa removed from being queen mother because she had made an abominable image for Ashe'rah. Asa cut down her image, crushed it, and burned it at the brook Kidron. ¹⁷ But the high places were not taken out of Israel. Nevertheless the heart of Asa was blameless all his days. ¹⁸ And he brought into the house of God the votive gifts of his father and his own votive gifts, silver, and gold, and vessels. ¹⁹ And there was no more war until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.

16 In the thirty-sixth year of the reign of Asa, Ba'asha king of Israel went up against Judah, and built Ramah, that he might permit no one to go out or come in to Asa king of Judah. ² Then Asa took silver and gold from the treasures of the house of the LORD and the king's house, and sent them to Ben-ha'dad king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying, ³ "Let there be a league between me and you, as between my father and your father; behold, I am sending to you silver and gold; go, break your league with Ba'asha king of Israel, that he may withdraw from me." ⁴ And Ben-ha'dad hearkened to King Asa, and sent the commanders of his armies against the cities of Israel, and they conquered I'jon, Dan, A'bel-ma'im, and all the store-cities of Naph'tali. ⁵ And when Ba'asha heard of it, he stopped building Ramah, and let his work cease. ⁶ Then King Asa took all Judah, and they carried away the stones of Ramah and its timber, with which Ba'asha had been building, and with them he built Geba and Mizpah.

7 At that time Hana'ni the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said to him, "Because you relied on the king of Syria, and did not rely on the LORD your God, the army of the king of Syria has escaped you. ⁸ Were not the Ethiopians and the Libyans a huge army with exceedingly many chariots and horsemen? Yet because you relied on the LORD, he gave them into your hand. ⁹ For the eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to show his might in behalf of those whose heart is blameless toward him. You have done foolishly in this; for from now on you will have wars.”

¹⁰ Then Asa was angry with the seer, and put him in the stocks, in prison, for he was in a rage with him because of this. And Asa inflicted cruelties upon some of the people at the same time.

17 Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, and strengthened himself against Israel. ² He placed forces in all the fortified cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of E'phraim which Asa his father had taken. ³ The LORD was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the earlier ways of his father;^e he did not seek the Ba'als, ⁴ but sought the God of his father and walked in his commandments, and not according to the ways of Israel. ⁵ Therefore the LORD established the kingdom in his hand; and all Judah brought tribute to Jehoshaphat; and he had great riches and honor. ⁶ His heart was courageous in the ways of the LORD; and furthermore he took the high places and the Ashe'rim out of Judah.

¹¹ Some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat presents, and silver for tribute; and the Arabs also brought him seven thousand seven hundred rams and seven thousand seven hundred he-goats. ¹² And Jehoshaphat grew steadily greater. He built in Judah fortresses and store-cities, ¹³ and he had great stores in the cities of Judah. He had soldiers, mighty men of valor, of the king (v. 12). 11-14: 1 Kg.15.23-24a has been expanded by emphasis on the culpability of Asa and the grandeur of his funeral, in spite of his sin.

17.1-19: The initially good and prosperous reign of Jehoshaphat. Chapters 17-20 are taken up with the reign of this king, exhibiting, as also in the case of Asa (see 14.1-14 n.), a considerable expansion of the source material (found in 1 Kg.15.24b; 22.1-35a,41-49). Jehoshaphat is represented as a ruler who did mostly good things, for which he was rewarded, but also some bad things, for which he was punished. 1-6: With the exception of v. 1a (1 Kg.15.24b), this comes largely from sources now lost or is the author's creation. 6: This contradicts 20.33 and 1 Kg. 22.43. The Asherim, see 1 Kg.14.15 n. 7-9: No parallel. Here the Chronicler has the king send out a delegation of five princes, nine Levites, and two priests for religious education among the people. The preponderance of Levites is significant for the Chronicler's ideology. The book of the law, compare 2 Kg.22.8-13; Dt.17.18-20. 10-19: Without parallel. The king was not only a man of religion, but also a man of military might. Since he is represented as having an in Jerusalem. ¹⁴ This was the muster of them by fathers' houses: Of Judah, the commanders of thousands: Adnah the commander, with three hundred thousand mighty men of valor, ¹⁵ and next to him Jehoha'nan the commander, with two hundred and eighty thousand, ¹⁶ and next to him Amasi'ah the son of Zichri, a volunteer for the service of the LORD, with two hundred thousand mighty men of valor. ¹⁷ Of Benjamin: Eli'ada, a mighty man of valor, with two hundred thousand men armed with bow and shield, ¹⁸ and next to him Jeho'zabad with a hundred and eighty thousand armed for war. ¹⁹ These were in the service of the king, besides those whom the king had placed in the fortified cities throughout all Judah.

18 Now Jehosh'aphat had great riches and honor; and he made a marriage alliance with Ahab. ² After some years he went down to Ahab in Sama'ria. And Ahab killed an abundance of sheep and oxen for him and for the people who were with him, and induced him to go up against Ramoth-gilead. ³ Ahab king of Israel said to Jehosh'aphat king of Judah, "Will you go with me to Ramoth-gilead?" He answered him, "I am as you are, my people as your people. We will be with you in the war."

⁴ And Jehosh'aphat said to the king of Israel, "Inquire first for the word of the LORD." ⁵ Then the king of Israel gathered the prophets together, four hundred men, and said to them, "Shall we go to battle against Ramoth-gilead, or shall I forbear?" And they said, "Go up; for God will give it into the hand of the king." ⁶ But Jehosh'aphat said, "Is there not here another prophet of the LORD of whom we may inquire?" ⁷ And the king of Israel said to Jehosh'aphat, "There is yet one man by whom we may inquire of the LORD, Mica'i'ah the son of Imlah; but I hate him, for he never prophesies good concerning me, but always evil." And Jehosh'aphat said, "Let not the king say so." ⁸ Then the king of Israel summoned an officer and said, "Bring quickly Mica'i'ah the son of Imlah." ⁹ Now the king of Israel and Jehosh'aphat the king of Judah were sitting on their thrones, arrayed in their robes; and they were sitting at the threshing floor at the entrance of the gate of Sama'ria; and all the prophets were prophesying before them. ¹⁰ And Zedeki'ah the son of Chena'anah made for himself horns of iron, and said, "Thus says the LORD, 'With these you shall push the Syrians until they are destroyed.'" ¹¹ And all the prophets prophesied so, and said, "Go up to Ramoth-gilead and triumph; the LORD will give it into the hand of the king."

¹² And the messenger who went to summon Mica'i'ah said to him, "Behold, the words of the prophets with one accord are favorable to the king; let your word be like the word of one of them, and speak favorably." ¹³ But Mica'i'ah said, "As the LORD lives, what my God says, that I will speak." ¹⁴ And when he had come to the king, the king said to him, "Mica'i'ah, shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?" And he answered, "Go up and triumph; they will be given into your hand." ¹⁵ But the king said to him, "How many times shall I adjure you that you speak to me nothing but the truth in the name of the LORD?" ¹⁶ And he said, "I saw all Israel scattered upon the mountains, as sheep that have no shepherd; and the LORD said, 'These have no master; let each return to his home in peace.'" ¹⁷

army of 1,160,000 men, it is understandable that the fear of the LORD fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about. This is hardly the historical Jehoshaphat.

¹⁷ And the king of Israel said to Jehosh'aphat, "Did I not tell you that he would not prophesy good concerning me, but evil?" ¹⁸ And Micai'ah said, "Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting on his throne, and all the host of heaven standing on his right hand and on his left; ¹⁹ and the LORD said, 'Who will entice Ahab the king of Israel, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead?' And one said one thing, and another said another. ²⁰ Then a spirit came forward and stood before the LORD, saying, 'I will entice him.' And the LORD said to him, 'By what means?' ²¹ And he said, 'I will go forth, and will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets.' And he said, 'You are to entice him, and you shall succeed; go forth and do so.' ²² Now therefore behold, the LORD has put a lying spirit in the mouth of these your prophets; the LORD has spoken evil concerning you."

²³ Then Zedeki'ah the son of Chena'anah came near and struck Micai'ah on the cheek, and said, "Which way did the Spirit of the LORD go from me to speak to you?" ²⁴ And Micai'ah said, "Behold, you shall see on that day when you go into an inner chamber to hide yourself." ²⁵ And the king of Israel said, "Seize Micai'ah, and take him back to Amon the governor of the city and to Jo'ash the king's son; ²⁶ and say, 'Thus says the king, Put this fellow in prison, and feed him with scant fare of bread and water, until I return in peace.'" ²⁷ And Micai'ah said, "If you return in peace, the LORD has not spoken by me." And he said, "Hear, all you peoples!"

²⁸ So the king of Israel and Jehosh'aphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead. ²⁹ And the king of Israel said to Jehosh'aphat, "I will disguise myself and go into battle, but you wear your robes." And the king of Israel disguised himself; and they went into battle. ³⁰ Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of his chariots, "Fight with neither small nor great, but only with the king of Israel." ³¹ And when the captains of the chariots saw Jehosh'aphat, they said, "It is the king of Israel." So they turned to fight against him; and Jehosh'aphat cried out, and the LORD helped him. God drew them away from him, ³² for when the captains of the chariots saw that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back from pursuing him. ³³ But a certain man drew his bow at a venture, and struck the king of Israel between the scale armor and the breastplate; therefore he said to the driver of his chariot, "Turn about, and carry me out of the battle, for I am wounded." ³⁴ And the battle grew hot that day, and the king of Israel propped himself up in his chariot facing the Syrians until evening; then at sunset he died.

19 Jehosh'aphat the king of Judah returned in safety to his house in Jerusalem. ² But Jehu the son of Hana'ni the seer went out to meet him, and said to King Jehosh'aphat, "Should you help the wicked and love those who hate the LORD? Because of this, wrath has gone out against you from the LORD. ³ Nevertheless some good is found in you, for you destroyed the Ashe'rahs out of the land, and have set your heart to seek God."

⁴ Jehosh'aphat dwelt at Jerusalem; and he went out again among the people, from Beer-sheba to the hill country of E'phraim, and brought them back to the LORD, the God of their fathers. ⁵ He appointed judges in the land in all the fortified cities of Judah, city by city, ⁶ and said to the

19.1-11: Jehoshaphat, having been rebuked by a prophet, rules wisely. 1-3: These verses were composed by the Chronicler, who felt it necessary to protest against the entanglement with Ahab. The real Jehu the son of Hanani prophesied nearly fifty years earlier (compare 1 Kg.16.1). This may be the same man, or an imaginary person of the same name; compare the "Hanani" of 16.7. The Asherahs, see 1 Kg.14.15 n. 4-7: No parallel in 1 Kings. The idea of the appointment of judges by this king may have been suggested to the Chronicler by the name Jehoshaphat, judges, "Consider what you do, for you judge not for man but for the LORD; he is with you in giving judgment. ⁷ Now then, let the fear of the LORD be upon you; take heed what you do, for there is no perversion of justice with the LORD our God, or partiality, or taking bribes."

8 Moreover in Jerusalem Jehosh'aphat appointed certain Levites and priests and heads of families of Israel, to give judgment for the LORD and to decide disputed cases. They had their seat at Jerusalem. ⁹ And he charged them: "Thus you shall do in the fear of the LORD, in faithfulness, and with your whole heart: ¹⁰ whenever a case comes to you from your brethren who live in their cities, concerning bloodshed, law or commandment, statutes or ordinances, then you shall instruct them, that they may not incur guilt before the LORD and wrath may not come upon you and your brethren. Thus you shall do, and you will not incur guilt. ¹¹ And behold, Amari'ah the chief priest is over you in all matters of the LORD; and Zebadi'ah the son of Ish'mael, the governor of the house of Judah, in all the king's matters; and the Levites will serve you as officers. Deal courageously, and may the LORD be with the upright!"

20 After this the Moabites and Ammonites, and with them some of the Me-u'nites,^f came against Jehosh'aphat for battle. ² Some men came and told Jehosh'aphat, "A great multitude is coming against you from Edom,^g from beyond the sea; and, behold, they are in Haz'azon-ta'mar" (that is, En-ge'di). ³ Then Jehosh'aphat feared, and set himself to seek the LORD, and proclaimed a fast throughout all Judah. ⁴ And Judah assembled to seek help from the LORD; from all the cities of Judah they came to seek the LORD.

5 And Jehosh'aphat stood in the assembly of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the LORD, before the new court,^h and said, "O LORD, God of our fathers, art thou not God in heaven? Dost thou not rule over all the kingdoms of the nations? In thy hand are power and might, so that none is able to withstand thee. ⁷ Didst thou not, O our God, drive out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Israel, and give it for ever to the descendants of Abraham thy friend? ⁸ And they have dwelt in it, and have built thee in it a sanctuary for thy name, saying, ⁹ 'If evil comes upon us, the sword, judgment,^h or pestilence, or famine, we will stand before this house, and before thee, for thy name is in this house, and cry to thee in our affliction, and thou wilt hear and save.' ¹⁰ And now behold, the men of Ammon and Moab and Mount Se'ir, whom thou wouldest not let Israel invade when they came from the land of Egypt, and whom they avoided and did not destroy— ¹¹ behold, they reward us by coming to drive us out of thy possession, which thou hast given us to inherit. ¹² O our God, wilt thou not execute judgment upon them? For we are powerless against this great multitude that is coming against us. We do not know what to do, but our eyes are upon thee."

13 Meanwhile all the men of Judah stood before the LORD, with their little ones, their wives, and their children. ¹⁴ And the Spirit of the LORD came which means "the LORD judges." Compare Dt.1.16-17; 16.18. 8: Here Israel means Judah, the true Israel in the eyes of the Chronicler (see 11.1-4 n.). 11: Note the prominence of the Levites, who did not exist as a separate class in the time of the historical Jehoshaphat (see 1 Chr. 6.1-5 n.; 13.1-4 n.). Compare the procedure of judges in Dt.17.8-13.

20.1-37: The great victory over enemies of the true faith; Jehoshaphat's final mistake and consequent punishment. The Chronicler, having established the character of Jehoshaphat as a righteous king, attributes to him a victory of faith even greater than those of Abijah (ch. 13) and Asa (ch. 14). The story is often called a parable. There is only a faint parallel in 2 Kg.3.4-27. 5: The new court was a feature of the temple of the Chronicler's time. 6: This highly developed upon Jaha'ziel the son of Zechari'ah, son of Benai'ah, son of Je-i'el, son of Mattani'ah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, in the midst of the assembly.¹⁵ And he said, "Hearken, all Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem, and King Jehosh'aphat: Thus says the LORD to you, 'Fear not, and be not dismayed at this great multitude; for the battle is not yours but God's.'¹⁶ Tomorrow go down against them; behold, they will come up by the ascent of Ziz; you will find them at the end of the valley, east of the wilderness of Jeru'el.¹⁷ You will not need to fight in this battle; take your position, stand still, and see the victory of the LORD on your behalf, O Judah and Jerusalem.' Fear not, and be not dismayed; tomorrow go out against them, and the LORD will be with you."

¹⁸ Then Jehosh'aphat bowed his head with his face to the ground, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell down before the LORD, worshiping the LORD.¹⁹ And the Levites, of the Ko'hathites and the Kor'ahites, stood up to praise the LORD, the God of Israel, with a very loud voice.

²⁰ And they rose early in the morning and went out into the wilderness of Teko'a; and as they went out, Jehosh'aphat stood and said, "Hear me, Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem! Believe in the LORD your God, and you will be established; believe his prophets, and you will succeed."²¹ And when he had taken counsel with the people, he appointed those who were to sing to the LORD and praise him in holy array, as they went before the army, and say,

"Give thanks to the LORD,
for his steadfast love endures for
ever."

²² And when they began to sing and praise, the LORD set an ambush against the men of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Se'ir, who had come against Judah, so that they were routed.²³ For the men of Ammon and Moab rose against the inhabitants of Mount Se'ir, destroying them utterly, and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Se'ir, they all helped to destroy one another.

²⁴ When Judah came to the watchtower of the wilderness, they looked toward the multitude; and behold, they were dead bodies lying on the ground; none had escaped.²⁵ When Jehosh'aphat and his people came to take the spoil from them, they found cattleⁱ in great numbers, goods, clothing, and precious things, which they took for themselves until they could carry no more. They were three days in taking the spoil, it was so much.²⁶ On the fourth day they assembled in the Valley of Bera'cah,^j for there they blessed the LORD; therefore the name of that place has been called the Valley of Bera'cah to this day.²⁷ Then they returned, every man of Judah and Jerusalem, and Jehosh'aphat at their head, returning to Jerusalem with joy, for the LORD had made them rejoice over their enemies.²⁸ They came to Jerusalem, with harps and lyres and trumpets, to the house of the LORD.²⁹ And the fear of God came on all the kingdoms of the countries when they heard that the LORD had fought against the enemies of Israel.³⁰ So the realm of Jehosh'aphat was quiet, for his God gave him rest round about.

³¹ Thus Jehosh'aphat reigned over Judah. He was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Azu'bah the daughter of Shilhi.³² He walked in the way of Asa his father and did not turn aside from it; he did what was right in the sight of the LORD.³³ The high monotheism was characteristic of the theology of the Chronicler's time (compare 6.14). 14: A Levite takes the lead in prophecy. 17: In battles of this kind, God's people do not need to fight (compare 13.15; 14.12; Ezek.38.17-23). Jehoshaphat's army of 1,160,000 (see 17.10-19 n.) was unnecessary. 18-23: The singing of the Levites seems to have been the decisive human factor in this victory (compare Jg.7.22). 24-30: Compare Ezek. ch. 39. 31-33: Compare the places, however, were not taken away; the people had not yet set their hearts upon the God of their fathers.

34 Now the rest of the acts of Jehosh'aphat, from first to last, are written in the chronicles of Jehu the son of Hana'ni, which are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel.

35 After this Jehosh'aphat king of Judah joined with Ahazi'ah king of Israel, who did wickedly. ³⁶ He joined him in building ships to go to Tarshish, and they built the ships in E'zion-ge'ber. ³⁷ Then Elie'zer the son of Doda'ahu of Mare'shah prophesied against Jehosh'aphat, saying, "Because you have joined with Ahazi'ah, the LORD will destroy what you have made." And the ships were wrecked and were not able to go to Tarshish.

21 Jehosh'aphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David; and Jeho'ram his son reigned in his stead. ² He had brothers, the sons of Jehosh'aphat: Azari'ah, Jehi'el, Zechari'ah, Azari'ah, Michael, and Shephati'ah; all these were the sons of Jehosh'aphat king of Judah. ³ Their father gave them great gifts, of silver, gold, and valuable possessions, together with fortified cities in Judah; but he gave the kingdom to Jeho'ram, because he was the first-born. ⁴ When Jeho'ram had ascended the throne of his father and was established, he slew all his brothers with the sword, and also some of the princes of Israel. ⁵ Jeho'ram was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. ⁶ And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done;

for the daughter of Ahab was his wife. And he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD. ⁷ Yet the LORD would not destroy the house of David, because of the covenant which he had made with David, and since he had promised to give a lamp to him and to his sons for ever.

8 In his days Edom revolted from the rule of Judah, and set up a king of their own. ⁹ Then Jeho'ram passed over with his commanders and all his chariots, and he rose by night and smote the E'domites who had surrounded him and his chariot commanders. ¹⁰ So Edom revolted from the rule of Judah to this day. At that time Libnah also revolted from his rule, because he had forsaken the LORD, the God of his fathers.

11 Moreover he made high places in the hill country of Judah, and led the inhabitants of Jerusalem into unfaithfulness, and made Judah go astray. ¹² And a letter came to him from Eli'jah the prophet, saying, "Thus says the LORD, the God of David your father, 'Because you have not walked in the ways of Jehosh'aphat your father, or in the ways of Asa king of Judah, ¹³ but have walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and have led Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem into unfaithfulness, as the house of Ahab led Israel into unfaithfulness, and also you have killed your brothers, of your father's house, who were better than yourself; ¹⁴ behold, the LORD will bring a great plague on your people, your children, your wives, and all your possessions, ¹⁵ and you yourself will have a severe sickness with a disease of your bowels, until your bowels come out because of the disease, day by day.' ”

16 And the LORD stirred up against Jeho'ram the anger of the Philistines and of the Arabs who are near the Ethiopians; ¹⁷ and they came up against Judah, and invaded it, and carried away all the possessions they found that belonged to the king's house, and also his sons and his wives, so that no son was left to him except Jeho'ahaz, his youngest son.

18 And after all this the LORD smote him in his bowels with an incurable disease. ¹⁹ In course of time, at the end of two years, his bowels came out because of the disease, and he died in great agony. His people made no fire in his honor, like the fires made for his fathers. ²⁰ He was thirty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem; and he departed with no one's regret. They buried him in the city of David, but not in the tombs of the kings.

22 And the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Ahazi'ah his youngest son king in his stead; for the band of men that came with the Arabs to the camp had slain all the older sons. So Ahazi'ah the son of Jeho'ram king of Judah reigned. ² Ahazi'ah was forty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athali'ah, the granddaughter of Omri. ³ He also walked in the ways of the house of Ahab, for his mother was his counselor in doing wickedly. ⁴ He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, as the house of Ahab had done; for after the death of his father they were his counselors, to his undoing. ⁵ He even followed their counsel, and went with Jeho'ram the son of Ahab king of Israel to make war against Haz'ael king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead. And the Syrians wounded Joram, ⁶ and he returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which he had received at Ramah, when he fought against Haz'ael king of Syria. And Ahazi'ah the son of Jeho'ram king of Judah went down to see Joram the son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was sick.

7 But it was ordained by God that the downfall of Ahazi'ah should come about through his going to visit Joram. For when he came there he went out with Jeho'ram to meet Jehu the son of Nimshi, whom the LORD had anointed to destroy the house of Ahab. ⁸ And when Jehu was executing judgment upon the house of Ahab, he met the princes of Judah and the sons of Ahazi'ah's brothers, who attended Ahazi'ah, and he killed them. ⁹ He searched for Ahazi'ah, and he was captured while hiding in Sama'ria, and he was brought to Jehu and put to death. They buried him, for they said, "He is the grandson of Jehosh'aphat, who sought the LORD with all his heart." And the house of Ahazi'ah had no one able to rule the kingdom.

10 Now when Athali'ah the mother of Ahazi'ah saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the royal family of the house of Judah. ¹¹ But Jeho-shab'e-ath, the daughter of the king, took Jo'ash the son of Ahazi'ah, and stole him away from among the king's sons who were about to be slain, man to rebuke kings in the name of the LORD, and used him accordingly to give more point to the rebuke of Jehoram. 16-17: More military punishment; not found in 2 Kings. Arabs who are near the Ethiopians, see 14.9-15 n. 18-19: Personal punishment, to fulfill the prophecy in v. 15. and she put him and his nurse in a bed-chamber. Thus Jehoi'shab'e-ath, the daughter of King Jeho'ram and wife of Jehoi'ada the priest, because she was a sister of Ahazi'ah, hid him from Athali'ah, so that she did not slay him; ¹² and he remained with them six years, hid in the house of God, while Athali'ah reigned over the land.

23 But in the seventh year Jehoi'ada took courage, and entered into a compact with the commanders of hundreds, Azari'ah the son of Jero'-ham, Ish'mael the son of Jehoha'nan, Azari'ah the son of Obed, Ma-asei'ah the son of Adai'ah, and Elisha'phat the son of Zichri. ² And they went about through Judah and gathered the Levites from all the cities of Judah, and the heads of fathers' houses of Israel, and they came to Jerusalem. ³ And all the assembly made a covenant with the king in the house of God. And Jehoi'ada¹ said to them, "Behold, the king's son! Let him reign, as the LORD spoke concerning the sons of David. ⁴ This is the thing that you shall do: of you priests and Levites who come off duty on the sabbath, one third shall be gatekeepers, ⁵ and one third shall be at the king's house and one third at the Gate of the Foundation; and all the people shall be in the courts of the house of the LORD. ⁶ Let no one enter the house of the LORD except the priests and ministering Levites; they may enter, for they are holy, but all the people shall keep the charge of the LORD. ⁷ The Levites shall surround the king, each with his weapons in his hand; and whoever enters the house shall be slain. Be with the king when he comes in, and when he goes out."

⁸ The Levites and all Judah did according to all that Jehoi'ada the priest commanded. They each brought his men, who were to go off duty on the sabbath, with those who were to come on duty on the sabbath; for Jehoi'ada the priest did not dismiss the divisions. ⁹ And Jehoi'ada the priest delivered to the captains the spears and the large and small shields that had been King David's, which were in the house of God; ¹⁰ and he set all the people as a guard for the king, every man with his weapon in his hand, from the south side of the house to the north side of the house, around the altar and the house. ¹¹ Then he brought out the king's son, and put the crown upon him, and gave him the testimony; and they proclaimed him king, and Jehoi'ada and his sons anointed him, and they said, "Long live the king."

¹² When Athali'ah heard the noise of the people running and praising the king, she went into the house of the LORD to the people; ¹³ and when she looked, there was the king standing by his pillar at the entrance, and the captains and the trumpeters beside the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing and blowing trumpets, and the singers with their musical instruments leading in the celebration. And Athali'ah rent her clothes, and cried, "Treason! Treason!" ¹⁴ Then Jehoi'ada the priest brought out the captains who were set over the army, saying to them, "Bring her out between the ranks; any one who follows her is to be slain with the sword." For the priest said, "Do not slay her in the house of the LORD." ¹⁵ So they laid hands on her; and she went into the entrance of the horse gate of the king's house, and they slew her there.

¹⁶ And Jehoi'ada made a covenant between himself and all the people and the king that they should be the LORD's people. ¹⁷ Then all the people went to the house of Ba'al, and tore it down; his altars and his images they broke in pieces, and they slew Mattan the priest of Ba'al before the altars. ¹⁸ And Jehoi'ada posted watchmen for the house of the LORD under the direction of the Levitical priests and the Levites whom David had organized to be in charge of the house of the LORD, to offer burnt offerings to the LORD, as it is written in the law of Moses, with rejoicing and with singing, according to the order of David. ¹⁹ He stationed the gatekeepers at the gates of the house of the LORD so that no one should enter who was in any way unclean. ²⁰ And he took the captains, the nobles, the governors of the people, and all the people of the land; and they brought the king down from the house of the LORD, marching through the upper gate to the king's house. And they set the king upon the royal throne. ²¹ So all the people of the land rejoiced; and the city was quiet, after Athali'ah had been slain with the sword.

24 Jo'ash was seven years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem; his mother's name was Zib'iah of Beersheba. ² And Jo'ash did what was right in the eyes of the LORD all the days of Jehoi'ada the priest. ³ Jehoi'ada got for him two wives, and he had sons and daughters.

⁴ After this Jo'ash decided to restore the house of the LORD. ⁵ And he gathered the priests and the Levites, and said to them, "Go out to the cities of Judah, and gather from all Israel money to repair the house of your God from year to year; and see that you hasten the matter." But the Levites did not hasten it. ⁶ So the king summoned Jehoi'ada the chief, and said to him, "Why have you not required the Levites to bring in from Judah and Jerusalem the tax levied by Moses, the servant of the LORD, on^m the congregation of Israel for the tent of testimony?" ⁷ For the sons of Athali'ah, that wicked woman, had broken into the house of God; and had also used all the dedicated things of the house of the LORD for the Ba'als.

⁸ So the king commanded, and they made a chest, and set it outside the gate of the house of the LORD. ⁹ And proclamation was made throughout Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in for the LORD the tax that Moses the servant of God laid upon Israel in the wilderness. ¹⁰ And all the princes and all the people rejoiced and brought their tax and dropped it into the chest until they had finished. ¹¹ And whenever the chest was brought to the king's officers by the Levites, when they saw that there was much money in it, the king's secretary and the officer of the chief priest would come and empty the chest and take it and return it to its place. Thus they did day after day, and collected money in abundance. ¹² And the king and Jehoi'ada gave it to those who had charge of the work of the house of the LORD, and they hired masons and carpenters to restore the house of the LORD, and also workers in iron and bronze to repair the house of the LORD. ¹³ So those who were engaged in the work labored, and the repairing went forward in their hands, and they restored the house of God to its proper condition and strengthened it. ¹⁴ And when they had finished, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoi'ada, and with it were made utensils for the house of the LORD, both for the service and for the burnt offerings, and dishes for incense, and vessels of gold and silver. And they

24.1-27: The good beginning of Joash; his later apostasy and consequent punishment. Based upon 2 Kg. ch. 12. Joash is depicted by the Chronicler as being considerably worse than he appears to be in 2 Kings, probably because he was a grandson of Athaliah (see 2 Kg. 12.19-21 n.). Such treatment also provides an explanation of Joash's military misfortune and his assassination, both unexplained in 2 Kings. 1-3: 2 Kg. 12.3 is omitted and v. 3 here is added. 4-7: Rewritten to give the Levites a greater share, even in the delaying tactics (v. 5). offered burnt offerings in the house of the LORD continually all the days of Jehoi'ada.

15 But Jehoi'ada grew old and full of days, and died; he was a hundred and thirty years old at his death.¹⁶ And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel, and toward God and his house.

17 Now after the death of Jehoi'ada the princes of Judah came and did obeisance to the king; then the king hearkened to them.¹⁸ And they forsook the house of the LORD, the God of their fathers, and served the Ashe'rim and the idols. And wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem for this their guilt.¹⁹ Yet he sent prophets among them to bring them back to the LORD; these testified against them, but they would not give heed.

20 Then the Spirit of God took possession ofⁿ Zechari'ah the son of Jehoi'ada the priest; and he stood above the people, and said to them, "Thus says God, 'Why do you transgress the commandments of the LORD, so that you cannot prosper? Because you have forsaken the LORD, he has forsaken you.'"²¹ But they conspired against him, and by command of the king they stoned him with stones in the court of the house of the LORD.²² Thus Jo'ash the king did not remember the kindness which Jehoi'ada, Zechari'ah's father, had shown him, but killed his son. And when he was dying, he said, "May the LORD see and avenge!"

23 At the end of the year the army of the Syrians came up against Jo'ash. They came to Judah and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and sent all their spoil to the king of Damascus.²⁴ Though the army of the Syrians had come with few men, the LORD delivered into their hand a very great army, because they had forsaken the LORD, the God of their fathers. Thus they executed judgment on Jo'ash.

25 When they had departed from him, leaving him severely wounded, his servants conspired against him because of the blood of the son^o of Jehoi'ada the priest, and slew him on his bed. So he died; and they buried him in the city of David, but they did not bury him in the tombs of the kings.²⁶ Those who conspired against him were Zabad the son of Shim'e-ath the Ammonitess, and Jeho'zabad the son of Shimrith the Moabitess.²⁷ Accounts of his sons, and of the many oracles against him, and of the rebuilding^p of the house of God are written in the Commentary on the Book of the Kings. And Amazi'ah his son reigned in his stead.

25 Amazi'ah was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jeho-ad'dan of Jerusalem.² And he did what was right in the eyes of the LORD, yet not with a blameless heart.³ And as soon as the royal power was firmly in his hand he killed his servants who had slain the king his father.⁴ But he did not put their children to death, according to what is written in the law, in the book of Moses, where the LORD commanded, "The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, or the children be put to death for the fathers; but every man shall die for his own sin."

sands and of hundreds for all Judah and Benjamin. He mustered those twenty years old and upward, and found that they were three hundred thousand picked men, fit for war, able to handle spear and shield. ⁶ He hired also a hundred thousand mighty men of valor from Israel for a hundred talents of silver. ⁷ But a man of God came to him and said, "O king, do not let the army of Israel go with you, for the LORD is not with Israel, with all these E'phraimites." ⁸ But if you suppose that in this way you will be strong for war, ⁹ God will cast you down before the enemy; for God has power to help or to cast down." ⁹ And Amazi'ah said to the man of God, "But what shall we do about the hundred talents which I have given to the army of Israel?" The man of God answered, "The LORD is able to give you much more than this." ¹⁰ Then Amazi'ah discharged the army that had come to him from E'phraim, to go home again. And they became very angry with Judah, and returned home in fierce anger. ¹¹ But Amazi'ah took courage, and led out his people, and went to the Valley of Salt and smote ten thousand men of Se'ir. ¹² The men of Judah captured another ten thousand alive, and took them to the top of a rock and threw them down from the top of the rock; and they were all dashed to pieces. ¹³ But the men of the army whom Amazi'ah sent back, not letting them go with him to battle, fell upon the cities of Judah, from Samaria to Beth-hor'on, and killed three thousand people in them, and took much spoil.

who said to him, "Why have you resorted to the gods of a people, which did not deliver their own people from your hand?" ¹⁶ But as he was speaking the king said to him, "Have we made you a royal counselor? Stop! Why should you be put to death?" So the prophet stopped, but said, "I know that God has determined to destroy you, because you have done this and have not listened to my counsel."

¹⁷ Then Amazi'ah king of Judah took counsel and sent to Jo'ash the son of Jeho'ahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, "Come, let us look one another in the face." ¹⁸ And Jo'ash the king of Israel sent word to Amazi'ah king of Judah, "A thistle on Lebanon sent to a cedar on Lebanon, saying, 'Give your daughter to my son for a wife'; and a wild beast of Lebanon passed by and trampled down the thistle." ¹⁹ You say, 'See, I have smitten Edom,' and your heart has lifted you up in boastfulness. But now stay at home; why should you provoke trouble so that you fall, you and Judah with you?"

²⁰ But Amazi'ah would not listen; for it was of God, in order that he might give them into the hand of their enemies, because they had sought the gods of Edom. ²¹ So Jo'ash king of Israel went up; and he and Amazi'ah king of Judah faced one another in battle at Beth-she'mesh, which belongs to Judah. ²² And Judah was defeated by Israel, and every man fled to his home. ²³ And Jo'ash king of Israel captured Amazi'ah king of Judah, the son of Jo'ash, son of Ahazi'ah, at Beth-she'mesh, and brought him to Jerusalem, and broke down the wall of Jerusalem for four hundred cubits, from the E'phraim Gate to the Corner Gate. ²⁴ And he seized all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God, and O'bed-

e'dom with them; he seized also the treasuries of the king's house, and hostages, and he returned to Sama'ria.

25 Amazi'ah the son of Jo'ash king of Judah lived fifteen years after the death of Jo'ash the son of Jeho'ahaz, king of Israel. 26 Now the rest of the deeds of Amazi'ah, from first to last, are they not written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel? 27 From the time when he turned away from the LORD they made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish. But they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him there. 28 And they brought him upon horses; and he was buried with his fathers in the city of David.

26 And all the people of Judah took Uzzi'ah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king instead of his father Amazi'ah. 2 He built Eloth and restored it to Judah, after the king slept with his fathers. 3 Uzzi'ah was sixteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jecoli'ah of Jerusalem. 4 And he did what was right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that his father Amazi'ah had done. 5 He set himself to seek God in the days of Zechari'ah, who instructed him in the fear of God; and as long as he sought the LORD, God made him prosper.

6 He went out and made war against the Philistines, and broke down the wall of Gath and the wall of Jabneh and the wall of Ashdod; and he built cities in the territory of Ashdod and elsewhere among the Philistines. 7 God helped him against the Philistines, and against the Arabs that dwelt in Gurba'al, and against the Me-u'- nites. 8 The Ammonites paid tribute to Uzzi'ah, and his fame spread even to the border of Egypt, for he became very strong. 9 Moreover Uzzi'ah built towers in Jerusalem at the Corner Gate and at the Valley Gate and at the Angle, and fortified them. 10 And he built towers in the wilderness, and hewed out many cisterns, for he had large herds, both in the Shephe'lah and in the plain, and he had farmers and vinedressers in the hills and in the fertile lands, for he loved the soil. 11 Moreover Uzzi'ah had an army of soldiers, fit for war, in divisions according to the numbers in the muster made by Je-i'el the secretary and Ma-asei'ah the officer, under the direction of Hanani'ah, one of the king's commanders. 12 The whole number of the heads of fathers' houses of mighty men of valor was two thousand six hundred. 13 Under their command was an army of three hundred and seven thousand five hundred, who could make war with mighty power, to help the king against the enemy. 14 And Uzzi'ah prepared for all the army shields, spears, helmets, coats of mail, bows, and stones for slinging. 15 In Jerusalem he made engines, invented by skilful men, to be on the towers and the corners, to shoot arrows and great stones. And his fame spread far, for he was marvelously helped, till he was strong.

16 But when he was strong he grew proud, to his destruction. For he was false to the LORD his God, and entered the temple of the LORD to burn incense on the altar of incense. 17 But Azari'ah the priest went in after him, with eighty priests of the LORD who were men of valor; 18 and they withstood King Uzzi'ah, and said to him, "It is

The reign of Uzziah (called also Azariah in 2 Kings) was a long one (v. 3), and the account is greatly expanded here. 1-4: Compare 2 Kg.14.21-22; 15.2-3. 5: Added by the Chronicler. This Zechariah is otherwise unknown; he served the same function as Jehoiada in 24.2. 6-15: Without parallel in 2 Kings, but there is here valuable historical material from an unknown source. 16-20: A free composition of the Chronicler to explain the leprosy of Uzziah and to warn that in the new,

not for you, Uzzi'ah, to burn incense to the LORD, but for the priests the sons of Aaron, who are consecrated to burn incense. Go out of the sanctuary; for you have done wrong, and it will bring you no honor from the LORD God." ¹⁹ Then Uzzi'ah was angry. Now he had a censer in his hand to burn incense, and when he became angry with the priests leprosy broke out on his forehead, in the presence of the priests in the house of the LORD, by the altar of incense. ²⁰ And Azari'ah the chief priest, and all the priests, looked at him, and behold, he was leprous in his forehead! And they thrust him out quickly, and he himself hastened to go out, because the LORD had smitten him. ²¹ And King Uzzi'ah was a leper to the day of his death, and being a leper dwelt in a separate house, for he was excluded from the house of the LORD. And Jotham his son was over the king's household, governing the people of the land.

27 Jotham was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jerushah the daughter of Zadok. ² And he did what was right in the eyes of the LORD according to all that his father

Uzzi'ah had done—only he did not invade the temple of the LORD. But the people still followed corrupt practices. ³ He built the upper gate of the house of the LORD, and did much building on the wall of Ophel. ⁴ Moreover he built cities in the hill country of Judah, and forts and towers on the wooded hills. ⁵ He fought with the king of the Ammonites and prevailed against them. And the Ammonites gave him that year a hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand cors of wheat and ten thousand of barley. The Ammonites paid him the same amount in the second and the third years. ⁶ So Jotham became mighty, because he ordered his ways before the LORD his God. ⁷ Now the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all his wars, and his ways, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. ⁸ He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. ⁹ And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David; and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

28 Ahaz was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. And he did not do what was right in the eyes of the LORD, like his father David, ² but walked in the ways of the kings of Israel. He even made molten images for the Ba'als; ³ and he burned incense in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and burned his sons as an offering, according to the abominable practices of the nations whom the LORD drove out before the people of Israel. ⁴ And he sacrificed and burned incense on the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

⁵ Therefore the LORD his God gave him into the hand of the king of Syria, who defeated him and took captive a great number of his people and brought them to Damascus. He was also given into the hand of the king of Israel, who defeated him with great slaughter. ⁶ For Pekah the son of Remali'ah slew a hundred and twenty thousand in Judah in one day, all of them men of valor, because they had forsaken the LORD, the God of their fathers. ⁷ And Zichri, a mighty man of E'phraim, slew Ma-asei'ah the king's son and Azri'kam the commander of the palace and Elka'nah the next in authority to the king.

⁸ The men of Israel took captive two hundred thousand of their kinsfolk, women, sons, and daughters; they also took much spoil from them and brought the spoil to Sama'ria. ⁹ But a prophet of the LORD was there, whose name was Oded; and he went out to meet the army that came to Sama'ria, and said to them, "Behold, because the LORD, the God of your fathers, was angry with Judah, he gave them into your hand, but you have slain them in a rage which has reached up to heaven. ¹⁰ And now you intend to subjugate the people of Judah and Jerusalem, male and female, as your slaves. Have you not sins of your own against the LORD your God? ¹¹ Now hear me, and send back the captives from your kinsfolk whom you have taken, for the fierce wrath of the LORD is upon you." ¹² Certain chiefs also of the men of E'phraim, Azari'ah the son of Joha'nan, Berechi'ah the son of Meshil'lemoth, Jehizki'ah the son of Shallum, and Ama'sa the son of Hadlai, stood up against those who were coming from the war, ¹³ and said to them, "You shall not bring the captives in here, for you propose to bring upon us guilt against the LORD in addition to our present sins and guilt. For our guilt is already great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel." ¹⁴ So the armed men left the captives and the spoil before the princes and all the assembly. ¹⁵ And the men who have been mentioned by name rose and took the captives, and with the spoil they clothed all that were naked among them; they clothed them, gave them sandals, provided them with food and drink, and anointed them; and carrying all the feeble among them on asses, they brought them to their kinsfolk at Jericho, the city of palm trees. Then they returned to Sama'ria.

²² In the time of his distress he became yet more faithless to the LORD—this same King Ahaz. ²³ For he sacrificed to the gods of Damascus which had defeated him, and said, "Because the gods of the kings of Syria helped them, I will sacrifice to them that they may help me." But they were the ruin drastic rewriting and expansion of 2 Kg.16.5–6. Both Syria and Israel defeat Judah with tremendous slaughter, signaling God's retributive justice. At the same time, the wicked northern kingdom is not allowed to retain any advantage from its punitive victory (vv. 8–15). 16–25: Somewhat briefer than the source, 2 Kg.16.7–18. of him, and of all Israel. ²⁴ And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God and cut in pieces the vessels of the house of God, and he shut up the doors of the house of the LORD; and he made himself altars in every corner of Jerusalem. ²⁵ In every city of Judah he made high places to burn incense to other gods, provoking to anger the LORD, the God of his fathers. ²⁶ Now the rest of his acts and all his ways, from first to last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ²⁷ And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem, for they did not bring him into the tombs of the kings of Israel. And Hezeki'ah his son reigned in his stead.

29 Hezeki'ah began to reign when he was twenty-five years old, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Abi'jah the daughter of Zechari'ah. ² And he did what was right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that David his father had done.

3 In the first year of his reign, in the first month, he opened the doors of the house of the LORD, and repaired them. ⁴ He brought in the priests and the Levites, and assembled them in the square on the east, ⁵ and said to them, "Hear me, Levites! Now sanctify yourselves, and sanctify the house of the LORD, the God of your fathers, and carry out the filth from the holy place. ⁶ For our fathers have been unfaithful and have done what was evil in the sight of the LORD our God; they have forsaken him, and have turned away their faces from the habitation of the LORD, and turned their backs. ⁷ They also shut the doors of the vestibule and put out the lamps, and have not burned incense or offered burnt offerings in the holy place to the God of Israel. ⁸ Therefore the wrath of the LORD came on Judah and Jerusalem, and he has made them an object of horror, of astonishment, and of hissing, as you see with your own eyes. ⁹ For lo, our fathers have fallen by the sword and our sons and our daughters and our wives are in captivity for this. ¹⁰ Now it is in my heart to make a covenant with the LORD, the God of Israel, that his fierce anger may turn away from us. ¹¹ My sons, do not now be negligent, for the LORD has chosen you to stand in his presence, to minister to him, and to be his ministers and burn incense to him."

12 Then the Levites arose, Mahath the son of Ama'sai, and Jo'el the son of Azari'ah, of the sons of the Ko'hathites; and of the sons of Merari, Kish the son of Abdi, and Azari'ah the son of Jehal'lelel; and of the Gershonites, Jo'ah the son of Zimmah, and Eden the son of Jo'ah; ¹³ and of the sons of Eli-za'phan, Shimri and Jeu'el; and of the sons of Asaph, Zechari'ah and Mattani'ah; ¹⁴ and of the sons of Heman, Jehu'el and Shim'e-i; and of the sons of Jedu'thun, Shemai'ah and Uz'ziel. ¹⁵ They gathered their brethren, and sanctified themselves, and went in as the king had commanded, by the words of the LORD, to cleanse the house of the LORD. ¹⁶ The priests went into the inner part of the house of the LORD to not profit even temporarily from his unholy alliance with the Assyrians. 26-27: Rewritten from 2 Kg.16.19-20. Verse 27 contradicts 2 Kg.16.20 with regard to the burial of the king; the evil Ahaz could not be buried in a royal tomb (compare 21.20; 24.25; 26.23).

29.1-36: Hezekiah begins his good reign by cleansing the temple. Second Kings considers Hezekiah an important and on the whole a good king; three chapters (chs. 18-20) are devoted to him. The Chronicler makes him a reformer like the later Josiah, and devotes four chapters to him (chs. 29-32). 1-2: Taken with little change from 2 Kg.18.2-3. 3-11: In 28.24 the Chronicler had said that Ahaz closed down the temple entirely (in contrast to 2 Kg.16.10-16). Thus the way was prepared for the present passage, with its theme of reform carried out by priests and Levites—a favorite subject with the Chronicler. There is only the slightest affinity with 2 Kg.18.4-6. Verses 6-9 suggest liturgical confession during the Babylonian captivity (compare Zech.1.1-6). 12-19: Continuation of the reform; no parallel; the Chronicler presents an ideal cleanse it, and they brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the LORD into the court of the house of the LORD; and the Levites took it and carried it out to the brook Kidron. ¹⁷ They began to sanctify on the first day of the first month, and on the eighth day of the month they came to the vestibule of the LORD; then for eight days they sanctified the house of the LORD, and on the sixteenth day of the first month they finished. ¹⁸ Then they went in to Hezeki'ah the king and said, "We have cleansed all the house of the LORD, the altar of burnt offering and all its utensils, and the table for the showbread and all its utensils. ¹⁹ All the utensils which King Ahaz discarded in his reign when he was faithless, we have made ready and sanctified; and behold, they are before the altar of the LORD."

²⁰ Then Hezeki'ah the king rose early and gathered the officials of the city, and went up to the house of the LORD. ²¹ And they brought seven bulls, seven rams, seven lambs, and seven he-goats for a sin offering for the kingdom and for the sanctuary and for Judah. And he commanded the priests the sons of Aaron to offer them on the altar of the LORD. ²² So they killed the bulls, and the priests received the blood and threw it against the altar; and they killed the rams and their blood was thrown against the altar; and they killed the lambs and their blood was thrown against the altar. ²³ Then the he-goats for the sin offering were brought to the king and the assembly, and they laid their hands upon them, ²⁴ and the priests killed them and made a sin offering with their blood on the altar, to make atonement for all Israel. For the king commanded that the burnt offering and the sin offering should be made for all Israel.

harps, and lyres, according to the commandment of David and of Gad the king's seer and of Nathan the prophet; for the commandment was from the LORD through his prophets. ²⁶ The Levites stood with the instruments of David, and the priests with the trumpets. ²⁷ Then Hezeki'ah commanded that the burnt offering be offered on the altar. And when the burnt offering began, the song to the LORD began also, and the trumpets, accompanied by the instruments of David king of Israel. ²⁸ The whole assembly worshiped, and the singers sang, and the trumpeters sounded; all this continued until the burnt offering was finished. ²⁹ When the offering was finished, the king and all who were present with him bowed themselves and worshiped. ³⁰ And Hezeki'ah the king and the princes commanded the Levites to sing praises to the LORD with the words of David and of Asaph the seer. And they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed down and worshiped.

³¹ Then Hezeki'ah said, "You have now consecrated yourselves to the LORD; come near, bring sacrifices and thank offerings to the house of the LORD." And the assembly brought sacrifices and thank offerings; and all who were of a willing heart brought burnt offerings. ³² The number of the burnt offerings which the assembly brought was seventy bulls, a hundred rams, and two hundred lambs; all these were for a burnt offering to the LORD. ³³ And the consecrated offerings were six hundred bulls and three thousand sheep. ³⁴ But the priests were too few and could not flay all the burnt offerings, so until other priests had sanctified themselves their brethren the Levites helped them, until the work was finished—for the Levites were more upright in heart than the priests in sanctifying themselves. ³⁵ Besides the great number of burnt offerings there was the fat of the peace offerings, and there were the libations for the burnt offerings. Thus the service of the house of the LORD was restored. ³⁶ And Hezeki'ah and all the people rejoiced because of what God had done for the people; for the thing came about suddenly.

30 Hezeki'ah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to E'phraim and Manas'sseh, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the passover to the LORD the God of Israel. ² For the king and his princes and all the assembly in Jerusalem had taken counsel to keep the passover in the second month— ³ for they could not keep it in its time because the priests had not sanctified themselves in sufficient number, nor had the people assembled in Jerusalem— ⁴ and the plan seemed right to the king and all the assembly. ⁵ So they decreed to make a proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba to Dan, that the people should come and keep the passover to the LORD the God of Israel, at Jerusalem; for they had not kept it in great numbers as prescribed. ⁶ So couriers went throughout all Israel and Judah with letters from the king and his princes, as the king had commanded, saying, "O people of Israel, return to the LORD, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, that he may turn again to the remnant of you who have escaped from the hand of the kings of Assyria. ⁷ Do not be like your fathers and your brethren, who were faithless to the LORD God of their fathers, so that he made them a desolation, as you see. ⁸ Do not now be stiff-necked as your fathers were, but yield yourselves to the LORD, and come to his sanctuary, which he has sanctified for ever, and serve the LORD your God, that his fierce anger may turn away from you. ⁹ For if you return to the LORD, your brethren and your children will find compassion with their captors, and return to this land. For the LORD your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if you return to him."

¹⁰ So the couriers went from city to city through the country of E'phraim and Manas'sseh, and as far as Zeb'ulun; but they laughed them to scorn, and mocked them. ¹¹ Only a few men of Asher, of Manas'sseh, and of Zeb'ulun humbled themselves and came to Jerusalem. ¹² The hand of God was also upon Judah to give them one heart to do what the king and the princes commanded by the word of the LORD.

¹³ And many people came together in Jerusalem to keep the feast of unleavened bread in the second month, a very great assembly. ¹⁴ They set to work and removed the altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for burning incense they took away and threw into the Kidron valley. ¹⁵ And they killed the passover lamb on the fourteenth day of the second month. And the priests and the Levites were put to shame, so that they sanctified themselves, and brought burnt offerings into the house of the LORD. ¹⁶ They took their accustomed posts according to the law of Moses the man of God; the priests sprinkled the blood which they received from the hand of the Levites. ¹⁷ For there were many in the assembly who had not sanctified themselves; therefore the Levites had to kill the passover lamb for every one who was not clean, to make it holy to the LORD. ¹⁸ For a multitude of the people, many of them from E'phraim, Manas'sseh, Is'sachar, and Zeb'ulun, had not cleansed themselves, yet they ate the passover otherwise than as prescribed. For Hezeki'ah had prayed for them, saying, "The 30.1-27: Hezekiah's great passover festival. There is no hint of this in 2 Kings. It seems to be a kind of parallel to or preparation for Josiah's great passover in ch. 35. good LORD pardon every one ¹⁹ who sets his heart to seek God, the LORD the God of his fathers, even though not according to the sanctuary's rules of cleanness." ²⁰ And the LORD heard Hezeki'ah, and healed the people. ²¹ And the people of Israel that were present at Jerusalem kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness; and the Levites and the priests praised the LORD day by day, singing with all their might^s to the LORD. ²² And Hezeki'ah spoke encouragingly to all the Levites who showed good skill in the service of the LORD. So the people ate the food of the festival for seven days, sacrificing peace offerings and giving thanks to the LORD the God of their fathers.

²³ Then the whole assembly agreed together to keep the feast for another seven days; so they kept it for another seven days with gladness. ²⁴ For Hezeki'ah king of Judah gave the assembly a thousand bulls and seven thousand sheep for offerings, and the princes gave the assembly a thousand bulls and ten thousand sheep. And the priests sanctified themselves in great numbers. ²⁵ The whole assembly of Judah, and the priests and the Levites, and the whole assembly that came out of Israel, and the sojourners who came out of the land of Israel, and the sojourners who dwelt in Judah, rejoiced. ²⁶ So there was great joy in Jerusalem, for since the time of Solomon the son of David king of Israel there had been nothing like this in Jerusalem. ²⁷ Then the priests and the Levites arose and blessed the people, and their voice was heard, and their prayer came to his holy habitation in heaven.

31 Now when all this was finished, all Israel who were present went out to the cities of Judah and broke in pieces the pillars and hewed down the Ashe'rim and broke down the high places and the altars throughout all Judah and Benjamin, and in E'phraim and Manas'seh, until they had destroyed them all. Then all the people of Israel returned to their cities, every man to his possession.

² And Hezeki'ah appointed the divisions of the priests and of the Levites, division by division, each according to his service, the priests and the Levites, for burnt offerings and peace offerings, to minister in the gates of the camp of the LORD and to give thanks and praise. ³ The contribution of the king from his own possessions was for the burnt offerings: the burnt offerings of morning and evening, and the burnt offerings for the sabbaths, the new moons, and the appointed feasts, as it is written in the law of the LORD. ⁴ And he commanded the people who lived in Jerusalem to give the portion due to the priests and the Levites, that they might give themselves to the law of the LORD. ⁵ As soon as the command was spread abroad, the people of Israel gave in abundance the first fruits of grain, wine, oil, honey, and of all the produce of the field; and they brought in abundantly the tithe of everything. ⁶ And the people of Israel and Judah who lived in the cities of Judah also brought in the tithe of cattle and sheep, and the dedicated things^t which had been consecrated to the LORD their God, and laid them in heaps. ⁷ In the third month they began to pile up the heaps, and finished them in the seventh month. ⁸ When Hezeki'ah and the princes came and saw the heaps, they blessed the LORD and his people Israel. ⁹ And Hezeki'ah questioned the priests and the Levites

31.1-21: Hezekiah's reform and his re-establishment of the priests and Levites. 1: Similar to 2 Kg.18.4 (see note there), except that here the reforming activity is extended to the territory of the former northern kingdom. Some regard this latter as historically correct, pointing out that the northern kingdom had fallen, and claiming that the Assyrians did not exercise strict control. about the heaps. ¹⁰ Azari'ah the chief priest, who was of the house of Zadok, answered him, "Since they began to bring the contributions into the house of the LORD we have eaten and had enough and have plenty left; for the LORD has blessed his people, so that we have this great store left."

11 Then Hezeki'ah commanded them to prepare chambers in the house of the LORD; and they prepared them. ¹² And they faithfully brought in the contributions, the tithes and the dedicated things. The chief officer in charge of them was Conani'ah the Levite, with Shim'e-i his brother as second; ¹³ while Jehi'el, Azazi'ah, Nahath, As'ahel, Jer'imoth, Jo'zabad, Eli'el, Ismachi'ah, Mahath, and Benai'ah were overseers assisting Conani'ah and Shim'e-i his brother, by the appointment of Hezeki'ah the king and Azari'ah the chief officer of the house of God. ¹⁴ And Ko're the son of Imnah the Levite, keeper of the east gate, was over the freewill offerings to God, to apportion the contribution reserved for the LORD and the most holy offerings. ¹⁵ Eden, Mini'amin, Jeshua, Shemai'ah, Amari'ah, and Shecani'ah were faithfully assisting him in the cities of the priests, to distribute the portions to their brethren, old and young alike, by divisions, ¹⁶ except those enrolled by genealogy, males from three years old and upwards, all who entered the house of the LORD as the duty of each day required, for their service according to their offices, by their divisions. ¹⁷ The enrollment of the priests was according to their fathers' houses; that of the Levites from twenty years old and upwards was according to their offices, by their divisions. ¹⁸ The priests were enrolled with all their little children, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, the whole multitude; for they were faithful in keeping themselves holy. ¹⁹ And for the sons of Aaron, the priests, who were in the fields of common land belonging to their cities, there were men in the several cities who were designated by name to distribute portions to every male among the priests and to every one among the Levites who was enrolled.

20 Thus Hezeki'ah did throughout all Judah; and he did what was good and right and faithful before the LORD his God. ²¹ And every work that he undertook in the service of the house of God and in accordance with the law and the commandments, seeking his God, he did with all his heart, and prospered.

32 After these things and these acts of faithfulness Sennach'erib king of Assyria came and invaded Judah and encamped against the fortified cities, thinking to win them for himself. ² And when Hezeki'ah saw that Sennach'erib had come and intended to fight against Jerusalem, ³ he planned with his officers and his mighty men to stop the water of the springs that were outside the city; and they helped him. ⁴ A great many people were gathered, and they stopped all the springs and the brook that flowed through the land, saying, "Why should the kings of Assyria come and find much water?" ⁵ He set to work resolutely and built up all the wall that was broken down, and raised towers upon it, and outside it he built another wall; and he strengthened the Millo in the city of David. He also made weapons and shields in abundance. ⁶ And he set combat commanders over the people, and gathered them together to him in the square at the gate of the city and spoke encouragingly to them, saying, ⁷ "Be strong and of good courage. him; for there is one greater with us than with him. ⁸ With him is an arm of flesh; but with us is the LORD our God, to help us and to fight our battles." And the people took confidence from the words of Hezeki'ah king of Judah.

⁹ After this Sennach'erib king of Assyria, who was besieging Lachish with all his forces, sent his servants to Jerusalem to Hezeki'ah king of Judah and to all the people of Judah that were in Jerusalem, saying, ¹⁰ "Thus says Sennach'erib king of Assyria, 'On what are you relying, that you stand siege in Jerusalem?' ¹¹ Is not Hezeki'ah misleading you, that he may give you over to die by famine and by thirst, when he tells you, 'The LORD our God will deliver us from the hand of the king of Assyria'? ¹² Has not this same Hezeki'ah taken away his high places and his altars and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, 'Before one altar you shall worship, and upon it you shall burn your sacrifices'? ¹³ Do you not know what I and my fathers have done to all the peoples of other lands? Were the gods of the nations of those lands at all able to deliver their lands out of my hand? ¹⁴ Who among all the gods of those nations which my fathers utterly destroyed was able to deliver his people from my hand, that your God should be able to deliver you from my hand? ¹⁵ Now therefore do not let Hezeki'ah deceive you or mislead you in this fashion, and do not believe him, for no god of any nation or kingdom has been able to deliver his people from my hand or from the hand of my fathers. How much less will your God deliver you out of my hand!'"

¹⁶ And his servants said still more against the Lord God and against his servant Hezeki'ah. ¹⁷ And he wrote letters to cast contempt on the LORD the God of Israel and to speak against him, saying, "Like the gods of the nations of the lands who have not delivered their people from my hands, so the God of Hezeki'ah will not deliver his people from my hand." ¹⁸ And they shouted it with a loud voice in the language of Judah to the people of Jerusalem who were upon the wall, to frighten and terrify them, in order that they might take the city. ¹⁹ And they spoke of the God of Jerusalem as they spoke of the gods of the peoples of the earth, which are the work of men's hands.

²⁰ Then Hezeki'ah the king and Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, prayed because of this and cried to heaven. ²¹ And the LORD sent an angel, who cut off all the mighty warriors and commanders and officers in the camp of the king of Assyria. So he returned with shame of face to his own land. And when he came into the house of his god, some of his own sons struck him down there with the sword. ²² So the LORD saved Hezeki'ah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennach'erib king of Assyria and from the hand of all his enemies; and he gave them rest on every side. ²³ And many brought gifts to the LORD to Jerusalem and precious things to Hezeki'ah king of Judah, so that he was exalted in the sight of all nations from that time onward.

²⁴ In those days Hezeki'ah became sick and was at the point of death, and he prayed to the LORD; and he answered him and gave him a sign. ²⁵ But Hezeki'ah did not make return according to the benefit done to him, for his heart was proud. Therefore wrath came upon him and Judah and Jerusalem. ²⁶ But Hezeki'ah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of the LORD did not come upon them in the days of Hezeki'ah.

And Hezeki'ah prospered in all his works. ³¹ And so in the matter of the envoys of the princes of Babylon, who had been sent to him to inquire about the sign that had been done in the land, God left him to himself, in order to try him and to know all that was in his heart.

33 Manas'sseh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem. ² He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to the abominable practices of the nations whom the LORD drove out before the people of Israel. ³ For he rebuilt the high places which his father Hezeki'ah had broken down, and erected altars to the Ba'als, and made Ashe'rahs, and worshiped all the host of heaven, and served them. ⁴ And he built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD had said, "In Jerusalem shall my name be for ever." ⁵ And he built altars for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of the LORD. ⁶ And he burned his sons as an offering in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and practiced soothsaying and augury and sorcery, and dealt with mediums and with wizards. He did much evil in the sight of the LORD, provoking him to anger. ⁷ And the image of the idol which he had made he set in the house of God, of which God said to David and to Solomon his son, "In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I will put my name for ever; ⁸ and I will no more remove the foot of Israel from the land which I appointed for your fathers, if only they will be careful to do all that I have commanded them, all the law, the statutes, and the ordinances given through Moses." ⁹ Manas'sseh seduced Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that they did more evil than the nations whom the LORD destroyed before the people of Israel.

¹⁰ The LORD spoke to Manas'sseh and to his people, but they gave no heed. ¹¹ Therefore the LORD brought upon them the commanders of the army of the king of Assyria, who took Manas'sseh with hooks and bound him

33.1-25: The bad beginning of Manasseh; his punishment and repentance; the evil reign of Amon. This chapter is unusual in that it presents a king of Judah, Manasseh, as less evil than he appears in 2 Kings. Perhaps the Chronicler could not believe that Manasseh was wholly bad, since he reigned longer than any other king of Israel or Judah. 1-9: These verses follow closely their source, 2 Kg.21.1-9. 10-13: There is no hint of Manasseh's captivity and release in 2 Kings, though his name appears in Assyrian inscriptions as a vassal of Esarhaddon and Ashurbanipal, sometimes under suspicion. Thus the Babylonian captivity of Manasseh is historically with fetters of bronze and brought him to Babylon. ¹² And when he was in distress he entreated the favor of the LORD his God and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers. ¹³ He prayed to him, and God received his entreaty and heard his supplication and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manas'sseh knew that the LORD was God.

¹⁴ Afterwards he built an outer wall for the city of David west of Gihon, in the valley, and for the entrance into the Fish Gate, and carried it round Ophel, and raised it to a very great height; he also put commanders of the army in all the fortified cities in Judah. ¹⁵ And he took away the foreign gods and the idol from the house of the LORD, and all the altars that he had built on the mountain of the house of the LORD and in Jerusalem, and he threw them outside of the city. ¹⁶ He also restored the altar of the LORD and offered upon it sacrifices of peace offerings and of thanksgiving; and he commanded Judah to serve the LORD the God of Israel. ¹⁷ Nevertheless the people still sacrificed at the high places, but only to the LORD their God.

¹⁸ Now the rest of the acts of Manas'sseh, and his prayer to his God, and the words of the seers who spoke to him in the name of the LORD the God of Israel, behold, they are in the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ¹⁹ And his prayer, and how God received his entreaty, and all his sin and his faithlessness, and the sites on which he built high places and set up the Ashe'rim and the images, before he humbled himself, behold, they are written in the Chronicles of the Seers.^v ²⁰ So Manas'sseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his house; and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

²¹ Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. ²² He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, as Manas'sseh his father had done. Amon sacrificed to all the images that Manas'sseh his father had made, and served them. ²³ And he did not humble himself before the LORD, as Manas'sseh his father had humbled himself, but this Amon incurred guilt more and more. ²⁴ And his servants conspired against him and killed him in his house. ²⁵ But the people of the land slew all those who had conspired against King Amon; and the people of the land made Josi'ah his son king in his stead.

34 Josi'ah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. ² He did what was right in the eyes of the LORD, and walked in the ways of David his father; and he did not turn aside to the right or to the left. ³ For in the eighth year of his reign, while he was yet a boy, he began to seek the God of David his father; and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jerusalem of the high places, the Ashe'rim, and the graven and the molten images. ⁴ And they broke down the altars of the Ba'als in his presence; and he hewed down the incense altars which stood above them; and he broke in pieces the Ashe'rim and the graven possible, though the Chronicler uses it here as divine punishment to bring the sinning king to repentance. This repentance is somewhat doubtful in view of 2 Kg.21.10-17. 14-17: None of these verses, except the last, has any parallel. Verse 17 shows that the reform fell short of perfection; compare 2 Kg.21.16, which is much stronger in condemnation. 18-20: These verses are a new version of 2 Kg.21.17-18 in the light of the Chronicler's own interpretation of the reign of Manasseh. 21-25: From 2 Kg.21.19-24, and in agreement with the source in the low evaluation of Amon; v. 23 has been rewritten to conform to the new evaluation of Manasseh.

34.1-33: The good reign of Josiah; his reforms and the finding of the book of the law. The Chronicler pictures Josiah as the great reformer, the best king since David and Solomon, and the last good king. 2 Kg.22.1-23.30 is in basic agreement on the character and importance of Josiah. 3-7: These verses transfer the great reform from a time after the finding of the book of

and the molten images, and he made dust of them and strewed it over the graves of those who had sacrificed to them.⁵ He also burned the bones of the priests on their altars, and purged Judah and Jerusalem.⁶ And in the cities of Manas'seh, E'phraim, and Simeon, and as far as Naph'tali, in their ruins^w round about,⁷ he broke down the altars, and beat the Ashe'rim and the images into powder, and hewed down all the incense altars throughout all the land of Israel. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

8 Now in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purged the land and the house, he sent Shaphan the son of Azali'ah, and Ma-asei'ah the governor of the city, and Jo'ah the son of Jo'ahaz, the recorder, to repair the house of the LORD his God.⁹ They came to Hilki'ah the high priest and delivered the money that had been brought into the house of God, which the Levites, the keepers of the threshold, had collected from Manas'seh and E'phraim and from all the remnant of Israel and from all Judah and Benjamin and from the inhabitants of Jerusalem.¹⁰ They delivered it to the workmen who had the oversight of the house of the LORD; and the workmen who were working in the house of the LORD gave it for repairing and restoring the house.¹¹ They gave it to the carpenters and the builders to buy quarried stone, and timber for binders and beams for the buildings which the kings of Judah had let go to ruin.¹² And the men did the work faithfully. Over them were set Jahath and Obadi'ah the Levites, of the sons of Merar'i, and Zechari'ah and Meshul'lam, of the sons of the Ko'hathites, to have oversight. The Levites, all who were skilful with instruments of music,¹³ were over the burden bearers and directed all who did work in every kind of service; and some of the Levites were scribes, and officials, and gatekeepers.

14 While they were bringing out the money that had been brought into the house of the LORD, Hilki'ah the priest found the book of the law of the LORD given through Moses.¹⁵ Then Hilki'ah said to Shaphan the secretary, "I have found the book of the law in the house of the LORD"; and Hilki'ah gave the book to Shaphan.¹⁶ Shaphan brought the book to the king, and further reported to the king, "All that was committed to your servants they are doing."¹⁷ They have emptied out the money that was found in the house of the LORD and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers and the workmen."¹⁸ Then Shaphan the secretary told the king, "Hilki'ah the priest has given me a book." And Shaphan read it before the king.

19 When the king heard the words of the law he rent his clothes.²⁰ And the king commanded Hilki'ah, Ahi'kam the son of Shaphan, Abdon the son of Micah, Shaphan the secretary, and Asai'ah the king's servant, saying,²¹ "Go, inquire of the LORD for me and for those who are left in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that has been found; for great is the wrath of the LORD that is poured out on us, because our fathers have not kept the word of the LORD, to do according to all that is written in this book."

22 So Hilki'ah and those whom the king had sent^x went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum the son of Tokhath, son of Hasrah, keeper of the wardrobe (now she dwelt in Jerusalem in the Second Quarter) and spoke to her to that effect.²³ And she said to them, "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'Tell the man who sent you to me, ²⁴ Thus says the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place and upon its inhabitants, all the curses that are written in the book which was read before the king of Judah. ²⁵ Because they have forsaken me and have burned incense to other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands, therefore my wrath will be poured out upon this place and will not be quenched. ²⁶ But to the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of the LORD, thus shall you say to him, Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Regarding the words which you have heard, ²⁷ because your heart was penitent and you humbled yourself before God when you heard his words against this place and its inhabitants, and you have humbled yourself before me, and have rent your clothes and wept before me, I also have heard you, says the LORD. ²⁸ Behold, I will gather you to your fathers, and you shall be gathered to your grave in peace, and your eyes shall not see all the evil which I will bring upon this place and its inhabitants.' And they brought back word to the king.

²⁹ Then the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. ³⁰ And the king went up to the house of the LORD, with all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem and the priests and the Levites, all the people both great and small; and he read in their hearing all the words of the book of the covenant which had been found in the house of the LORD. ³¹ And the king stood in his place and made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all his heart and all his soul, to perform the words of the covenant that were written in this book. ³² Then he made all who were present in Jerusalem and in Benjamin stand to it. And the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. ³³ And Josi'ah took away all the abominations from all the territory that belonged to the people of Israel, and made all who were in Israel serve the LORD their God. All his days they did not turn away from following the LORD the God of their fathers.

35 Josi'ah kept a passover to the LORD in Jerusalem; and they killed the passover lamb on the fourteenth day of the first month. ² He appointed the priests to their offices and encouraged them in the service of the house of the LORD. ³ And he said to the Levites who taught all Israel and who were holy to the LORD, "Put the holy ark in the house which Solomon the son of David, king of Israel, built; you need no longer carry it upon your shoulders. Now serve the LORD your God and his people Israel. ⁴ Prepare yourselves according to your fathers' houses by your divisions, following the directions of David king of Israel and the directions of Solomon his son. ⁵ And stand in the holy place according to the groupings of the fathers' houses of your brethren the lay people, and let there be for each a part of a father's house of the Levites. ⁶ And kill the passover lamb, and sanctify yourselves, and prepare for your brethren, to do according to the word of the LORD by Moses."

⁷ Then Josi'ah contributed to the lay people, as passover offerings for all that were present, lambs and kids from the flock to the number of thirty

35.1–27: Josiah's great passover celebration; his tragic mistake and consequent death. 1–6: 2 Kg.23.21–23 tells us that Josiah kept the greatest passover of any up to his time, but gives no details. The Chronicler seizes the opportunity to describe in detail what he regarded as the most important festival, as it was kept in his time, or as it ought to be kept in the future. Verse 4 refers to 1 Chr. chs. 24–26. 7–9: Compare 1 Chr.29.6–9. 10–15: A prominent place is given to thousand, and three thousand bulls; these were from the king's possessions. ⁸ And his princes contributed willingly to the people, to the priests, and to the Levites. Hilki'ah, Zechari'ah, and Jehi'el, the chief officers of the house of God, gave to the priests for the pass-over offerings two thousand six hundred lambs and kids and three hundred bulls. ⁹ Conani'ah also, and Shemai'ah and Nethan'el his brothers, and Hashabi'ah and Je-i'el and Jo'zabad, the chiefs of the Levites, gave to the Levites for the passover offerings five thousand lambs and kids and five hundred bulls.

¹⁰ When the service had been prepared for, the priests stood in their place, and the Levites in their divisions according to the king's command. ¹¹ And they killed the passover lamb, and the priests sprinkled the blood which they received from them while the Levites flayed the victims. ¹² And they set aside the burnt offerings that they might distribute them according to the groupings of the fathers' houses of the lay people, to offer to the LORD, as it is written in the book of Moses. And so they did with the bulls. ¹³ And they roasted the passover lamb with fire according to the ordinance; and they boiled the holy offerings in pots, in caldrons, and in pans, and carried them quickly to all the lay people. ¹⁴ And afterward they prepared for themselves and for the priests, because the priests the sons of Aaron were busy in offering the burnt offerings and the fat parts until night; so the Levites prepared for themselves and for the priests the sons of Aaron. ¹⁵ The singers, the sons of Asaph, were in their place according to the command of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jedu'thun the king's seer; and the gatekeepers were at each gate; they did not need to depart from their service, for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

¹⁶ So all the service of the LORD was prepared that day, to keep the pass-over and to offer burnt offerings on the altar of the LORD, according to the command of King Josi'ah. ¹⁷ And the people of Israel who were present kept the passover at that time, and the feast of unleavened bread seven days. ¹⁸ No passover like it had been kept in Israel since the days of Samuel the prophet; none of the kings of Israel had kept such a passover as was kept by Josi'ah, and the priests and the Levites, and all Judah and Israel who were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ¹⁹ In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josi'ah this passover was kept.

²⁰ After all this, when Josi'ah had prepared the temple, Neco king of Egypt went up to fight at Carchemish on the Euphra'tes and Josi'ah went out against him. ²¹ But he sent envoys to him, saying, "What have we to do with each other, king of Judah? I am not coming against you this day, but against the house with which I am at war; and God has commanded me to make haste. Cease opposing God, who is with me, lest he destroy you."

²² Nevertheless Josi'ah would not turn away from him, but disguised himself in order to fight with him. He did not listen to the words of Neco from the mouth of God, but joined battle in the plain of Megid'do. ²³ And the archers shot King Josi'ah; and the king said to his servants, "Take me away, for I am badly wounded." ²⁴ So his servants took him out of the chariot and carried him in his second chariot and brought him to Jerusalem. And he died, and was buried in the tombs of his fathers. All Judah and Jerusalem mourned for the Levites and the singers (see Introduction to 1 Chronicles). 16-19: Compare 2 Kg.23.22-23. 20-24: A greatly expanded version of 2 Kg.23.29-30; some of the added details are doubtless historically correct. The most characteristic touch of the Chronicler is in describing the words of Neco as coming from the mouth of God (v. 22). Only thus could a man who believed every misfortune a direct punishment from God explain the untimely death of the otherwise righteous Josiah. 25: Strangely enough Jeremiah the prophet is not mentioned in 2 Kings. The Chronicler

Josi'ah. ²⁵ Jeremiah also uttered a lament for Josi'ah; and all the singing men and singing women have spoken of Josi'ah in their laments to this day. They made these an ordinance in Israel; behold, they are written in the Laments. ²⁶ Now the rest of the acts of Josi'ah, and his good deeds according to what is written in the law of the LORD, ²⁷ and his acts, first and last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

36 The people of the land took Jeho'ahaz the son of Josi'ah and made him king in his father's stead in Jerusalem. ² Jeho'ahaz was twenty-three years old when he began to reign; and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. ³ Then the king of Egypt deposed him in Jerusalem and laid upon the land a tribute of a hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold. ⁴ And the king of Egypt made Eli'akim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoi'akim; but Neco took Jeho'ahaz his brother and carried him to Egypt.

⁵ Jehoi'akim was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD his God. ⁶ Against him came up Nebuchadnezz'zar king of Babylon, and bound him in fetters to take him to Babylon. ⁷ Nebuchadnezz'zar also carried part of the vessels of the house of the LORD to Babylon and put them in his palace in Babylon. ⁸ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoi'akim, and the abominations which he did, and what was found against him, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah; and Jehoi'achin his son reigned in his stead.

⁹ Jehoi'achin was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD. ¹⁰ In the spring of the year King Nebuchadnezz'zar sent and brought him to Babylon, with the precious vessels of the house of the LORD, and made his brother Zedeki'ah king over Judah and Jerusalem.

¹¹ Zedeki'ah was twenty-one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. ¹² He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD his God. He did not humble himself before Jeremiah the prophet, who spoke from the mouth of the LORD. ¹³ He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezz'zar, who had made him swear by God; he stiffened his neck and hardened his heart against turning to the LORD, the God of Israel. ¹⁴ All the leading priests and the people likewise were exceedingly unfaithful, following all the abominations of the nations; and they polluted the house of the LORD which he had hallowed in Jerusalem.

¹⁵ The LORD, the God of their fathers, sent persistently to them by his messengers, because he had compassion on his people and on his dwell-

In v. 6 Jehoiaikim seems to be taken to Babylon, contrary to the source, 2 Kg.24.6 (compare Dan.1.1-2). Verse 7 is added, anticipating v. 10 (compare Dan.1.2). 9-10: The story of Jehoiachin is drastically abridged from 2 Kg.24.8-17. The correct age in v. 9 is not eight years, but eighteen years (compare 2 Kg.24.8). Tablets from Babylonia disclose that by 592 B.C. he had five sons. 11-13: Based on 2 Kg.24.18-20, but with certain changes, such as the dropping of the names of the king's mother and grandfather, the introduction of Jeremiah the prophet (see 35.25 n. and compare Jer. chs. 37-39), and the mention of the king's oath (compare Ezek.17.16). 14: There is no parallel to this in 2 Kings, where the blame is laid chiefly on the king (compare Jer. ch. 7; Ezek. ch. 8). The Chronicler does not ing place; ¹⁶ but they kept mocking the messengers of God, despising his words, and scoffing at his prophets, till the wrath of the LORD rose against his people, till there was no remedy.

17 Therefore he brought up against them the king of the Chalde'ans, who slew their young men with the sword in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion on young man or virgin, old man or aged; he gave them all into his hand. ¹⁸ And all the vessels of the house of God, great and small, and the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king and of his princes, all these he brought to Babylon. ¹⁹ And they burned the house of God, and broke down the wall of Jerusalem, and burned all its palaces with fire, and destroyed all its precious vessels. ²⁰ He took into exile in Babylon those who had escaped from the sword, and they became servants to him and to his sons until the establishment of the kingdom of Persia, ²¹ to fulfil the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had enjoyed its sabbaths. All the days that it lay desolate it kept sabbath, to fulfil seventy years.

22 Now in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accomplished, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia so that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom and also put it in writing: ²³ "Thus says Cyrus king of Persia, 'The LORD, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has charged me to build him a house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah. Whoever is among you of all his people, may the LORD his God be with him. Let him go up.'" include the Levites and musicians in his condemnation. 15-16: The Chronicler is fond of the theme of the unheeded prophet (compare 12.5-8; 15.1-8; 19.1-3; 21.12-15; 25.7-9,15-17; Jer.26.20-24; 29.16-20; 35.14-15). 17-21: A condensation of 2 Kg.25.1-21, with additional references to the establishment of the kingdom of Persia (compare v. 22), the prophecies of Jeremiah (compare Jer.25.11-12; 29.10), and the sabbaths (sabbatical years; compare Lev. 25.1-7; 26.27-39). 22-23: This note of hope is reproduced here from what immediately follows, Ezra 1.1-3, where it more properly belongs. In the work of this author, 1 and 2 Chronicles portray the downfall, Ezra and Nehemiah the restoration of God's people. In the present arrangement of the Hebrew Old Testament, 2 Chronicles is the last book; apparently an editor added these verses so that the Old Testament would not end on a note of doom (compare 2 Kg.25.27-30 and see note there).

THE BOOK OF EZRA

Anciently several books circulated under the name of Ezra, not only our Ezra and Nehemiah as a single book, but others now preserved in the Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha. Our Ezra-Nehemiah is by the Chronicler (see Introduction to 1 Chronicles), prepared as a supplement to Chronicles on the basis of Hebrew and Aramaic documents, memoirs of Nehemiah, a memorial of Ezra, genealogies, and archives. Chronicles ends with the destruction of Jerusalem and the carrying away of treasure and captives. This supplement, the first verses of which appear also at the end of Chronicles, was written to tell how some returned from captivity and labored at restoring religion at a restored temple in a refortified Jerusalem (see "Survey of . . . Bible Lands," § 13). Among the exiles, religion, their strong bond of unity, had developed; whereas among those who remained and had mingled largely with the local and incoming peoples, religion had declined. During the exile religious interest had concentrated particularly on the laws associated with the name of Moses, and had fostered that exclusiveness which became so characteristic of Judaism. Thus the returned exiles were concerned not only with reconstruction of altar, temple, and city, but with social and religious problems, freeing the community of foreign elements, and establishing religious practice in stricter conformity to their understanding of Mosaic law. To the Chronicler the returned exiles were a godly remnant with a religious mission.

There seem to have been four stages of the return: (1) a return under Cyrus (about 538 B.C.) led by Sheshbazzar, who commenced rebuilding the temple but, under local opposition, had to leave it unfinished; (2) a return under Darius I (521-485) led by Zerubbabel and Jeshua, who also encountered opposition but, with encouragement from the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, completed the temple; (3) a group led by Nehemiah who came twice under Artaxerxes I (464-423) to build the walls of Jerusalem, still against opposition from the local groups, and to attempt to establish purity of community and worship, only to find, on returning for a second period of administration, his social and religious reforms undone; (4) a return under Artaxerxes II (404-358) led by Ezra, who brought a codification of the Mosaic law and found a community which had again backslidden.

The text of the Chronicler's supplement has been dislocated in transmission, some of the Nehemiah material appearing in Ezra, and Ezra material in Nehemiah, so that it no longer reads chronologically. Often the order is better preserved in the apocryphal book I Esdras. The books of Ezra and Nehemiah are more intelligible if read in the order Ezra ch. 1; 2.1-70 (Neh.7.6-73a); 3.1-4.6; 4.24-6.22; 4.7-23; Neh.1.1-7.5; chs. 11-13; 9.38-10.39; Ezra chs. 7-10; Neh.8.1-9.37. An editor about 300 B.C., faced with this textual confusion, endeavored to ease it by supplying connecting sentences and by insertions, such as the name of Nehemiah in Neh.8.9 and Ezra in Neh.12.26,36.

IN THE FIRST YEAR OF CYRUS KING OF Persia, that the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accomplished, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia so that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom and also put it in writing:

2 "Thus says Cyrus king of Persia: The LORD, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has charged me to build him a house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah. ³ Whoever is among you of all his people, may his God be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah, and rebuild the house of the LORD, the God of Israel—he is the God who is in Jerusalem; ⁴ and let each survivor, in whatever place he sojourns, be assisted by the men of his place with silver and gold, with goods and with beasts, besides freewill offerings for the house of God which is in Jerusalem."

1.1-4: Cyrus' decree. His first year at Babylon was 538 B.C., and his proclamation seemed the fulfillment of Jer.29.10 (2 Chr.36.21) under divine direction (Is.44.28; 45.1-3). 2-3: In his inscriptions Cyrus shows interest in restoring temples. To him the LORD is the local deity of Jerusalem (6.12), whose temple was destroyed in 586 B.C. by Nebuchadnezzar (5.12).

5 Then rose up the heads of the fathers' houses of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests and the Levites, every one whose spirit God had stirred to go up to rebuild the house of the LORD which is in Jerusalem; ⁶ and all who were about them aided them with vessels of silver, with gold, with goods, with beasts, and with costly wares, besides all that was freely offered. ⁷ Cyrus the king also brought out the vessels of the house of the LORD which Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from Jerusalem and placed in the house of his gods. ⁸ Cyrus king of Persia brought these out in charge of Mithredath the treasurer, who counted them out to Shesh-baz'zar the prince of Judah. ⁹ And this was the number of them: a thousand^a basins of gold, a thousand basins of silver, twenty-nine censers, ¹⁰ thirty bowls of gold, two thousand^b four hundred and ten bowls of silver, and a thousand other vessels; ¹¹ all the vessels of gold and of silver were five thousand four hundred and sixty-nine.^c All these did Shesh-baz'zar bring up, when the exiles were brought up from Babylonia to Jerusalem.

2 Now these were the people of the province who came up out of the captivity of those exiles whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried captive to Babylonia; they returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his own town. ² They came with Zerub'babel, Jeshua, Nehemi'ah, Serai'ah, Re-el-ai'ah, Mor'decai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigva'i, Rehum, and Ba'anah.

2.1-70: A census of the first return (= Neh.7.6-73a), covering five groups: leaders, laymen, temple officials, those of dubious genealogy, servants, and animals. Sons of and men of are cho, three hundred and forty-five.

³⁵ The sons of Sena'ah, three thousand six hundred and thirty.

⁵⁵ The sons of Solomon's servants: the sons of So'tai, the sons of Hasso'phereth, the sons of Peru'da, ⁵⁶ the sons of Ja'alalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel, ⁵⁷ the sons of Shephati'ah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Po'chereth-hazzeba'im, and the sons of Ami.

⁵⁸ All the temple servants^d and the sons of Solomon's servants were three hundred and ninety-two.

⁵⁹ The following were those who came up from Tel-me'lah, Tel-har'sha, Cherub, Addan, and Immer, though they could not prove their fathers' houses or their descent, whether they belonged to Israel: ⁶⁰ the sons of Delai'ah, the sons of Tobi'ah, and the sons of Neko'da, six hundred and fifty-two. ⁶¹ Also, of the sons of the priests: the sons of Habai'ah, the sons of Hakkoz, and the sons of Barzil'lai (who had taken a wife from the daughters of Barzil'lai the Gileadite, and was called by their name). ⁶² These sought their registration among those enrolled in the genealogies, but they were not found there, and so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean; ⁶³ the governor told them that they were not to partake of the most holy food, until there should be a priest to consult Urim and Thummim.

⁶⁴ The whole assembly together was forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty, ⁶⁵ besides their menservants and maidservants, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven; and they had two hundred male and female singers. ⁶⁶ Their horses were seven hundred and thirty-six, their mules were two hundred and forty-five, ⁶⁷ their camels were four hundred and thirty-five, and their asses were six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

⁶⁸ Some of the heads of families, when they came to the house of the LORD which is in Jerusalem, made freewill offerings for the house of God, to erect it on its site; ⁶⁹ according to their ability they gave to the treasury of the work sixty-one thousand darics of 70 The priests, the Levites, and some of the people lived in Jerusalem and its vicinity;^e and the singers, the gatekeepers, and the temple servants lived in their towns, and all Israel in their towns.

3 When the seventh month came, and the sons of Israel were in the towns, the people gathered as one man to Jerusalem. ² Then arose Jeshua the son of Jo'zadak, with his fellow priests, and Zerub'babel the son of She-al'ti-el with his kinsmen, and they built the altar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt offerings upon it, as it is written in the law of Moses the man of God. ³ They set the altar in its place, for fear was upon them because of the peoples of the lands, and they offered burnt offerings upon it to the LORD, burnt offerings morning and evening. ⁴ And they kept the feast of booths, as it is written, and offered the daily burnt offerings by number according to the ordinance, as each day required, ⁵ and after that the continual burnt offerings, the offerings at the new moon and at all the appointed feasts of the LORD, and the offerings of every one who made a freewill offering to the LORD. ⁶ From the first day of the seventh month they began to offer burnt offerings to the LORD. But the foundation of the temple of the LORD was not yet laid. ⁷ So they gave money to the masons and the carpenters, and food, drink, and oil to the Sido'nians and the Tyrians to bring cedar trees from Lebanon to the sea, to Joppa, according to the grant which they had from Cyrus king of Persia.

8 Now in the second year of their coming to the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second month, Zerub'babel the son of She-al'ti-el and Jeshua the son of Jo'zadak made a beginning, together with the rest of their brethren, the priests and the Levites and all who had come to Jerusalem from the captivity. They appointed the Levites, from twenty years old and upward, to have the oversight of the work of the house of the LORD. ⁹ And Jeshua with his sons and his kinsmen, and Kad'mi-el and his sons, the sons of Judah, together took the oversight of the workmen in the house of God, along with the sons of Hen'adad and the Levites, their sons and kinsmen.

10 And when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of the LORD, the priests in their vestments came forward with trumpets, and the Levites, the sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise the LORD, according to the directions of David king of Israel; ¹¹ and they sang responsively, praising and giving thanks to the LORD, "For he is good, for his steadfast love endures for ever toward Israel."

And all the people shouted with a great shout, when they praised the LORD, because the foundation of the house of the LORD was laid. ¹² But many of the priests and Levites and heads of fathers' houses, old men who had seen the first house, wept with a loud voice when they saw the foundation of this house being laid, though many shouted aloud for joy;¹³ so that the people could not distinguish the sound of the joyful shout from the sound of the people's weeping, for the people shouted with a great shout, and the sound was heard afar.

4 Now when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the returned exiles were building a temple to the LORD, the God of Israel,² they approached Zerub'babel and the heads of fathers' houses and said to them, "Let us build with you; for we worship your God as you do, and we have been sacrificing to him ever since the days of E'sar-had'don king of Assyria who brought us here."³ But Zerub'babel, Jeshua, and the rest of the heads of fathers' houses in Israel said to them, "You have nothing to do with us in building a house to our God; but we alone will build to the LORD, the God of Israel, as King Cyrus the king of Persia has commanded us."

4 Then the people of the land discouraged the people of Judah, and made them afraid to build,⁵ and hired counselors against them to frustrate their purpose, all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius king of Persia.

17 The king sent an answer: "To Rehum the commander and Shim'shai the scribe and the rest of their associates who live in Sama'ria and in the rest of the province Beyond the River, greeting. And now ¹⁸ the letter which you sent to us has been plainly read before me. ¹⁹ And I made a decree, and search has been made, and it has been found that this city from of old has risen against kings, and that rebellion and sedition have been made in it. ²⁰ And mighty kings have been over Jerusalem, who ruled over the whole province Beyond the River, to whom tribute, custom, and toll were paid. ²¹ Therefore make a decree that these men be made to cease, and that this city be not rebuilt, until a decree is made by me. ²² And take care not to be slack in this matter; why should damage grow to the hurt of the king?"

23 Then, when the copy of King Ar-ta-xerxes' letter was read before Rehum and Shim'shai the scribe and their associates, they went in haste to the Jews at Jerusalem and by force and power made them cease. ²⁴ Then the work on the house of God which is in Jerusalem stopped; and it ceased until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

5 Now the prophets, Haggai and Zechari'ah the son of Iddo, prophesied to the Jews who were in Judah and Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel who was over them. ² Then Zerub'babel the son of She-al'ti-el and Jeshua the son of Jo'zadak arose and began to rebuild the house of God which is in Jerusalem; and with them were the prophets of God, helping them.

3 At the same time Tat'tenai the governor of the province Beyond the River and She'thar-boz'enai and their associates came to them and spoke to them thus, "Who gave you a decree to build this house and to finish this structure?" ⁴ They^s also asked them this, "What are the names of the men who are building this building?" ⁵ But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews, and they did not stop them till a report should reach Darius and then answer be returned by letter concerning it.

It is being built with huge stones, and timber is laid in the walls; this work goes on diligently and prospers in their hands. ⁹ Then we asked those elders and spoke to them thus, 'Who gave you a decree to build this house and to finish this structure?' ¹⁰ We also asked them their names, for your information, that we might write down the names of the men at their head. ¹¹ And this was their reply to us: 'We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we are rebuilding the house that was built many years ago, which a great king of Israel built and finished. ¹² But because our fathers had angered the God of heaven, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, the Chaldean, who destroyed this house and carried away the people to Babylonia. ¹³ However in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, Cyrus the king made a decree that this house of God should be rebuilt. ¹⁴ And the gold and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar had taken out of the temple that was in Jerusalem and brought into the temple of Babylon, these Cyrus the king took out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered to one whose name was Shesh-baz'zar, whom he had made governor; ¹⁵ and he said to him, "Take these vessels, go and put them in the temple which is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be rebuilt on its site." ¹⁶ Then this Shesh-baz'zar came and laid the foundations of the house of God which is in Jerusalem; and from that time until now it has been in building, and it is not yet finished.' ¹⁷ Therefore, if it seem good to the king, let search be made in the royal archives there in Babylon, to see whether a decree was issued by Cyrus the king for the rebuilding of this house of God in Jerusalem. And let the king send us his pleasure in this matter."

6 Then Darius the king made a decree, and search was made in Babylonia, in the house of the archives where the documents were stored. ² And in Ecbat'ana, the capital which is in the province of Media, a scroll was found on which this was written: "A record. ³ In the first year of Cyrus the king, Cyrus the king issued a decree: Concerning the house of God at Jerusalem, let the house be rebuilt, the place where sacrifices are offered and burnt offerings are brought; its height shall be sixty cubits and its breadth sixty cubits, ⁴ with three courses of great stones and one course of timber; let the cost be paid from the royal treasury. ⁵ And also let the gold and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple that is in Jerusalem and brought to Babylon, be restored and brought back to the temple which is in Jerusalem, each to its place; you shall put them in the house of God.

6 "Now therefore, Tat'tenai, governor of the province Beyond the River, She'thar-boz'enai, and your associates the governors who are in the province Beyond the River, keep away; ⁷ let the work on this house of God alone; let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews rebuild this house of God on its site. ⁸ Moreover I make a decree regarding what you shall do for these elders of the Jews for the rebuilding of this house of God; the cost is to be paid to these men in full and without delay from the royal revenue, the tribute of the province from Beyond the River. ⁹ And whatever is needed—young bulls, rams, or sheep for burnt offerings to the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, or oil, as the priests at Jerusalem require—let that be given to them day by day without fail, ¹⁰ that they may offer pleasing sacrifices to the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king and his sons. ¹¹ Also I make a decree that if any one alters this edict, a beam shall be pulled out of his house, and he shall be impaled upon it, and his house shall be made a dunghill. ¹² May the God who has caused his name to dwell there overthrow any king or people that shall put forth a hand to alter this, or to destroy this house of God which is in Jerusalem. I Darius make a decree; let it be done with all diligence."

13 Then, according to the word sent by Darius the king, Tat'tenai, the governor of the province Beyond the River, She'thar-boz'enai, and their associates did with all diligence what of Babylon would be that of Marduk. 17: Royal archives, the king's treasury of 7.20; compare 6.1. 6.2: Ecbatana was the king's summer residence. 7: Governor probably means Zerubbabel (see Hag.2.21). 9: Provision is made for the burnt offering (Lev. ch. 1), meal offering, (Lev.2.1-13), and drink offering (Lev.23.13). 11: The punishment for interference was impalement, on which see Est.2.23; 9.14; Herodotus, Hist. III, 159. To make a house a dunghill was the limit

Darius the king had ordered. ¹⁴ And the elders of the Jews built and prospered, through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet and Zechari'ah the son of Iddo. They finished their building by command of the God of Israel and by decree of Cyrus and Darius and Ar-ta-xerx'es king of Persia; ¹⁵ and this house was finished on the third day of the month of Adar, in the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

16 And the people of Israel, the priests and the Levites, and the rest of the returned exiles, celebrated the dedication of this house of God with joy. ¹⁷ They offered at the dedication of this house of God one hundred bulls, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs, and as a sin offering for all Israel twelve he-goats, according to the number of the tribes of Israel. ¹⁸ And they set the priests in their divisions and the Levites in their courses, for the service of God at Jerusalem, as it is written in the book of Moses.

19 On the fourteenth day of the first month the returned exiles kept the passover. ²⁰ For the priests and the Levites had purified themselves together; all of them were clean. So they killed the passover lamb for all the returned exiles, for their fellow priests, and for themselves; ²¹ it was eaten by the people of Israel who had returned from exile, and also by every one who had joined them and separated himself from the pollutions of the peoples of the land to worship the LORD, the God of Israel. ²² And they kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with joy; for the LORD had made them joyful, and had turned the heart of the king of Assyria to them, so that he aided them in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

7 Now after this, in the reign of Ar-ta-xerx'es king of Persia, Ezra the son of Serai'ah, son of Azari'ah, son of Hilki'ah, ² son of Shallum, son of Zaddok, son of Ahi'tub, ³ son of Amari'ah, son of Azari'ah, son of Merai'oth, ⁴ son of Zerahi'ah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki, ⁵ son of Abi'shu-a, son of Phin'chas, son of Elea'zar, son of Aaron the chief priest— ⁶ this Ezra went up from Babylonia. He was a scribe skilled in the law of Moses which the LORD the God of Israel had given; and the king granted him all that he asked, for the hand of the LORD his God was upon him.

7 And there went up also to Jerusalem, in the seventh year of Ar-ta-xerx'es the king, some of the people of Israel, and some of the priests and Levites, the singers and gatekeepers, and the temple servants. ⁸ And he came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was in the seventh year of the king; ⁹ for on the first day of the first month he began^b to go up from Babylonia, and on the first day of the fifth month he came to Jerusalem, for the good hand of his God was upon him. ¹⁰ For Ezra had set his heart to study the law of the LORD, and to do it, and to teach his statutes and ordinances in Israel.

Almost one hundred and twenty years have elapsed when, under Artaxerxes II (404-358 B.C.), Ezra, with royal authority, led to Jerusalem another group comprising the same classes as the earlier group. Ezra's primary interest was in the code of the law (vv. 6,10,14).

priest, the scribe, learned in matters of the commandments of the LORD and his statutes for Israel: ¹² "Ar-ta-xerx'es, king of kings, to Ezra the priest, the scribe of the law of the God of heaven.^x And now ¹³ I make a decree that any one of the people of Israel or their priests or Levites in my kingdom, who freely offers to go to Jerusalem, may go with you. ¹⁴ For you are sent by the king and his seven counselors to make inquiries about Judah and Jerusalem according to the law of your God, which is in your hand, ¹⁵ and also to convey the silver and gold which the king and his counselors have freely offered to the God of Israel, whose dwelling is in Jerusalem, ¹⁶ with all the silver and gold which you shall find in the whole province of Babylonia, and with the freewill offerings of the people and the priests, vowed willingly for the house of their God which is in Jerusalem. ¹⁷ With this money, then, you shall with all diligence buy bulls, rams, and lambs, with their cereal offerings and their drink offerings, and you shall offer them upon the altar of the house of your God which is in Jerusalem. ¹⁸ Whatever seems good to you and your brethren to do with the rest of the silver and gold, you may do, according to the will of your God. ¹⁹ The vessels that have been given you for the service of the house of your God, you shall deliver before the God of Jerusalem. ²⁰ And whatever else is required for the house of your God, which you have occasion to provide, you may provide it out of the king's treasury.

of wine, a hundred baths of oil, and salt without prescribing how much. ²³ Whatever is commanded by the God of heaven, let it be done in full for the house of the God of heaven, lest his wrath be against the realm of the king and his sons. ²⁴ We also notify you that it shall not be lawful to impose tribute, custom, or toll upon any one of the priests, the Levites, the singers, the doorkeepers, the temple servants, or other servants of this house of God.

²⁵ "And you, Ezra, according to the wisdom of your God which is in your hand, appoint magistrates and judges who may judge all the people in the province Beyond the River, all such as know the laws of your God; and those who do not know them, you shall teach. ²⁶ Whoever will not obey the law of your God and the law of the king, let judgment be strictly executed upon him, whether for death or for banishment or for confiscation of his goods or for imprisonment."

¹⁵ I gathered them to the river that runs to Aha'va, and there we encamped three days. As I reviewed the people and the priests, I found there none of the sons of Levi. ¹⁶ Then I sent for Elie'zer, Ar'i-el, Shemai'ah, Elna'than, Jarib, Elna'than, Nathan, Zechari'ah, and Meshul'lam, leading men, and for Joi'arib and Elna'than, who were men of insight, ¹⁷ and sent them to Iddo, the leading man at the place Casiphi'a, telling them what to say to Iddo and his brethren the temple servants^k at the place Casiphi'a, namely, to send us ministers for the house of our God. ¹⁸ And by the good hand of our God upon us, they brought us a man of discretion, of the sons of Mahli the son of Levi, son of Israel, namely Sherebi'ah with his sons and kinsmen, eighteen; ¹⁹ also Hashabi'ah and with him Jeshai'ah of the sons of Merar'i, with his kinsmen and their sons, twenty; ²⁰ besides two hundred and twenty of the temple servants, whom David and his officials had set apart to attend the Levites. These were all mentioned by name.

²¹ Then I proclaimed a fast there, at the river Aha'va, that we might humble ourselves before our God, to seek from him a straight way for ourselves, our children, and all our goods. ²² For I was ashamed to ask the king for a band of soldiers and horsemen to protect us against the enemy on our way; since we had told the king, "The hand of our God is for good upon all that seek him, and the power of his wrath is against all that forsake him." ²³ So we fasted and besought our God for this, and he listened to our entreaty.

²⁴ Then I set apart twelve of the leading priests: Sherebi'ah, Hashabi'ah, and ten of their kinsmen with them. ²⁵ And I weighed out to them the silver and the gold and the vessels, the offering for the house of our God which the king and his counselors and his lords and all Israel there present had offered; ²⁶ I weighed out into their hand six hundred and fifty talents of silver, and silver vessels worth a hundred talents, and a hundred talents of gold, ²⁷ twenty bowls of gold worth a thousand darics, and two vessels of fine bright bronze as precious as gold. ²⁸ And I said to them, "You are holy to the LORD, and the vessels are holy; and the silver and the gold are a free-will offering to the LORD, the God of your fathers. ²⁹ Guard them and keep them until you weigh them before the chief priests and the Levites and the heads of fathers' houses in Israel at Jerusalem, within the chambers of the house of the LORD." ³⁰ So the priests and the Levites took over the weight of the silver and the gold and the vessels, to bring them to Jerusalem, to the house of our God.

³¹ Then we departed from the river Aha'va on the twelfth day of the first month, to go to Jerusalem; the hand of our God was upon us, and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy and from ambushes by the way. ³² We came to Jerusalem, and there we remained three days. ³³ On the fourth day, within the house of our God, the silver and the gold and the vessels were weighed into the hands of Mer'emoth the priest, son of Uri'ah, and with him was Elea'zar the son of Phin'ehas, and with them were the Levites, Jo'zabad the son of Jeshua and No-adi'ah the son of Bin'nui. ³⁴ The whole was counted and weighed, and the weight of everything was recorded.

³⁵ At that time those who had come from captivity, the returned exiles, offered burnt offerings to the God of Israel, twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and as a sin offering twelve he-goats; all this was a burnt offering to the LORD. ³⁶ They also delivered the king's commissions to the king's satraps and to the governors of the province Beyond the River; and they aided the people and the house of God.

¶ After these things had been done, the officials approached me and said, "The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not separated themselves from the peoples of the lands with their abominations, from the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Per'izzites, the Jeb'usites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites. ² For they have taken some of their daughters to be wives for themselves and for their sons; so that the holy race has mixed itself with the peoples of the lands. And in this faithlessness the hand of the officials and chief men has been foremost."

³ When I heard this, I rent my garments and my mantle, and pulled hair from my head and beard, and sat appalled. ⁴ Then all who trembled at the words of the God of Israel, because of the faithlessness of the returned exiles, gathered round me while I sat appalled until the evening sacrifice. ⁵ And at the evening sacrifice I rose from my fasting, with my garments and my mantle rent, and fell upon my knees and spread out my hands to the LORD my God, ⁶ saying:

"O my God, I am ashamed and blush to lift my face to thee, my God, for our iniquities have risen higher than our heads, and our guilt has mounted up to the heavens. ⁷ From the days of our fathers to this day we have been in great guilt; and for our iniquities we, our kings, and our priests have been given into the hand of the kings of the lands, to the sword, to captivity, to plundering, and to utter shame, as at this day. ⁸ But now for a brief moment favor has been shown by the LORD our God, to leave us a remnant, and to give us a secure hold¹ within his holy place, that our God may brighten our eyes and grant us a little reviving in our bondage. ⁹ For we are bondmen; yet our God has not forsaken us in our bondage, but has extended to us his steadfast love before the kings of Persia, to grant us some reviving to set up the house of our God,

The older codes had not specially discouraged inter-marriages, but experience during the exile, which had developed the principle of exclusiveness, made this contamination of the holy race a major problem for those who returned under Zerubbabel (4.3; 6.21), under Nehemiah (Neh.10.28-30; 13.3,23-30), and now under Ezra, who found priests, Levites, and chief officials involved therein. 1. This list of peoples is only a formula (Dt.7.1; Neh.13.23). 2: Holy race, because as dedicated to God they were separated (Ex.19.5,6; Is.62.12).

10 "And now, O our God, what shall we say after this? For we have forsaken thy commandments, ¹¹ which thou didst command by thy servants the prophets, saying, 'The land which you are entering, to take possession of it, is a land unclean with the pollutions of the peoples of the lands, with their abominations which have filled it from end to end with their uncleanness.

¹² Therefore give not your daughters to their sons, neither take their daughters for your sons, and never seek their peace or prosperity, that you may be strong, and eat the good of the land, and leave it for an inheritance to your children for ever.' ¹³ And after all that has come upon us for our evil deeds and for our great guilt, seeing that thou, our God, hast punished us less than our iniquities deserved and hast given us such a remnant as this, ¹⁴ shall we break thy commandments again and intermarry with the peoples who practice these abominations? Wouldst thou not be angry with us till thou wouldst consume us, so that there should be no remnant, nor any to escape? ¹⁵ O LORD the God of Israel, thou art just, for we are left a remnant that has escaped, as at this day. Behold, we are before thee in our guilt, for none can stand before thee because of this."

10 While Ezra prayed and made confession, weeping and casting himself down before the house of God, a very great assembly of men, women, and children, gathered to him out of Israel; for the people wept bitterly. ² And Shecani'ah the son of Jehi'el, of the sons of Elam, addressed Ezra: "We have broken faith with our God and have married foreign women from the peoples of the land, but even now there is hope for Israel in spite of this. ³ Therefore let us make a covenant with our God to put away all these wives and their children, according to the counsel of my lord and of those who tremble at the commandment of our God; and let it be done according to the law. ⁴ Arise, for it is your task, and we are with you; be strong and do it." ⁵ Then Ezra arose and made the leading priests and Levites and all Israel take oath that they would do as had been said. So they took the oath.

6 Then Ezra withdrew from before the house of God, and went to the chamber of Jehoha'nán the son of Eli'ashib, where he spent the night,ⁿ neither eating bread nor drinking water; for he was mourning over the faithlessness of the exiles. ⁷ And a proclamation was made throughout Judah and Jerusalem to all the returned exiles that they should assemble at Jerusalem, ⁸ and that if any one did not come within three days, by order of the officials and the elders all his property should be forfeited, and he himself banned from the congregation of the exiles.

9 Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin assembled at Jerusalem within the three days; it was the ninth month, on the twentieth day of the month. And all the people sat in the open square before the house of God, trembling because of this matter and because of the heavy rain. ¹⁰ And Ezra the priest stood up and said to them, "You have trespassed and married foreign women, and so increased the guilt of Israel. ¹¹ Now then make confession to the LORD the God of your fathers, and do his will; separate yourselves from the peoples

¹² Then all the assembly answered with a loud voice, "It is so; we must do as you have said. ¹³ But the people are many, and it is a time of heavy rain; we cannot stand in the open. Nor is this a work for one day or for two; for we have greatly transgressed in this matter. ¹⁴ Let our officials stand for the whole assembly; let all in our cities who have taken foreign wives come at appointed times, and with them the elders and judges of every city, till the fierce wrath of our God over this matter be averted from us." ¹⁵ Only Jonathan the son of As'ahel and Jahzei'ah the son of Tikvah opposed this, and Meshul'lam and Shab'bethai the Levite supported them.

Since the books of Ezra and Nehemiah are really one book, prepared as a supplement to 1 and 2 Chronicles, and since parts of Nehemiah are apparently misplaced and belong in Ezra, problems of origin, structure, and historical background are discussed in the Introduction to Ezra. It is sufficient to say here that the book which we call Nehemiah relates the return of Nehemiah for two periods of governorship over Judah during the reign of Artaxerxes I (426–424 B.C.). The first return was in 445/444. Nehemiah rebuilt the walls of Jerusalem and instituted social and religious reforms. An outstanding aspect of Nehemiah's religious life was his dependence on God and his frequent prayers to him (1.4–10; 2.18; 4.4,20; 5.9,19; 6.14; 13.14,31).

THE WORDS OF NEHEMI'AH THE son of Hacali'ah.

Now it happened in the month of Chislev, in the twentieth year, as I was in Susa the capital, ² that Hana'ni, one of my brethren, came with certain men out of Judah; and I asked them concerning the Jews that survived, who had escaped exile, and concerning Jerusalem. ³ And they said to me, "The survivors there in the province who escaped exile are in great trouble and shame; the wall of Jerusalem is broken down, and its gates are destroyed by fire."

4 When I heard these words I sat down and wept, and mourned for days; and I continued fasting and praying before the God of heaven. ⁵ And I said, "O LORD God of heaven, the great and terrible God who keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments; ⁶ let thy ear be attentive, and thy eyes open, to hear the prayer of thy servant which I now pray before thee day and night for the people of Israel thy servants, confessing the sins of the people of Israel, which we have sinned against thee. Yea, I and my father's house have sinned. ⁷ We have acted very corruptly against thee, and have not kept the commandments, the statutes, and the ordinances which thou didst command thy servant Moses. ⁸ Remember the word which thou didst command thy servant Moses, saying, 'If you are unfaithful, I will scatter you among the peoples; ⁹ but if you return to me and keep my commandments and do them, though your dispersed be under the farthest skies, I will gather them thence and bring them to the place which I have chosen, to make my name dwell there.' ¹⁰ They are thy servants and thy people, whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power and by thy strong hand. ¹¹ O Lord, let thy ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants who delight to fear thy name; and give success to thy servant today, and grant him mercy in the sight of this man."

Now I was cupbearer to the king.

2 In the month of Nisan, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes, when wine was before him, I took up the wine and gave it to the king. Now I had not been sad in his presence. ² And the king said to me, "Why is your face sad, seeing you are not sick? This is nothing else but sadness of the heart." Then I was very Nehemiah was a palace servant of Artaxerxes I at Susa in Elam, winter residence of the Persian kings (Est.1.2,5; Dan.8.2). 1.1: Chislev, November–December. Twentieth year must mean nineteenth, compare 2.1. 2: The men out of Judah seem to have been visitors to the capital. 4: Mourned, compare 9.3–5; Ezr.10.6. 6: He makes confession for the people just as Ezra does. 8–9: There is no such passage in our Pentateuch, but see Dt.30.1–5. The place is Jerusalem. 11: As this man means Artaxerxes, this verse probably belongs after 2.4. Cupbearer, i.e. butler, who sampled and poured wine for the king, an honorable and privileged office.

2.1–20: Nehemiah's mission. Artaxerxes' twentieth year was 445–444 B.C. 5: Sepulchres was much afraid. ³ I said to the king, "Let the king live for ever! Why should not my face be sad, when the city, the place of my fathers' sepulchres, lies waste, and its gates have been destroyed by fire?" ⁴ Then the king said to me, "For what do you make request?" So I prayed to the God of heaven. ⁵ And I said to the king, "If it pleases the king, and if your servant has found favor in your sight, that you send me to Judah, to the city of my fathers' sepulchres, that I may rebuild it." ⁶ And the king said to me (the queen sitting beside him), "How long will you be gone, and when will you return?" So it pleased the king to send me; and I set him a time. ⁷ And I said to the king, "If it pleases the king, let letters be given me to the governors of the province Beyond the River, that they may let me pass through until I come to Judah; ⁸ and a letter to Asaph, the keeper of the king's forest, that he may give me timber to make beams for the gates of the fortress of the temple, and for the wall of the city, and for the house which I shall occupy." And the king granted me what I asked, for the good hand of my God was upon me.

⁹ Then I came to the governors of the province Beyond the River, and gave them the king's letters. Now the king had sent with me officers of the army and horsemen. ¹⁰ But when Sanbal'lat the Hor'onite and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, heard this, it displeased them greatly that some one had come to seek the welfare of the children of Israel.

¹¹ So I came to Jerusalem and was there three days. ¹² Then I arose in the night, I and a few men with me; and I told no one what my God had put into my heart to do for Jerusalem. There was no beast with me but the beast on which I rode. ¹³ I went out by night by the Valley Gate to the Jackal's Well and to the Dung Gate, and I inspected the walls of Jerusalem which were broken down and its gates which had been destroyed by fire. ¹⁴ Then I went on to the Fountain Gate and to the King's Pool; but there was no place for the beast that was under me to pass. ¹⁵ Then I went up in the night by the valley and inspected the wall; and I turned back and entered by the Valley Gate, and so returned. ¹⁶ And the officials did not know where I had gone or what I was doing; and I had not yet told the Jews, the priests, the nobles, the officials, and the rest that were to do the work.

¹⁷ Then I said to them, "You see the trouble we are in, how Jerusalem lies in ruins with its gates burned. Come, let us build the wall of Jerusalem, that we may no longer suffer disgrace." ¹⁸ And I told them of the hand of my God which had been upon me for good, and also of the words which the king had spoken to me. And they said, "Let us rise up and build." So they strengthened their hands for the good work. ¹⁹ But when Sanbal'lat the Hor'onite and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, and Geshem the Arab heard of it, they derided us and despised us and said, "What is this thing that you are doing? Are you rebelling against the king?" ²⁰ Then I replied to them, "The God of heaven will make us prosper, and we his servants will arise and build; but you have no portion or right or memorial in Jerusalem."

3 Then Eli'ashib the high priest rose up with his brethren the priests and they built the Sheep Gate. 4^g Now when Sanbal'lat heard that we were building the wall, he was angry and greatly enraged, and he ridiculed the Jews. ² And he said in the presence of his brethren and of the army of Sama'ria, "What are these feeble Jews doing? Will they restore things? Will they sacrifice? Will they finish up in a day? Will they revive the stones out of the heaps of rubbish, and burned ones at that?" ³ Tobi'ah the Ammonite was by him, and he said,

"Yes, what they are building—if a fox goes up on it he will break down their stone wall!" ⁴ Hear, O our God, for we are despised; turn back their taunt upon their own heads, and give them up to be plundered in a land where they are captives. ⁵ Do not cover their guilt, and let not their sin be blotted out from thy sight; for they have provoked thee to anger before the builders.

⁷ But when Sanbal'lat and Tobi'ah and the Arabs and the Ammonites and the Ash'dodites heard that the repairing of the walls of Jerusalem was going forward and that the breaches were beginning to be closed, they were very angry; ⁸ and they all plotted together to come and fight against Jerusalem and to cause confusion in it. ⁹ And we prayed to our God, and set a guard as a protection against them day and night.

¹⁰ But Judah said, "The strength of the burden-bearers is failing, and there is much rubbish; we are not able to work on the wall." ¹¹ And our enemies said, "They will not know or see till we come into the midst of them and kill them and stop the work." ¹² When the Jews who lived by them came they said to us ten times, "From all the places where they liveⁱ they will come up against us." ¹³ So in the lowest parts of the space behind the wall, in open places, I stationed the people according to their families, with their swords, their spears, and their bows. ¹⁴ And I looked, and arose, and said to the nobles and to the officials and to the rest of the people, "Do not be afraid of them. fight for your brethren, your sons, your daughters, your wives, and your homes."

15 When our enemies heard that it was known to us and that God had frustrated their plan, we all returned to the wall, each to his work. ¹⁶ From that day on, half of my servants worked on construction, and half held the spears, shields, bows, and coats of mail; and the leaders stood behind all the house of Judah, ¹⁷ who were building on the wall. Those who carried burdens were laden in such a way that each with one hand labored on the work and with the other held his weapon. ¹⁸ And each of the builders had his sword girded at his side while he built. The man who sounded the trumpet was beside me. ¹⁹ And I said to the nobles and to the officials and to the rest of the people, "The work is great and widely spread, and we are separated on the wall, far from one another. ²⁰ In the place where you hear the sound of the trumpet, rally to us there. Our God will fight for us."

21 So we labored at the work, and half of them held the spears from the break of dawn till the stars came out. ²² I also said to the people at that time, "Let every man and his servant pass the night within Jerusalem, that they may be a guard for us by night and may labor by day." ²³ So neither I nor my brethren nor my servants nor the men of the guard who followed me, none of us took off our clothes; each kept his weapon in his hand.^k

5 Now there arose a great outcry of the people and of their wives against their Jewish brethren. ² For there were those who said, "With our sons and our daughters, we are many; let us get grain, that we may eat and keep alive." ³ There were also those whosaid, "We are mortgaging our fields, our vineyards, and our houses to get grain because of the famine." ⁴ And there were those who said, "We have borrowed money for the king's tax upon our fields and our vineyards. ⁵ Now our flesh is as the flesh of our brethren, our children are as their children; yet we are forcing our sons and our daughters to be slaves, and some of our daughters have already been enslaved; but it is not in our power to help it, for other men have our fields and our vineyards."

6 I was very angry when I heard their outcry and these words. ⁷ I took counsel with myself, and I brought charges against the nobles and the officials. I said to them, "You are exacting interest, each from his brother." And I held a great assembly against them, ⁸ and said to them, "We, as far as we are able, have bought back our Jewish brethren who have been sold to the nations; but you even sell your brethren that they may be sold to us!" They were silent, and could not find a word to say. ⁹ So I said, "The thing that you are doing is not good. Ought you not to walk in the fear of our God to prevent the taunts of the nations our enemies? ¹⁰ Moreover I and my brethren and my servants are lending them money and grain. Let us leave off this interest. ¹¹ Return to them this very day their fields, their vineyards, their olive orchards, and their houses, and the hundredth of money, grain, wine, and oil which you have been exacting of them." ¹² Then they said, "We will restore these and require nothing from them. We will do as you say." And I called the priests, and took an oath of them to do as they had promised. ¹³ I also shook out my lap and said, "So may God shake out every man from his house and from 14 Moreover from the time that I was appointed to be their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year to the thirty-second year of Ar-ta-xerxes the king, twelve years, neither I nor my brethren ate the food allowance of the governor.¹⁵ The former governors who were before me laid heavy burdens upon the people, and took from them food and wine, besides forty shekels of silver. Even their servants lorded it over the people. But I did not do so, because of the fear of God.¹⁶ I also held to the work on this wall, and acquired no land; and all my servants were gathered there for the work.¹⁷ Moreover there were at my table a hundred and fifty men, Jews and officials, besides those who came to us from the nations which were about us.¹⁸ Now that which was prepared for one day was one ox and six choice sheep; fowls likewise were prepared for me, and every ten days skins of wine in abundance; yet with all this I did not demand the food allowance of the governor, because the servitude was heavy upon this people.¹⁹ Remember for my good, O my God, all that I have done for this people.

6 Now when it was reported to Sanbal'lat and Tobi'ah and to Geshem the Arab and to the rest of our enemies that I had built the wall and that there was no breach left in it (although up to that time I had not set up the doors in the gates),² Sanbal'lat and Geshem sent to me, saying, "Come and let us meet together in one of the villages in the plain of Ono." But they intended to do me harm.³ And

I sent messengers to them, saying, "I am doing a great work and I cannot come down. Why should the work stop while I leave it and come down to you?"⁴ And they sent to me four times in this way and I answered them in the same manner.⁵ In the same way Sanbal'lat for the fifth time sent his servant to me with an open letter in his hand.⁶ In it was written, "It is reported among the nations, and Geshem¹ also says it, that you and the Jews intend to rebel; that is why you are building the wall; and you wish to become their king, according to this report.⁷ And you have also set up prophets to proclaim concerning you in Jerusalem, 'There is a king in Judah.' And now it will be reported to the king according to these words. So now come, and let us take counsel together."⁸ Then I sent to him, saying, "No such things as you say have been done, for you are inventing them out of your own mind."⁹ For they all wanted to frighten us, thinking, "Their hands will drop from the work, and it will not be done." But now, O God, strengthen thou my hands.

10 Now when I went into the house of Shemai'ah the son of Delai'ah, son of Mehet'abel, who was shut up, he said, "Let us meet together in the house of God, within the temple, and let us close the doors of the temple; for they are coming to kill you, at night they are coming to kill you."¹¹ But I said, "Should such a man as I flee? And what man such as I could go into the temple and live?^m I will not go in."¹² And I understood, and saw that God had not sent him, but he had pronounced the prophecy against me because Tobi'ah and Sanbal'lat had hired him.¹³ For this purpose he was hired, that I should be afraid and act

¹⁵ So the wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of the month Elul, in fifty-two days. ¹⁶ And when all our enemies heard of it, all the nations round about us were afraidⁿ and fell greatly in their own esteem; for they perceived that this work had been accomplished with the help of our God. ¹⁷ Moreover in those days the nobles of Judah sent many letters to Tobî'ah, and Tobî'ah's letters came to them. ¹⁸ For many in Judah were bound by oath to him, because he was the son-in-law of Shecanî'ah the son of Arah: and his son Jehoha'nân had taken the daughter of Meshul'lam the son of Berechî'ah as his wife. ¹⁹ Also they spoke of his good deeds in my presence, and reported my words to him. And Tobî'ah sent letters to make me afraid.

⁷ Now when the wall had been built and I had set up the doors, and the gatekeepers, the singers; and the Levites had been appointed, ² I gave my brother Hana'ni and Hanani'ah the governor of the castle charge over Jerusalem, for he was a more faithful and God-fearing man than many. ³ And I said to them, "Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until the sun is hot; and while they are still standing guard^o let them shut and bar the doors. Appoint guards from among the inhabitants of Jerusalem, each to his station and each opposite his own house." ⁴ The city was wide and large, but the people within it were few and no houses had been built.

⁵ Then God put it into my mind to assemble the nobles and the officials and the people to be enrolled by genealogy. And I found the book of the genealogy of those who came up at the first, and I found written in it:

⁶⁴ These sought their registration among those enrolled in the genealogies, but it was not found there, so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean; ⁶⁵ the governor told them that they were not to partake of the most holy food, until a priest with Urim and Thummim should arise.

⁶⁶ The whole assembly together was forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty, ⁶⁷ besides their menservants and maidservants, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven; and they had two hundred and forty-five singers, male and female. ⁶⁸ Their horses were seven hundred and thirty-six, their mules two hundred and forty-five,^q ⁶⁹ their camels four hundred and thirty-five,

and their asses six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

70 Now some of the heads of fathers' houses gave to the work. The governor gave to the treasury a thousand darics of gold, fifty basins, five hundred and thirty priests' garments.⁷¹ And some of the heads of fathers' houses gave into the treasury of the work twenty thousand darics of gold and two thousand two hundred minas of silver.⁷² And what the rest of the people gave was twenty thousand darics of gold, two thousand minas of silver, and sixty-seven priests' garments.

And when the seventh month had come, the children of Israel were in 8 their towns.¹ And all the people gathered as one man into the square before the Water Gate; and they told Ezra the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses which the LORD had given to Israel.² And Ezra the priest brought the law before the assembly, both men and women and all who could hear with understanding, on the first day of the seventh month.³ And he read from it facing the square before the Water Gate from early morning until midday, in the presence of the men and the women and those who could understand; and the ears of all the people were attentive to the book of the law.⁴ And Ezra the scribe stood on a wooden pulpit which they had made for the purpose; and beside him stood Mattithi'ah, Shema, Anai'ah, Uri'ah, Hilki'ah, and Ma-asei'ah on his right hand; and Pedai'ah, Mish'a-el, Malchi'jah, Hashum, Hashbad'danah, Zechari'ah, and Meshul'-

lam on his left hand.⁵ And Ezra opened the book in the sight of all the people; for he was above all the people; and when he opened it all the people stood.⁶ And Ezra blessed the LORD, the great God; and all the people answered, "Amen, Amen," lifting up their hands; and they bowed their heads and worshiped the LORD with their faces to the ground.⁷ Also Jeshua, Bani, Sherebi'ah, Jamin, Akkub, Shab'bethai, Hodi'ah, Ma-asei'ah, Keli'ta, Azari'ah, Jo'zabad, Hanan, Pelai'ah, the Levites,⁸ helped the people to understand the law, while the people remained in their places.⁹ And they read from the book, from the law of God, clearly;⁹ and they gave the sense, so that the people understood the reading.

9 And Nehemi'ah, who was the governor, and Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites who taught the people said to all the people, "This day is holy to the LORD your God; do not mourn or weep." For all the people wept when they heard the words of the law.¹⁰ Then he said to them, "Go your way, eat the fat and drink sweet wine and send portions to him for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy to our Lord; and do not be grieved, for the joy of the LORD is your strength."¹¹ So the Levites stilled all the people, saying, "Be quiet, for this day is holy; do not be grieved."¹² And all the people went their way to eat and drink and to send portions and to make great rejoicing, because they had understood the words that were declared to them.

gether to Ezra the scribe in order to study the words of the law. ¹⁴ And they found it written in the law that the LORD had commanded by Moses that the people of Israel should dwell in booths during the feast of the seventh month, ¹⁵ and that they should publish and proclaim in all their towns and in Jerusalem, "Go out to the hills and bring branches of olive, wild olive, myrtle, palm, and other leafy trees to make booths, as it is written." ¹⁶ So the people went out and brought them and made booths for themselves, each on his roof, and in their courts and in the courts of the house of God, and in the square at the Water Gate and in the square at the Gate of E'phraim. ¹⁷ And all the assembly of those who had returned from the captivity made booths and dwelt in the booths; for from the days of Jeshua the son of Nun to that day the people of Israel had not done so. And there was very great rejoicing. ¹⁸ And day by day, from the first day to the last day, he read from the book of the law of God. They kept the feast seven days; and on the eighth day there was a solemn assembly, according to the ordinance.

9 Now on the twenty-fourth day of this month the people of Israel were assembled with fasting and in sackcloth, and with earth upon their heads. ² And the Israelites separated themselves from all foreigners, and stood and confessed their sins and the iniquities of their fathers. ³ And they stood up in their place and read from the book of the law of the LORD their God for a fourth of the day; for another fourth of it they made confession and worshiped the LORD their God. ⁴ Upon the stairs of the Levites stood Jeshua, Bani, Kad'mi-el,

Shebani'ah, Bunni, Sherebi'ah, Bani, and Chena'ni; and they cried with a loud voice to the LORD their God. ⁵ Then the Levites, Jeshua, Kad'mi-el, Bani, Hashabnei'ah, Sherebi'ah, Hodi'ah, Shebani'ah, and Pethahi'ah, said, "Stand up and bless the LORD your God from everlasting to everlasting. Blessed be thy glorious name which is exalted above all blessing and praise."

6 And Ezra said: "Thou art the LORD, thou alone; thou hast made heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all their host, the earth and all that is on it, the seas and all that is in them; and thou preservest all of them; and the host of heaven worships thee. ⁷ Thou art the LORD, the God who didst choose Abram and bring him forth out of Ur of the Chalde'ans and give him the name Abraham; ⁸ and thou didst find his heart faithful before thee, and didst make with him the covenant to give to his descendants the land of the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Amorite, the Per'izzite, the Jeb'usite, and the Gir'gashite; and thou hast fulfilled thy promise, for thou art righteous.

thou didst lead them in the day, and by a pillar of fire in the night to light for them the way in which they should go. ¹³ Thou didst come down upon Mount Sinai, and speak with them from heaven and give them right ordinances and true laws, good statutes and commandments, ¹⁴ and thou didst make known to them thy holy sabbath and command them commandments and statutes and a law by Moses thy servant. ¹⁵ Thou didst give them bread from heaven for their hunger and bring forth water for them from the rock for their thirst, and thou didst tell them to go in to possess the land which thou hadst sworn to give them.

¹⁶ "But they and our fathers acted presumptuously and stiffened their neck and did not obey thy commandments; ¹⁷ they refused to obey, and were not mindful of the wonders which thou didst perform among them; but they stiffened their neck and appointed a leader to return to their bondage in Egypt. But thou art a God ready to forgive, gracious and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love, and didst not forsake them. ¹⁸ Even when they had made for themselves a molten calf and said, 'This is your God who brought you up out of Egypt,' and had committed great blasphemies, ¹⁹ thou in thy great mercies didst not forsake them in the wilderness; the pillar of cloud which led them in the way did not depart from them by day, nor the pillar of fire by night which lighted for them the way by which they should go. ²⁰ Thou gavest thy good Spirit to instruct them, and didst not withhold thy manna from their mouth, and gavest them water for their thirst. ²¹ Forty years didst thou sustain them in the wilderness, and they lacked nothing; their clothes did not wear out and their feet did not swell. ²² And thou didst give them kingdoms and peoples, and didst allot to them every

32 "Now therefore, our God, the great and mighty and terrible God, who keepest covenant and steadfast love, let not all the hardship seem little to thee that has come upon us, upon our kings, our princes, our priests, our prophets, our fathers, and all thy people, since the time of the kings of Assyria until this day.³³ Yet thou hast been just in all that has come upon us, for thou hast dealt faithfully and we have acted wickedly;³⁴ our kings, our princes, our priests, and our fathers have not kept thy law or heeded thy commandments and thy warnings which thou didst give them.³⁵ They did not serve thee in their kingdom, and in thy great goodness which thou gavest them, and in the large and rich land which thou didst set before them; and they did not turn from their wicked works.³⁶ Behold, we are slaves this day; in the land that thou gavest to our fathers to enjoy its fruit and its good gifts, behold, we are slaves.³⁷ And its rich yield goes to the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins; they have power also over our bodies and over our cattle at their pleasure, and we are in great distress."

38^a Because of all this we make a firm covenant and write it, and our princes, our Levites, and our priests set their seal to it.

28 The rest of the people, the priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, the temple servants, and all who have separated themselves from the peoples of the lands to the law of God, their wives, their sons, their daughters, all who have knowledge and understanding,²⁹ join with their brethren, their nobles, and enter into a curse and an oath to walk in God's law which was given by Moses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our Lord and his ordinances and his statutes.³⁰ We will not give our daughters to the peoples of the land or take their daughters for our sons;³¹ and if the peoples of the land bring in wares or any grain on the sabbath day to sell, we will not buy from them on the sabbath or on a holy day; and we will forego the crops of the seventh year and the exaction of every debt.

32 We also lay upon ourselves the obligation to charge ourselves yearly with the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God: ³³ for the showbread, the continual cereal offering, the continual burnt offering, the sabbaths, the new moons, the appointed feasts, the holy things, and the sin offerings to make atonement for Israel, and for all the work of the house of our God. ³⁴ We have likewise cast lots, the priests, the Levites, and the people, for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, according to our fathers' houses, at times appointed, year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law. ³⁵ We obligate ourselves to bring the first fruits of our ground and the first fruits of all fruit of every tree, year by year, to the house of the LORD; ³⁶ also to bring to the house of our God, to the priests who minister in the house of our God, the first-born of our sons and of our cattle, as it is written in the law, and the firstlings of our herds and of our flocks; ³⁷ and to bring the first of our coarse meal, and our contributions, the fruit of every tree, the wine and the oil, to the priests, to the chambers of the house of our God; and to bring to the Levites the tithes from our ground, for it is the Levites who collect the tithes in all our rural towns. ³⁸ And the priest, the son of Aaron, shall be with the Levites when the Levites receive the tithes; and the Levites shall bring up the tithe of the tithes to the house of our God, to the chambers, to the storehouse. ³⁹ For the people of Israel and the sons of Levi shall bring the contribution of grain, wine, and oil to the chambers, where are the vessels of the sanctuary, and the priests that minister, and the gatekeepers and the singers. We will not neglect the house of our God.

||| Now the leaders of the people lived in Jerusalem; and the rest of the people cast lots to bring one out of ten to live in Jerusalem the holy city, while nine tenths remained in the other towns. ² And the people blessed all the men who willingly offered to live in Jerusalem.

3 These are the chiefs of the province who lived in Jerusalem; but in the towns of Judah every one lived on his property in their towns: Israel, the priests, the Levites, the temple servants, and the descendants of Solomon's servants. ⁴ And in Jerusalem lived certain of the sons of Judah and of the sons of Benjamin. Of the sons of Judah: Athai'ah the son of Uzzi'ah, son of Zechari'ah, son of Amari'ah, son of Shephati'ah, son of Mahal'alel, of the sons of Perez; ⁵ and Ma-asei'ah the son of Baruch, son of Col-ho'zeh, son of Hazai'ah, son of Adai'ah, son of Joi'arib, son of Zechari'ah, son of the Shi'lonite. ⁶ All the sons of Perez who lived in Jerusalem were four hundred and sixty-eight valiant men.

7 And these are the sons of Benjamin: Sallu the son of Meshul'lam, son of Jo'ed, son of Pedai'ah, son of Kolai'ah, son of Ma-asei'ah, son of I'thi-el, son of Jeshai'ah. ⁸ And after him Gabba'i, Salla'i, nine hundred and twenty-eight. ⁹ Jo'el the son of Zichri was their overseer; and Judah the son of Hassen'u-ah was second over the city.

10 Of the priests: Jedai'ah the son of Joi'arib, Jachin, ¹¹ Serai'ah the son of Hilki'ah, son of Meshul'lam, son of

Zadok, son of Merai'oth, son of Ahi'tub, ruler of the house of God,¹² and their brethren who did the work of the house, eight hundred and twenty-two; and Adai'ah the son of Jero'ham, son of Pelali'ah, son of Amzi, son of Zechari'ah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchi'jah,¹³ and his brethren, heads of fathers' houses, two hundred and forty-two; and Amash'sai, the son of Az'arel, son of Ah'zai, son of Meshil'lemoth, son of Immer,¹⁴ and their brethren, mighty men of valor, a hundred and twenty-eight; their overseer was Zab'diel the son of Haggeldolim.

15 And of the Levites: Shemai'ah the son of Hasshub, son of Azri'kam, son of Hashabi'ah, son of Bunni;¹⁶ and Shab'bethai and Jo'zabad, of the chiefs of the Levites, who were over the outside work of the house of God;¹⁷ and Mattani'ah the son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, who was the leader to begin the thanksgiving in prayer, and Bakbuki'ah, the second among his brethren; and Abda the son of Sham'mua, son of Galal, son of Jedu'thun.¹⁸ All the Levites in the holy city were two hundred and eighty-four.

19 The gatekeepers, Akkub, Talmon and their brethren, who kept watch at the gates, were a hundred and seventy-two.²⁰ And the rest of Israel, and of the priests and the Levites, were in all the towns of Judah, every one in his inheritance.²¹ But the temple servants lived on Ophel; and Ziha and Gishpa were over the temple servants.

22 The overseer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi the son of Bani, son of Hashabi'ah, son of Mattani'ah, son of Mica, of the sons of Asaph, the singers, over the work of the house of God.²³ For there was a command from the king concerning them, and a settled provision for the singers, as every day required.²⁴ And Pethahi'ah the son of Meshez'abel, of the sons of Zerah the son of Judah; was at the king's hand in all matters concerning the people.

25 And as for the villages, with their fields, some of the people of Judah lived in Kir'iath-ar'ba and its villages, and in Dibon and its villages, and in Jekab'zeel and its villages,²⁶ and in Jeshua and in Mola'dah and Beth-pelet,²⁷ in Ha'zar-shu'al, in Beer-sheba and its villages,²⁸ in Ziklag, in Meco'nah and its villages,²⁹ in En-rim'mon, in Zorah, in Jarmuth,³⁰ Zano'ah, Adullam, and their villages, Lachish and its fields, and Aze'kah and its villages. So they encamped from Beer-sheba to the valley of Hinnom.³¹ The people of Benjamin also lived from Geba onward, at Michmash, Ai'ja, Bethel and its villages,³² An'athoth, Nob, Anani'ah,³³ Hazor, Ramah, Git'taim,³⁴ Hadid, Zeb'o'im, Nebal'lat,³⁵ Lod, and Ono, the valley of craftsmen.³⁶ And certain divisions of the Levites in Judah were joined to Benjamin.

12 These are the priests and the Levites who came up with Zerub'babel the son of She-al'ti-el, and Jeshua: Serai'ah, Jeremiah, Ezra,² Amari'ah, Malluch, Hattush,³ Shecani'ah, Rehum, Mer'emoth,⁴ Iddo, Gin'nethoi, Abi'jah,⁵ Mi'jamin, Madi'ah, Bilgah,⁶ Shemai'ah, Joi'arib, Jedai'ah,⁷ Sallu, Amok, Hilki'ah, Jedai'ah. These were the chiefs of the priests and of their brethren in the days of Jeshua.

8 And the Levites: Jeshua, Bin'nui, Kad'mi-el, Sherebi'ah, Judah, and Mattani'ah, who with his brethren was in charge of the songs of thanksgiving.⁹ And Bakbuki'ah and Unno their brethren stood opposite them in the service.¹⁰ And Jeshua was the father of Joi'akim, Joi'akim the father of Eli'ashib, Eli'ashib the father of Joi'ada, ¹¹ Joi'ada the father of Jonathan, and Jonathan the father of Jad'du-a.

12 And in the days of Joi'akim were priests, heads of fathers' houses: of Serai'ah, Merai'ah; of Jeremiah, Hanani'ah; ¹³ of Ezra, Meshul'lam; of Amari'ah, Jehoha'nan; ¹⁴ of Mal'luchi, Jonathan; of Shebani'ah, Joseph; ¹⁵ of Harim, Adna; of Merai'oth, Hel'kai; ¹⁶ of Iddo, Zechari'ah; of Gin'nethon, Meshul'lam; ¹⁷ of Abi-jah, Zichri; of Mini'amin, of Moadi'ah, Pil'tai; ¹⁸ of Bilgah, Sham'mu-a; of Shemai'ah, Jehon'athan; ¹⁹ of Joi'arib, Matte'nai; of Jedai'ah, Uzzi; ²⁰ of Sal'lai, Kal'lai; of Amok, Eber; ²¹ of Hilki'ah, Hashabi'ah; of Jedai'ah, Nethan'el.

22 As for the Levites, in the days of Eli'ashib, Joi'ada, Joha'nan, and Jad'du-a, there were recorded the heads of fathers' houses; also the priests until the reign of Darius the Persian. ²³ The sons of Levi, heads of fathers' houses, were written in the Book of the Chronicles until the days of Joha'nan the son of Eli'ashib. ²⁴ And the chiefs of the Levites: Hashabi'ah, Sherebi'ah, and Jeshua the son of Kad'mi-el, with their brethren over against them, to praise and to give thanks, according to the commandment of David the man of God, watch corresponding to watch. ²⁵ Mattani'ah, Bakkuki'ah, Obadi'ah, Meshul'lam, Talmon, and Akkub were gatekeepers standing guard at the storehouses of the gates.

²⁶ These were in the days of Joi'akim the son of Jeshua son of Jo'zadak, and in the days of Nehemi'ah the governor and of Ezra the priest the scribe.

27 And at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought the Levites in all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem to celebrate the dedication with gladness, with thanksgivings and with singing, with cymbals, harps, and lyres. ²⁸ And the sons of the singers gathered together from the circuit round Jerusalem and from the villages of the Netoph'athites; ²⁹ also from Beth-gilgal and from the region of Geba and Az'maveth; for the singers had built for themselves villages around Jerusalem. ³⁰ And the priests and the Levites purified themselves; and they purified the people and the gates and the wall.

31 Then I brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and appointed two great companies which gave thanks and went in procession. One went to the right upon the wall to the Dung Gate; ³² and after them went Hoshai'ah and half of the princes of Judah, ³³ and Azari'ah, Ezra, Meshul'lam, ³⁴ Judah, Benjamin, Shemai'ah, and Jeremiah, ³⁵ and certain of the priests' sons with trumpets: Zechari'ah the son of Jonathan, son of Shemai'ah, son of Mattani'ah, son of Micai'ah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph; ³⁶ and his kinsmen, Shemai'ah, Az'arel, Mil'alai, Gil'alai, Ma'ai, Nethan'el, Judah, and Hana'ni, with the musical instruments of David the man of God; and Ezra the scribe went before them. ³⁷ At the Fountain Gate they went up straight before them by the stairs of the city of David, at the ascent of the wall, above the house of David, to the Water Gate on the east.

38 The other company of those who gave thanks went to the left, and I followed them with half of the people, upon the wall, above the Tower of the Ovens, to the Broad Wall, ³⁹ and above the Gate of E'phraim, and by the Old Gate, and by the Fish Gate and the Tower of Hanan'el and the Tower of the Hundred, to the Sheep Gate; and they came to a halt at the antiphonal singing. 23: This does not necessarily mean our book of Chronicles. 26: The phrase Ezra the priest the scribe is an editorial insertion.

Gate of the Guard. ⁴⁰ So both companies of those who gave thanks stood in the house of God, and I and half of the officials with me; ⁴¹ and the priests Eli'akim, Ma-asei'ah, Mini'amin, Micai'ah, Eli-o-e'nai, Zechari'ah, and Hanani'ah, with trumpets; ⁴² and Ma-asei'ah, Shemai'ah, Elea'zar, Uzzi, Jehoha'nan, Malchi'jah, Elam, and Ezer. And the singers sang with Jezrahi'ah as their leader. ⁴³ And they offered great sacrifices that day and rejoiced, for God had made them rejoice with great joy; the women and children also rejoiced. And the joy of Jerusalem was heard afar off.

⁴⁴ On that day men were appointed over the chambers for the stores, the contributions, the first fruits, and the tithes, to gather into them the portions required by the law for the priests and for the Levites according to the fields of the towns; for Judah rejoiced over the priests and the Levites who ministered. ⁴⁵ And they performed the service of their God and the service of purification, as did the singers and the gatekeepers, according to the command of David and his son Solomon. ⁴⁶ For in the days of David and Asaph of old there was a chief of the singers, and there were songs of praise and thanksgiving to God. ⁴⁷ And all Israel in the days of Zerub'babel and in the days of Nehemi'ah gave the daily portions for the singers and the gatekeepers; and they set apart that which was for the Levites; and the Levites set apart that which was for the sons of Aaron.

13 On that day they read from the book of Moses in the hearing of the people; and in it was found written that no Ammonite or Moabite should ever enter the assembly of God; ² for they did not meet the children of Israel with bread and water, but hired Balaam against them to curse them—yet our God turned the curse into a blessing. ³ When the people heard the law, they separated from Israel all those of foreign descent.

⁴ Now before this, Eli'ashib the priest, who was appointed over the chambers of the house of our God, and who was connected with Tob'i'ah, ⁵ prepared for Tob'i'ah a large chamber where they had previously put the cereal offering, the frankincense, the vessels, and the tithes of grain, wine, and oil, which were given by commandment to the Levites, singers, and gatekeepers, and the contributions for the priests. ⁶ While this was taking place I was not in Jerusalem, for in the thirty-second year of Ar-ta-xer-x'es king of Babylon I went to the king. And after some time I asked leave of the king ⁷ and came to Jerusalem, and I then discovered the evil that Eli'ashib had done for Tob'i'ah, preparing for him a chamber in the courts of the house of God. ⁸ And I was very angry, and I threw all the household furniture of Tob'i'ah out of the chamber. ⁹ Then I gave orders and they cleansed the chambers; and I brought back thither the vessels of the house of God, with the cereal offering and the frankincense.

¹⁰ I also found out that the portions of the Levites had not been given to them; so that the Levites and the singers, who did the work, had fled each to his field. ¹¹ So I remonstrated with the officials and said, "Why is the house of God forsaken?" And I gathered them together and set them in their stations. ¹² Then all Judah brought the tithe of the grain, wine, and oil into the storehouses. ¹³ And I appointed as treasurers over the storehouses Shelemi'ah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and Pedai'ah of the Levites, and as their assistant Hanan the son of Zaccur, son of Mattani'ah, for they were counted faithful; and their duty was to distribute to their brethren. ¹⁴ Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and wipe not out my good deeds that I have done for the house of my God and for his service.

¹⁵ In those days I saw in Judah men treading wine presses on the sabbath, and bringing in heaps of grain and loading them on asses; and also wine, grapes, figs, and all kinds of burdens, which they brought into Jerusalem on the sabbath day; and I warned them on the day when they sold food. ¹⁶ Men of Tyre also, who lived in the city, brought in fish and all kinds of wares and sold them on the sabbath to the people of Judah, and in Jerusalem. ¹⁷ Then I remonstrated with the nobles of Judah and said to them, "What is this evil thing which you are doing, profaning the sabbath day? ¹⁸ Did not your fathers act in this way, and did not our God bring all this evil on us and on this city? Yet you bring more wrath upon Israel by profaning the sabbath."

¹⁹ When it began to be dark at the gates of Jerusalem before the sabbath, I commanded that the doors should be shut and gave orders that they should not be opened until after the sabbath. And I set some of my servants over the gates, that no burden might be brought in on the sabbath day. ²⁰ Then the merchants and sellers of all kinds of wares lodged outside Jerusalem once or twice. ²¹ But I warned them and said to them, "Why do you lodge before the wall? If you do so again I will lay hands on you." From that time on they did not come on the sabbath. ²² And I commanded the Levites that they should purify themselves and come and guard the gates, to keep the sabbath day holy. Remember this also in my favor, O my God, and spare me according to the greatness of thy steadfast love.

²³ In those days also I saw the Jews who had married women of Ashdod, Ammon, and Moab; ²⁴ and half of their children spoke the language of Ashdod, and they could not speak the language of Judah, but the language of each people. ²⁵ And I contended with them and cursed them and beat some of them and pulled out their hair; and I made them take oath in the name of God, saying, "You shall not give your daughters to their sons, or take their daughters for your sons or for yourselves. ²⁶ Did not Solomon king of Israel sin on account of such women? Among the many nations there was no king like him, and he was beloved by his God, and God made him king over all Israel; nevertheless foreign women made even him to sin. ²⁷ Shall we then listen to you and do all this great evil and act treacherously against our God by marrying foreign women?"

²⁸ And one of the sons of Jehoi'ada, the son of Eli'ashib the high priest, was the son-in-law of Sanbal'lat the Hor'onite; therefore I chased him from me. ²⁹ Remember them, O my God, because they have defiled the priesthood and the covenant of the priesthood and the Levites.

³⁰ Thus I cleansed them from everything foreign, and I established the duties of the priests and Levites, each in his work; ³¹ and I provided for the wood offering, at appointed times, and for the first fruits. Remember me, O my God, for good.

THE BOOK OF ESTHER

In the Hebrew Bible, Esther comes last of the five rolls (megillōth) which are read at the great festivals of the Jewish year. It is the roll for Purim, a secular feast celebrating deliverance from a subtly planned anti-Semitic pogrom. Its reception into Scripture was long disputed by the Rabbis, for it contains no reference to the most precious things in Jewish religion and does not even mention the name of God. In the Greek Bible, it has its place among the historical books, and has been lengthened by the addition of passages intended to make it a more religious book. Our English Bible includes these, "The Additions to the Book of Esther," among the Apocrypha.

Some have thought the book was written in Maccabean times to celebrate Jewish triumph over the Seleucids (see "Survey of . . . Bible Lands," § 15), but it is probably earlier and seems to have been written as propaganda for the observance in Palestine of a festival, brought home by Jews from the Dispersion, which they called Purim and celebrated on the 14th or 15th of Adar (in February–March). It is not history, but a legend, set back early in the Persian period, intended to explain the origin and significance of Purim. Though embellished with numerous fictional devices, it may well rest on an historical account of some local deliverance of the Jews in Persia, for there is external evidence of a certain Marduka holding an official post at Susa under Xerxes I.

IN THE DAYS OF AHASU-E'RUS, THE Ahasu-e'rus who reigned from India to Ethiopia over one hundred and twenty-seven provinces, ² in those days when King Ahasu-e'rus sat on his royal throne in Susa the capital, ³ in the third year of his reign he gave a banquet for all his princes and servants, the army chiefs^a of Persia and Media and the nobles and governors of the provinces being before him, ⁴ while he showed the riches of his royal glory and the splendor and pomp of his majesty for many days, a hundred and eighty days. ⁵ And when these days were completed, the king gave for all the people present in Susa the capital, both great and small, a banquet lasting for seven days, in the court of the garden of the king's palace. ⁶ There were white cotton curtains and blue hangings caught up with cords of fine linen and purple to silver rings^b and marble pillars, and also couches of gold and silver on a mosaic pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl and precious stones. ⁷ Drinks were served in golden goblets, goblets of different kinds, and the royal wine was lavished according to the bounty of the king. ⁸ And drinking was according to the law, no one was compelled; for the king had given orders to all the officials of his palace to do as every man desired. ⁹ Queen Vashti also gave a banquet for the women in the palace which belonged to King Ahasu-e'rus.

¹³ Then the king said to the wise men who knew the times—for this was the king's procedure toward all who were versed in law and judgment, ¹⁴ the men next to him being Carshe'na, Shethar, Adma'tha, Tarshish, Meres, Marse'na, and Memu'can, the seven princes of Persia and Media, who saw the king's face, and sat first in the kingdom—: ¹⁵ “According to the law, what is to be done to Queen Vashti, because she has not performed the command of King Ahasu-e'rus conveyed by the eunuchs?” ¹⁶ Then Memu'can said in presence of the king and the princes, “Not only to the king has Queen Vashti done wrong, but also to all the princes and all the peoples who are in all the provinces of King Ahasu-e'rus. ¹⁷ For this deed of the queen will be made known to all women, causing them to look with contempt upon their husbands, since they will say, ‘King Ahasu-e'rus commanded Queen Vashti to be brought before him, and she did not come.’ ¹⁸ This very day the ladies of Persia and Media who have heard of the queen's behavior will be telling it to all the king's princes, and there will be contempt and wrath in plenty. ¹⁹ If it please the king, let a royal order go forth from him, and let it be written among the laws of the Persians and the Medes so that it may not be altered, that Vashti is to come no more before King Ahasu-e'rus; and let the king give her royal position to another who is better than she.

²⁰ So when the decree made by the king is proclaimed throughout all his kingdom, vast as it is, all women will give honor to their husbands, high and low.” ²¹ This advice pleased the king and the princes, and the king did as Memu'can proposed; ²² he sent letters to all the royal provinces, to every province in its own script and to every people in its own language, that every man be lord in his own house and speak according to the language of his people.

2 After these things, when the anger of King Ahasu-e'rus had abated, he remembered Vashti and what she had done and what had been decreed against her. ² Then the king's servants who attended him said, “Let beautiful young virgins be sought out for the king. ³ And let the king appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom to gather all the beautiful young virgins to the harem in Susa the capital, under custody of Hegai the king's eunuch who is in charge of the women; let their ointments be given them. ⁴ And let the maiden who pleases the king be queen instead of Vashti.” This pleased the king, and he did so.

⁵ Now there was a Jew in Susa the capital whose name was Mor'decai, the son of Ja'ir, son of Shim'e-i, son of Kish, a Benjaminite, ⁶ who had been carried away from Jerusalem among the captives carried away with Jeconiah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had carried away. ⁷ He had brought up Hadas'sah, that is Esther, the daughter of his uncle, for she had neither father nor mother; the maiden was beautiful and lovely, and when her father and her ably his seven privy counselors (Ezra 7.14; Herodotus, Hist. III, 31.84). 19: This belief in the immutability of Medo-Persian law appears in 8.8; Dan.6.8. 22: Aramaic was normally used for such official correspondence; so here, as in 3.12 and 8.9, there is rhetorical exaggeration. 2.2: Servants, i.e. his pages, not his counselors. 3.9: Harem, lit. “house of women”; ointments means cosmetics.

2.5-23: Mordecai and Esther. They were cousins with names derived from the deities Marduk and Ishtar, who also were cousins. That, like Saul, he was a Benjaminite, is emphasized to prepare readers for the enmity of Haman, an Amalekite of the Agag family, Saul's enemy (see 3.1-15 n.). 6: Jeconiah is Jehoiachin (2 Kg.24.6); so Mordecai was about one hundred and twenty years old. 7: He was her foster-father (Is.49.23). 10: Esther's concealment of her race mother died, Mor'decai adopted her as his own daughter. ⁸ So when the king's order and his edict were proclaimed, and when many maidens were gathered in Susa the capital in custody of Hegai, Esther also was taken into the king's palace and put in custody of Hegai who had charge of the women. ⁹ And the maiden pleased him and won his favor; and he quickly provided her with her ointments and her portion of food, and with seven chosen maids from the king's palace, and advanced her and her maids to the best place in the harem. ¹⁰ Esther had not made known her people or kindred, for Mor'decai had charged her not to make it known. ¹¹ And every day Mor'decai walked in front of the court of the harem, to learn how Esther was and how she fared.

¹² Now when the turn came for each maiden to go in to King Ahasu-e'rus, after being twelve months under the regulations for the women, since this was the regular period of their beautifying, six months with oil of myrrh and six months with spices and ointments for women—¹³ when the maiden went in to the king in this way she was given whatever she desired to take with her from the harem to the king's palace. ¹⁴ In the evening she went, and in the morning she came back to the second harem in custody of Shash'gaz the king's eunuch who was in charge of the concubines; she did not go in to the king again, unless the king delighted in her and she was summoned by name.

she asked for nothing except what Hegai the king's eunuch, who had charge of the women, advised. Now Esther found favor in the eyes of all who saw her. ¹⁶ And when Esther was taken to King Ahasu-e'rus into his royal palace in the tenth month, which is the month of Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign, ¹⁷ the king loved Esther more than all the women, and she found grace and favor in his sight more than all the virgins, so that he set the royal crown on her head and made her queen instead of Vashti. ¹⁸ Then the king gave a great banquet to all his princes and servants; it was Esther's banquet. He also granted a remission of taxes^c to the provinces, and gave gifts with royal liberality.

¹⁹ When the virgins were gathered together the second time, Mor'decai was sitting at the king's gate. ²⁰ Now Esther had not made known her kindred or her people, as Mor'decai had charged her; for Esther obeyed Mor'decai just as when she was brought up by him. ²¹ And in those days, as Mor'decai was sitting at the king's gate, Bigthan and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs, who guarded the threshold, became angry and sought to lay hands on King Ahasu-e'rus. ²² And this came to the knowledge of Mor'decai, and he told it to Queen Esther, and Esther told the king in the name of Mor'decai. ²³ When the affair was investigated and found to be so, the men were both hanged on the gallows. And it was recorded in the Book of the Chronicles in the presence of the king.

3 After these things King Ahasu-e'rus promoted Haman the Ag'agite, the son of Hammeda'tha, and adis a necessary literary device (v. 20). 11: Mordecai's closeness to the harem suggests that he was a minor official, perhaps a eunuch gatekeeper (vv. 19,21; 6.10). 12: Their beautifying, apparently by massage. 16: Tebeth (December-January), as all the month-names in this book, is a Babylonian name. 18: This banquet being a wedding feast, the king favors his subjects with largesse. 21: The threshold, that of the bed-chamber. Xerxes actually fell victim to such a conspiracy of bed-chamber servants, as have other Oriental potentates. 23: On the gallows, lit. "on a tree," i.e. impalement, the normal form of punishment in Persia for political offenders. Chronicles, such records kept by court scribes in Persia are mentioned by Greek writers.

vanced him and set his seat above all the princes who were with him. ² And all the king's servants who were at the king's gate bowed down and did obeisance to Haman; for the king had so commanded concerning him. But Mor'decai did not bow down or do obeisance. ³ Then the king's servants who were at the king's gate said to Mor'decai, "Why do you transgress the king's command?" ⁴ And when they spoke to him day after day and he would not listen to them, they told Haman, in order to see whether Mor'decai's words would avail; for he had told them that he was a Jew. ⁵ And when Haman saw that Mor'decai did not bow down or do obeisance to him, Haman was filled with fury. ⁶ But he disdained to lay hands on Mor'decai alone. So, as they had made known to him the people of Mor'decai, Haman sought to destroy all the Jews, the people of Mor'decai, throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasu-e'rus.

⁷ In the first month, which is the month of Nisan, in the twelfth year of King Ahasu-e'rus, they cast Pur, that is the lot, before Haman day after day; and they cast it month after month till the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar. ⁸ Then Haman said to King Ahasu-e'rus, "There is a certain people scattered abroad and dispersed among the peoples in all the provinces of your kingdom; their laws are different from those of every other people, and they do not keep the king's laws, so that it is not for the king's profit to tolerate them. ⁹ If it please the king, let it be decreed that they be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who have charge of the king's business, that they may put it into the king's treasuries." ¹⁰ So the king took his signet ring from his hand and gave it to Haman the Ag'agite, the son of Hammeda'tha, the enemy of the Jews. ¹¹ And the king said to Haman, "The money is given to you, the people also, to do with them as it seems good to you."

¹² Then the king's secretaries were summoned on the thirteenth day of the first month, and an edict, according to all that Haman commanded, was written to the king's satraps and to the governors over all the provinces and to the princes of all the peoples, to every province in its own script and every people in its own language; it was written in the name of King Ahasu-e'rus and sealed with the king's ring. ¹³ Letters were sent by couriers to all the king's provinces, to destroy, to slay, and to annihilate all Jews, young and old, women and children, in one day, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar, and to plunder their goods. ¹⁴ A copy of the document was to be issued as a decree in every province by proclamation to all the peoples to be ready for that day. ¹⁵ The couriers went in haste by order of the king, and the decree was issued in Susa the capital. And the king and Haman sat down to drink; but the city of Susa was perplexed.

Haman was advanced to be grand vizier, to whom lower officials must make obeisance, an honor which Mordecai as a Benjaminites would not pay an Agagite (see 2.5-23 n.; 9.16 n.). 6: Haman's indignation naturally suggested a pogrom of all the Jews. 7: Pur is an Akkadian word for lot, and casting lots was not irreligious (1 Sam.14.42; Acts 1.26; Herodotus, Hist. III, 128). The lot was to decide an appropriate date for the pogrom. 9: To clinch his argument Haman offers a bribe of about $18,000,000. 10: His ring was his signet ring which gave validity to documents (8.2,8; Gen.41.42). 11: The king refuses the bribe but authorizes the pogrom. 13: The couriers carrying the edict were the famous post service organized by Cyrus. The apocryphal Additions to the Book of Esther give the text of the documents. 14: The copy was the local public distribution of the edict.

4.1-17: The appeal to Esther. 1: These are traditional Oriental manifestations of grief and

² he went up to the entrance of the king's gate, for no one might enter the king's gate clothed with sackcloth. ³ And in every province, wherever the king's command and his decree came, there was great mourning among the Jews, with fasting and weeping and lamenting, and most of them lay in sackcloth and ashes.

4 When Esther's maids and her eunuchs came and told her, the queen was deeply distressed; she sent garments to clothe Mor'decai, so that he might take off his sackcloth, but he would not accept them. ⁵ Then Esther called for Hathach, one of the king's eunuchs, who had been appointed to attend her, and ordered him to go to Mor'decai to learn what this was and why it was. ⁶ Hathach went out to Mor'decai in the open square of the city in front of the king's gate, ⁷ and Mor'decai told him all that had happened to him, and the exact sum of money that Haman had promised to pay into the king's treasuries for the destruction of the Jews. ⁸ Mor'decai also gave him a copy of the written decree issued in Susa for their destruction, that he might show it to Esther and explain it to her and charge her to go to the king to make supplication to him and entreat him for her people. ⁹ And Hathach went and told Esther what Mor'decai had said. ¹⁰ Then Esther spoke to Hathach and gave him a message for Mor'decai, saying, ¹¹ "All the king's servants and the people of the king's provinces know that if any man or woman goes to the king inside the inner court without being called, there is but one law; all alike are to be put to death, except the one to whom the king holds out the golden scepter that he may live. And I have not been called to come in to the king these thirty days." ¹² And they told Mor'decai what Esther had said. ¹³ Then Mor'decai told them to return answer to Esther, "Think not that in the king's palace you will escape any more than all the other Jews. ¹⁴ For if you keep silence at such a time as this, relief and deliverance will rise for the Jews from another quarter, but you and your father's house will perish. And who knows whether you have not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" ¹⁵ Then Esther told them to reply to Mor'decai, ¹⁶ "Go, gather all the Jews to be found in Susa, and hold a fast on my behalf, and neither eat nor drink for three days, night or day. I and my maids will also fast as you do. Then I will go to the king, though it is against the law; and if I perish, I perish." ¹⁷ Mor'decai then went away and did everything as Esther had ordered him.

5 On the third day Esther put on her royal robes and stood in the inner court of the king's palace, opposite the king's hall. The king was sitting on his royal throne inside the palace opposite the entrance to the palace; ² and when the king saw Queen Esther standing in the court, she found favor in his sight and he held out to Esther the golden scepter that was in his hand. Then Esther approached and touched the top of the scepter. ³ And the king said to her, "What is it, Queen Esther? What is your request? It shall be given you, even to the half of my kingdom." ⁴ And Esther said, "If it please the king, let the king and Haman come this day to a dinner that I have prepared for the king." ⁵ Then said the king, mourning, which render one ritually unclean, so Mordecai (v. 2) could not enter the king's gate. 11: Interdiction to enter without being summoned was a security precaution. 14: From another quarter probably refers to Divine providence. The apocryphal Additions to the Book of Esther insert here the prayers of Esther and Mordecai.

5.1-8: Esther before the king. 1: By appearing unbidden she had violated custom; so she stood at the inner court to await the monarch's reaction. 3,6: The half of my kingdom (7.2) is a customary hyperbole (compare Mk.6.23). 4,8: No subtle reason need be sought for the first and second dinner, nor for Haman's being the only guest; these are but literary embellishments needful to the story.

"Bring Haman quickly, that we may do as Esther desires." So the king and Haman came to the dinner that Esther had prepared. ⁶ And as they were drinking wine, the king said to Esther, "What is your petition? It shall be granted you. And what is your request? Even to the half of my kingdom, it shall be fulfilled." ⁷ But Esther said, "My petition and my request is: ⁸ If I have found favor in the sight of the king, and if it please the king to grant my petition and fulfil my request, let the king and Haman come tomorrow^d to the dinner which I will prepare for them, and tomorrow I will do as the king has said."

⁹ And Haman went out that day joyful and glad of heart. But when Haman saw Mor'decai in the king's gate, that he neither rose nor trembled before him, he was filled with wrath against Mor'decai. ¹⁰ Nevertheless Haman restrained himself, and went home; and he sent and fetched his friends and his wife Zeresh. ¹¹ And Haman recounted to them the splendor of his riches, the number of his sons, all the promotions with which the king had honored him, and how he had advanced him above the princes and the servants of the king. ¹² And Haman added, "Even Queen Esther let no one come with the king to the banquet she prepared but myself. And tomorrow also I am invited by her together with the king. ¹³ Yet all this does me no good, so long as I see Mor'decai the Jew sitting at the king's gate." ¹⁴ Then his wife Zeresh and all his friends said to him, "Let a gallows fifty cubits high be made, and in the morning tell the king to have Mor'decai hanged upon it; then go merrily with the king to the dinner." This counsel pleased Haman, and he had the gallows made.

⁶ On that night the king could not sleep; and he gave orders to bring the book of memorable deeds, the chronicles, and they were read before the king. ² And it was found written how Mor'decai had told about Big-thana and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs, who guarded the threshold, and who had sought to lay hands upon King Ahasu-e'rus. ³ And the king said, "What honor or dignity has been bestowed on Mor'decai for this?" The king's servants who attended him said, "Nothing has been done for him." ⁴ And the king said, "Who is in the court?" Now Haman had just entered the outer court of the king's palace to speak to the king about having Mor'decai hanged on the gallows that he had prepared for him. ⁵ So the king's servants told him, "Haman is there, standing in the court." And the king said, "Let him come in." ⁶ So Haman came in, and the king said to him, "What shall be done to the man whom the king delights to honor?" And Haman said to himself, "Whom would the king delight to honor more than me?" ⁷ and Haman said to the king, "For the man whom the king delights to honor, ⁸ let royal robes be brought, which the king has worn, and the horse which the king has ridden, and on whose head a royal crown is set; ⁹ and let the robes and the horse be handed over to one of the king's most noble princes; let him^e array the man

5.9-14: Haman's exaltation and chagrin. 10: Haman's boasting before his friends is characteristically Oriental. They are the wise men of 6.13. 14: Gallows, see 2.23 n. The fifty cubits, i.e. eighty-three feet, is hyperbole for literary effect. Haman could prepare this, but only the monarch could condemn men.

6.1-14: Mordecai's triumph. The sleeplessness of kings is a common motif in Oriental tales. It and the numerous coincidences which here accumulate are literary devices. 3: Herodotus (Hist. VIII, 85,90) records how Persian monarchs kept records of notable services rendered. 4: The inquiry, Who is in the court? merely means, What official is currently in attendance? Haman's eagerness drove him to early attendance, and his superior rank gave him precedence. 8: The bestowal of robes of honor was common in ancient times (Gen.41.42; 1 Sam.18.4), and is still practiced. The royal crown here was an ornament for the horse, such as is pictured on whom the king delights to honor, and let him^e conduct the man on horseback through the open square of the city, proclaiming before him: 'Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delights to honor.'¹⁰ Then the king said to Haman, "Make haste, take the robes and the horse, as you have said, and do so to Mor'decai the Jew who sits at the king's gate. Leave out nothing that you have mentioned."¹¹ So Haman took the robes and the horse, and he arrayed Mor'decai and made him ride through the open square of the city, proclaiming, "Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delights to honor."

¹² Then Mor'decai returned to the king's gate. But Haman hurried to his house, mourning and with his head covered.¹³ And Haman told his wife Zeresh and all his friends everything that had befallen him. Then his wise men and his wife Zeresh said to him, "If Mor'decai, before whom you have begun to fall, is of the Jewish people, you will not prevail against him but will surely fall before him."

7 So the king and Haman went in to feast with Queen Esther.² And on the second day, as they were drinking wine, the king again said to Esther, "What is your petition, Queen Esther? It shall be granted you. And what is your request? Even to the half of my kingdom, it shall be fulfilled."³ Then Queen Esther answered, "If I have found favor in your sight, O king, and if it please the king, let my life be given me at my petition, and my people at my request."⁴ For we are sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be slain, and to be annihilated. If we had been sold merely as slaves, men and women, I would have held my peace; for our affliction is not to be compared with the loss to the king."⁵ Then King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther, "Who is he, and where is he, that would presume to do this?"⁶ And Esther said, "A foe and enemy! This wicked Haman!" Then Haman was in terror before the king and the queen.⁷ And the king rose from the feast in wrath and went into the palace garden; but Haman stayed to beg his life from Queen Esther, for he saw that evil was determined against him by the king.⁸ And the king returned from the palace garden to the place where they were drinking wine, as Haman was falling on the couch where Esther was; and the king said, "Will he even assault the queen in my presence, in my own house?" As the words left the mouth of the king, they covered Haman's face.⁹ Then said Harbo'na, one of the eunuchs in attendance on the king, "Moreover, the gallows which Haman has prepared for Mor'decai, whose word saved the king, is standing in Haman's house, fifty cubits high."¹⁰ And the king said, "Hang him on that." So they hanged Haman on the gallows which he had prepared for Mor'decai. Then the anger of the king abated.

monuments. 12: Mourning, i.e. weeping with chagrin. To cover the head was a sign of grief (2 Sam.15.30; Jer.14.4). 14: It was an Oriental custom for guests to be brought to an entertainment (Lk.14.17).

7.1-10: Haman's fall. 4: We are (have been) sold is a reference to Haman's bribe. Had Haman planned to sell the Jews into slavery to enrich the royal treasury, Esther would not have intervened; but planned destruction changes the situation. 6: Enemy is used to recall the ancient enmity of Agag and the Amalekites (see 3.1-15 n.). 8: Falling as a suppliant at someone's feet was a common custom (8.3; 1 Sam.25.23,24; 2 Kg.4.27; Mk.7.25). That they covered the face of one doomed indicates a Greco-Roman custom rather than Persian. 9: It was inevitable that some servant would think of this "poetic justice."

8.1-17: The rise of Mordecai and the revocation of the edict. 1: Herodotus (Hist. III, 129)

Haman, the enemy of the Jews. And Mor'decai came before the king, for Esther had told what he was to her; ² and the king took off his signet ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it to Mor'decai. And Esther set Mor'decai over the house of Haman.

⁶ For how can I endure to see the calamity that is coming to my people? Or how can I endure to see the destruction of my kindred?" ⁷ Then King Ahasu-e'rus said to Queen Esther and to Mor'decai the Jew, "Behold, I have given Esther the house of Haman, and they have hanged him on the gallows, because he would lay hands on the Jews. ⁸ And you may write as you please with regard to the Jews, in the name of the king, and seal it with the king's ring; for an edict written in the name of the king and sealed with the king's ring cannot be revoked."

⁹ The king's secretaries were summoned at that time, in the third month, which is the month of Sivan, on the twenty-third day; and an edict was written according to all that Mor'decai

commanded concerning the Jews to the satraps and the governors and the princes of the provinces from India to Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces, to every province in its own script and to every people in its own language, and also to the Jews in their script and their language. ¹⁰ The writing was in the name of King Ahasu-e'rus and sealed with the king's ring, and letters were sent by mounted couriers riding on swift horses that were used in the king's service, bred from the royal stud. ¹¹ By these the king allowed the Jews who were in every city to gather and defend their lives, to destroy, to slay, and to annihilate any armed force of any people or province that might attack them, with their children and women, and to plunder their goods, ¹² upon one day throughout all the provinces of King Ahasu-e'rus, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar. ¹³ A copy of what was written was to be issued as a decree in every province, and by proclamation to all peoples, and the Jews were to be ready on that day to avenge themselves upon their enemies. ¹⁴ So the couriers, mounted on their swift horses that were used in the king's service, rode out in haste, urged by the king's command; and the decree was issued in Susa the capital.

¹⁵ Then Mor'decai went out from the presence of the king in royal robes of blue and white, with a great golden crown and a mantle of fine linen and purple, while the city of Susa shouted and rejoiced. ¹⁶ The Jews had light and gladness and joy and honor. ¹⁷ And in every province and in every city, wherever the king's command and mentions the property of criminals being confiscated. The transference of the signet ring indicates promotion of Mordecai as grand vizier. 5: Esther subtly suggests that the edict was not really his but devised by Haman. 8: The king rejects this subterfuge, accepts the responsibility, but neutralizes the edict by new instructions. 10: Greek writers mention the horses of the Persian postal system. 12: The date is carefully given, for it is important for the Purim festival. After v. 12 the apocryphal Additions to the Book of Esther insert the text of the king's letter. 15: Mordecai appears in his state robes, crown here being the viziral turban. 17: A feast and a holiday contrast with the fasting and lamentation of 4.3. The improbability of many Persians becoming proselytes leads some to translate the verb as "joined themselves to," i.e. took the part of the Jews (9.27).

his edict came, there was gladness and joy among the Jews, a feast and a holiday. And many from the peoples of the country declared themselves Jews, for the fear of the Jews had fallen upon them.

9 Now in the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar, on the thirteenth day of the same, when the king's command and edict were about to be executed, on the very day when the enemies of the Jews hoped to get the mastery over them, but which had been changed to a day when the Jews should get the mastery over their foes, ² the Jews gathered in their cities throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus to lay hands on such as sought their hurt. And no one could make a stand against them, for the fear of them had fallen upon all peoples. ³ All the princes of the provinces and the satraps and the governors and the royal officials also helped the Jews, for the fear of Mor'decai had fallen upon them. ⁴ For Mor'decai was great in the king's house, and his fame spread throughout all the provinces; for the man Mor'decai grew more and more powerful. ⁵ So the Jews smote all their enemies with the sword, slaughtering, and destroying them, and did as they pleased to those who hated them. ⁶ In Susa the capital itself the Jews slew and destroyed five hundred men, ⁷ and also slew Par-shan-da'tha and Dalphon and Aspa'tha ⁸ and Pora'tha and Ada'lia and Arida'tha ⁹ and Parmash'ta and Ar'isai and Ar'idai and Vaiza'tha, ¹⁰ the ten sons of Haman the son of Hammeda'tha, the enemy of the Jews; but they laid no hand on the plunder.

11 That very day the number of those slain in Susa the capital was reported to the king. ¹² And the king said to Queen Esther, "In Susa the capital the Jews have slain five hundred men and also the ten sons of Haman. What then have they done in the rest of the king's provinces! Now what is your petition? It shall be granted you. And what further is your request? It shall be fulfilled." ¹³ And Esther said, "If it please the king, let the Jews who are in Susa be allowed tomorrow also to do according to this day's edict. And let the ten sons of Haman be hanged on the gallows." ¹⁴ So the king commanded this to be done; a decree was issued in Susa, and the ten sons of Haman were hanged. ¹⁵ The Jews who were in Susa gathered also on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar and they slew three hundred men in Susa; but they laid no hands on the plunder.

16 Now the other Jews who were in the king's provinces also gathered to defend their lives, and got relief from their enemies, and slew seventy-five thousand of those who hated them; but they laid no hands on the plunder. ¹⁷ This was on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, and on the fourteenth day they rested and made that a day of feasting and gladness. ¹⁸ But the Jews who were in Susa gathered on the thirteenth day and on the fourteenth, and rested on the fifteenth day, making that a day of feasting and gladness. ¹⁹ Therefore the Jews of the villages, who live in the open towns, hold the fourteenth day of the month of Adar as a day for gladness and feasting and holiday-making, and a day on which they send choice portions to one another.

9.1-32: Destruction of the enemies and inauguration of the feast of Purim. 1: The important date is again given (compare 8.12). 3-5: The royal officials, anxious to please the new vizier, helped the Jews. 7: The names of Haman's sons, represented as Persian names, are written peculiarly in the Hebrew text, favoring cryptic interpretations. 15: The second day's slaughter is probably a device to explain why the city Jews had a two-day Purim celebration but the country Jews only one. 16: The emphasis here, as in vv. 10,15, that the Jews did not plunder seems a reminder of the Agag story, where they plundered to their own hurt (1 Sam.15.9). 19,22: Choice portions, i.e. dainties, gifts of food-stuffs (Neh.8.10). 20-32: The official institu-

who were in all the provinces of King Ahasu-e'rus, both near and far, ²¹ enjoining them that they should keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar and also the fifteenth day of the same, year by year, ²² as the days on which the Jews got relief from their enemies, and as the month that had been turned for them from sorrow into gladness and from mourning into a holiday; that they should make them days of feasting and gladness, days for sending choice portions to one another and gifts to the poor.

23 So the Jews undertook to do as they had begun, and as Mor'decai had written to them. ²⁴ For Haman the Ag'agite, the son of Hammada'tha, the enemy of all the Jews, had plotted against the Jews to destroy them, and had cast Pur, that is the lot, to crush and destroy them; ²⁵ but when Esther came before the king, he gave orders in writing that his wicked plot which he had devised against the Jews should come upon his own head, and that he and his sons should be hanged on the gallows. ²⁶ Therefore they called these days Purim, after the term Pur. And therefore, because of all that was written in this letter, and of what they had faced in this matter, and of what had befallen them, ²⁷ the Jews ordained and took it upon themselves and their descendants and all who joined them, that without fail they would keep these two days according to what was written and at the time appointed every year, ²⁸ that these days should be remembered and kept throughout every generation, in every family, province, and city, and that these days of Purim should never fall into disuse among the Jews, nor should the commemoration of these days cease among their descendants.

29 Then Queen Esther, the daughter of Ab'ihail, and Mor'decai the Jew gave full written authority, confirming this second letter about Purim. ³⁰ Letters were sent to all the Jews, to the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of the kingdom of Ahasu-e'rus, in words of peace and truth, ³¹ that these days of Purim should be observed at their appointed seasons, as Mor'decai the Jew and Queen Esther enjoined upon the Jews, and as they had laid down for themselves and for their descendants, with regard to their fasts and their lamenting. ³² The command of Queen Esther fixed these practices of Purim, and it was recorded in writing.

10 King Ahasu-e'rus laid tribute on the land and on the coastlands of the sea. ² And all the acts of his power and might, and the full account of the high honor of Mor'decai, to which the king advanced him, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia? ³ For Mor'decai the Jew was next in rank to King Ahasu-e'rus, and he was great among the Jews and popular with the multitude of his brethren, for he sought the welfare of his people and spoke peace to all his people.

tion of Purim (an addition to the book from a different source). Mordecai as vizier takes the initiative; Esther with queenly authority confirms the arrangements, so Mordecai writes to the Jewish communities and Esther follows with a letter. This emphasis on the written word is doubtless intended to legalize a festival not mentioned in the Torah.

10.1-3: Conclusion. A paragraph on the continued greatness of Xerxes and fame of Mordecai. After 10.3 the apocryphal Additions to the Book of Esther append Mordecai's soliloquy.

THE BOOK OF JOB

The book of Job does not attempt to explain the mystery of suffering or to "justify the ways of God with men." It aims at probing the depths of faith in spite of suffering. The ancient folktale of a patient Job (1.1–2.13; 42.7–17; Jas. 5.11) circulated orally among oriental sages in the second millennium B.C. and was probably written down in Hebrew at the time of David and Solomon or a century later (about 1000–800 B.C.). An anonymous poet of the sixth or fifth century B.C. used it as a setting for the discussion between an impatient Job and his three friends (3.1–31.40) and the Lord's discourses from the whirlwind (38.1–42.6). A later poet contributed Elihu's speeches (32.1–37.24).

The storyteller asked, "Does [man] fear God for nought?" (1.9). The poet echoed the question, "What is the Almighty, that we should serve him? And what profit do we get if we pray to him?" (21.15). Unlike the hero of the folktale who is rewarded materially for his virtues, the Job of the poem demands justice, and his final challenge shows that he regards religion and morality as man's claim for happiness (29.1–31.40). Job renounces his defiance only after the Lord asks, "Will you condemn me that you may be justified?" (40.8). Job is satisfied without self-vindication by an experience of immediate communion with God, not unlike that of the great prophets: "Now my eye sees thee" (42.5).

In the poetic language of the book, God is at work in the universe, even "to bring rain on a land where no man is" (38.26), and he is aware of evil (personified by the monsters Behemoth and Leviathan, 40.15–41.34). At the same time, he cares for Job so fully that he reveals himself personally to him and shares with him the vision of his cosmic responsibilities. A God who confesses his burdens to man is a God who is profoundly involved in the destiny of man. He is not an impassive force. In the presence of holiness and creative love, virtuous man surrenders his pride in adoration. In his own way the poet conveyed a view of sin which transcends morality, the awareness of which is possible only in the context of faith.

THERE WAS A MAN IN THE LAND OF UZ, whose name was Job; and that man was blameless and upright, one who feared God, and turned away from evil. ² There were born to him seven sons and three daughters. ³ He had seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she-asses, and very many servants; so that this man was the greatest of all the people of the east. ⁴ His sons used to go and hold a feast in the house of each on his day; and they would send and invite their three sisters to eat and drink with them. ⁵ And when the days of the feast had run their course, Job would send and sanctify them, and he would rise early in the morning and offer burnt offerings according to the number of them all; for Job said, "It may be that my sons have sinned, and cursed God in their hearts." Thus Job did continually.

⁶ Now there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan^a also came among them. ⁷ The LORD said to Satan, "Whence have you come?" Satan answered the LORD, "From going to and fro on the earth, and from walking up and down on it." ⁸ And the LORD said to Satan, "Have you considered my servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, who fears God and turns away from evil?" ⁹ Then Satan answered the LORD, "Does Job fear God for nought?" ¹⁰ Hast thou not put a hedge about him and his house and all that he has, on every side? Thou hast blessed the work of his hands, and his possessions have increased in the land.

1.1–2.13: The prologue. A blameless man is deprived of wealth, posterity, and health, but keeps his faith in God. 1: The land of Uz is probably Edom, although some locate it in north Transjordan. The name Job may mean "hostile" or "penitent." Blameless, i.e. healthy, whole, and socially responsible. 6–8: Satan (see note ^a; Zech.3.1 n.) is among the sons of God. He is not yet the demonic personification of later Judaism (compare 1 Chr.21.1) and Christianity.

¹¹ But put forth thy hand now, and touch all that he has, and he will curse thee to thy face." ¹² And the LORD said to Satan, "Behold, all that he has is in your power; only upon himself do not put forth your hand." So Satan went forth from the presence of the LORD.

¹⁷ While he was yet speaking, there came another, and said, "The Chalde'ans formed three companies, and made a raid upon the camels and took them, and slew the servants with the edge of the sword; and I alone have escaped to tell you." ¹⁸ While he was yet speaking, there came another, and said, "Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house; ¹⁹ and behold, a great wind came across the wilderness, and struck the four corners of the house, and it fell upon the young people, and they are dead; and I alone have escaped to tell you."

²⁰ Then Job arose, and rent his robe, and shaved his head, and fell upon the ground, and worshiped.

²¹ And he said, "Naked I came from my mother's womb, and naked shall I return; the LORD gave, and the LORD has taken away; blessed be the name of the LORD."

²² In all this Job did not sin or charge God with wrong.

Q Again there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan also came among them to present himself before the LORD. ² And the LORD said to Satan, "Whence have you come?" Satan answered the LORD, "From going to and fro on the earth, and from walking up and down on it." ³ And the LORD said to Satan, "Have you considered my servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, who fears God and turns away from evil? He still holds fast his integrity, although you moved me against him, to destroy him without cause." ⁴ Then Satan answered the LORD, "Skin for skin! All that a man has he will give for his life. ⁵ But put forth thy hand now, and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will curse thee to thy face." ⁶ And the LORD said to Satan, "Behold, he is in your power; only spare his life."

⁹ Then his wife said to him, "Do you still hold fast your integrity? Curse God, and die." ¹⁰ But he said to her, "You speak as one of the foolish women would speak. Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall

15: Sabeans, nomads from Arabia. 17: Chaldeans, originally from southern Mesopotamia. The folk-teller respects archaic and local color. 21: Naked shall I return, Hebrew adds "there," suggesting correspondence between mother's womb and "mother earth." Although a foreigner, Job uses the covenant-name, Yahweh (the LORD); this is an indication of early date. In the poem, the sacred name Yahweh is never used by the speakers (except in 12.9, a proverbial quotation). 22: The Deity is not accused of capricious malevolence. 2.4: Skin for skin, a hide for a hide, a proverb probably used by tradesmen. 7: Loathsome sores, not necessarily leprosy (Hansen's disease) but a skin ailment, one of many in the Near East. 9: Curse God, and die, Job's wife still believed in his integrity (see 4.6 n.) but wished to shorten his torture. 10: Foolish

we not receive evil?" In all this Job did not sin with his lips.

11 Now when Job's three friends heard of all this evil that had come upon him, they came each from his own place, Eli'phaz the Te'manite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Na'amathite. They made an appointment together to come to condole with him and comfort him. ¹² And when they saw him from afar, they did not recognize him; and they raised their voices and wept; and they rent their robes and sprinkled dust upon their heads toward heaven. ¹³ And they sat with him on the ground seven days and seven nights, and no one spoke a word to him, for they saw that his suffering was very great.

3 After this Job opened his mouth and cursed the day of his birth.

² And Job said:

³ "Let the day perish wherein I was born,
and the night which said,
'A man-child is conceived.'

⁴ Let that day be darkness!
May God above not seek it,
nor light shine upon it.

⁵ Let gloom and deep darkness claim it.
Let clouds dwell upon it;
let the blackness of the day
terrify it.

⁶ That night—let thick darkness seize it!
let it not rejoice among the days
of the year,
let it not come into the number of the months.

⁷ Yea, let that night be barren;
let no joyful cry be heard^b in it.

⁸ Let those curse it who curse the day,
who are skilled to rouse up Leviathan.

⁹ Let the stars of its dawn be dark;

let it hope for light, but have none,
nor see the eyelids of the morning;
¹⁰ because it did not shut the doors of my mother's womb,
nor hide trouble from my eyes.

¹¹ "Why did I not die at birth, come forth from the womb and expire?

¹² Why did the knees receive me?
Or why the breasts, that I should suck?

¹³ For then I should have lain down
and been quiet;
I should have slept; then I should have been at rest,

¹⁴ with kings and counselors of the earth
who rebuilt ruins for themselves, ¹⁵ or with princes who had gold,
who filled their houses with silver.

¹⁶ Or why was I not as a hidden untimely birth,
as infants that never see the light?

¹⁷ There the wicked cease from troubling,
and there the weary are at rest.

¹⁸ There the prisoners are at ease
together;
they hear not the voice of the taskmaster.

¹⁹ The small and the great are there,
and the slave is free from his master.

²⁰ "Why is light given to him that is in misery,

and life to the bitter in soul, ²¹ who long for death, but it comes not,
and dig for it more than for hid
treasures;

²² who rejoice exceedingly,
and are glad, when they find the grave?

3.1-26: Job's soliloquy. 8: Those who are skilled to rouse Leviathan are magicians, astrologers, and calendar-makers who were believed to produce as well as announce eclipses. Leviathan, the sea monster (7.12), like Rahab (9.13; 26.12; Is.51.9), threatens to engulf the created order and the succession of days and nights, especially during eclipses of the sun or moon. 14: Ruins,

4 Then Eli'phaz the Te'manite answered:

2 “If one ventures a word with you,
 will you be offended?
 Yet who can keep from speaking?
 3 Behold, you have instructed many,
 and you have strengthened the weak hands.
 4 Your words have upheld him who was stumbling,
 and you have made firm the feeble knees.
 5 But now it has come to you, and you are impatient;
 it touches you, and you are dismayed.
 6 Is not your fear of God your confidence,
 and the integrity of your ways
 your hope?
 7 “Think now, who that was innocent ever perished?
 Or where were the upright cut

 8 As I have seen, those who plow
 iniquity
 and sow trouble reap the same.
 9 By the breath of God they perish, and by the blast of his anger they

 10 The roar of the lion, the voice of the stealthily,

 my ear received the whisper of it.
 13 Amid thoughts from visions of the night,
 when deep sleep falls on men, 14 dread came upon me, and trembling,
 which made all my bones shake.
 15 A spirit glided past my face;
 the hair of my flesh stood up.
 16 It stood still,
 but I could not discern its appearance.
 A form was before my eyes;
 there was silence, then I heard a voice:
 17 ‘Can mortal man be righteous

 Can a man be pure before^d his Maker?
 18 Even in his servants he puts no trust,
 and his angels he charges with error;

 they perish for ever without any

The thought of a happy afterlife is not Hebraic but Egyptian. 23: God, Hebrew Eloah, a name which stresses the terrible aspect of the Deity, whose omnipotence is never doubted by Job. Job's dilemma is directly related to his theological view that God is the cause of both good and evil (disaster, calamities, etc.); see 2.10; Is.45.7; Am.3.6.

4.1-5.27: First discourse of Eliphaz. 1-4: The opening words are courteous. The poet insists on the sincerity of Job's comforters. 6: Job's integrity (Hebrew word related to “blameless” in 1.1; see 2.9 n.) is not yet questioned. 7: The dogma of individual, this-worldly retribution is upheld. 12-16: Eliphaz appeals to a supranatural, almost prophetic, source of authority. He does not speak in the name of tradition or experience, as wise men generally do. 17: Surely no mortal man is righteous before God, and Job should adopt an attitude of humility instead of rebelling against the divine will. 21: The word translated tent-cord has two separate meanings;

do they not die, and that without wisdom?

- 5 "Call now; is there any one who will answer you?
To which of the holy ones will you turn?
2 Surely vexation kills the fool, and jealousy slays the simple.
3 I have seen the fool taking root, but suddenly I cursed his dwelling.
4 His sons are far from safety, they are crushed in the gate, and there is no one to deliver them.
5 His harvest the hungry eat, and he takes it even out of thorns;^e and the thirsty^f pant after his^g wealth.
6 For affliction does not come from the dust, nor does trouble sprout from the ground;
7 but man is born to trouble as the sparks fly upward.
8 "As for me, I would seek God, and to God would I commit my cause;
9 who does great things and unsearchable, marvelous things without number:
10 he gives rain upon the earth and sends waters upon the fields;
11 he sets on high those who are lowly, and those who mourn are lifted to safety.
12 He frustrates the devices of the crafty, so that their hands achieve no success.
13 He takes the wise in their own craftiness; and the schemes of the wily are brought to a quick end.
14 They meet with darkness in the daytime,

and grope at noonday as in the night.

- 15 But he saves the fatherless from their mouth,^h the needy from the hand of the mighty.
16 So the poor have hope, and injustice shuts her mouth.
17 "Behold, happy is the man whom God reproves; therefore despise not the chastening of the Almighty.
18 For he wounds, but he binds up; he smites, but his hands heal.
19 He will deliver you from six troubles; in seven there shall no evil touch you.
20 In famine he will redeem you from death, and in war from the power of the sword.
21 You shall be hid from the scourge of the tongue, and shall not fear destruction when it comes.
22 At destruction and famine you shall laugh, and shall not fear the beasts of the earth.
23 For you shall be in league with the stones of the field, and the beasts of the field shall be at peace with you.
24 You shall know that your tent is safe, and you shall inspect your fold and miss nothing.
25 You shall know also that your descendants shall be many, and your offspring as the grass of the earth.

6.1-7.21: Reply of Job. The orthodox explanation cannot be valid in Job's case, for his calamity exceeds all ordinary misfortunes. 6: Slime of the purslane, an insipid and repulsive food. Purslane is a potherb. 8-11: The Egyptian theme of desire for an early death reappears (see ch. 3). Moreover Job fears that, if his days (and hence, his tortures) are prolonged, he may deny the words of the Holy One (v. 10). The poet suggests thereby the complexity of the hero's personality; Job is an unwilling blasphemer. 14: The test of true religion lies in human compassion for others. poem on creation. 17-18: A parody of Ps. 8. While the psalmist praised the creator who assigns to insignificant and mortal man a place of pre-eminence in nature, Job ironically prefers to receive minimal attention (see also Ps. 144.3-4). 20: Human sin cannot justify God's hostility to man. 21: Thou wilt seek me, i.e. thou wilt grope in the darkness after me, but I shall not be. Job threatens the Almighty with his own non-being! He at once reaffirms his former trust in a loving God and sarcastically implies the frustration of that love.

8.1-22: First discourse of Bildad. The second friend dispenses with oriental etiquette. 3-4: In order to uphold the dogma of divine justice, he implies that Job suffers for the sin of his children, whose transgression has the power to destroy the collective personality of the clan to which they belonged. 5-7: In a flagrant disregard of logic, Bildad advises the sufferer to make supplication, literally, "to implore grace," and immediately proceeds to defend a moralistic view of salvation as a reward for purity and uprightness (see vv. 11-22). His sources of authority are proverbs gathered from bygone ages (v. 8; see vv. 11, 20, 22).

¹⁸ If he is destroyed from his place,

9 Then Job answered:

² "Truly I know that it is so:
but how can a man be just before
God?

³ If one wished to contend with him, one could not answer him once in a thousand times.

⁴ He is wise in heart, and mighty in him, and succeeded?—

9.1-10.22: Reply of Job. Following the principle of delayed reaction, Job replies not to Bildad, who has just spoken, but to Eliphaz (compare 9.2 with 4.17). 9.3-29: In a contest of strength the Creator has the advantage. There is no human or divine judge of God (who is implicitly compared to a thief or kidnapper; v. 12), a thought which anticipates the theme of the mediator (see vv. 33-35). 23: God is compared to an irresponsible person who mocks.

The poet indicates a development of thought among the three friends up to this point; afterwards the arguments are merely repeated in various forms. Bildad is quite wrong in charging Job with ethical crimes, but he is right in stressing man's finitude in the face of God's infinity (v. 7), another illustration of the poet's skill at showing the complexity of truth mixed with error in the minds of the friends.

The negative in the Hebrew text is supported by the context, which suggests a mood of defiance, not of selfless devotion. Job no longer claims that he is blameless; however, he discovers in the depth of his despair that his passionate desire to see God, his would-be slayer, is evidence of his inward purity, for no godless man would ever dare to come before God (v. 16). 23: Job is willing to learn from God whether his iniquities, his sins, and his transgressions are the cause of his misery. 24: The prayer remains unanswered, and God continues to hide his face, even to count Job an enemy. 26: In his search for an explanation of his pain, the hero acknowledges the iniquities of his youth, but he implies that the enormity of his fate is disproportionate. 14.1-22: One of the great poems in all literature. 1: Man that is born of a woman . . ., as in 7.1, the poet is concerned with the human condition in general. The sufferer speaks the language of the crafty (like the serpent in Gen.3.1). Borrowing the Semitic myth of the Primeval Man who existed before the creation of the world, Eliphaz sees quite clearly that Job, through the intensity of his grief, forgets the limitations of his humanity. most intimate circle of household, family, and friends. 20: I have escaped with the skin of my teeth, an expression of proverbial origin which has received many different interpretations, all of which are hypothetical. 21–22: Have pity on me, O you my friends, a pathetic appeal which stresses Job's total solitariness. 23–24: He therefore wishes that his words were written so that he may be vindicated by posterity. In a book, on a copper scroll, which will resist the ravages of time. In the rock, as some inscriptions engraved on a cliff in Lebanon by military conquerors of many centuries. 25: My Redeemer, translate, my Vindicator (see note u), one who will avenge my honor after my murder has been committed. The avenger (2 Sam. 14.11) is usually the next-of-kin and the heir (Lev. 25.25; Dt. 25.5–10; Ru. 2.20). Though God is often called "redeemer" (Ex. 6.6; Ps. 103.4), it is not likely that Job's "Vindicator" should be identified with the divine Being. The Vindicator at last will stand upon the earth; the sufferer has already called for a mediator between God and man (9.33–35) and for a witness who will defend man before God (16.19–21); he hopes to obtain through the Vindicator an audience with God himself (v. 26). In his utmost destitution, rejected by friends, deprived of heirs, attacked by God, uncertain of future fame, Job's faith leaps for a moment to the certainty that after death his most cherished wish will be fulfilled. 26–27: From my flesh, Job insists that he will see God. The Hebrew of v. 26 is corrupt, perhaps as a result of an accident or of scribal polemics against the later Jewish belief in the resurrection of the flesh. Whether or not Job expresses here a new faith in life beyond death, he no longer asks for a recognition of his innocence. The vision of God will be sufficient (42.5–6).

20.1–29: Second discourse of Zophar. 2: Therefore my thoughts answer, the Hebrew noun implies disturbing and anxious reflections, and the line means, "My disquieting thoughts cause me to answer." Haste, i.e. agitation. Job's obstinacy is matched by his theological vigor. For a

22.1-30: Third discourse of Eliphaz. 2: In his role as the self-appointed upholder of a lofty form of theism, Eliphaz stretches a truth to the absurd. Surely God does not need man (the word suggests a strong, vigorous man) or even a wise man. The renowned teacher, Eliphaz, admits that even a member of his own profession is not profitable to God! At the same time, religion is profitable to man. 3: Job's righteousness would not give any pleasure to the Almighty. The friend implies a doctrine of an impassive deity, which is quite contrary to Biblical thought (Hos. ch. 9; Is. 62.5; Lk. 15.7). 17-18: These words are almost identical with those of Job in 21.14-16; perhaps Eliphaz is quoting in order to rebuke. 18: From me, read with the Greek version, “from him.”

23.1–24.17: Reply of Job. A new search for God’s presence. 2: Today, this suggests that the discussion extended over a long period of time. Retain the Hebrew “rebellious” (note j); Job is aware of his revolt. 3–7: For the absent God or the God who hides himself, see Ps.22.1–5; Is.45.15. Job seeks to obtain from the elusive judge an audience and a recognition of his virtue. 7: I should be acquitted for ever by my judge, read with the Greek version, “I should recover my right for ever.” 8–17: Job looks for God. 13: He is unchangeable, literally, “he is in one,” which may mean, as paraphrased in the Greek, “he has decided.” There is no reference to his immutability. 17: Perhaps render, “For I did not keep quiet in spite of the [coming] darkness,” or, “I am not overwhelmed by darkness,” since the terror of God is worse than the proximity of death (vv. 15–16). 24.1–17: God pays no heed to prayer. 1. The Hebrew is obscure; probably read, “Why are not times [i.e. events] kept hidden from the Almighty, since those who know him never see his days [i.e. of judgment]?” If God were not omniscient, the problem of evil would 24.18-25: Third discourse of Zophar (?). A fragment of what was probably the original third discourse of the third friend, now transferred to the mouth of Job by a pious editor who softened the hero's blasphemous arrogance (see also 27.13-23). This poetic section develops the dogma of individual retribution; God's justice may be delayed (v. 22), but it never fails (vv. 23-25). The RSV inserts the words, You say (v. 18), to indicate that these lines are a quotation of the friend's views made by Job.

25.1-6: Third discourse of Bildad. The theme of man's uncleanness and abasement, already developed by Eliphaz (4.17-21; 15.14-16) and Zophar (11.5-12), to which Job has subscribed (9.2-12; 12.9-25; 14.4) without using it for self-accusation.

26.1-4: Reply of Job. The sufferer again uses heavy sarcasm. He implies that Bildad, however lofty the monotheism of the wise men may be on the surface, has communed with evil spirits.

26.5-14: Continuation of Bildad's third discourse (?). While the theme of divine omnipotence is not impossible in the mouth of Job, it has been ignored by the hero in the third round of discussion and is replaced by the theme of divine indifference. Moreover, this section is unrelated to its immediate context (vv. 2-4 and 27.2), while its ideas fit closely with those which have just been enunciated by Bildad. After referring to heaven and earth (25.2-6), the poet normally turns to Sheol. Job had hoped to be hidden in the underworld (14.13), but he cannot escape, even there, the reach of God (an idea common to wisdom literature, 12.22; Ps.139.7; Pr.15.11; see Am.9.2. 6: Abaddon, a name of Sheol, meaning "[place of] destruction" (Ps.88.11; Pr.15.11; Rev.9.11). 7: Over the void . . . upon nothing, the poet stresses the completeness of the creative act, an anticipation of the later doctrine of creation "ex nihilo" (from nothing). Pagan mythology with its dualistic cosmogony has influenced the poet's allusions to a cosmic fight (vv.10-13), but it is now absorbed in a completely monistic theology.

¹⁴ Lo, these are but the outskirts of his ways;
and how small a whisper do we hear of him!
But the thunder of his power who can understand?"

27 And Job again took up his discourse, and said:

² "As God lives, who has taken away my right,
and the Almighty, who has made my soul bitter;
³ as long as my breath is in me,
and the spirit of God is in my nostrils;
⁴ my lips will not speak falsehood,

⁶ I hold fast my righteousness, and will not let it go;
my heart does not reproach me for any of my days.

power in heaven, earth, and Sheol (25.2-6; 26.5-14), the poet searches every part of the universe in order to discover divine wisdom. 1-22: Human technology is powerless in the realm of divine knowledge. 2-6: Allusions to Egyptian mines, probably in the Sinaitic peninsula. 14: The forces of the deep and of the sea were deified by ancient man, who worshiped them in an effort to secure their favor and his safety. 23-27: Wisdom is the exclusive property of God (Pr.8.22-31). 28: The orthodox motto of the Jewish sages after the Babylonian exile; it reveals an entirely different concept of wisdom from that implied in the body of the poem. Here, wisdom is accessible to man and identified with piety (the fear of the Lord) and morality (to depart from evil).

'Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom;
and to depart from evil is understanding' "

29 And Job again took up his discourse, and said:

² "Oh, that I were as in the months of old,
as in the days when God watched over me;

³ when his lamp shone upon my head,
and by his light I walked through darkness;

⁴ as I was in my autumn days,
when the friendship of God was upon my tent;

⁵ when the Almighty was yet with me,
when my children were about me;

⁶ when my steps were washed with milk,
and the rock poured out for me streams of oil!

⁷ When I went out to the gate of the city,
when I prepared my seat in the square,

⁸ the young men saw me and withdrew,
and the aged rose and stood;

⁹ the princes refrained from talking,
and laid their hand on their mouth;

¹⁰ the voice of the nobles was hushed,
and their tongue cleaved to the roof of their mouth.

¹¹ When the ear heard, it called me blessed,
and when the eye saw, it approved;

¹² because I delivered the poor who cried,
and the fatherless who had none to help him.

¹³ The blessing of him who was about to perish came upon me,
and I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.

¹⁴ I put on righteousness, and it clothed me;
my justice was like a robe and a turban.

¹⁵ I was eyes to the blind,
and feet to the lame.

¹⁶ I was a father to the poor,
and I searched out the cause of him whom I did not know.

¹⁷ I broke the fangs of the unrighteous,
and made him drop his prey from his teeth.

¹⁸ Then I thought, 'I shall die in my nest,
and I shall multiply my days as the sand,

¹⁹ my roots spread out to the waters,

²⁰ my glory fresh with me,
and my bow ever new in my hand.'

and they opened their mouths as for the spring rain.

²⁴ I smiled on them when they had no confidence;

²⁵ I chose their way, and sat as chief,

29.1-31.40: The final defense of Job. Contrasting his happy past (ch. 29) with the present distress (ch. 30), the sufferer delivers his final plea or oath of clearance (ch. 31). 29.4: In my autumn days, literally, "in the days of fruit gathering," perhaps meaning, in the days of the full powers of his adulthood, rather than a reference to old age. The traditional picture of Job as an old man is not supported by the many incidental references to his vigorous maturity. The sufferer's agony is made the more cruel by the circumstance that he was stricken at the height of his physical and intellectual powers (v. 20). 18: As the sand, with different vowels the Hebrew

31.1-34.38-40: To convince God and men of his innocence, Job reviews his past behavior in the form of sixteen oaths, covering various aspects of religious and moral misdeeds. The poet offers by implication the evidence of a refined ethical consciousness (which has parallels with the Egyptian Book of the Dead, ch. 125). 1: A covenant with my eyes implies a mature form of introspective awareness. Look upon a virgin, Job knows the psychology of covetousness (Mt.5.28). 13-15: Slaves have rights, established by the Creator for all men. 16-23: A nomadic sense of social responsibility for the total community. 24-28: Job is conscious of the spiritual deterioration behind the worship of idols. 26-27: Nature worship (compare 2 Kg.21.3-5; Jer.44.17-18; Ezek.8.16) is condemned, because it gives man the illusion of being the master of his destiny (v. 28). My mouth has kissed my hand, a form of idolatrous worship (compare 1 Kg.19.18). 33: I have concealed my transgression from men; read with note ^q, "like Adam." The poet is haunted by the relevance of the story of the garden of Eden (Gen.3.10). 35-37: The thought which has dominated the speeches of Job has been his intense desire to see God. The ultimate challenge is hurled at the Deity, but not in a spirit of surrender and humility. Here is my signature! Literally, "my taw" (taw, the last letter of the Hebrew alphabet, was then in the shape of an X). Job does not fear any indictment; he would use it as a symbol of honor (v. 36). 37: Like a prince I would approach him, not as a servant, in the manner of oriental monarchs presenting themselves before their gods and goddesses, but as a noble, unbowed, unshattered hero. Job's self-confidence remains unshaken. 38-40: A last protest, asserting Job's freedom from corruption of the fields; it may be a subtle allusion to the curse on the soil (compare Gen.3.17-18).

32.1-37.24: Discourses of Elihu. Most commentators believe that these chapters, with their peculiar language (containing many Aramaic words) and different style (the new speaker seems to quote Job's speeches and even the yet-undelivered discourse of the LORD), belong to a cause they had found no answer, although they had declared Job to be in the wrong. ⁴ Now Eli'hu had waited to speak to Job because they were older than he. ⁵ And when Eli'hu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of these three men, he became angry.

⁶ And Eli'hu the son of Bar'achel the Buzite answered:

"I am young in years,
and you are aged;
therefore I was timid and afraid
to declare my opinion to you.

⁷ I said, 'Let days speak,
and many years teach wisdom.'

⁸ But it is the spirit in a man,
the breath of the Almighty, that makes him understand.

⁹ It is not the old that are wise,
nor the aged that understand what later hand than that of the poet. In addition to these internal differences, Job's final challenge (31.35-37) calls for the immediate manifestation of God. Likewise, the epilogue (42.7-17) ignores Elihu, which may indicate that he did not belong to the original cast of characters. Nevertheless, this section of the book presents with genuine depth a series of new ideas: the revelatory function of suffering, the stern nature of the love of God, and a hint of salvation by faith. And Elihu's speeches serve to prepare dramatically, psychologically, and theologically for the intervention of the LORD.

32.1-6: Prose introductions. The repetitions indicate the long process of literary transmission. 2: The name Elihu means, "My God is he," perhaps a symbolic name here (it also occurs in 1 Sam.1.1; 1 Chr.12.20). Buzite suggests that Elihu was an Aramean living not far from Edom, for Buz in Gen.22.21 is a brother of Uz (see Job 1.1 n.) and an Aramean (compare Gen.11.26-32), and in Jer.25.23 it is a place name in Edom. 2: He justified himself rather than God, Elihu quite correctly estimates the situation. Job has risen for the defense of man, not God. 3: There is some evidence that the statement, they had declared Job to be in the wrong, originally read, "they had condemned God," an offensive phrase which the scribes corrected in the manuscripts. The silence of the friends after Job's final oath amounts to their assent. 6-22: Poetic introduction. Spirit, not age, is the source of wisdom. Elihu offers revealed knowledge (v. 8) rather than the voice of human experience and tradition. The ludicrous boastfulness of his introductory remarks may have been introduced as a comical element, to relieve tragic tension.

33.1-33: First poem of Elihu. 6: The obscure Hebrew of the first line seems to mean, "Behold I am your equal, not God!" 23-28: Grace is given man, not bought or forced by him. Suffering prepares man to receive the self-disclosure of God. If there is an angel, a mediator (rather, "an intercessor"), who would also declare to man what is right for him, then God would be gracious to him (v. 24a). Here is a whole theology of salvation by grace in miniature. Man does not save himself by an achievement of his will. The intercessor offers on his behalf a ransom (v. 24c). Only as a result of this mediation will man be able to pray to God and to come into his presence with joy (v. 26). Afterwards he will testify to other men, for repentance and awareness of sin are not the cause but the result of God's goodness (vv. 27-28).

and give ear to me, you who know;
3 for the ear tests words
as the palate tastes food.
4 Let us choose what is right;
let us determine among ourselves
what is good.
5 For Job has said, 'I am innocent, and God has taken away my right;
6 in spite of my right I am counted a liar;
my wound is incurable, though I am without transgression.'
7 What man is like Job,
who drinks up scoffing like water,
8 who goes in company with evildoers
and walks with wicked men?
9 For he has said, 'It profits a man nothing
that he should take delight in God.' 10 "Therefore, hear me, you men of understanding,
far be it from God that he should do wickedness,
and from the Almighty that he should do wrong.

11 For according to the work of a man
he will requite him,
and according to his ways he will make it befall him.
12 Of a truth, God will not do wickedly, and the Almighty will not pervert
justice.
13 Who gave him charge over the earth and who laid on him" the whole world?
14 If he should take back his spirit^x to
himself,
and gather to himself his breath, 15 all flesh would perish together,
and man would return to dust.
16 "If you have understanding, hear this;
listen to what I say.
17 Shall one who hates justice govern?
Will you condemn him who is righteous and mighty, 18 who says to a king, 'Worthless one,'
and to nobles, 'Wicked man'; 19 who shows no partiality to princes, nor regards the rich more than the poor,
for they are all the work of his hands?
20 In a moment they die;
at midnight the people are shaken
and pass away,
and the mighty are taken away by no human hand.
21 "For his eyes are upon the ways of a man,
and he sees all his steps.
22 There is no gloom or deep darkness
where evildoers may hide themselves.
23 For he has not appointed a time^y for any man
to go before God in judgment.
24 He shatters the mighty without investigation,
and sets others in their place.

he overturns them in the night, and they are crushed.
²⁶ He strikes them for their wickedness in the sight of men,
²⁷ because they turned aside from following him, and had no regard for any of his ways,
²⁸ so that they caused the cry of the poor to come to him, and he heard the cry of the afflicted—
²⁹ When he is quiet, who can condemn? When he hides his face, who can behold him, whether it be a nation or a man?—
³⁰ that a godless man should not reign, that he should not ensnare the people.
³¹ “For has any one said to God, ‘I have borne chastisement; I will not offend any more;
³² teach me what I do not see; if I have done iniquity, I will do it no more’?
³³ Will he then make requital to suit you, because you reject it?
 For you must choose, and not I; therefore declare what you know.^z
³⁴ Men of understanding will say to me, and the wise man who hears me will say:
³⁵ ‘Job speaks without knowledge, his words are without insight.’
³⁶ Would that Job were tried to the end, because he answers like wicked men.
³⁷ For he adds rebellion to his sin; he claps his hands among us, and multiplies his words against God.”

35 And Eli’hu said:
² “Do you think this to be just? Do you say, ‘It is my right before God,’ ³ that you ask, ‘What advantage have I?

How am I better off than if I had sinned?”
⁴ I will answer you and your friends with you.
⁵ Look at the heavens, and see; and behold the clouds, which are higher than you.
⁶ If you have sinned, what do you accomplish against him?
 And if your transgressions are multiplied, what do you do to him?
⁷ If you are righteous, what do you give to him; or what does he receive from your hand?
⁸ Your wickedness concerns a man like yourself, and your righteousness a son of man.

8 And if they are bound in fetters and caught in the cords of affliction,

10 He opens their ears to instruction,
 and commands that they return

36.1-25: Fourth poem of Elihu. Since affliction always has a purpose (vv. 5-15), let Job beware, and instead of moaning over his fate, may he contemplate the hidden mercy of the upholder of nature and give praise as he participates in the work of God (vv. 16-25).

36.26-37.22: Fifth poem of Elihu. Although without the usual introduction, this may be taken as a separate poem of Elihu. The sovereign ruler of nature, his purpose and his benevolence appeared in the majestic unfolding of the seasons, autumn (vv. 26-33), winter (37.1-13)

- ²⁹ Can any one understand the ³⁰ Behold, he scatters his lightning

about him,
and covers the roots of the sea.
³¹ For by these he judges peoples;
he gives food in abundance.
³² He covers his hands with the lightning,
and commands it to strike the ³³ Its crashing declares concerning him, who is jealous with anger against

iniquity.
- 37 "At this also my heart trembles,
and leaps out of its place.
² Hearken to the thunder of his voice and the rumbling that comes from 40.6-41.34: Second discourse of the LORD. 40.6-9: The divine challenge of man is renewed, apparently because Job is only silenced but not convinced. 8: Will you condemn me that you may be justified? The poet indicates here the central theme of the work. Self-righteousness leads man to condemn God. 15-24: This portrait of Behemoth (like that of Leviathan, 41.1-34) may have received literary amplification, but it plays an integral part of the poet's purpose: the creating God is in control of all forces of evil, despite appearances to the contrary. 15: The primeval monster (compare v. 19) is not a mere hippopotamus, but a mythical symbol. Which I made as I made you, the mystery of evil is not dissolved, but the divine sway embraces all. 41.1-34: Leviathan, not an ordinary crocodile, but the sea-monster (3.8; 26.13; Ps.74.14), which was associated with chaos. Like the psalmist (Ps.104.26), the poet shows that it is only a plaything in the eyes of God.

- ^{9t} Behold, the hope of a man is disappointed;
he is laid low even at the sight of him.

7 After the LORD had spoken these words to Job, the LORD said to Eli'phaz the Te'manite: "My wrath is kindled against you and against your two friends; for you have not spoken of me what is right, as my servant Job has. ⁸ Now therefore take seven bulls and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, and offer up for yourselves a burnt offering; and my servant Job shall pray for you, for I will accept his prayer not to deal with you according to your folly; for you have not spoken of me what is right, as my servant Job has." ⁹ So Eli'phaz the Te'manite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Na'amathite went and did what the LORD had told them; and the LORD accepted Job's prayer.

10 And the LORD restored the fortunes of Job, when he had prayed for his friends; and the LORD gave Job twice as much as he had before. ¹¹ Then came to him all his brothers and sisters and all who had known him before, and ate bread with him in his house; and they showed him sympathy and comforted him for all the evil that the LORD had brought upon him; and each of them gave him a piece of money" and a ring of gold. ¹² And the LORD blessed the latter days of Job more than his beginning; and he had fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she-asses. ¹³ He had also seven sons and three daughters. ¹⁴ And he called the name of the first Jemi'mah; and the name of the second Kezi'ah; and the name of the third Ker'en-hap'puch. ¹⁵ And in all the land there were no women so fair as Job's daughters; and their father gave them inheritance among their brothers. ¹⁶ And after this Job lived a hundred and forty years, and saw his sons, and his sons' sons, four generations. ¹⁷ And Job died, an old man, and full of days.

not justified Job, but he has come to him personally; the upholder of the universe cares for a lonely man so deeply that he offers him the fulness of his communion. Job is not vindicated but he has obtained far more than a recognition of his innocence: he has been accepted by the ever-present master-worker, and intimacy with the Creator makes vindication superfluous. The philosophical problem is not solved, but it is transfigured by the theological reality of the divine-human rapport. 6: I despise myself; the Hebrew verb is obscure, but is probably related to a root meaning "to melt into nothing." I repent, the Hebrew verb used here is not the usual one for repentance of sins, but a word expressing the utmost grief and self-depreciation. Such an experience follows rather than precedes the vision of God.

42.7-17: The epilogue. The style, language, and situation of the folktale (1.1-2.13) reappear abruptly (see Introduction). 8: Burnt offering, sacrificial ritual, absent from the poem, is a characteristic of the archaic story (1.5). 10: Job's restoration follows not his repentance but his intercession on behalf of his friends (v. 8). Intercessory power is a feature which is in accord with the figure of the ancient legend (Ezek.14.14,20). 10-17: Job receives a double restitution, although no healing of his disease is explicitly mentioned. 11: A piece of money, a qesitah (see note y and Gen.33.19; Jos.24.32). 14: The names of Job's new daughters have a flavor of folklore: Jemimah, Dove; Keziah, Cinnamon; Keren-happuch, Horn of eye-paint. 15b: An exceptional procedure (contrast Num.27.1-11). 16-17: A patriarchal theme (Gen.25.8; 35.29; 50.23; see also Ps.128.6; Pr.17.6; 1 Chr.29.28).

THE PSALMS

The living spirit of any religion shines through most clearly in its hymns. The Psalter is the hymnal of ancient Israel, compiled from older collections of lyrics for use in the temple of Zerubbabel (Ezra 5.2; Hag.1.14). Most of the psalms were probably composed to accompany acts of worship in the temple and may be classified as follows: Hymns (acts of praise suitable for any occasion and including the sub-types Enthronement Hymns, celebrating the Lord's kingship, and Songs of Zion, expressing devotion to the Holy City); Laments (in which an individual seeks deliverance from illness or false accusation, or the nation asks for help in time of distress); Songs of Trust (in which an individual expresses his confidence in God's readiness to help); Thanksgivings (in which an individual expresses his gratitude for deliverance); Sacred History (in which the nation recounts the story of God's dealings with it); Royal Psalms (designed to be used for occasions such as a coronation or royal wedding); Wisdom Psalms (which are meditations on life and the ways of God); and Liturgies (which are often of mixed type and were composed for some special cultic or historical occasion). In imitation of the Pentateuch the Psalter is divided into five books (see 41.13 n.)

The titles or superscriptions of the psalms contain a variety of items. They frequently include musical directions, such as "To the choirmaster: with stringed instruments" (Pss. 4; 6; etc.). The meaning of a number of technical terms is no longer definitely known; for example, Shiggaion (Ps. 7), Mikram (Pss. 16; 56-60), Maskil (Pss. 42; 44; 52-55; etc.), Sheminith (Pss. 6; 12), Gittith (Pss. 8; 81; 84), Muth-Labben (Ps. 9), Alamothe (Ps. 46), Mahalath (Ps. 53), Mahalath Leannoth (Ps. 88), Shushan-Eduth (Ps. 60). The first three may refer to types of psalms, and the rest, preceded by "According to," may be the names of tunes, as also The Hind of the Dawn (Ps. 22), Lilies (Pss. 45; 69), The Dove on the Far-off Terebinths (Ps. 56), and Do Not Destroy (Pss. 57-59; 75). References to the Sons of Korah (Pss. 42; 44-49; 84; etc.), Jeduthun (Pss. 39; 62; 77), Asaph (Pss. 50; 73-83), Heman (Ps. 88), and Ethan (Ps. 89) point to the work of professional Levitical musicians (1 Chr.15.16-22; Neh.12.41-46). Song of Ascents (Pss. 120-134) may mean "pilgrim song," that is, of ascent to Jerusalem. The ascription of nearly half of the psalms to David is testimony to the regard in which the great singer of Israel was held (2 Sam.23.1). For the significance of the frequently recurring word, "Selah," see 3.2 n.

The book of Psalms reflects many aspects of the religious experience of Israel. Its intrinsic spiritual depth and beauty have made it from earliest times a treasury of resources for public and private devotion.

BOOK I

|| Blessed is the man who walks not in the counsel of
the wicked,
nor stands in the way of sinners,
nor sits in the seat of scoffers;
² but his delight is in the law of the LORD,
and on his law he meditates day
and night.
³ He is like a tree

planted by streams of water,
that yields its fruit in its season,
and its leaf does not wither.
In all that he does, he prospers.

⁴ The wicked are not so,
but are like chaff which the wind drives away.
⁵ Therefore the wicked will not stand in the judgment,
nor sinners in the congregation of
the righteous;

Ps. 1: The contrasting fate of the righteous and the wicked (a wisdom psalm). Compare Jer.17.5-8. 1-3: The prosperity of the righteous. 1: Blessed is the conventional translation of a Hebrew expression meaning literally "O how happy . . . !" 2: Compare Ps. 119. 4-6: The disastrous end of the wicked. 4: In threshing, the crushed sheaves were tossed into the air, where the wind blew away the lighter chaff.

⁶ for the LORD knows the way of the righteous,
but the way of the wicked will perish.

2 Why do the nations conspire,
and the peoples plot in vain?

² The kings of the earth set themselves,
and the rulers take counsel together,
against the LORD and his anointed, saying,

³ "Let us burst their bonds asunder,
and cast their cords from us."

⁴ He who sits in the heavens laughs;
the LORD has them in derision.

⁵ Then he will speak to them in his wrath,
and terrify them in his fury, saying,

⁶ "I have set my king
on Zion, my holy hill."

⁷ I will tell of the decree of the LORD:
He said to me, "You are my son,
today I have begotten you.

⁸ Ask of me, and I will make the nations your heritage,
and the ends of the earth your possession.

⁹ You shall break them with a rod of iron,
and dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel."

¹⁰ Now therefore, O kings, be wise;
be warned, O rulers of the earth.

¹¹ Serve the LORD with fear, with trembling ¹² kiss his feet,^a lest he be angry, and you perish in the way;

for his wrath is quickly kindled.

Blessed are all who take refuge in him.

A Psalm of David, when he fled from Absalom his son.

Many are rising against me;

² many are saying of me,
there is no help for him in God.

³ But thou, O LORD, art a shield about me,
my glory, and the lifter of my head.

⁵ I lie down and sleep;
I wake again, for the LORD sustains me.

⁶ I am not afraid of ten thousands of people who have set themselves against me round about.

⁷ Arise, O LORD!
Deliver me, O my God!
For thou dost smite all my enemies
on the cheek,
thou dost break the teeth of the wicked.

Ps. 2: The LORD gives universal dominion to his king (a royal psalm, composed for a coronation). 1-3: Israel's subject peoples plot rebellion against the new king. 2: The word anointed in Hebrew is literally "messiah," one of the titles of an Israelite king; after the extinction of the Hebrew monarchy, this became a name for the ideal king of a future, hoped-for restoration, and the psalm was reinterpreted accordingly (compare Acts 4.25-29). 4-9: The newly enthroned king quotes God's promise of universal rule. 7: You are my son . . . begotten you, a formula of adoption whereby the king became God's son (compare 2 Sam.7.14; Ps.89.26-27; also Acts 13.33). 10-12: Rebellious rulers are warned to submit.

Ps. 3: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1-2: The psalmist's complaint. 2: Selah is a liturgical direction; it may indicate that there should be an instrumental interlude at this point in the singing of the psalm. 3-4: Expression of trust, a regular element in psalms which are laments. 5-6: It is perhaps after having spent the night in the temple that the psalmist receives assurance that the LORD is still on his side. 7-8: Concluding prayer for the psalmist and the nation.

⁸ Deliverance belongs to the LORD;
thy blessing be upon thy people!

To the choirmaster: for the flutes. A Psalm of David.

5 Give ear to my words, O LORD;
give heed to my groaning.

² Hearken to the sound of my cry,
my King and my God,
for to thee do I pray.

³ O LORD, in the morning thou dost hear my voice;
in the morning I prepare a sacrifice for thee, and watch.

⁴ For thou art not a God who delights in wickedness;
evil may not sojourn with thee.

⁵ The boastful may not stand before thy eyes;
thou hatest all evildoers.

⁶ Thou destroyest those who speak lies;
the LORD abhors bloodthirsty and deceitful men.

⁷ But I through the abundance of thy steadfast love
will enter thy house,
I will worship toward thy holy temple
in the fear of thee.

⁸ Lead me, O LORD, in thy righteousness
because of my enemies;
make thy way straight before me.

⁹ For there is no truth in their mouth;
their heart is destruction,
their throat is an open sepulchre,
they flatter with their tongue.

¹⁰ Make them bear their guilt, O God;
let them fall by their own counsels;

Ps. 4: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1: Cry for help. 2-4: The psalmist rebukes those who falsely accuse him of wrong-doing. The charge is probably a formal accusation to which the accused replies by publicly protesting his innocence (compare 26.4-7). 2,4: Selah, see 3.2 n. 5-8: He is assured of the LORD's help. The ceremony in which this psalm was used evidently included sacrifice (v. 5) and possibly spending the night in the temple (v. 8; compare 3.5).

Ps. 5: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1-2: Cry for help. 3-7: Expression of trust (compare 3.3-4). 3: In the morning . . . a sacrifice probably refers to a ceremony at the end of a night's vigil (compare 3.5; 4.8). 8-12: Concluding prayer. 9-10: See 4.2-4 n.

In the church liturgy this is the first of seven Penitential Psalms (6; 32; 38; 51; 102; 130; 143). 1-5: Cry for help. 5: Sheol, the place of the dead, where men retain only the faintest semblance of life (compare 88.5-6; Job 3.13-19; see Gen.37.35 n.). 6-7: The psalmist's weakened condition. 8-10: He receives assurance that his prayer is heard. 8: He blames his enemies for his illness, perhaps believing that they have put a curse upon him (compare 102.3-8).

Ps. 7: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1-2: Cry for help. 3-5: Pro-testation of innocence (see 4.2-4 n.). 3: This, the specific crime of which the psalmist was accused. 5: Selah, see 3.2 n. 6-9: Prayer for God's intervention in his trial.

Ps. 12: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1-4: Cry for help. The psalmist's trials are characteristic of the faithlessness of the times. 5: Perhaps spoken by a priest or temple prophet as a formal act of assurance to the suppliant. 6-8: The choir (which is perhaps implied in the use of us) commends reliance on the promise just made and prays that it may soon be carried out.

Ps. 13: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1-2: The psalmist's complaint is given special emotional force by the four-fold "How long?" 3-4: Prayer for help (see 4.2-4 n.). Lighten my eyes, compare 38.10. 5: Expression of trust (compare 3.3-4). 6: The vow (see 7.17 n.).

To the choirmaster. Of David.

A Psalm of David.

14 The fool says in his heart,
 "There is no God."
 They are corrupt, they do abominable deeds,
 there is none that does good.

² The LORD looks down from heaven
 upon the children of men,
 to see if there are any that act wisely,
 that seek after God.

³ They have all gone astray, they are all alike corrupt;
 there is none that does good,
 no, not one.

⁴ Have they no knowledge, all the
 evildoers
 who eat up my people as they eat bread,
 and do not call upon the LORD?

⁵ There they shall be in great terror,
 for God is with the generation of
 the righteous.

⁶ You would confound the plans of the poor,
 but the LORD is his refuge.

⁷ O that deliverance for Israel would come out of Zion!
 When the LORD restores the fortunes of his people, Jacob shall rejoice, Israel shall be glad.

15 O LORD, who shall sojourn in thy tent?
 Who shall dwell on thy holy hill?

² He who walks blamelessly, and does
 what is right,
 and speaks truth from his heart;

³ who does not slander with his tongue,
 and does no evil to his friend,
 nor takes up a reproach against his neighbor;

⁴ in whose eyes a reprobate is despised,
 but who honors those who fear
 the LORD;
 who swears to his own hurt and does not change;

⁵ who does not put out his money at interest,
 and does not take a bribe against the innocent.

He who does these things shall never be moved.

A Miktam of David.

16 Preserve me, O God, for in thee
 I take refuge.

² I say to the LORD, "Thou art my
 Lord;
 I have no good apart from thee."^g

³ As for the saints in the land, they are the noble,
 in whom is all my delight.

Ps. 14: Condemnation of a cynical and unrighteous age. This psalm (which is almost identical with Ps. 53) seems to be a variation on the typical lament, the psalmist generalizing his personal troubles as characteristic of an evil generation (compare 12.1-4). 1-3: The corruption of the age. 1: The fool, not a silly man, but one who is utterly corrupt in his moral character (compare 2 Sam.13.13; Pr.10.23). There is no God, see 10.4 n. 4-6: A threat to the evil-doers, having the force of a curse. Eat up my people, compare Mic.3.2-3. 7: A yearning for better times.

Ps. 15: A liturgy for admission to the temple. 1: The question: Who shall be admitted to the worshipping congregation? 2-5: The answer: Only those who have the requisite moral qualities. 5: The prohibition of interest (Ex.22.25; Lev.25.35-37) has reference to charitable loans made for the relief of distress rather than to the purely business type of loan which became common in a later commercial age.

Ps. 16: An act of personal faith in God's power to save (a song of trust; see Ps. 11 n.). 1: Prayer for deliverance from trouble. 2-8: The psalmist bases his appeal upon his own past

my feet have not slipped.
- ⁶ I call upon thee, for thou wilt answer
me, O God;
incline thy ear to me, hear my words.
- ⁷ Wondrously show thy steadfast love,
O savior of those who seek

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David
 the servant of the LORD, who addressed the words of this song to the LORD on the day when the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul. He said:

18 I love thee, O LORD, my strength.

² The LORD is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer,
 my God, my rock, in whom I take refuge,
 my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold.

³ I call upon the LORD, who is worthy to be praised,
 and I am saved from my enemies.

⁴ The cords of death encompassed me,
 the torrents of perdition assailed
 me;

⁵ the cords of Sheol entangled me,
 the snares of death confronted me.

⁶ In my distress I called upon the
 LORD;
 to my God I cried for help.
 From his temple he heard my voice,
 and my cry to him reached his ears.

⁷ Then the earth reeled and rocked;
 the foundations also of the mountains trembled
 and quaked, because he was angry.

⁸ Smoke went up from his nostrils, and devouring fire from his mouth;
 glowing coals flamed forth from
 him.

⁹ He bowed the heavens, and came down;
 thick darkness was under his feet.

¹⁰ He rode on a cherub, and flew;
 he came swiftly upon the wings of the wind.

¹¹ He made darkness his covering
 around him,
 his canopy thick clouds dark with
 water.

¹² Out of the brightness before him
 there broke through his clouds
 hailstones and coals of fire.

¹³ The LORD also thundered in the heavens,
 and the Most High uttered his
 voice,
 hailstones and coals of fire.

¹⁴ And he sent out his arrows, and scattered them;
 he flashed forth lightnings, and routed them.

¹⁵ Then the channels of the sea were seen,
 and the foundations of the world
 were laid bare,
 at thy rebuke, O LORD,
 at the blast of the breath of thy nostrils.

¹⁶ He reached from on high, he took
 me,
 he drew me out of many waters.

¹⁷ He delivered me from my strong
 enemy,

Ps. 18: A king gives thanks for a victory in battle (a royal thanksgiving). This psalm is also found in 2 Sam. ch. 22. 1-3: Confession of faith in God's readiness to help. 4-6: Metaphorical description of the psalmist's difficulties; for the actual situation see vv. 37-45. Narration of the troubles from which the worshiper has been saved is a regular feature of the thanksgiving psalms. 7-19: God's intervention in the battle. The imagery associates the LORD's appearance with the phenomena of a thunderstorm (compare Jg.5.4-5; Ps.29.3-9). 8: Glowing coals, the lightning. 10: Cherub, probably a personification of the storm cloud (see Ezek.1.5 n.; Pss.68.33; 104.3). 13: His voice, the thunder, as in Ps. 29. 15: The breath of thy nostrils, the storm wind.

and from those who hated me;
for they were too mighty for me.
18 They came upon me in the day of my calamity;
but the LORD was my stay.
19 He brought me forth into a broad
place;
he delivered me, because he delighted in me.
20 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteousness;
according to the cleanness of my
hands he recompensed me.
21 For I have kept the ways of the
LORD,
and have not wickedly departed
from my God.
22 For all his ordinances were before
me,
and his statutes I did not put away from me.
23 I was blameless before him,
and I kept myself from guilt.
24 Therefore the LORD has recompensed me according to my righteousness,
according to the cleanness of my
hands in his sight.
25 With the loyal thou dost show thyself loyal;
with the blameless man thou dost
show thyself blameless;
26 with the pure thou dost show
thyself pure;
and with the crooked thou dost
show thyself perverse.
27 For thou dost deliver a humble
people;
but the haughty eyes thou dost
bring down.
28 Yea, thou dost light my lamp;
the LORD my God lightens my
darkness.
29 Yea, by thee I can crush a troop;
and by my God I can leap over a wall.
30 This God—his way is perfect;

the promise of the LORD proves
true;
he is a shield for all those who take refuge in him.
31 For who is God, but the LORD?
And who is a rock, except our
God?—
32 the God who girded me with strength,
and made my way safe.
33 He made my feet like hinds' feet,
and set me secure on the heights.
34 He trains my hands for war,
so that my arms can bend a bow
of bronze.
35 Thou hast given me the shield of thy
salvation,
and thy right hand supported me,
and thy helpⁱ made me great.
36 Thou didst give a wide place for my steps under me,
and my feet did not slip.
37 I pursued my enemies and overtook
them;
and did not turn back till they were consumed.
38 I thrust them through, so that they were not able to rise;
they fell under my feet.
39 For thou didst gird me with strength
for the battle;
thou didst make my assailants
sink under me.
40 Thou didst make my enemies turn their backs to me,
and those who hated me I destroyed.
41 They cried for help, but there was none to save,
they cried to the LORD, but he did not answer them.
42 I beat them fine as dust before the wind;
I cast them out like the mire of the streets.
43 Thou didst deliver me from strife
with the peoples;^j

At least the nucleus of this psalm may go back to David.

Ps. 19: Hymn to God as creator of nature and giver of the law. 1–6: The glory of God is manifested in the phenomena of the heavens and particularly in the might of the sun. 1–4a: The sky and the successive days and nights are personified as members of a choir ceaselessly singing God's praises. 3: There is no speech . . . i.e. they cannot be heard by human ears. 4b–6: The skies provide a track along which the sun, like an athlete, runs his daily course. 7–14: Probably a later writer added these verses praising the revelation of God's will in the Mosaic law in order to counterbalance what seemed to him the almost pagan emphasis upon the revelation of God in nature (vv. 1–6). 7–9: Six synonyms are used to describe the law (compare Ps. 119). 9: Fear, many scholars emend to "word" (see 119.11). 10: Observance of the law is a joy, not a burden.

Ps. 24: A liturgy on entering the sanctuary, probably used in connection with a procession of the ark. 1-6: Perhaps sung by a choir within the temple gates. 1-2: Acknowledgment of the LORD as the creator. 3: The question: Who shall be admitted to the temple? (compare Ps. 15). 4-6: The answer: Only those who have the requisite moral qualities. 6: Selah, see 3.2 n. 7-10: The choir outside the gates, presumably accompanied by the ark, now requests to be admitted. 7: Heads, lintels. 8-10: The King of glory . . . , means the God of Israel, whose presence was associated with the ark (Num.10.35-36).

Ps. 25: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). In acrostic form (compare Pss. 9-10 n.), every successive verse beginning with another letter of the Hebrew alphabet. This

- ³ Yea, let none that wait for thee be put to shame;
let them be ashamed who are wantonly treacherous.
- ⁴ Make me to know thy ways, O LORD;
teach me thy paths.
- ⁵ Lead me in thy truth, and teach me,
for thou art the God of my salvation;
for thee I wait all the day long.
- ⁶ Be mindful of thy mercy, O LORD,
and of thy steadfast love,
for they have been from of old.
- ⁷ Remember not the sins of my youth,
or my transgressions;
according to thy steadfast love remember me,
for thy goodness' sake, O LORD!
- ⁸ Good and upright is the LORD;
therefore he instructs sinners in the way.
- ⁹ He leads the humble in what is right,
and teaches the humble his way.
- ¹⁰ All the paths of the LORD are steadfast love and faithfulness,
for those who keep his covenant and his testimonies.
- ¹¹ For thy name's sake, O LORD,
pardon my guilt, for it is great.
- ¹² Who is the man that fears the LORD?
Him will he instruct in the way that he should choose.
- ¹³ He himself shall abide in prosperity,
and his children shall possess the land.
- ¹⁴ The friendship of the LORD is for those who fear him,
and he makes known to them his covenant.
- ¹⁵ My eyes are ever toward the LORD,
for he will pluck my feet out of the net.
- ¹⁶ Turn thou to me, and be gracious to me;
for I am lonely and afflicted.
- ¹⁷ Relieve the troubles of my heart,
and bring me^b out of my distresses.
- ¹⁸ Consider my affliction and my trouble,
and forgive all my sins.
- ¹⁹ Consider how many are my foes,
and with what violent hatred they hate me.
- ²⁰ Oh guard my life, and deliver me;
let me not be put to shame, for I take refuge in thee.
- ²¹ May integrity and uprightness preserve me,
for I wait for thee.
- ²² Redeem Israel, O God,
out of all his troubles.

A Psalm of David.

- 26 Vindicate me, O LORD,
for I have walked in my integrity,
and I have trusted in the LORD without wavering.
- ² Prove me, O LORD, and try me;
test my heart and my mind.
- ³ For thy steadfast love is before my eyes,
and I walk in faithfulness to thee.^c
- ⁴ I do not sit with false men,
nor do I consort with dissemblers;

artificial pattern accounts for the absence of any clear, logical structure, although the psalm has most of the elements of the typical lament: cry for help (vv. 1-3), the psalmist's situation (vv. 18-19), protestation of innocence (v. 21), expression of trust (vv. 8-15), prayer for vindication (vv. 16-20). 13: Possess the land, see 37.9,11,29; compare Dt.11.8-9. 22: Probably a liturgical addition adapting an individual prayer to congregational use.

PSALM 27

- ⁵ I hate the company of evildoers,
and I will not sit with the wicked.
- ⁶ I wash my hands in innocence,
and go about thy altar, O LORD,
⁷ singing aloud a song of thanksgiving,
and telling all thy wondrous
deeds.
- ⁸ O LORD, I love the habitation of thy
house,
and the place where thy glory
dwells.
- ⁹ Sweep me not away with sinners,
nor my life with bloodthirsty men,
¹⁰ men in whose hands are evil devices,
and whose right hands are full of bribes.
- ¹¹ But as for me, I walk in my integrity;
redeem me, and be gracious to me.
- ¹² My foot stands on level ground;
in the great congregation I will bless the LORD.

A Psalm of David.

27 The LORD is my light and my
salvation;
whom shall I fear?
The LORD is the stronghold^d of my life;
of whom shall I be afraid?

- ² When evildoers assail me, uttering slanders against me,^e
my adversaries and foes,
they shall stumble and fall.
- ³ Though a host encamp against me,
my heart shall not fear;
though war arise against me,
yet I will be confident.

"The LORD is my light and my salvation"

- ⁴ One thing have I asked of the LORD,
that will I seek after;
that I may dwell in the house of the LORD
all the days of my life,
to behold the beauty of the LORD,
and to inquire in his temple.
- ⁵ For he will hide me in his shelter
in the day of trouble;
he will conceal me under the cover
of his tent,
he will set me high upon a rock.
- ⁶ And now my head shall be lifted up above my enemies round about
me;
and I will offer in his tent
sacrifices with shouts of joy;
I will sing and make melody to the
LORD.
- ⁷ Hear, O LORD, when I cry aloud,
be gracious to me and answer me!
⁸ Thou hast said, "Seek ye my face."
My heart says to thee,
"Thy face, LORD, do I seek."
⁹ Hide not thy face from me.

Turn not thy servant away in anger,
thou who hast been my help.
Cast me not off, forsake me not,
O God of my salvation!
¹⁰ For my father and my mother have forsaken me,
but the LORD will take me up.

- ¹¹ Teach me thy way, O LORD;
and lead me on a level path
because of my enemies.
- ¹² Give me not up to the will of my adversaries;
for false witnesses have risen
against me,
and they breathe out violence.

4.2-4). 6-7: The protest is dramatized in a liturgical ceremony. Wash my hands in innocence, compare Dt.21.6-8; Ps.51.7. 8-11: Prayer for help. Thy glory dwells, Is.4.5; Ezek.43.4-5. 12: The vow (see 7.17 n.).

Ps. 27: An act of devotion and a prayer for deliverance. 1-6: Song of trust (see Ps. 11 n.). 4: Dwell in the house of the LORD, see 23.6 n. As with most of the psalms, the author is probably a temple functionary, a Levite. 6: Tent, poetic name for the temple. 7-14: A lament. 7-9: Cry for help. 10-12: The psalmist's situation. 13-14: Expression of confidence. In the land of the living, i.e. "during my life."

- ¹³ I believe that I shall see the goodness of the LORD
in the land of the living!
¹⁴ Wait for the LORD;
be strong, and let your heart take
courage;
yea, wait for the LORD!

A Psalm of David.

28 To thee, O LORD, I call;
my rock, be not deaf to me,
lest, if thou be silent to me,
I become like those who go down to the Pit.

² Hear the voice of my supplication,
as I cry to thee for help,
as I lift up my hands
toward thy most holy sanctuary.^f

³ Take me not off with the wicked, with those who are workers of evil,
who speak peace with their neighbors,
while mischief is in their hearts.

⁴ Requite them according to their work,
and according to the evil of their
deeds;
requite them according to the work
of their hands;

render them their due reward.
⁵ Because they do not regard the works
of the LORD,
or the work of his hands,
he will break them down and build them up no more.

⁶ Blessed be the LORD!
for he has heard the voice of my supplications.

⁷ The LORD is my strength and my shield;

in him my heart trusts;
so I am helped, and my heart exults,
and with my song I give thanks to
him.

⁸ The LORD is the strength of his
people,
he is the saving refuge of his anointed.

⁹ O save thy people, and bless thy
heritage;
be thou their shepherd, and carry them for ever.

A Psalm of David.

29 Ascribe to the LORD, O heavenly beings,^g
ascribe to the LORD glory and
strength.

² Ascribe to the LORD the glory of his name;
worship the LORD in holy array.

³ The voice of the LORD is upon the waters;
the God of glory thunders,
the LORD, upon many waters.

⁴ The voice of the LORD is powerful,
the voice of the LORD is full of majesty.

⁵ The voice of the LORD breaks the cedars,
the LORD breaks the cedars of Lebanon.

and Si'ron like a young wild ox.

Ps. 28: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1-5: Cry for vindication (compare 26.1-3). 1: The Pit, i.e. Sheol (see 6.5 n.). 6-7: After v. 5, a priest or temple prophet probably delivered an oracle of assurance (compare 12.5 n.), to which these verses are the psalmist's grateful response. 8-9: See 25.22 n. 8: Anointed, see 2.2 n. 9: Shepherd, Is.40.11.

Ps. 29: Hymn to the God of the storm. 1-2: Call to worship. 3-9: The LORD's manifestation in the thunderstorm. 3: The voice of the LORD, the thunder. The waters, the Mediterranean, but with mythological overtones. 5: Lebanon, the principal mountains of Syria. 6: Sirion, Mount Hermon. 7: Flames of fire, the lightning. 8: Kadesh, probably the Kadesh of the wilderness

- ⁸ The voice of the LORD shakes the wilderness,
the LORD shakes the wilderness of Kadesh.
- ⁹ The voice of the LORD makes the oaks to whirl,^h and strips the forests bare;
and in his temple all cry, "Glory!"
- ¹⁰ The LORD sits enthroned over the flood;
the LORD sits enthroned as king for ever.
- ¹¹ May the LORD give strength to his people!
May the LORD bless his people with peace!
- ⁶ As for me, I said in my prosperity,
"I shall never be moved."
⁷ By thy favor, O LORD,
thou hadst established me as a strong mountain;
thou didst hide thy face,
I was dismayed.
- ⁸ To thee, O LORD, I cried;
and to the LORD I made supplication:
⁹ "What profit is there in my death,
if I go down to the Pit?
Will the dust praise thee?
Will it tell of thy faithfulness?"
¹⁰ Hear, O LORD, and be gracious to me!
O LORD, be thou my helper!"
- ¹¹ Thou hast turned for me my mourning into dancing;
thou hast loosed my sackcloth
and girded me with gladness,
¹² that my soulⁱ may praise thee and not be silent.
O LORD my God, I will give thanks to thee for ever.

A Psalm of David. A Song at the dedication of the Temple.

30 I will extol thee, O LORD, for thou hast drawn me up,
and hast not let my foes rejoice
over me.

² O LORD my God, I cried to thee for help,
and thou hast healed me.

³ O LORD, thou hast brought up my soul from Sheol, restored me to life from among those gone down to the Pit.^j

⁴ Sing praises to the LORD, O you his saints, and give thanks to his holy name.

⁵ For his anger is but for a moment,
and his favor is for a lifetime.
Weeping may tarry for the night,
but joy comes with the morning.

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

31 In thee, O LORD, do I seek refuge;
let me never be put to shame;
in thy righteousness deliver me!

² Incline thy ear to me,
rescue me speedily!
Be thou a rock of refuge for me, wanderings (Num.20.1). 10-11: Above the tumult of the storm, the LORD reigns in majestic peace.

Ps. 30: Thanksgiving for healing. 1-3: God is praised for the psalmist's recovery. The psalm was probably sung in fulfilment of a vow (see 7.17 n.). 3: Sheol . . . the Pit, see 28.1 n. 4-5: The congregation is invited to join in his thanksgiving. 4: Saints, devout adherents (see 16.10 n., same Hebrew word). 6-12: The narrative of his experience (see 18.4-6 n.): Before his illness he had felt perfectly secure (vv. 6-7); when illness came, he turned to God in prayer (vv. 8-10), and God answered him (vv. 11-12).

Ps. 31: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). Verses 1-8 and 9-24 are parallel in form, both containing the principal elements of a lament. 1-8: Cry for help (vv. 1-5),

- for thy name's sake lead me and guide me,
4 take me out of the net which is hidden
for me,
for thou art my refuge.
5 Into thy hand I commit my spirit;
thou hast redeemed me, O LORD, faithful God.
- 6 Thou hatest^k those who pay regard
to vain idols;
but I trust in the LORD.
7 I will rejoice and be glad for thy steadfast love,
because thou hast seen my
affliction,
thou hast taken heed of my adversities,
8 and hast not delivered me into the hand of the enemy;
thou hast set my feet in a broad
place.
- 9 Be gracious to me, O LORD, for I am
in distress;
my eye is wasted from grief,
my soul and my body also.
10 For my life is spent with sorrow,
and my years with sighing;
my strength fails because of my misery,^l
and my bones waste away.
- 11 I am the scorn of all my adversaries,
a horror^m to my neighbors,
an object of dread to my acquaintances;
those who see me in the street flee
from me.
12 I have passed out of mind like one who is dead;
I have become like a broken vessel.
13 Yea, I hear the whispering of many-terror on every side!-
as they scheme together against me,
as they plot to take my life.
- 14 But I trust in thee, O LORD,
I say, "Thou art my God."
15 My times are in thy hand;
deliver me from the hand of my enemies and persecutors!
16 Let thy face shine on thy servant;
save me in thy steadfast love!
17 Let me not be put to shame, O
LORD,
for I call on thee;
let the wicked be put to shame,
let them go dumbfounded to Sheol.
18 Let the lying lips be dumb, which speak insolently against the righteous
in pride and contempt.
- 19 O how abundant is thy goodness,
which thou hast laid up for those who fear thee,
and wrought for those who take refuge in thee,
in the sight of the sons of men!
20 In the covert of thy presence thou hidest them
from the plots of men;
thou holdest them safe under thy shelter
from the strife of tongues.
- 21 Blessed be the LORD,
for he has wondrously shown his steadfast love to me when I was beset as in a besieged
city.
22 I had said in my alarm,
"I am driven far" from thy sight."
But thou didst hear my supplications,
when I cried to thee for help.
- 23 Love the LORD, all you his saints!
The LORD preserves the faithful,
but abundantly requites him who acts haughtily.

²⁴ Be strong, and let your heart take
courage,
all you who wait for the LORD!

A Psalm of David. A Maskil.

32 Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven,
whose sin is covered.

² Blessed is the man to whom the LORD imputes no iniquity,
and in whose spirit there is no
deceit.

³ When I declared not my sin, my body wasted away
through my groaning all day long.

⁴ For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me;
my strength was dried up^o as by the heat of summer. Selah

⁵ I acknowledged my sin to thee,
and I did not hide my iniquity;
I said, "I will confess my transgressions to the LORD";
then thou didst forgive the guilt
of my sin. Selah

⁶ Therefore let every one who is godly offer prayer to thee;
at a time of distress,^p in the rush of great waters,
they shall not reach him.

⁷ Thou art a hiding place for me,
thou preservest me from trouble;
thou dost encompass me with deliverance.^q Selah

⁸ I will instruct you and teach you
the way you should go;
I will counsel you with my eye
upon you.

⁹ Be not like a horse or a mule,
without understanding,

which must be curbed with bit
and bridle,
else it will not keep with you.

¹⁰ Many are the pangs of the wicked;
but steadfast love surrounds him
who trusts in the LORD.

¹¹ Be glad in the LORD, and rejoice, O
righteous,
and shout for joy, all you upright
in heart!

33 Rejoice in the LORD, O you
righteous!

Praise befits the upright.

² Praise the LORD with the lyre, make melody to him with the harp of ten strings!

³ Sing to him a new song, play skillfully on the strings, with loud shouts.

⁴ For the word of the LORD is upright;
and all his work is done in faithfulness.

⁵ He loves righteousness and justice;
the earth is full of the steadfast love of the LORD.

⁶ By the word of the LORD the heavens were made,
and all their host by the breath of his mouth.

⁷ He gathered the waters of the sea as
in a bottle;
he put the deeps in storehouses.

⁸ Let all the earth fear the LORD, let all the inhabitants of the world
stand in awe of him!

⁹ For he spoke, and it came to be;
he commanded, and it stood
forth.

- ²² Let thy steadfast love, O LORD, be upon us,
even as we hope in thee.

A Psalm of David, when he feigned madness before Abimelech, so that he drove him out, and he went away.

- 34 I will bless the LORD at all times;
his praise shall continually be in my mouth.
- ² My soul makes its boast in the LORD;
let the afflicted hear and be glad.
- ³ O magnify the LORD with me,
and let us exalt his name together!
- ⁴ I sought the LORD, and he answered me,
and delivered me from all my fears.
- ⁵ Look to him, and be radiant;
so your faces shall never be ashamed.
- ⁶ This poor man cried, and the LORD heard him,
and saved him out of all his troubles.
- ⁷ The angel of the LORD encamps around those who fear him, and delivers them.
- ⁸ O taste and see that the LORD is good!
Happy is the man who takes refuge in him!
- ⁹ O fear the LORD, you his saints,
for those who fear him have no want!
- ¹⁰ The young lions suffer want and hunger;
but those who seek the LORD lack no good thing.

Ps. 36: A psalm of mixed type: vv. 1-4 are in the type of a wisdom psalm; vv. 5-9, a hymn; vv. 10-12, a prayer in the style of a lament. Since the last section seems to determine the character of the whole, the psalm should probably be classified as a liturgy of lament. 1-4: The character of the wicked man. 1: The wicked man is inspired by transgression just as a prophet

- ⁵ Thy steadfast love, O LORD, extends to the heavens,
thy faithfulness to the clouds.
- ⁶ Thy righteousness is like the mountains of God,
thy judgments are like the great deep;
man and beast thou savest, O
LORD.
- ⁷ How precious is thy steadfast love,
O God!
The children of men take refuge
in the shadow of thy wings.
- ⁸ They feast on the abundance of thy
house,
and thou givest them drink from
the river of thy delights.
- ⁹ For with thee is the fountain of life;
in thy light do we see light.
- ¹⁰ O continue thy steadfast love to those who know thee,
and thy salvation to the upright of
heart!
- ¹¹ Let not the foot of arrogance come
upon me,
nor the hand of the wicked drive
me away.
- ¹² There the evildoers lie prostrate,
they are thrust down, unable to rise.

A Psalm of David.

- 37 Fret not yourself because of the wicked,
be not envious of wrongdoers!
² For they will soon fade like the grass,
and wither like the green herb.
- ³ Trust in the LORD, and do good;

- so you will dwell in the land, and enjoy security.
- ⁴ Take delight in the LORD,
and he will give you the desires of your heart.
- ⁵ Commit your way to the LORD;
trust in him, and he will act.
- ⁶ He will bring forth your vindication
as the light,
and your right as the noonday.
- ⁷ Be still before the LORD, and wait patiently for him;
fret not yourself over him who
prosperes in his way,
over the man who carries out evil
devices!
- ⁸ Refrain from anger, and forsake
wrath!
Fret not yourself; it tends only to
evil.
- ⁹ For the wicked shall be cut off;
but those who wait for the LORD
shall possess the land.
- ¹⁰ Yet a little while, and the wicked will be no more;
though you look well at his place,
he will not be there.
- ¹¹ But the meek shall possess the land,
and delight themselves in abundant prosperity.
- ¹² The wicked plots against the
righteous,
and gnashes his teeth at him;

Ps. 37. The certainty of retribution for the wicked (a wisdom psalm). The argument is directed to those discouraged by the injustices which apparently dominate the world. The acrostic form of the psalm (see Pss. 9-10 n.) explains the lack of a clear outline or logical progression of thought. 3: The land, Palestine (vv. 9,11,22,29; compare Dt.11.8-32). 10: The heart of the argument: Do not be impatient! Retribution will come soon, even though it is not evident now (compare vv. 35-36). 11: Compare Mt.5.5.

to slay those who walk uprightly; 15 their sword shall enter their own
 heart,
 and their bows shall be broken.

16 Better is a little that the righteous has
 than the abundance of many
 wicked.
 17 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken;
 but the LORD upholds the
 righteous.

18 The LORD knows the days of the blameless,
 and their heritage will abide for
 ever;
 19 they are not put to shame in evil
 times,
 in the days of famine they have abundance.

20 But the wicked perish;
 the enemies of the LORD are like
 the glory of the pastures,
 they vanish—like smoke they vanish away.

21 The wicked borrows, and cannot pay back,
 but the righteous is generous and gives;
 22 for those blessed by the LORD shall possess the land,
 but those cursed by him shall be cut off.

23 The steps of a man are from the LORD,
 and he establishes him in whose
 way he delights;
 24 though he fall, he shall not be cast
 headlong,
 for the LORD is the stay of his hand.

25 I have been young, and now am old;
 yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken

or his children begging bread.
 26 He is ever giving liberally and lending,
 and his children become a blessing.

27 Depart from evil, and do good;
 so shall you abide for ever.
 28 For the LORD loves justice;
 he will not forsake his saints.

The righteous shall be preserved for
 ever,
 but the children of the wicked
 shall be cut off.

29 The righteous shall possess the land,
 and dwell upon it for ever.

30 The mouth of the righteous utters
 wisdom,
 and his tongue speaks justice.

31 The law of his God is in his heart;
 his steps do not slip.

32 The wicked watches the righteous,
 and seeks to slay him.

33 The LORD will not abandon him to his power,
 or let him be condemned when he is brought to trial.

34 Wait for the LORD, and keep to his
 way,
 and he will exalt you to possess
 the land;
 you will look on the destruction of the wicked.

38 O LORD, rebuke me not in thy anger,
nor chasten me in thy wrath!

² For thy arrows have sunk into me,
and thy hand has come down on

³ There is no soundness in my flesh
because of thy indignation;
there is no health in my bones
because of my sin.

⁴ For my iniquities have gone over my head;
they weigh like a burden too

all the day I go about mourning.

⁷ For my loins are filled with burning,

⁸ I am utterly spent and crushed;
I groan because of the tumult of ⁹ Lord, all my longing is known to

¹⁴ Yea, I am like a man who does not rejoice over me,

who boast against me when my

¹⁷ For I am ready to fall,
and my pain is ever with me.

Ps. 38: Prayer for healing in sickness (a lament). The psalmist's main concern is with some grave disease, but he is also troubled by enemies who are taking advantage of it. Their attack was made more plausible by the common belief that illness was a punishment for sin and therefore an indication that God was against the sick man (compare Ps. 22). Title: Memorial offering, Lev. 2.1–10; compare Lev. 24.7. 1: Cry for help. 2–20: The psalmist's situation. 2: Thy arrows, Job 6.4; 16.12, 13. 3–10: His disease. 3–4: He acknowledges that the disease must be a deserved punishment for some sin he has committed, perhaps unwittingly (compare v. 18). 11: His former friends avoid him as one forsaken by God. 12: His enemies are circulating lies about him (compare vv. 19–20). 13–16: But he is not really fretful; he is waiting for God to

Ps. 39: Prayer for healing in sickness (a lament). 1-3: During his severe illness, which has almost shaken his faith in God's good-will, the psalmist has not made any public complaint because he did not wish to give encouragement to the wicked (i.e. the skeptical), who denied God's concern for justice and goodness (compare 10.4 and Ps.14). But now he can contain himself no longer; he must cry out, if only to God in private. 4-6: He knows that all human life is short. 5: Selah, see 3.2 n. Handbreadths, a measure of about 3 inches (four fingers); compare Ezek.40.5; 43.13. 7-13: Prayer for healing. 8: Deliver . . . from . . . transgressions, i.e. heal the disease which they have caused (compare 32.1). 12-13: He knows that, in any case, he has not long to live, but hopes for at least one more respite, however brief.

who does not turn to the proud,

deliverance

¹⁰ I have not hid thy saving help within my heart,
I have spoken of thy faithfulness
and thy salvation;

I have not concealed thy steadfast love and thy faithfulness
from the great congregation.

¹¹ Do not thou, O LORD, withhold thy mercy from me,
let thy steadfast love and thy faithfulness
ever preserve me!

¹² For evils have encompassed me without number;
my iniquities have overtaken me,
till I cannot see;
they are more than the hairs of my head;
my heart fails me.

¹³ Be pleased, O LORD, to deliver me!
O LORD, make haste to help me!

¹⁴ Let them be put to shame and who seek to snatch away my life;

let them be turned back and brought to dishonor
who desire my hurt!

¹⁵ Let them be appalled because of their shame

Ps. 41: Prayer for healing from sickness (a lament). 1-3: Act of faith, in the style of the wisdom writers (compare Ps. 1). 4-9: The psalmist's situation: he is mortally ill and his enemies are glad of it; even one of his best friends has turned against him. 10-12: Prayer for deliverance. 13: A doxology (no part of the psalm) marking the end of the first of the five books into which the Psalter was divided in imitation of the Pentateuch (compare 72.18-20; 89.52; 106.48).

Pss. 42-43: Prayer for healing in preparation for a pilgrimage (a lament). These two psalms are a single lyric consisting of three stanzas with a refrain (42.5,11; 43.5). The author, who lives in the far north of Palestine near Mount Hermon and the sources of the Jordan (42.6-7), has been prevented by illness (42.10) from making his accustomed pilgrimage to Jerusalem (42.4; 43.3-4). 42.1-4: The psalmist's love for the temple and for God's presence there. 3: Men

A priest or temple prophet may have delivered an oracle of assurance between v. 29 and v. 30 (see 12.5 n. and 20.5 n.). 30-31: Like the authors of Pss. 40 (vv. 6-8); 50 (vv. 8-13); and 51 (vv. 16-17), the psalmist prefers to offer a hymn of thanksgiving. 35-36: If these verses are not a later addition, they show the psalm to be post-exilic (compare 51.18-19).

Ps. 70: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). This psalm is practically identical with 40.13-17.

Ps. 71: An old man's prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1-8: Cry for help, mingled with expressions of trust. 5-6: In all his previous life, God has never failed him.

The health, fertility, and success of the nation were bound up inextricably in those of its monarch. 7: Righteousness and peace, as frequently elsewhere, mean “right conditions” and “prosperity.” 8–11: The king’s ideal universal empire. These verses suggested the ascription of the psalm to Solomon. 8: The River, the Euphrates (1 Kg.4.21). 10: Tarshish, in the western Mediterranean. Sheba and Seba, in south Arabia. 12–14: The character of the king. 15–17: The prayer concluded. 18–19: A doxology (no part of the psalm) marking the end of Book II of the Psalter (see 41.13 n.). 20: An editorial colophon to one of the collections of psalms now included in the Psalter.

Ps. 74: Prayer for deliverance from national enemies (a group lament; compare Ps. 44). 1-3: Cry for help. 4-11: The foe has devastated and burned the temple. If it were not for the statement in v. 9 that there is no longer any prophet, it would be natural to take the situation as being that of the conquest by the Babylonians in 587 B.C., but at that time, as evidenced by the activity of Jeremiah and Ezekiel, the prophetic movement was at its height. Consequently the situation must be some otherwise unknown event of the post-exilic period (compare Is.64.11). Some have connected it with the Maccabean age. 4: Signs, perhaps military standards. 12-17: A hymn-like interlude, celebrating God as the creator. Ps. 78: The story of God's great deeds and his people's faithlessness. One of a group of psalms (105; 106; 135; 136), composed for use at the major festivals, which simply recite the history of God's dealings with Israel. This psalm emphasizes the disobedience and ingratitude of the people, especially noting the defection of the Ephraimites (vv. 9-11) which led God to reject them in favor of Judah (vv. 67-69). 1-4: The poet addresses the congregation in the style of the wisdom writers (compare 49.1-4). 2: Quoted in Mt.13.35. 5-8: The giving of the law. 6: Dt.6.7. 9-11: It is uncertain what incident is referred to. 12-53: God's miraculous care for his people during the Exodus and the wilderness wanderings, a review of events in Exodus and Numbers, vv. 17-20 and 32-41 being interludes which describe the characteristic faithlessness of Israel. 12: Zoan, a royal Egyptian store city, is identical with the Raamses of Ex.1.11. 15-16: Ex.17.6;

- rebelling against the Most High in the desert.
- 18 They tested God in their heart by demanding the food they craved.
- 19 They spoke against God, saying, "Can God spread a table in the wilderness?"
- 20 He smote the rock so that water gushed out and streams overflowed. Can he also give bread, or provide meat for his people?"
- 21 Therefore, when the LORD heard, he was full of wrath; a fire was kindled against Jacob, his anger mounted against Israel; 22 because they had no faith in God, and did not trust his saving power.
- 23 Yet he commanded the skies above, and opened the doors of heaven; 24 and he rained down upon them manna to eat, and gave them the grain of heaven.
- 25 Man ate of the bread of the angels; he sent them food in abundance.
- 26 He caused the east wind to blow in the heavens, and by his power he led out the south wind;
- 27 he rained flesh upon them like dust, winged birds like the sand of the seas;
- 28 he let them fall in the midst of their camp, all around their habitations.
- 29 And they ate and were well filled, for he gave them what they craved.
- 30 But before they had sated their craving, while the food was still in their mouths, 31 the anger of God rose against them and he slew the strongest of them, and laid low the picked men of Israel.
- 32 In spite of all this they still sinned; . despite his wonders they did not believe.
- 33 So he made their days vanish like a breath, and their years in terror.
- 34 When he slew them, they sought for him; they repented and sought God earnestly.
- 35 They remembered that God was their rock, the Most High God their redeemer.
- 36 But they flattered him with their mouths; they lied to him with their tongues.
- 37 Their heart was not steadfast toward him; they were not true to his covenant.
- 38 Yet he, being compassionate, forgave their iniquity, and did not destroy them; he restrained his anger often, and did not stir up all his wrath.
- 39 He remembered that they were but flesh, a wind that passes and comes not again.
- 40 How often they rebelled against him in the wilderness and grieved him in the desert!
- 41 They tested him again and again, and provoked the Holy One of Israel.
- 42 They did not keep in mind his power, or the day when he redeemed them from the foe;
- 43 when he wrought his signs in Egypt, and his miracles in the fields of Zo'an.
- 44 He turned their rivers to blood, so that they could not drink of their streams.
- 45 He sent among them swarms of flies, which devoured them, and frogs, which destroyed them.
- 46 He gave their crops to the caterpillar,

The passage reflects the tension between North and South which led to the division of the nation into Judah and Israel (Ephraim) and the eventual schism between Jews and Samaritans.

A Psalm of Asaph.

- 79 O God, the heathen have come into thy inheritance;
they have defiled thy holy temple;
they have laid Jerusalem in ruins.
- 2 They have given the bodies of thy servants
to the birds of the air for food,
the flesh of thy saints to the beasts
of the earth.
- 3 They have poured out their blood
like water
round about Jerusalem,
and there was none to bury them.
- 4 We have become a taunt to our neighbors,
mocked and derided by those round about us.
- 5 How long, O LORD? Wilt thou be angry for ever?
Will thy jealous wrath burn like fire?
- 6 Pour out thy anger on the nations
that do not know thee,
and on the kingdoms
that do not call on thy name!
- 7 For they have devoured Jacob,
and laid waste his habitation.
- 8 Do not remember against us the iniquities of our forefathers;
let thy compassion come speedily to meet us,
for we are brought very low.
- 9 Help us, O God of our salvation,
for the glory of thy name;
deliver us, and forgive our sins,
for thy name's sake!
- 10 Why should the nations say,
"Where is their God?"
Let the avenging of the outpoured blood of thy servants
be known among the nations
before our eyes!

Lament over the destruction of Jerusalem

- 11 Let the groans of the prisoners come before thee;
according to thy great power
preserve those doomed to die!
- 12 Return sevenfold into the bosom of our neighbors
the taunts with which they have taunted thee, O Lord!
- 13 Then we thy people, the flock of thy pasture,
will give thanks to thee for ever;
from generation to generation we will recount thy praise.

thyself for ever?
How long will thy wrath burn like

⁴⁷ Remember, O Lord,^c what the or as a watch in the night.

⁵ Thou dost sweep men away; they are like a dream,
like grass which is renewed in the morning:

⁶ in the morning it flourishes and is renewed;
in the evening it fades and
withers.

⁷ For we are consumed by thy anger;
by thy wrath we are overwhelmed.

⁸ Thou hast set our iniquities before
thee,
our secret sins in the light of thy

A Psalm. A Song for the Sabbath.

92 It is good to give thanks to the LORD,
to sing praises to thy name, O Most High;
2 to declare thy steadfast love in the morning,
and thy faithfulness by night,
3 to the music of the lute and the harp,
to the melody of the lyre.
4 For thou, O LORD, hast made me glad by thy work;
at the works of thy hands I sing for joy.

5 How great are thy works, O LORD!
Thy thoughts are very deep!
6 The dull man cannot know,
the stupid cannot understand this:
7 that, though the wicked sprout like grass
and all evildoers flourish,
they are doomed to destruction for ever,
8 but thou, O LORD, art on high for ever.
9 For, lo, thy enemies, O LORD,
for, lo, thy enemies shall perish;
all evildoers shall be scattered.

10 But thou hast exalted my horn like that of the wild ox;
thou hast poured over meⁱ fresh oil.

11 My eyes have seen the downfall of my enemies,
my ears have heard the doom of my evil assailants.

12 The righteous flourish like the palm tree,
and grow like a cedar in Lebanon.
13 They are planted in the house of the LORD,
they flourish in the courts of our God.
14 They still bring forth fruit in old age,
they are ever full of sap and green, 15 to show that the LORD is upright;
he is my rock, and there is no unrighteousness in him.

93 The LORD reigns; he is robed in majesty;
the LORD is robed, he is girded with strength.
Yea, the world is established; it shall never be moved;
2 thy throne is established from of old;
thou art from everlasting.

Ps. 92: Thanksgiving after deliverance from personal enemies. 1-3: Hymn-like introduction 2: Morning . . . night, compare the morning and evening sacrifices (Ex.29.38-42). 4: The occasion (described more explicitly in vv. 10-11) is a desire to give thanks for an answer to the psalmist's prayer for help. 5-9: The mystery and power of God. 10-11: The psalmist exults in his vindication. Horn, see 75.4-5 n. 12-15: The rewards of righteousness (1.1-3). 13: Compare 52.8.

Ps. 93: Hymn extolling God as king. This psalm begins a collection of hymns (Pss. 93; 95-99) dealing with the kingly rule of the God of Israel. They were apparently composed for use in connection with some feast, perhaps the feast of booths, when the theme of God's kingship (or "kingdom") was especially emphasized. Compare Ps. 47, which is closely related. 1-2: The theme is stated. 3-4: God's rule is based upon his control over the powers of chaos, symbolized by the waters of the sea (74.12-17; 104.7-9; Job 38.8-11). 5: God's decrees are sure and his temple is holy.

- 94 O LORD, thou God of vengeance,
thou God of vengeance, shine
forth!
2 Rise up, O judge of the earth;
render to the proud their deserts!
3 O LORD, how long shall the wicked,
how long shall the wicked exult?
4 They pour out their arrogant words,
they boast, all the evildoers.
5 They crush thy people, O LORD,
and afflict thy heritage.
6 They slay the widow and the sojourner,
and murder the fatherless;
7 and they say, "The LORD does not see;
the God of Jacob does not perceive."
8 Understand, O dullest of the people!
Fools, when will you be wise?
9 He who planted the ear, does he not hear?
He who formed the eye, does he not
see?
10 He who chastens the nations, does
he not chastise?
He who teaches men knowledge,
11 the LORD, knows the thoughts of
man,
that they are but a breath.
12 Blessed is the man whom thou dost
chasten, O LORD,
and whom thou dost teach out of thy law
13 to give him respite from days of trouble,
until a pit is dug for the wicked.

- 14 For the LORD will not forsake his
people;
he will not abandon his heritage;
15 for justice will return to the
righteous,
and all the upright in heart will follow it.
16 Who rises up for me against the wicked?
Who stands up for me against
evildoers?
17 If the LORD had not been my help,
my soul would soon have dwelt
in the land of silence.
18 When I thought, "My foot slips," thy steadfast love, O LORD, held me up.
19 When the cares of my heart are many,
thy consolations cheer my soul.
20 Can wicked rulers be allied with
thee,
who frame mischief by statute?
21 They band together against the life
of the righteous,
and condemn the innocent to death.
22 But the LORD has become my stronghold,
and my God the rock of my
refuge.
23 He will bring back on them their
iniquity
and wipe them out for their
wickedness;
the LORD our God will wipe them
out.

He sees his own misfortunes as typical of the corruption of his age (compare 10.2–11; Ps. 14). 8–15: In the style of the wisdom writers, he appeals to the congregation to understand the ways of the LORD. 16: Prayer for deliverance in the form of a rhetorical question. 17–23: An expression of confidence, perhaps in response to an oracle of assurance delivered after v. 16 (see 12.5 n.). 17: Land of silence, Sheol (compare 115.17). 20–21: The psalmist's enemies were persons in high official position in the state.

19–22: Conclusion, with a hymn-like summons to all created things to join their voices with that of the psalmist.

Ps. 104: Hymn to God the creator. 1: Address. The first line was probably added in imitation of the preceding psalm (compare also v. 35). 2–4: The creation of the heavens. The account is much more mythological than that of Gen. ch. 1. 2: Light, compare Gen.1.3; 1 Tim.6.16. 3: See 18.10 n. 4: Quoted in Heb.1.7. 5–9: The creation of the earth. 7–9: God's victory over the waters, the symbol of chaos (see 93.3–4 n.). 10–18: God's continuing care for the earth and when all the beasts of the forest creep forth.

Ancient Hebrew man tended to use the personal and concrete words (*sinner*s . . . wicked) where we should use the impersonal and abstract ("sin," "wickedness"). Praise the LORD! (Hebrew "Hallelujah!") belongs to the beginning of the following psalm (see 105 n.).

Ps. 105: The story of God's great deeds on behalf of his people (compare Ps. 78). This psalm, now paired with Ps. 106, was composed for use at one of the major festivals and consists of a recital of the basic events which created the nation of Israel; its mood is one of grateful recollection. Both 105 and 106 at some point in their history were provided with the ritual shout "Hallelujah!" (Praise the LORD!) at the beginning and end (see 104.35 n.). 1-6: Hymn-like let the hearts of those who seek the LORD rejoice!

⁴ Seek the LORD and his strength,
seek his presence continually!
⁵ Remember the wonderful works
that he has done,
his miracles, and the judgments
he uttered,
⁶ O offspring of Abraham his servant,
sons of Jacob, his chosen ones!
⁷ He is the LORD our God;
his judgments are in all the earth.
⁸ He is mindful of his covenant for
ever,
of the word that he commanded,
for a thousand generations,
⁹ the covenant which he made with Abraham,
his sworn promise to Isaac,
¹⁰ which he confirmed to Jacob as a statute,
to Israel as an everlasting covenant,
¹¹ saying, "To you I will give the land of Canaan
as your portion for an inheritance."
¹² When they were few in number,
of little account, and sojourners in
it,
¹³ wandering from nation to nation,
from one kingdom to another
people,
¹⁴ he allowed no one to oppress them;
he rebuked kings on their
account,
¹⁵ saying, "Touch not my anointed
ones,
do my prophets no harm!"
¹⁶ When he summoned a famine on
the land,
and broke every staff of bread,
¹⁷ he had sent a man ahead of them,
Joseph, who was sold as a slave.

¹⁸ His feet were hurt with fetters,
his neck was put in a collar of iron;
¹⁹ until what he had said came to pass
the word of the LORD tested him.
²⁰ The king sent and released him,
the ruler of the peoples set him
free;
²¹ he made him lord of his house,
and ruler of all his possessions, ²² to instruct^t his princes at his pleasure,
and to teach his elders wisdom.
²³ Then Israel came to Egypt;
Jacob sojourned in the land of Ham.
²⁴ And the LORD made his people
very fruitful,
and made them stronger than their foes.
²⁵ He turned their hearts to hate his
people,
to deal craftily with his servants.
²⁶ He sent Moses his servant,
and Aaron whom he had chosen.
²⁷ They wrought his signs among
them,
and miracles in the land of Ham.
²⁸ He sent darkness, and made the land dark;
they rebelled^u against his words.
²⁹ He turned their waters into blood,
and caused their fish to die.
³⁰ Their land swarmed with frogs,
even in the chambers of their
kings.
³¹ He spoke, and there came swarms
of flies,
and gnats throughout their country.
³² He gave them hail for rain,
and lightning that flashed through their land.

introduction summoning the congregation to praise and thanksgiving. 7-11: The psalmist's theme: God's faithfulness to his covenant with Israel's ancestors (Gen.15.18-21; 17.1-8; 26.1-5; 28.10-15). 12-41: The narrative. 12-15: The story of the patriarchs. 14: Rebuked kings, Gen. 12.17; 20.3. 15: Only here are the patriarchs given the title anointed ones, presumably because they are called prophets (compare Gen.20.7; 1 Kg.19.16). 16-22: The story of Joseph (Gen. chs. 37; 39-50). 23-38: The story of the Exodus (Ex.1.1-15.21). 27: Ham, see 78.51 n.

³³ He smote their vines and fig trees, and shattered the trees of their country.
³⁴ He spoke, and the locusts came,
 and young locusts without number;
³⁵ which devoured all the vegetation
 in their land,
 and ate up the fruit of their ground.
³⁶ He smote all the first-born in their
 land,
 the first issue of all their strength.
³⁷ Then he led forth Israel with silver
 and gold,
 and there was none among his tribes who stumbled.
³⁸ Egypt was glad when they departed,
 for dread of them had fallen upon
 it.
³⁹ He spread a cloud for a covering,
 and fire to give light by night.
⁴⁰ They asked, and he brought quails, and gave them bread from heaven in abundance.
⁴¹ He opened the rock, and water
 gushed forth;
 it flowed through the desert like
 a river.
⁴² For he remembered his holy
 promise,
 and Abraham his servant.
⁴³ So he led forth his people with joy,
 his chosen ones with singing.
⁴⁴ And he gave them the lands of the nations;
 and they took possession of the fruit of the peoples' toil,

⁴⁵ to the end that they should keep his statutes,
 and observe his laws.
 Praise the LORD!

106 Praise the LORD!
 O give thanks to the LORD,
 for he is good;
 for his steadfast love endures for
 ever!
² Who can utter the mighty doings
 of the LORD,
 or show forth all his praise?
³ Blessed are they who observe
 justice,
 who do righteousness at all times!
⁴ Remember me, O LORD, when thou
 showest favor to thy people;
 help me when thou deliverest
 them;
⁵ that I may see the prosperity of thy chosen ones,
 that I may rejoice in the gladness
 of thy nation,
 that I may glory with thy
 heritage.
⁶ Both we and our fathers have sinned;
 we have committed iniquity, we have done wickedly.
⁷ Our fathers, when they were in Egypt,
 did not consider thy wonderful works;
 they did not remember the abundance of thy steadfast love,
 but rebelled against the Most 39–42: Incidents from the wilderness wanderings (Ex.13.21–22; 16.13–15; 17.6). It is remarkable that no mention is made of the giving of the Law or any of the other events at Sinai (Ex. 19.1–Num. 10.10). 43–45: Return of the theme: God fulfilled his part in the covenant by giving Israel the land of Canaan. 45: Israel must be faithful to her part of the covenant by obeying God's laws (95.7b–11).

Ps. 106: The story of God's great deeds, with confession of sin and prayer for help. In contrast to Ps. 105, the mood of this psalm is a somber one, stress being laid on the perversity and obtuseness of the people. 1–2: Call to praise the LORD. 3: The need for right-doing on the part of his worshipers (105.45). 4–5: The psalmist prays that he may share in Israel's blessings when God restores prosperity to her (compare v. 47). 6: The theme: Whatever God has done, Israel has always been unfaithful (vv. 7,13–14,19,21,24–25,28–29,32,34–39,43); nevertheless he has constantly forgiven her disobedience and shown mercy (vv. 8,15,23,30,44–46). This thought encourages the psalmist to offer the prayer in v. 47. 7–46: The narrative. 7–12: The story of

Ps. 108: A liturgy of prayer for victory over national enemies. This liturgy is entirely composed of portions of two other psalms. Verses 1-5 are practically identical with 57.7-11; vv. 6-13, with 60.5-12. For details of interpretation see those psalms.

Ps. 109: Prayer for deliverance from personal enemies (a lament). 1: Cry for help. 2-5: The psalmist's situation. He has been cursed and falsely accused of crime (compare vv. 22-25).

- ³⁰ With my mouth I will give great thanks to the LORD;
I will praise him in the midst of the throng.
³¹ For he stands at the right hand of the needy,
to save him from those who condemn him to death.

A Psalm of David.

110 The LORD says to my lord:
"Sit at my right hand,
till I make your enemies your footstool."

- ² The LORD sends forth from Zion your mighty scepter.
Rule in the midst of your foes!
³ Your people will offer themselves freely
on the day you lead your host upon the holy mountains.^e
From the womb of the morning like dew your youth^f will come to you.
⁴ The LORD has sworn and will not change his mind,
"You are a priest for ever after the order of Melchiz'edek."
⁵ The Lord is at your right hand;
he will shatter kings on the day of his wrath.
⁶ He will execute judgment among the nations,

² Great are the works of the LORD,
studied by all who have pleasure in them.
³ Full of honor and majesty is his work,
and his righteousness endures for ever.
⁴ He has caused his wonderful works to be remembered;
the LORD is gracious and merciful.
⁵ He provides food for those who fear him;
he is ever mindful of his covenant.
⁶ He has shown his people the power of his works,
in giving them the heritage of the nations.

Ps. 110: The LORD promises victory to his king (a royal psalm, probably composed for a coronation; compare Ps. 2). The Hebrew text is unusually corrupt and the interpretation of many details extremely difficult. 1: The king (my lord) is invited by Israel's God (the LORD) to ascend the throne. This verse is quoted frequently in the New Testament (e.g. Mt.22.44; Acts 2.34; 1 Cor.15.25; Eph.1.20; Heb.1.3,13), where the later Jewish belief that it was composed by David in honor of the Messiah is naturally assumed to be correct. 2-7: The new king, who also bears the dignity of priesthood, will thoroughly defeat his enemies. 3: The meaning of the second sentence can no longer be recovered with certainty. 4: Like all early Israelite kings, the new king will have the privileges of a priest (compare 2 Sam.8.18; 1 Kg.3.4). In this respect he will be like Melchizedek, the ancient Canaanite priest-king of Jerusalem (Gen.14.18). 7: The meaning is not clear. The verse may be only a fragment.

Ps. 111: Hymn of praise to the LORD for his great deeds, especially for his fidelity to the covenant. An acrostic psalm, every line beginning with a successive letter of the alphabet. 1: Like the two following psalms, it begins with the ritual cry, Praise the LORD! (Hallelujah!); see 104.35 n. 10: Job 28.28; Pr.1.7.

Ps. 112: The contrasting fate of the righteous and the wicked (a wisdom psalm). An acrostic like Ps. 111, and similar in theme to Ps. 1. It is, however, more concerned with the rewards of righteousness (vv. 1-9) than the punishment of ungodliness (v. 10). 1: Praise the LORD, see 111.1 n. Blessed, see 1.1 n. 9: Quoted in part in 2 Cor.9.9. Horn, see 75.4-5 n.

Ps. 113: Hymn celebrating the LORD as helper of the humble. Another "Hallelujah!" psalm (see 111.1 n.). In Jewish liturgical tradition, Pss. 113-118 constitute the so-called "Egyptian Hallel," used in connection with the great festivals. At the Passover, Pss. 113-114 are sung before the meal; 115-118 afterwards (compare Mt.26.30). 1: Summons to worship. 2-4: Choral response. 5-9: Though the LORD is gloriously exalted, he cares for the needy (1 Sam.2.4-8; Lk.1.48-53).

Ps. 114: Hymn in praise of God's great work in creating the nation. Although its form is unusual, vv. 7-8 show this psalm should be classified as a hymn (see Ps. 113 n.). 1-2: The events

Ps. 115: Liturgy contrasting the LORD's power with the impotence of heathen gods. Perhaps sung antiphonally as follows: 1-2: A choir ascribes glory to God alone. 3-8: A soloist proclaims that God is omnipotent; idols have no life at all. 9-11: The choir therefore asks Israel to trust in the LORD. 10: House of Aaron, the priests. 12-13: The congregation confidently responds. 14-15: A priest pronounces a blessing. 16-18: Concluding hymn of praise. 17: In early Israel it was believed that the dead in Sheol (silence) were separated from God (88.5-6). 18: Praise the LORD! Hallelujah! psalmist's experience (see 18.4-6 n.). 6: Quoted in Heb.13.6. 10-13: The desperateness of his situation. 14-18: God gave him the victory. 19: He asks to be admitted at the temple gates. The preceding ceremony evidently took place outside. 20: A voice from within replies that only the qualified may enter (compare Ps. 15 and 24.3-6). 21-22: He answers that God had borne witness to his character by delivering him (18.20-24) when others had given him up. 22-23: Frequently quoted in the New Testament (e.g. Mt.21.42; Acts 4.11; 1 Pet.2.7). 23-25: The choir joyously acknowledges what God has done. 25: Save us, in Hebrew, is "Hoshianna" (Hosanna). This verse and the following are alluded to in Mt.21.9 and parallel passages. 26-27: The suppliant is admitted with a choral blessing. (The second sentence of v. 27 is perhaps a liturgical direction.) 28: He makes his act of thanksgiving. 29: The choir begins a hymn of praise (compare Ps. 136).

⁴ Thou hast commanded thy precepts to be kept diligently.
⁵ O that my ways may be steadfast in keeping thy statutes!
⁶ Then I shall not be put to shame,
having my eyes fixed on all thy commandments.
⁷ I will praise thee with an upright heart,
when I learn thy righteous ordinances.
⁸ I will observe thy statutes;
O forsake me not utterly!
- ⁹ How can a young man keep his way pure?
By guarding it according to thy word.
- ¹⁰ With my whole heart I seek thee;
let me not wander from thy commandments!
- ¹¹ I have laid up thy word in my heart,
that I might not sin against thee.
- ¹² Blessed be thou, O LORD;
teach me thy statutes!
- ¹³ With my lips I declare

and I will meditate on thy wondrous works.
- ²⁸ My soul melts away for sorrow;
strengthen me according to thy word!

Ps. 119: Meditation on the law of God. The length of this psalm is the result of its unusual, and highly artificial, structure. It is an alphabetical acrostic (compare Pss. 9–10; 25; 34; 37; 111; 112; 145) in which each stanza consists of eight lines all beginning with the same Hebrew letter. In addition almost every line contains the word "law" or a synonym (e.g. "testimonies," "ways," "precepts"; compare Ps. 19.7–14). The predominant mood of lament suggests that it may have been composed as a prayer for deliverance from trouble, though the language may be merely imitative and the whole a purely literary exercise in honor of the written law. It is a very late composition. 1–8, 9–16: Prayer for help in observing the law. 1: Blessed, see 1.1 n. 17–24: Prayer for deliverance from enemies. 25–32: Declaration of fidelity to the law. 33–40: Prayer

- ²⁹ Put false ways far from me;
and graciously teach me thy law!
³⁰ I have chosen the way of
faithfulness,
I set thy ordinances before me.
³¹ I cleave to thy testimonies,
O LORD;
let me not be put to shame!
³² I will run in the way of thy commandments
when thou enlargest my
understanding!
³³ Teach me, O LORD, the way of thy
statutes;
and I will keep it to the end.
³⁴ Give me understanding, that I may keep thy law
and observe it with my whole
heart.
³⁵ Lead me in the path of thy
commandments,
for I delight in it.
³⁶ Incline my heart to thy testimonies,
and not to gain!
³⁷ Turn my eyes from looking at vanities;
and give me life in thy ways.
³⁸ Confirm to thy servant thy promise,
which is for those who fear thee.
³⁹ Turn away the reproach which I dread;
for thy ordinances are good.
⁴⁰ Behold, I long for thy precepts;
in thy righteousness give me life!

O LORD,
thy salvation according to thy
promise;
⁴² then shall I have an answer for those who taunt me,
for I trust in thy word.
⁴³ And take not the word of truth
utterly out of my mouth,
for my hope is in thy ordinances.

⁴⁵ and I shall walk at liberty,
for I have sought thy precepts.
- ⁴⁶ I will also speak of thy testimonies before kings,
and shall not be put to shame;
⁴⁷ for I find my delight in thy
commandments,
which I love.
⁴⁸ I revere thy commandments, which

that I may not be put to shame!
- ⁸¹ My soul languishes for thy salvation;
I hope in thy word.
- ⁸² My eyes fail with watching for thy promise;
I ask, "When wilt thou comfort me?"
- ⁸³ For I have become like a wineskin in the smoke,
yet I have not forgotten thy statutes.
- ⁸⁴ How long must thy servant endure?
When wilt thou judge those who persecute me?
- ⁸⁵ Godless men have dug pitfalls for me,
men who do not conform to thy law.
- ⁸⁶ All thy commandments are sure;
they persecute me with falsehood;
help me!
- ⁸⁷ They have almost made an end of me on earth;
but I have not forsaken thy precepts.
- ⁸⁸ In thy steadfast love spare my life,
that I may keep the testimonies of thy mouth.
- ⁸⁹ For ever, O LORD, thy word is firmly fixed in the heavens.
- ⁹⁰ Thy faithfulness endures to all generations;
thou hast established the earth,
and it stands fast.
- ⁹¹ By thy appointment they stand this day;
for all things are thy servants.

 sweeter than honey to my mouth!
¹⁰⁴ Through thy precepts I get
 understanding;
 therefore I hate every false way.
- ¹⁰⁵ Thy word is a lamp to my feet
 and a light to my path.
¹⁰⁶ I have sworn an oath and confirmed it,
 to observe thy righteous
 ordinances.
¹⁰⁷ I am sorely afflicted;
 give me life, O LORD, according to thy word!
¹⁰⁸ Accept my offerings of praise, O
 LORD,
 and teach me thy ordinances.
¹⁰⁹ I hold my life in my hand
 continually,
 but I do not forget thy law.
¹¹⁰ The wicked have laid a snare for me, but I do not stray from thy precepts.
¹¹¹ Thy testimonies are my heritage
 for ever;
- yea, they are the joy of my heart.
¹¹² I incline my heart to perform thy statutes
 for ever, to the end.
- ¹¹³ I hate double-minded men,
 but I love thy law.
¹¹⁴ Thou art my hiding place and my
 shield;
 I hope in thy word.
¹¹⁵ Depart from me, you evildoers, that I may keep the commandments of my God.
¹¹⁶ Uphold me according to thy promise, that I may live,
 and let me not be put to shame in my hope!
¹¹⁷ Hold me up, that I may be safe and have regard for thy statutes
 continually!
¹¹⁸ Thou dost spurn all who go astray
 from thy statutes;
 yea, their cunning is in vain.
¹¹⁹ All the wicked of the earth thou
 dost count as dross;
 therefore I love thy testimonies.
¹²⁰ My flesh trembles for fear of thee,
 and I am afraid of thy judgments.
- ¹²¹ I have done what is just and right;
 do not leave me to my oppressors.
¹²² Be surety for thy servant for good;
 let not the godless oppress me.
¹²³ My eyes fail with watching for thy
 salvation,
 and for the fulfilment of thy righteous promise.
¹²⁴ Deal with thy servant according to thy steadfast love,
 and teach me thy statutes.
¹²⁵ I am thy servant; give me
 understanding,
 that I may know thy testimonies!
¹²⁶ It is time for the LORD to act,
 for thy law has been broken.
¹²⁷ Therefore I love thy
 commandments
 above gold, above fine gold.
¹²⁸ Therefore I direct my steps by all thy precepts;^k

^k Gk Jerome: Heb uncertain

The beauty and sweetness of the law. 105-112: Prayer for help. 113-120: Expression of confidence and prayers for deliverance. 121-128: Declaration of juridical innocence and loyalty

I hate every false way.

¹²⁹ Thy testimonies are wonderful;
therefore my soul keeps them.

¹³⁰ The unfolding of thy words gives light;
it imparts understanding to the simple.

¹³¹ With open mouth I pant, because I long for thy
commandments.

¹³² Turn to me and be gracious to me, as is thy wont toward those who love thy name.

¹³³ Keep steady my steps according to thy promise,
and let no iniquity get dominion
over me.

¹³⁴ Redeem me from man's oppression,
that I may keep thy precepts.

¹³⁵ Make thy face shine upon thy servant,
and teach me thy statutes.

¹³⁶ My eyes shed streams of tears,
because men do not keep thy law.

¹³⁷ Righteous art thou, O LORD,
and right are thy judgments.

¹³⁸ Thou hast appointed thy testimonies in righteousness
and in all faithfulness.

¹³⁹ My zeal consumes me,
because my foes forget thy words.

¹⁴⁰ Thy promise is well tried,
and thy servant loves it.

¹⁴¹ I am small and despised,
yet I do not forget thy precepts.

¹⁴² Thy righteousness is righteous for
ever,
and thy law is true.

¹⁴³ Trouble and anguish have come
upon me,
but thy commandments are my delight.

¹⁴⁴ Thy testimonies are righteous for
ever;
give me understanding that I may
live.

¹⁴⁵ With my whole heart I cry; answer me, O LORD!

I will keep thy statutes.

¹⁴⁶ I cry to thee; save me, that I may observe thy testimonies.

¹⁴⁷ I rise before dawn and cry for help;
I hope in thy words.

¹⁴⁸ My eyes are awake before the watches of the night,
that I may meditate upon thy
promise.

¹⁴⁹ Hear my voice in thy steadfast
love;
O LORD, in thy justice preserve
my life.

¹⁵⁰ They draw near who persecute me
with evil purpose;
they are far from thy law.

¹⁵¹ But thou art near, O LORD, and all thy commandments are
true.

¹⁵² Long have I known from thy
testimonies
that thou hast founded them for
ever.

¹⁵³ Look on my affliction and deliver
me,
for I do not forget thy law.

¹⁵⁴ Plead my cause and redeem me;
give me life according to thy
promise!

¹⁵⁵ Salvation is far from the wicked,
for they do not seek thy statutes.

¹⁵⁶ Great is thy mercy, O LORD;
give me life according to thy
justice.

¹⁵⁷ Many are my persecutors and my
adversaries,
but I do not swerve from thy
testimonies.

¹⁵⁸ I look at the faithless with disgust, because they do not keep thy commands.

¹⁵⁹ Consider how I love thy precepts!
Preserve my life according to thy
steadfast love.

¹⁶⁰ The sum of thy word is truth;

- ¹⁶² I rejoice at thy word
like one who finds great spoil.
- ¹⁶³ I hate and abhor falsehood,
but I love thy law.
- ¹⁶⁴ Seven times a day I praise thee
for thy righteous ordinances.
- ¹⁶⁵ Great peace have those who love
thy law;
nothing can make them stumble.
- ¹⁶⁶ I hope for thy salvation, O LORD,
and I do thy commandments.
- ¹⁶⁷ My soul keeps thy testimonies;
I love them exceedingly.
- ¹⁶⁸ I keep thy precepts and testimonies,
for all my ways are before thee.
- ¹⁶⁹ Let my cry come before thee, O
LORD;
give me understanding
according to thy word!
- ¹⁷⁰ Let my supplication come before
thee;
deliver me according to thy word.
- ¹⁷¹ My lips will pour forth praise that thou dost teach me thy
statutes.
- ¹⁷² My tongue will sing of thy word,
for all thy commandments are
right.

and let thy ordinances help me.
- ¹⁷⁶ I have gone astray like a lost sheep;
seek thy servant,
for I do not forget thy
commandments.

"I lift up my eyes to the hills"

A Song of Ascents.

- 120 In my distress I cry to the LORD,
that he may answer me:
² "Deliver me, O LORD,
from lying lips,
from a deceitful tongue."
- ³ What shall be given to you?
And what more shall be done to
you,
you deceitful tongue?
- ⁴ A warrior's sharp arrows,
with glowing coals of the broom tree!
- ⁵ Woe is me, that I sojourn in Meshech,
that I dwell among the tents of Kedar!
- ⁶ Too long have I had my dwelling among those who hate peace.
- ⁷ I am for peace;
but when I speak,
they are for war!

A Song of Ascents.

- 121 I lift up my eyes to the hills.
From whence does my help
come?
- ² My help comes from the LORD,
who made heaven and earth.
- ³ He will not let your foot be moved,
he who keeps you will not slumber.
- ⁴ Behold, he who keeps Israel will neither slumber nor sleep.
- ⁵ The LORD is your keeper;
the LORD is your shade
on your right hand.

161-168: His piety contrasted with the unjust actions of his persecutors. 169-176: If delivered, he vows to sing the praise of God's law.

Ps. 120: An exile's prayer for deliverance from enemies (a lament). 4: The broom tree produces a specially hot, long-burning fire. 5: Meshech . . . Kedar, remote regions in Asia Minor and north Arabia. The psalmist lives in such a place, far from his native soil.

Ps. 121: A liturgy of blessing. 1: The psalmist asks a rhetorical question. The hills may be the "high places" where the baals, the local fertility gods, were worshiped (2 Kg.23.5). 2-8: A priest answers and pronounces a blessing. 2: Probably my should be emended to "your" (compare v. 3).

- ¹ The sun shall not smite you by day,
nor the moon by night.
- ² The LORD will keep you from all
evil;
he will keep your life.
- ³ The LORD will keep your going out and your coming in from this time forth and for evermore.

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

- 122 I was glad when they said to
me,
"Let us go to the house of the LORD!"
- ² Our feet have been standing within your gates, O Jerusalem!
- ³ Jerusalem, built as a city
which is bound firmly together, ⁴ to which the tribes go up,
the tribes of the LORD,
as was decreed for Israel,
to give thanks to the name of the
LORD.
- ⁵ There thrones for judgment were set,
the thrones of the house of David.
- ⁶ Pray for the peace of Jerusalem!
"May they prosper who love you!"
- ⁷ Peace be within your walls,
and security within your towers!"
- ⁸ For my brethren and companions'
sake
I will say, "Peace be within you!"
- ⁹ For the sake of the house of the LORD our God,
I will seek your good.

A Song of Ascents.

- 123 To thee I lift up my eyes,
O thou who art enthroned
in the heavens!

Ps. 122: A song praising Zion as the pilgrim's goal. 1-5: Arrived in Jerusalem, a group of pilgrims admire its buildings and the unity it symbolizes. 6-9: They pray for its continuing prosperity.

Ps. 123: Prayer for deliverance from enemies (a group lament). 1-2: An act of humble submission to God's will. 3-4: Prayer for help. The speakers may represent either Israel or some oppressed class or sect within it.

Ps. 124: Thanksgiving for a national deliverance. 4-5: Compare 32.6; 69.1-2, 14-15.

- ² Behold, as the eyes of servants
look to the hand of their master,
as the eyes of a maid
to the hand of her mistress,
so our eyes look to the LORD our
God,
till he have mercy upon us.
- ³ Have mercy upon us, O LORD, have mercy upon us,
for we have had more than enough
of contempt.
- ⁴ Too long our soul has been sated with the scorn of those who are at ease,
the contempt of the proud.

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

- 124 If it had not been the LORD
who was on our side,
let Israel now say—
- ² if it had not been the LORD who was on our side,
when men rose up against us,
³ then they would have swallowed us
up alive,
when their anger was kindled
against us;
- ⁴ then the flood would have swept us
away,
the torrent would have gone over
us;
- ⁵ then over us would have gone
the raging waters.
- ⁶ Blessed be the LORD,
who has not given us
as prey to their teeth!
- ⁷ We have escaped as a bird
from the snare of the fowlers;
the snare is broken,
and we have escaped!
- ⁸ Our help is in the name of the LORD,
who made heaven and earth.

A Song of Ascents.

125 Those who trust in the LORD
are like Mount Zion, which cannot be moved, but abides
for ever.

² As the mountains are round about
Jerusalem,
so the LORD is round about his
people,
from this time forth and for
evermore.

³ For the scepter of wickedness shall not rest
upon the land allotted to the
righteous,
lest the righteous put forth
their hands to do wrong.

⁴ Do good, O LORD, to those who are good,
and to those who are upright in their hearts!

⁵ But those who turn aside upon their crooked ways
the LORD will lead away with
evildoers!
Peace be in Israel!

A Song of Ascents.

126 When the LORD restored the fortunes of Zion,¹
we were like those who dream.

² Then our mouth was filled with laughter,
and our tongue with shouts of joy;
then they said among the nations,
"The LORD has done great things for them."

³ The LORD has done great things for
us;
we are glad.

⁴ Restore our fortunes, O LORD,
like the watercourses in the Negeb!

⁵ May those who sow in tears reap with shouts of joy!

⁶ He that goes forth weeping,
bearing the seed for sowing,
shall come home with shouts of joy,
bringing his sheaves with him.

A Song of Ascents. Of Solomon.

127 Unless the LORD builds the
house,
those who build it labor in vain.
Unless the LORD watches over the
city,
the watchman stays awake in vain.

² It is in vain that you rise up early
and go late to rest,
eating the bread of anxious toil;
for^m he gives to his beloved sleep.

³ Lo, sons are a heritage from the LORD,

the fruit of the womb a reward.

⁴ Like arrows in the hand of a warrior
are the sons of one's youth.

⁵ Happy is the man who has his quiver full of them!
He shall not be put to shame
when he speaks with his enemies
in the gate.

A Song of Ascents.

128 Blessed is every one who fears the LORD,
who walks in his ways!

Ps. 125: Prayer for deliverance from national enemies (a group lament). 1-3: Expression of confidence. 4-5: Prayer for help.

Ps. 126: Prayer for deliverance from national misfortune. 1-3: The joy inspired by God's favor toward his people in former times. 4-6: Prayer that it may be granted once again. 4: Negeb, the arid region to the south of Palestine.

Ps. 127: A safe home and a large family are the LORD's gift (a wisdom psalm). 1-2: Anxiety has no place in the life of the faithful (compare Mt.6.25-34). 3-5: The gift of many stalwart sons makes a father feel secure.

Ps. 128: A large and prosperous family is a reward for devotion to the LORD (a wisdom psalm). 1: Blessed, see 1.1 n.

² You shall eat the fruit of the labor of your hands;
you shall be happy, and it shall be well with you.

³ Your wife will be like a fruitful vine
within your house;
your children will be like olive shoots
around your table.

⁴ Lo, thus shall the man be blessed who fears the LORD.

⁵ The LORD bless you from Zion!
May you see the prosperity of Jerusalem
all the days of your life!
⁶ May you see your children's children!
Peace be upon Israel!

A Song of Ascents.

129 "Sorely have they afflicted me from my youth,"
let Israel now say—

² "Sorely have they afflicted me from my youth,
yet they have not prevailed against
me.

³ The plowers plowed upon my back;
they made long their furrows."

⁴ The LORD is righteous;
he has cut the cords of the wicked.

⁵ May all who hate Zion be put to shame and turned backward!

⁶ Let them be like the grass on the housetops,
which withers before it grows up,

⁷ with which the reaper does not fill his hand
or the binder of sheaves his bosom,

⁸ while those who pass by do not say,
"The blessing of the LORD be upon
you!

We bless you in the name of the
LORD!"

A Song of Ascents.

130 Out of the depths I cry to thee,
O LORD!

² Lord, hear my voice!
Let thy ears be attentive
to the voice of my supplications!

³ If thou, O LORD, shouldst mark
iniquities,
Lord, who could stand?

⁴ But there is forgiveness with thee,
that thou mayest be feared.

⁵ I wait for the LORD, my soul waits,
and in his word I hope;

⁶ my soul waits for the LORD
more than watchmen for the
morning,
more than watchmen for the
morning.

⁷ O Israel, hope in the LORD!
For with the LORD there is
steadfast love,
and with him is plenteous
redemption.

⁸ And he will redeem Israel
from all his iniquities.

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

131 O LORD, my heart is not lifted
up,
my eyes are not raised too high;
I do not occupy myself with things too great and too marvelous for
me.

² But I have calmed and quieted my soul,
like a child quieted at its mother's breast;

Ps. 129: Prayer for deliverance from national enemies (a group lament). 1-4: God has preserved Israel in spite of all her suffering in the past. 5-8: May her present enemies be destroyed!

Ps. 130: Prayer for deliverance from personal trouble (a lament). 1-2: Cry for help. The psalmist's trouble is described only in general terms. 3-6: Because it is God's nature to be merciful, the psalmist eagerly awaits his help. 7-8: Israel should take the same attitude in her national difficulties.

Ps. 131: Act of humble submission to God's will and guidance (a song of trust; see Ps. 11 n.).

like a child that is quieted is my soul.

- ³ O Israel, hope in the LORD
from this time forth and for
evermore.

A Song of Ascents.

- 132 Remember, O LORD, in David's favor,
all the hardships he endured;
² how he swore to the LORD and vowed to the Mighty One of Jacob,
³ "I will not enter my house
or get into my bed;
⁴ I will not give sleep to my eyes
or slumber to my eyelids, ⁵ until I find a place for the LORD,
a dwelling place for the Mighty
One of Jacob."

- ⁶ Lo, we heard of it in Eph'rathah,
we found it in the fields of Ja'ar.

- ⁷ "Let us go to his dwelling place;
let us worship at his footstool!"

- ⁸ Arise, O LORD, and go to thy resting
place,
thou and the ark of thy might.

- ⁹ Let thy priests be clothed with righteousness,
and let thy saints shout for joy.

- ¹⁰ For thy servant David's sake do not turn away the face of thy anointed one.

- ¹¹ The LORD swore to David a sure oath
from which he will not turn back:

"One of the sons of your body
I will set on your throne.

- ¹² If your sons keep my covenant and my testimonies which I shall teach them,
their sons also for ever
shall sit upon your throne."

- ¹³ For the LORD has chosen Zion;
he has desired it for his habitation:

- ¹⁴ "This is my resting place for ever;
here I will dwell, for I have desired it.

- ¹⁵ I will abundantly bless her provisions;
I will satisfy her poor with bread.

- ¹⁶ Her priests I will clothe with
salvation,
and her saints will shout for joy.

- ¹⁷ There I will make a horn to sprout
for David;
I have prepared a lamp for my
anointed.

- ¹⁸ His enemies I will clothe with shame,
but upon himself his crown will shed its luster."

A Song of Ascents.

- 133 Behold, how good and pleasant it is when brothers dwell in unity!

- ² It is like the precious oil upon the
head,
running down upon the beard,
upon the beard of Aaron,
running down on the collar of his robes!

- ³ It is like the dew of Hermon,

Ps. 132: Liturgy commemorating God's choice of Zion and the Davidic dynasty. 1-5: God is reminded of David's determination to provide him a sanctuary (2 Sam.7.1-2). 6-10: These words evidently accompanied a dramatic ceremony which re-enacted the discovery of the ark by David and the procession by which he brought it to the sanctuary (2 Sam.6.2-15). 6: Eph'rathah, Bethlehem, David's city. The fields of Jaar, Kiriath-jearim, where the ark had been kept from Samuel's time until David became king in Jerusalem (1 Sam.7.1-2; 2 Chr.1.4). 9: Saints, see 30.4 n. 11-18: A priest or temple prophet recites God's promise concerning Jerusalem and the dynasty.

⁴ For the LORD has chosen Jacob for
himself,
Israel as his own possession.

⁵ For I know that the LORD is great,
and that our Lord is above all gods.

⁶ Whatever the LORD pleases he does,
in heaven and on earth,
in the seas and all deeps.

⁷ He it is who makes the clouds rise at the end of the earth,
who makes lightnings for the rain and brings forth the wind from his storehouses.

⁸ He it was who smote the first-born
of Egypt,

both of man and of beast;

⁹ who in thy midst, O Egypt,
sent signs and wonders against Pharaoh and all his servants;

¹⁰ who smote many nations
and slew mighty kings,

¹¹ Sihon, king of the Amorites,
and Og, king of Bashan,
and all the kingdoms of Canaan,

¹² and gave their land as a heritage,
a heritage to his people Israel.

¹³ Thy name, O LORD, endures for
ever,
thy renown, O LORD, throughout
all ages.

¹⁴ For the LORD will vindicate his
people,
and have compassion on his
servants.

¹⁵ The idols of the nations are silver
and gold,
the work of men's hands.

¹⁶ They have mouths, but they speak not,

they have eyes, but they see not,

nor is there any breath in their mouths.

¹⁸ Like them be those who make
them!—
yea, every one who trusts in them!

¹⁹ O house of Israel, bless the LORD!
O house of Aaron, bless the LORD!

²⁰ O house of Levi, bless the LORD!
You that fear the LORD, bless the
LORD!

²¹ Blessed be the LORD from Zion,
he who dwells in Jerusalem!
Praise the LORD!

Ps. 134: A liturgy of blessing. 1-2: The priests are summoned to offer praise to the LORD.
3: They bless the congregation.

Ps. 135: Hymn praising the LORD for his mighty deeds. 1-4: Call to worship. 5-7: The LORD's control of nature. 8-12: His work in the Exodus and the conquest of Palestine. 11: Sihon . . . Og, Num.21.21-35. 13-14: A lyrical interlude. 15-18: The LORD's power contrasted with the impotence of heathen gods (compare 115.3-8). 19-21: Concluding summons to worship. 19: *House of Aaron . . . THE PROVERBS

The book of Proverbs is a compendium of moral and religious instruction as given to Jewish youth by professional sages in the post-exilic period. It includes much older material from the long tradition of such training in the wisdom deemed necessary for the good life. Proverbs is the most typical example of a "wisdom" book in the Old Testament (compare Job, Ecclesiastes), with its emphasis on moral probity based on religion, its teaching that reward and punishment follow in this life, its appeal to the lessons of experience rather than to revelation, and its brief but significant exploration of the nature of wisdom and of wisdom's relation to God.

The book is a small library of teaching materials of different origins and dates. Each of its four main parts (1.1–9.18; 10.1–22.16; 22.17–24.22; and 25.1–29.27) is a separate work with its own title; the title of the first is expanded in 1.2–6 so as to serve as an introduction stating the purpose of the scholar who assembled the various materials. Five smaller pieces appear as appendixes, one (24.23–34) attached to the third main section and the remainder placed together at the end of the book.

Book I (1.1–9.18) contains twelve extended discourses of admonition and warning, two poems in which Wisdom is personified as a prophetess (1.20–33; 8.1–36), and a poetic allegory contrasting Wisdom, the gracious hostess, and Folly, the wanton (9.1–6, 13–18). This material seems to come from a teacher of the fourth or third century B.C. who assembled and edited the whole work for use in his school.

Book II (10.1–22.16) and Book IV (25.1–29.27) are separately entitled "Proverbs of Solomon," and the same heading has been used by the editor in 1.1. It is hardly a claim, still less proof, of Solomonic authorship, but rather a conventional name for pithy maxims in poetic parallel lines, and dealing with virtues and vices and their consequences. Solomon's wisdom had become legendary, though his proverbs and songs are said to have concerned phenomena of nature rather than human behavior (1 Kg. 4.32–33).

Book III contains a series of exhortations resembling the "instructions" of Egyptian sages, and appears to have been modeled upon the Egyptian book of Wisdom entitled "The Instruction of Amen-em-ope," which may be older than 1000 B.C. To this is attached the first of the five appendixes, 24.23–34. The other appendixes are 30.1–9, a dialogue between a sceptic and a believer, recalling the book of Job; 30.10–33, admonitions and proverbs, chiefly of the progressive numerical type; 31.1–9, a queen mother's counsel to a young king; and 31.10–31, a portrait of the ideal wife of a prominent man.

THE PROVERBS OF SOLOMON, SON
of David, king of Israel:

knowledge and discretion to the youth—

- ² That men may know wisdom and
instruction,
understand words of insight,
- ³ receive instruction in wise dealing,
righteousness, justice, and equity;
- ⁴ that prudence may be given to the simple,

- ⁵ the wise man also may hear and increase in learning,
and the man of understanding
acquire skill,
 - ⁶ to understand a proverb and a figure,
the words of the wise and their riddles.

1.1–9.18: Book I, prologue: Invitation to wisdom. 1.1: Title of the work, expanded from headings of Books II and IV (see Introduction). Proverbs include two-line maxims and also longer forms, such as parables and discourses.

1.2–6: The purpose of the teacher in assembling and editing the work is to serve the mental awakening and moral education of youth, and the further instruction of the mature. 6: A figure is a metaphor, parable, or allegory such as in vv. 20–33. A riddle is a comparison or analogy which enforces a lesson when the hearer discerns its intention and is able to complete it (see 25.14; 26.7; 30.18–19).

⁷ The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge;
fools despise wisdom and
instruction.

⁸ Hear, my son, your father's
instruction,
and reject not your mother's teaching;

⁹ for they are a fair garland for your
head,
and pendants for your neck.

¹⁰ My son, if sinners entice you,
do not consent.

¹¹ If they say, "Come with us, let us
lie in wait for blood,
let us wantonly ambush the innocent;

¹² like Sheol let us swallow them alive and whole, like those who go down to the Pit;

¹³ we shall find all precious goods,
we shall fill our houses with spoil;

¹⁴ throw in your lot among us,
we will all have one purse"—

¹⁵ my son, do not walk in the way with
them,
hold back your foot from their
paths;

¹⁶ for their feet run to evil,
and they make haste to shed
blood.

¹⁷ For in vain is a net spread
in the sight of any bird;

¹⁸ but these men lie in wait for their own blood,
they set an ambush for their own lives.

¹⁹ Such are the ways of all who get gain by violence;
it takes away the life of its possessors.

²⁰ Wisdom cries aloud in the street;

in the markets she raises her
voice;

²¹ on the top of the walls^a she cries
out;
at the entrance of the city gates
she speaks:

²² "How long, O simple ones, will you love being simple?
How long will scoffers delight in their scoffing
and fools hate knowledge?

²³ Give heed^b to my reproof;
behold, I will pour out my thoughts^c to you;
I will make my words known to
you.

²⁴ Because I have called and you refused to listen,
have stretched out my hand and no one has heeded,

²⁵ and you have ignored all my counsel
and would have none of my reproof,

²⁶ I also will laugh at your calamity;
I will mock when panic strikes
you,

²⁷ when panic strikes you like a storm,
and your calamity comes like a whirlwind,
when distress and anguish come
upon you.

²⁸ Then they will call upon me, but I will not answer;
they will seek me diligently but will not find me.

²⁹ Because they hated knowledge and did not choose the fear of the
LORD,

³⁰ would have none of my counsel,
and despised all my reproof,

³¹ therefore they shall eat the fruit of their way

1.7: The theme of chs. 1-9: An attitude of reverent obedience toward God is the necessary preliminary and first stage of enlightenment.

1.8-19: Home-training is a moral safeguard. It will protect a youth going out into the world from temptation by criminals and the ruin which falls on them. 12: Sheol . . . the Pit, i.e. the grave. Sheol is a common expression for death and the place and state of the dead (see Gen. 37.35 n.). 17: In vain . . . any bird is a quotation of a popular proverb affirming that the consequences of crime are too obvious to be missed.

1.20-33: Wisdom personified as a prophetess. She denounces those who despise moral inand be sated with their own devices.

⁸² For the simple are killed by their turning away,
 and the complacency of fools destroys them;
⁸³ but he who listens to me will dwell secure and will be at ease, without dread of evil."

2 My son, if you receive my words
 and treasure up my commandments with you, ² making your ear attentive to wisdom
 and inclining your heart to understanding;
³ yes, if you cry out for insight and raise your voice for understanding, ⁴ if you seek it like silver and search for it as for hidden treasures;
⁵ then you will understand the fear of the LORD and find the knowledge of God.
⁶ For the LORD gives wisdom;
 from his mouth come knowledge and understanding;
⁷ he stores up sound wisdom for the upright;
 he is a shield to those who walk in integrity,
⁸ guarding the paths of justice and preserving the way of his saints.
⁹ Then you will understand righteousness and justice and equity, every good path;
¹⁰ for wisdom will come into your heart,
 and knowledge will be pleasant to your soul;
¹¹ discretion will watch over you;
 understanding will guard you;

¹² delivering you from the way of evil,
 from men of perverted speech,
¹³ who forsake the paths of uprightness
 to walk in the ways of darkness, ¹⁴ who rejoice in doing evil
 and delight in the perverseness of evil;
¹⁵ men whose paths are crooked,
 and who are devious in their ways.
¹⁶ You will be saved from the loose^d woman,
 from the adventuress^e with her smooth words,
¹⁷ who forsakes the companion of her youth
 and forgets the covenant of her God;
¹⁸ for her house sinks down to death,
 and her paths to the shades;
¹⁹ none who go to her come back
 nor do they regain the paths of life.
²⁰ So you will walk in the way of good men and keep to the paths of the righteous.
²¹ For the upright will inhabit the land,
 and men of integrity will remain in it;
²² but the wicked will be cut off from the land,
 and the treacherous will be rooted out of it.

3 My son, do not forget my teaching,
 but let your heart keep my commandments;

struction, and who will realize their need of wisdom when it is too late. 32: Turning away, i.e. waywardness.

2.1-22: The fruits of the search for wisdom. The pursuit of wisdom brings understanding of religion and morality, and its possession is an inner safeguard against bad companions and sexual immorality. 17: Covenant of her God, i.e. "her covenant before God." Marital faithfulness is a sacred obligation (Gen.2.24; Hos. ch. 2; Mt.19.6).

3.1-12: The precepts of religion lead to physical and spiritual well-being; even misfortune becomes the discipline of a loving Father (v. 12). Knowledge without reverence is not enough.

and the clouds drop down the dew.
- ²¹ My son, keep sound wisdom and discretion;

- ²³ Then you will walk on your way securely
and your foot will not stumble.
- ²⁴ If you sit down,^j you will not be afraid;
when you lie down, your sleep will be sweet.
- ²⁵ Do not be afraid of sudden panic,

and will keep your foot from being caught.

3.13-18: True wealth is not measured in material things but in the abundant life and happiness which wisdom brings. 18: The tree of life was a symbol of divine life and immortality in ancient mythology and art (compare Gen.3.22; Rev.2.7); here it is a metaphor for life itself.

3.19-20: Wisdom is divine, since the created world declares the wisdom of its Creator, an important theological idea, further developed in 8.22-31. The deeps were the abyss of waters under the earth (Ex.20.4) from which it was believed springs and floods broke forth (see Gen. 7.11 n.). The word here for clouds means the highest clouds, the sky.

3.21-35: Wisdom gives peace of mind through confidence in God. One should always do good and not harm, for God's blessing is on the one and his curse on the other. 25: Ruin, or "fury." 34: Scorners, or "arrogant."

²⁷ Do not withhold good from those to whom it¹ is due,
when it is in your power to do it.

²⁸ Do not say to your neighbor, "Go,
and come again,
tomorrow I will give it"—when you have it with you.

²⁹ Do not plan evil against your neighbor
who dwells trustingly beside you.

³⁰ Do not contend with a man for no reason,
when he has done you no harm.

³¹ Do not envy a man of violence and do not choose any of his ³² for the perverse man is an abomination to the LORD,

confidence.

³³ The LORD's curse is on the house of
the wicked,

³⁴ Toward the scorners he is scornful,

but fools get^m disgrace.

4 Hear, O sons, a father's instruction,

gainⁿ insight;

² for I give you good precepts:
do not forsake my teaching.

³ When I was a son with my father, tender, the only one in the sight of my mother,

⁴ he taught me, and said to me,
"Let your heart hold fast my words;
keep my commandments, and
live;

⁵ do not forget, and do not turn away from the words of my mouth.
Get wisdom; get insight.^o

⁶ Do not forsake her, and she will keep you;
love her, and she will guard you.

⁷ The beginning of wisdom is this:
Get wisdom,

and whatever you get, get insight

⁸ Prize her highly,^p and she will exalt
you;
she will honor you if you embrace
her.

⁹ She will place on your head a fair
garland;
she will bestow on you a beautiful crown."

¹⁰ Hear, my son, and accept my words, that the years of your life may be many.

¹¹ I have taught you the way of wisdom;
I have led you in the paths of uprightness.

¹² When you walk, your step will not be hampered;
and if you run, you will not
stumble.

¹³ Keep hold of instruction, do not let go;
guard her, for she is your life.

¹⁴ Do not enter the path of the wicked,
and do not walk in the way of evil
men.

¹⁵ Avoid it; do not go on it;
turn away from it and pass on.

¹⁶ For they cannot sleep unless they have done wrong;
they are robbed of sleep unless they have made some one stumble.

¹⁷ For they eat the bread of wickedness
and drink the wine of violence.

¹⁸ But the path of the righteous is like the light of dawn,
which shines brighter and brighter
until full day.

they do not know over what they

and feels no need of learning or religion (21.24). 10: The theme of 1.7 is repeated as the teacher's discourses in chs. 1-9 draw to a close. 11: A displaced verse which fits after 8.17. 12: You are wise for yourself, or, "wisdom is yours." Responsibility for his wisdom or folly rests with every man.

9.13-18: Folly, in contrast to the lady Wisdom (vv. 1-6), is a harlot leading man to death; she is loud-mouthed, stupid, and without shame. 17: A popular proverb applied to adultery. 18: 5.23; 7.26-27.

10.1-22.16: Book II, a collection of miscellaneous maxims, each being two lines in parallelism. By sage observations on life and behavior, vices are held up to scorn, while virtues are commended as based on common sense, intelligence and obedience to God. Punishment of vice and reward of virtue can be observed in experience. The individual maxims and observations would serve as texts for instruction in a home or school of wisdom. 10.1: The proverbs of Solomon, see Introduction.

10.2: Delivers from death, i.e. is rewarded by long life. An early death was regarded as punishment for sin. 3: An affirmation based more on faith than on experience.

17.8: A magic stone, a charm to bring good luck. 9: Repeats, harps on. 11: Rebellion provokes severity. 14: Letting out water from a dam or irrigation channel is easier to start than to stop. 17: Is born for, to help in adversity is what a brother is for. 18: See 6.1–5 n. 19: Makes his door high so that a visitor must go up to meet him; a figure of arrogance. 23: From the bosom, concealed. 24: A wise man concentrates on the immediate goal.

18.1: A friend who has been alienated is hostile. 4: Deep waters are unfathomable or danger-

- ⁸ The words of a whisperer are like delicious morsels;
they go down into the inner parts of the body.
- ⁹ He who is slack in his work is a brother to him who destroys.
- ¹⁰ The name of the LORD is a strong tower;
the righteous man runs into it and is safe.
- ¹¹ A rich man's wealth is his strong city,
and like a high wall protecting him.^z
- ¹² Before destruction a man's heart is haughty,
but humility goes before honor.
- ¹³ If one gives answer before he hears,
it is his folly and shame.
- ¹⁴ A man's spirit will endure sickness;
but a broken spirit who can bear?
- ¹⁵ An intelligent mind acquires knowledge,
and the ear of the wise seeks knowledge.
- ¹⁶ A man's gift makes room for him
and brings him before great men.
- ¹⁷ He who states his case first seems right,
until the other comes and examines him.
- ¹⁸ The lot puts an end to disputes and decides between powerful contenders.
- ¹⁹ A brother helped is like a strong city,^a
but quarreling is like the bars of a castle.
- ²⁰ From the fruit of his mouth a man is satisfied;
he is satisfied by the yield of his lips.
- ²¹ Death and life are in the power of the tongue,
and those who love it will eat its fruits.
- ²² He who finds a wife finds a good thing,
and obtains favor from the LORD.
- ²³ The poor use entreaties,
but the rich answer roughly.
- ²⁴ There are^b friends who pretend to be friends,^c
but there is a friend who sticks closer than a brother.
- 19 Better is a poor man who walks in his integrity
than a man who is perverse in speech, and is a fool.
- ² It is not good for a man to be without knowledge,
and he who makes haste with his feet misses his way.
- ³ When a man's folly brings his way to ruin,
his heart rages against the LORD.
- ⁴ Wealth brings many new friends,
but a poor man is deserted by his friend.
- ⁵ A false witness will not go unpunished,
and he who utters lies will not escape.
- ⁶ Many seek the favor of a generous man,
and every one is a friend to a man who gives gifts.
- ⁷ All a poor man's brothers hate him;
how much more do his friends go far from him!
He pursues them with words, but does not have them.^d
- ⁸ He who gets wisdom loves himself;
he who keeps understanding will prosper.
- ⁹ A false witness will not go unpunished,
and he who utters lies will perish.
- ¹⁰ It is not fitting for a fool to live in luxury,
much less for a slave to rule over princes.
- ¹¹ Good sense makes a man slow to anger,

ous (10.19), a gushing stream refreshes. 8: Slander listened to is not soon forgotten. 17: A figure from the law courts. 18: 16.33. 19: The Hebrew may mean "burning anger" rather than a brother helped; i.e. anger is hard to overcome. 20: See 13.2 n. 19.7c: When he pursues them they speak angrily to him.

- and it is his glory to overlook an offense.
- ¹² A king's wrath is like the growling of a lion,
but his favor is like dew upon the grass.
- ¹³ A foolish son is ruin to his father,
and a wife's quarreling is a continual dripping of rain.
- ¹⁴ House and wealth are inherited from fathers,
but a prudent wife is from the LORD.
- ¹⁵ Slothfulness casts into a deep sleep,
and an idle person will suffer hunger.
- ¹⁶ He who keeps the commandment keeps his life;
he who despises the word^e will die.
- ¹⁷ He who is kind to the poor lends to the LORD,
and he will repay him for his deed.
- ¹⁸ Discipline your son while there is hope;
do not set your heart on his destruction.
- ¹⁹ A man of great wrath will pay the penalty;
for if you deliver him, you will only have to do it again.^f
- ²⁰ Listen to advice and accept instruction,
that you may gain wisdom for the future.
- ²¹ Many are the plans in the mind of a man,
but it is the purpose of the LORD that will be established.
- ²² What is desired in a man is loyalty,
and a poor man is better than a liar.
- ²³ The fear of the LORD leads to life;
and he who has it rests satisfied;
he will not be visited by harm.
- ²⁴ The sluggard buries his hand in the dish,
and will not even bring it back to his mouth.
- ²⁵ Strike a scoffer, and the simple will learn prudence;
reprove a man of understanding,

- and he will gain knowledge.
- ²⁶ He who does violence to his father and chases away his mother is a son who causes shame and brings reproach.
- ²⁷ Cease, my son, to hear instruction only to stray from the words of knowledge.
- ²⁸ A worthless witness mocks at justice, and the mouth of the wicked devours iniquity.
- ²⁹ Condemnation is ready for scoffers, and flogging for the backs of fools.
- 20 Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler;
and whoever is led astray by it is not wise.
- ² The dread wrath of a king is like the growling of a lion;
he who provokes him to anger forfeits his life.
- ³ It is an honor for a man to keep aloof from strife;
but every fool will be quarreling.
- ⁴ The sluggard does not plow in the autumn;
he will seek at harvest and have nothing.
- ⁵ The purpose in a man's mind is like deep water,
but a man of understanding will draw it out.
- ⁶ Many a man proclaims his own loyalty,
but a faithful man who can find?
- ⁷ A righteous man who walks in his integrity—
blessed are his sons after him!
- ⁸ A king who sits on the throne of judgment
winnows all evil with his eyes.
- ⁹ Who can say, "I have made my heart clean;
I am pure from my sin"? ^f
- ¹⁰ Diverse weights and diverse measures are both alike an abomination to the LORD.
- ¹¹ Even a child makes himself known by his acts,

^e Cf. Compare 13.13: Heb his ways ^f Heb obscure

- whether what he does is pure and right.
- ¹² The hearing ear and the seeing eye, the LORD has made them both.
- ¹³ Love not sleep, lest you come to poverty;
open your eyes, and you will have plenty of bread.
- ¹⁴ "It is bad, it is bad," says the buyer;
but when he goes away, then he boasts.
- ¹⁵ There is gold, and abundance of costly stones;
but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.
- ¹⁶ Take a man's garment when he has given surety for a stranger, and hold him in pledge when he gives surety for foreigners.
- ¹⁷ Bread gained by deceit is sweet to a man,
but afterward his mouth will be full of gravel.
- ¹⁸ Plans are established by counsel;
by wise guidance wage war.
- ¹⁹ He who goes about gossiping reveals secrets;
therefore do not associate with one who speaks foolishly.
- ²⁰ If one curses his father or his mother,
his lamp will be put out in utter darkness.
- ²¹ An inheritance gotten hastily in the beginning will in the end not be blessed.
- ²² Do not say, "I will repay evil";
wait for the LORD, and he will help you.
- ²³ Diverse weights are an abomination to the LORD,
and false scales are not good.
- ²⁴ A man's steps are ordered by the LORD;
how then can man understand his way?
- ²⁵ It is a snare for a man to say rashly, "It is holy,"
and to reflect only after making his vows.
- ²⁶ A wise king winnows the wicked,
and drives the wheel over them.
- ²⁷ The spirit of man is the lamp of the LORD,
searching all his innermost parts.
- ²⁸ Loyalty and faithfulness preserve the king,
and his throne is upheld by righteousness.^g
- ²⁹ The glory of young men is their strength,
but the beauty of old men is their gray hair.
- ³⁰ Blows that wound cleanse away evil;
strokes make clean the innermost parts.
- 21 The king's heart is a stream of water in the hand of the LORD;
he turns it wherever he will.
- ² Every way of a man is right in his own eyes,
but the LORD weighs the heart.
- ³ To do righteousness and justice is more acceptable to the LORD than sacrifice.
- ⁴ Haughty eyes and a proud heart, the lamp of the wicked, are sin.
- ⁵ The plans of the diligent lead surely to abundance,
but every one who is hasty comes only to want.
- ⁶ The getting of treasures by a lying tongue
is a fleeting vapor and a snare of death.
- ⁷ The violence of the wicked will sweep them away,
because they refuse to do what is just.
- ⁸ The way of the guilty is crooked,
but the conduct of the pure is right.

- than in a house shared with a contentious woman.
- ¹⁰ The soul of the wicked desires evil; his neighbor finds no mercy in his eyes.
- ¹¹ When a scoffer is punished, the simple becomes wise; when a wise man is instructed, he gains knowledge.
- ¹² The righteous observes the house of the wicked; the wicked are cast down to ruin.
- ¹³ He who closes his ear to the cry of the poor will himself cry out and not be heard.
- ¹⁴ A gift in secret averts anger; and a bribe in the bosom, strong wrath.
- ¹⁵ When justice is done, it is a joy to the righteous, but dismay to evildoers.
- ¹⁶ A man who wanders from the way of understanding will rest in the assembly of the dead.
- ¹⁷ He who loves pleasure will be a poor man; he who loves wine and oil will not be rich.
- ¹⁸ The wicked is a ransom for the righteous, and the faithless for the upright.
- ¹⁹ It is better to live in a desert land than with a contentious and fretful woman.
- ²⁰ Precious treasure remains^h in a wise man's dwelling, but a foolish man devours it.
- ²¹ He who pursues righteousness and kindness will find lifeⁱ and honor.
- ²² A wise man scales the city of the mighty and brings down the stronghold in which they trust.
- ²³ He who keeps his mouth and his tongue keeps himself out of trouble.
- ²⁴ "Scoffer" is the name of the proud, haughty man
- who acts with arrogant pride.
- ²⁵ The desire of the sluggard kills him for his hands refuse to labor.
- ²⁶ All day long the wicked covets,^j but the righteous gives and does not hold back.
- ²⁷ The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination; how much more when he brings it with evil intent.
- ²⁸ A false witness will perish, but the word of a man who hears will endure.
- ²⁹ A wicked man puts on a bold face, but an upright man considers^k his ways.
- ³⁰ No wisdom, no understanding, no counsel, can avail against the LORD.
- ³¹ The horse is made ready for the day of battle, but the victory belongs to the LORD.
- 22 A good name is to be chosen rather than great riches, and favor is better than silver or gold.
- ² The rich and the poor meet together; the LORD is the maker of them all.
- ³ A prudent man sees danger and hides himself; but the simple go on, and suffer for it.
- ⁴ The reward for humility and fear of the LORD is riches and honor and life.
- ⁵ Thorns and snares are in the way of the perverse; he who guards himself will keep far from them.
- ⁶ Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it.
- ⁷ The rich rules over the poor, and the borrower is the slave of the lender.
- ⁸ He who sows injustice will reap calamity,

⁹ He who has a bountiful eye will be blessed,
 for he shares his bread with the poor.
¹⁰ Drive out a scoffer, and strife will go out,
 and quarreling and abuse will cease.
¹¹ He who loves purity of heart, and whose speech is gracious, will have the king as his friend.
¹² The eyes of the LORD keep watch over knowledge,
 but he overthrows the words of the faithless.
¹³ The sluggard says, "There is a lion outside!
 I shall be slain in the streets!"
¹⁴ The mouth of a loose woman is a deep pit;
 he with whom the LORD is angry will fall into it.
¹⁵ Folly is bound up in the heart of a child,
 but the rod of discipline drives it far from him.
¹⁶ He who oppresses the poor to increase his own wealth,
 or gives to the rich, will only come to want.
¹⁷ Incline your ear, and hear the words of the wise,
 and apply your mind to my knowledge;

 that you may give a true answer to those who sent you?
²² Do not rob the poor, because he is poor,
 or crush the afflicted at the gate;
²³ for the LORD will plead their cause
 and despoil of life those who despoil them.
²⁴ Make no friendship with a man given to anger,
 nor go with a wrathful man,
²⁵ lest you learn his ways
 and entangle yourself in a snare.
²⁶ Be not one of those who give pledges,
 who become surety for debts.
²⁷ If you have nothing with which to pay,
 why should your bed be taken from under you?
²⁸ Remove not the ancient landmark which your fathers have set.
²⁹ Do you see a man skilful in his work?
 he will stand before kings;
 he will not stand before obscure men.

- 24 Be not envious of evil men,
nor desire to be with them;
² for their minds devise violence,
and their lips talk of mischief.
- ³ By wisdom a house is built,
and by understanding it is established;
⁴ by knowledge the rooms are filled with all precious and pleasant riches.
- ⁵ A wise man is mightier than a strong man,^q
and a man of knowledge than he who has strength;
⁶ for by wise guidance you can wage
your war,
and in abundance of counselors
there is victory.
- ⁷ Wisdom is too high for a fool;
in the gate he does not open his mouth.
- ⁸ He who plans to do evil
will be called a mischief-maker.
⁹ The devising of folly is sin,
and the scoffer is an abomination
to men.
- ¹⁰ If you faint in the day of adversity,
your strength is small.
¹¹ Rescue those who are being taken

- ¹³ My son, eat honey, for it is good,
and the drippings of the honeycomb are sweet to your taste.
- ¹⁴ Know that wisdom is such to your
soul;
if you find it, there will be a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.
- ¹⁵ Lie not in wait as a wicked man against the dwelling of the
righteous;
do not violence to his home;
¹⁶ for a righteous man falls seven times, and rises again;
but the wicked are overthrown by calamity.
- ¹⁷ Do not rejoice when your enemy
falls,
and let not your heart be glad
when he stumbles;
¹⁸ lest the LORD see it, and be displeased,
and turn away his anger from him.
- ¹⁹ Fret not yourself because of
evildoers,
and be not envious of the wicked;
²⁰ for the evil man has no future;
the lamp of the wicked will be put
out.
- ²¹ My son, fear the LORD and the king,
and do not disobey either of them;^r
²² for disaster from them will rise
suddenly,
and who knows the ruin that will come from them both?
- ²³ These also are sayings of the wise.
Partiality in judging is not good.
²⁴ He who says to the wicked, “You

ECCLESIASTES

OR THE PREACHER

Ecclesiastes contains the reflections of a philosopher rather than a testimony of belief. The author seeks to understand by the use of reason the meaning of human existence and the good which man can find in life. He questions many of the accepted beliefs of Hebrew tradition. To him God is the inscrutable originator of the world and determiner of man's fate. As the natural world is in constant movement without real change, so man's expenditure of effort achieves nothing. All is "vanity," a breath, unsubstantial and fleeting. Man's character and accomplishments make no difference to his fate, which is the same as that of beasts. Yet, though reason leaves him baffled, the author nevertheless affirms that life with its limitations is worth living. One must face facts, accept what cannot be changed, and enjoy whatever good things God permits until death brings oblivion.

The author is described in 12.9-10 as a sage, a teacher, and a skilled writer. The literary role of Solomon is assumed only in chapters 1-2. The rationalistic tone of the book and its echoes of Greek philosophies point to a date about the third century B.C. Except for the opening statement of the theme and the concluding poem on old age, the work is without formal structure. "Ecclesiastes" is an attempted Greek translation of the author's pen-name, Qoheleth. This comes from the same Hebrew root as qahal, "assembly," and means one who conducts an assembly or school.

The inclusion in the Jewish canon of Scripture of a work so much at variance with its dominant teaching may be explained by the traditional association with Solomon, its sponsorship by influential "wise men," and the inclusion of an orthodox postscript (12.9-14) which lays down the religious position in the light of which it is to be understood.

THE WORDS OF THE PREACHER,^a
the son of David, king in Jerusalem.

- ² Vanity of vanities, says the Preacher,
vanity of vanities! All is vanity.
³ What does man gain by all the toil
at which he toils under the sun?
⁴ A generation goes, and a generation comes,
but the earth remains for ever.
⁵ The sun rises and the sun goes down,
and hastens to the place where it rises.
⁶ The wind blows to the south,
and goes round to the north;
round and round goes the wind,
and on its circuits the wind returns.
⁷ All streams run to the sea,
but the sea is not full;
to the place where the streams flow,
there they flow again.

- ⁸ All things are full of weariness;
a man cannot utter it;
the eye is not satisfied with seeing,
nor the ear filled with hearing.
⁹ What has been is what will be,
and what has been done is what will be done;
and there is nothing new under the sun.
¹⁰ Is there a thing of which it is said,
"See, this is new"?
It has been already,
in the ages before us.
¹¹ There is no remembrance of former
things,
nor will there be any remembrance
of later things yet to happen
among those who come after.
12 I the Preacher have been king over Israel in Jerusalem. ¹³ And I

a Heb Koheleth

1.1-3: Title and thesis. Experience is as fleeting and unsubstantial as vanity, "a breath."

1.4-11: Evidence for the thesis—generations pass, nature is in ceaseless motion, but nothing new results.

1.12-2.11: The fruitless search for the fruit of human effort (a) to change the world, (b) to reach understanding, (c) to possess happiness. 13: Unhappy business, "sore (grievous) task."

applied my mind to seek and to search out by wisdom all that is done under heaven; it is an unhappy business that God has given to the sons of men to be busy with. ¹⁴ I have seen everything that is done under the sun; and behold, all is vanity and a striving after wind.^b

¹⁵ What is crooked cannot be made straight, and what is lacking cannot be numbered.

¹⁶ I said to myself, "I have acquired great wisdom, surpassing all who were over Jerusalem before me; and my mind has had great experience of wisdom and knowledge."

¹⁷ And I applied my mind to know wisdom and to know madness and folly. I perceived that this also is but a striving after wind.

¹⁸ For in much wisdom is much vexation,
and he who increases knowledge increases sorrow.

Q I said to myself, "Come now, I will make a test of pleasure; enjoy yourself." But behold, this also was vanity. ² I said of laughter, "It is mad," and of pleasure, "What use is it?"

³ I searched with my mind how to cheer my body with wine—my mind still guiding me with wisdom—and how to lay hold on folly, till I might see what was good for the sons of men to do under heaven during the few days of their life. ⁴ I made great works; I built houses and planted vineyards for myself; ⁵ I made myself gardens and parks, and planted in them all kinds of fruit trees. ⁶ I made myself pools from which to water the forest of growing trees. ⁷ I bought male and female slaves, and had slaves who were born in my house; I had also great possessions of herds and flocks, more than any who had been before me in Jerusalem. ⁸ I also gathered for myself silver and gold and the treasure of kings and provinces; I got singers, both men and women, and many concubines,^c man's delight.

⁹ So I became great and surpassed all who were before me in Jerusalem; also my wisdom remained with me. ¹⁰ And whatever my eyes desired I did not keep from them; I kept my heart from no pleasure, for my heart found pleasure in all my toil, and this was my reward for all my toil. ¹¹ Then I considered all that my hands had done and the toil I had spent in doing it, and behold, all was vanity and a striving after wind, and there was nothing to be gained under the sun.

¹² So I turned to consider wisdom and madness and folly; for what can the man do who comes after the king? Only what he has already done. ¹³ Then I saw that wisdom excels folly as light excels darkness. ¹⁴ The wise man has his eyes in his head, but the fool walks in darkness; and yet I perceived that one fate comes to all of them. ¹⁵ Then I said to myself, "What befalls the fool will befall me also; why then have I been so very wise?" And I said to myself that this also is vanity. ¹⁶ For of the wise man as of the fool there is no enduring remembrance, seeing that in the days to come all will have been long forgotten. How the wise man dies just like the fool! ¹⁷ So I hated life, because what is done under the sun was grievous to me; for all is vanity and a striving after wind.

¹⁸ I hated all my toil in which I had toiled under the sun, seeing that I must leave it to the man who will come after me; ¹⁹ and who knows whether he will be a wise man or a fool? Yet he will be master of all for which I toiled and used my wisdom under the sun. This also is vanity. ²⁰ So I turned about and gave my heart

^c The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain

15: Numbered, "made up." 16: The writer forgets that Jerusalem became Hebrew only one generation before Solomon. 17: Know, "analyze." 2.4-9: Solomon's fabulous magnificence (1 Kg. ch. 10). 10: An absolute monarch is free to experiment. Qoheleth's great discovery was that satisfaction lies in effort even without tangible result.

2.12-26: Mortality robs wisdom and labor of their fruits; man's sole good is present enjoy-up to despair over all the toil of my labors under the sun,²¹ because sometimes a man who has toiled with wisdom and knowledge and skill must leave all to be enjoyed by a man who did not toil for it. This also is vanity and a great evil.²² What has a man from all the toil and strain with which he toils beneath the sun?²³ For all his days are full of pain, and his work is a vexation; even in the night his mind does not rest. This also is vanity.

24 There is nothing better for a man than that he should eat and drink, and find enjoyment in his toil. This also, I saw, is from the hand of God;²⁵ for apart from him^d who can eat or who can have enjoyment?²⁶ For to the man who pleases him God gives wisdom and knowledge and joy; but to the sinner he gives the work of gathering and heaping, only to give to one who pleases God. This also is vanity and a striving after wind.

- ⁹ What gain has the worker from his toil?

10 I have seen the business that God has given to the sons of men to be busy with.¹¹ He has made everything beautiful in its time; also he has put eternity into man's mind, yet so that he cannot find out what God has done from the beginning to the end.¹² I know that there is nothing better for them than to be happy and enjoy themselves as long as they live;¹³ also that it is God's gift to man that every one should eat and drink and take pleasure in all his toil.¹⁴ I know that whatever God does endures for ever; nothing can be added to it, nor anything taken from it; God has made it so, in order that men should fear before him.¹⁵ That which is, already has been; that which is to be, already has been; and God seeks what has been driven away.

16 Moreover I saw under the sun that in the place of justice, even there was wickedness, and in the place of righteousness, even there was wickedness.¹⁷ I said in my heart, God will judge the righteous and the wicked, for he has appointed a time for every matter, and for every work.¹⁸ I said in my heart with regard to the sons of men that God is testing them to show them that they are but beasts.¹⁹ For the fate of the sons of men and the fate of beasts is the same; as one dies, so dies the other. They all have the same breath, and man has no advantage over the beasts; for all is vanity.²⁰ All

3.1-15: Man can neither understand nor change the predetermined pattern of his life. Everything happens at the time fixed for it. 11: Perhaps instead of eternity it would be better to translate "obscurity," taking the Hebrew word from a root meaning "conceal." This fits the context. 15: Seeks what has been driven away, causes the past to be repeated.

3.16-4.3: Possible explanations of prevalent evil: (a) God decrees both good and evil, or (b) men are animals and moral distinctions are an illusion. Life is an evil to those who suffer. 16: Place, law court or temple. 18: Testing, literally, "polishing." 19: Vanity, "transience," go to one place; all are from the dust, and all turn to dust again. ²¹ Who knows whether the spirit of man goes upward and the spirit of the beast goes down to the earth? ²² So I saw that there is nothing better than that a man should enjoy his work, for that is his lot; who can bring him to see what will be after him?

4 Again I saw all the oppressions that are practiced under the sun. And behold, the tears of the oppressed, and they had no one to comfort them! On the side of their oppressors there was power, and there was no one to comfort them. ² And I thought the dead who are already dead more fortunate than the living who are still alive; ³ but better than both is he who has not yet been, and has not seen the evil deeds that are done under the sun.

4 Then I saw that all toil and all skill in work come from a man's envy of his neighbor. This also is vanity and a striving after wind.

5 The fool folds his hands, and eats his own flesh.

6 Better is a handful of quietness than two hands full of toil and a striving after wind.

7 Again, I saw vanity under the sun: ⁸ a person who has no one, either son or brother, yet there is no end to all his toil, and his eyes are never satisfied with riches, so that he never asks, "For whom am I toiling and depriving myself of pleasure?" This also is vanity and an unhappy business.

9 Two are better than one, because they have a good reward for their toil. ¹⁰ For if they fall, one will lift up his fellow; but woe to him who is alone when he falls and has not another to lift him up. ¹¹ Again, if two lie together, they are warm; but how can one be warm alone? ¹² And though a man might prevail against one who is alone, two will withstand him. A threefold cord is not quickly broken.

13 Better is a poor and wise youth than an old and foolish king, who will no longer take advice, ¹⁴ even though he had gone from prison to the throne or in his own kingdom had been born poor. ¹⁵ I saw all the living who move about under the sun, as well as that youth, who was to stand in his place; ¹⁶ there was no end of all the people; he was over all of them. Yet those who come later will not rejoice in him. Surely this also is vanity and a striving after wind.

5^s Guard your steps when you go to the house of God; to draw near to listen is better than to offer the sacrifice of fools; for they do not know that they are doing evil. ^{2h} Be not rash with your mouth, nor let your heart be hasty to utter a word before God, for God is in heaven, and you upon earth; therefore let your words be few.

3 For a dream comes with much business, and a fool's voice with many words.

4 When you vow a vow to God, do not delay paying it; for he has no pleasure in fools. Pay what you vow. ⁵ It is better that you should not vow than that you should vow and not pay. ⁶ Let not your mouth lead you into sin, and do not say before the messengerⁱ that it was a mistake; why should God be angry at your voice, and destroy the work of your hands?

4.13-16: The impermanence of fame; a king who rose from obscurity will be supplanted by one like himself whose glory in turn will pass away.

5.1-7: Advice on religious observance. Qoheleth deprecates enthusiastic but ignorant piety; the reflective man will maintain his detachment, but will pay such vows as he makes. 6: The messenger who comes to collect what has been vowed. 7: Though dreams and empty words are associated with religion by fools, the wise man will reverence God.

7 For when dreams increase, empty words grow many:^j but do you fear God.

8 If you see in a province the poor oppressed and justice and right violently taken away, do not be amazed at the matter; for the high official is watched by a higher, and there are yet higher ones over them.⁹ But in all, a king is an advantage to a land with cultivated fields.^k

10 He who loves money will not be satisfied with money; nor he who loves wealth, with gain: this also is vanity.

11 When goods increase, they increase who eat them; and what gain has their owner but to see them with his eyes?

12 Sweet is the sleep of a laborer, whether he eats little or much; but the surfeit of the rich will not let him sleep.

13 There is a grievous evil which I have seen under the sun: riches were kept by their owner to his hurt,¹⁴ and those riches were lost in a bad venture; and he is father of a son, but he has nothing in his hand.¹⁵ As he came from his mother's womb he shall go again, naked as he came, and shall take nothing for his toil, which he may carry away in his hand.¹⁶ This also is a grievous evil: just as he came, so shall he go; and what gain has he that he toiled for the wind,¹⁷ and spent all his days in darkness and grief,^l in much vexation and sickness and resentment?

18 Behold, what I have seen to be good and to be fitting is to eat and drink and find enjoyment in all the toil with which one toils under the sun the few days of his life which God has given him, for this is his lot.¹⁹ Every man also to whom God has given wealth and possessions and power to enjoy them, and to accept his lot and find enjoyment in his toil—this is the gift of God.²⁰ For he will not much remember the days of his life because God keeps him occupied with joy in his heart.

6 There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it lies heavy upon men:² a man to whom God gives wealth, possessions, and honor, so that he lacks nothing of all that he desires, yet God does not give him power to enjoy them, but a stranger enjoys them; this is vanity; it is a sore affliction.³ If a man begets a hundred children, and lives many years, so that the days of his years are many, but he does not enjoy life's good things, and also has no burial, I say that an untimely birth is better off than he.⁴ For it comes into vanity and goes into darkness, and in darkness its name is covered;⁵ moreover it has not seen the sun or known anything; yet it finds rest rather than he.⁶ Even though he should live a thousand years twice told, yet enjoy no good—do not all go to the one place?

7 All the toil of man is for his mouth, yet his appetite is not satisfied.⁸ For what advantage has the wise man over the fool? And what does the poor man have who knows how to conduct himself before the living?⁹ Better is the sight of the eyes than the wandering of desire; this also is vanity and a striving after wind.

10 Whatever has come to be has already been named, and it is known what man is, and that he is not able to dispute with one stronger than he.¹¹ The more words, the more vanity, and what is man the better?¹² For who knows what is good for man while he lives the few days of his vain life, which he passes like a shadow? For who can tell man what will be after him under the sun?

- ² It is better to go to the house of mourning than to go to the house of feasting;
for this is the end of all men, and the living will lay it to heart.
- ³ Sorrow is better than laughter, for by sadness of countenance the heart is made glad.
- ⁴ The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning; but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.
- ⁵ It is better for a man to hear the rebuke of the wise than to hear the song of fools.
- ⁶ For as the crackling of thorns under a pot, so is the laughter of the fools; this also is vanity.
- ⁷ Surely oppression makes the wise man foolish, and a bribe corrupts the mind.
- ⁸ Better is the end of a thing than its beginning; and the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit.
- ⁹ Be not quick to anger, for anger lodges in the bosom of fools.
- ¹⁰ Say not, "Why were the former days better than these?"
For it is not from wisdom that you ask this.
- ¹¹ Wisdom is good with an inheritance, an advantage to those who see the sun.
- ¹² For the protection of wisdom is like the protection of money; and the advantage of knowledge is that wisdom preserves the life of him who has it.
- ¹³ Consider the work of God;

who can make straight what he has made crooked?

¹⁴ In the day of prosperity be joyful, and in the day of adversity consider; God has made the one as well as the other, so that man may not find out anything that will be after him.

¹⁵ In my vain life I have seen everything; there is a righteous man who perishes in his righteousness, and there is a wicked man who prolongs his life in his evil-doing. ¹⁶ Be not righteous overmuch, and do not make yourself overwise; why should you destroy yourself? ¹⁷ Be not wicked overmuch, neither be a fool; why should you die before your time? ¹⁸ It is good that you should take hold of this, and from that withhold not your hand; for he who fears God shall come forth from them all.

²⁰ Surely there is not a righteous man on earth who does good and never sins.

²³ All this I have tested by wisdom; I said, "I will be wise"; but it was far from me. ²⁴ That which is, is far off, and deep, very deep; who can find it out? ²⁵ I turned my mind to know and to search out and to seek wisdom and the sum of things, and to know the wickedness of folly and the foolishness which is madness. ²⁶ And I found more bitter than death the woman whose heart is snares and nets, and whose hands are fetters; he who pleases God escapes her, but the sinner is taken by her. ²⁷ Behold, this is what I found, says the Preacher, adding one thing to another to find the sum, ²⁸ which my mind has sought repeatedly, but I have not found. One man among a thousand I found, but a woman among all these I have not found. ²⁹ Behold, this alone I found, that God made man upright, but they have sought out many devices.

8 Who is like the wise man?

8 And who knows the interpretation of a thing?

A man's wisdom makes his face shine,

and the hardness of his countenance is changed.

2 Keep^m the king's command, and because of your sacred oath be not dismayed; ³ go from his presence, do not delay when the matter is unpleasant, for he does whatever he pleases.

⁴ For the word of the king is supreme, and who may say to him, "What are you doing?" ⁵ He who obeys a command will meet no harm, and the mind of a wise man will know the time and way. ⁶ For every matter has its time and way, although man's trouble lies heavy upon him. ⁷ For he does not know what is to be, for who can tell him how it will be? ⁸ No man has power to retain the spirit, or authority over the day of death; there is no discharge from war, nor will wickedness deliver those who are given to it. ⁹ All this I observed while applying my mind to all that is done under the sun, while man lords it over man to his hurt.

10 Then I saw the wicked buried; they used to go in and out of the holy place, and were praised in the city where they had done such things. This also is vanity. ¹¹ Because sentence against an evil deed is not executed speedily, the heart of the sons of men is fully set to do evil. ¹² Though a sinner does evil a hundred times and prolongs his life, yet I know that it will be well with those who fear God, because they fear before him; ¹³ but it will not be well with the wicked, neither will he prolong his days like a shadow, because he does not fear before God.

14 There is a vanity which takes place on earth, that there are righteous men to whom it happens according to the deeds of the wicked, and there are wicked men to whom it happens according to the deeds of the righteous. I said that this also is vanity. ¹⁵ And I commend enjoyment, for man has no good thing under the sun but to eat and drink, and enjoy himself, for this will go with him in his toil through the days of life which God gives him under the sun.

16 When I applied my mind to know wisdom, and to see the business that is done on earth, how neither day nor night one's eyes see sleep; ¹⁷ then I saw all the work of God, that man cannot find out the work that is done under the sun. However much man may toil in seeking, he will not find it out; even though a wise man claims to know, he cannot find it out.

9 But all this I laid to heart, examining it all, how the righteous and the wise and their deeds are in the hand of God; whether it is love or hate man does not know. Everything before them is vanity,ⁿ ² since one fate comes to all, to the righteous and the wicked, to the good and the evil,^o to the clean and the unclean, to him who sacrifices and him who does not sacrifice. As is the good man, so is the sinner; and he who swears is as he who shuns an oath. ³ This is an evil in all that is done under the sun, that one fate comes to all; also the hearts of men are full of evil, and madness is in

11 Again I saw that under the sun the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor bread to the wise, nor riches to the intelligent, nor favor to the men of skill; but time and chance happen to them all. ¹² For man does not know his time. Like fish which are taken in an evil net, and like birds which are caught in a snare, so the sons of men are snared at an evil time, when it suddenly falls upon them.

13 I have also seen this example of wisdom under the sun, and it seemed great to me. ¹⁴ There was a little city with few men in it; and a great king came against it and besieged it, building great siegeworks against it. ¹⁵ But there was found in it a poor wise man, and he by his wisdom delivered the city. Yet no one remembered that poor man. ¹⁶ But I say that wisdom is better than might, though the poor man's wisdom is despised, and his words are not heeded.

17 The words of the wise heard in quiet are better than the shouting of a ruler among fools. ¹⁸ Wisdom is better than weapons of war, but one sinner destroys much good.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON

This book is a collection of about twenty-five lyric poems or fragments of poems of human love and courtship such as would be sung appropriately at weddings (Jer.33.11). The poetry is graceful, sensuous, and replete with erotic imagery and allusions to the ancient myth of the love of a god and a goddess on which the fertility of nature was thought to depend. The book has no literary or dramatic structure. Its unity is that of subject matter, style, and possibly of authorship. It is anonymous, since the addition of Solomon's name to the title has no support beyond the tradition that he was the composer of many proverbs and songs (1 Kg.4.32).

The Song has no overt religious content corresponding to that of the other books of the Bible, and can be so interpreted only by assuming that a mystical symbolism is involved in its highly figurative language. Its inclusion in the Old Testament is to be explained from the prophetic figure of the LORD as the "husband" of his people (Hos.2.16-19). In Christian tradition it has been interpreted as an allegory of the love of Christ for his bride, the church (Rev.21.2,9), or as symbolizing the intimate experience of divine love in the individual soul.

In its present written form the Song dates from about the third century B.C., but its material is much more ancient. Symbols and motifs derived from early mythology are still recognizable, but their original reference has been forgotten and they have become part of the special language of human love and courtship. It should be noted that the translation is sometimes uncertain because many words employed in these poems are rare in Biblical Hebrew.

² As a lily among brambles,
so is my love among maidens.

³ As an apple tree among the trees
of the wood,
so is my beloved among young
men.

With great delight I sat in his shadow,
and his fruit was sweet to my taste.

- ⁴ He brought me to the banqueting

Behold, he comes,
leaping upon the mountains,
bounding over the hills.
- ⁹ My beloved is like a gazelle,
or a young stag.
Behold, there he stands behind our wall,
gazing in at the windows,
looking through the lattice.
- ¹⁰ My beloved speaks and says to me:
"Arise, my love, my fair one,
and come away;
- ¹¹ for lo, the winter is past,
the rain is over and gone.
- ¹² The flowers appear on the earth,
the time of singing has come,
and the voice of the turtledove

^e Heb crocus

1.9-11: The youth praises the bejewelled maiden.

1.12-17: The lovers' dialogue, as they lie together in the open air. Beloved, originally an epithet of the fertility god, here simply a term of endearment. In Is.5.1 it is applied to the LORD.
14: En-ge'di, a fertile oasis by the Dead Sea.

2.1-4: A second dialogue of the lovers. 1: Rose, more correctly "crocus." Sharon, the rich coastal plain south of Carmel. 4: His banner over me; translation uncertain; perhaps read, "he gazed on me with love."

2.5-7: The maiden's longing for love when the time is ripe.

2.8-14: The lover comes in the spring to summon his bride. 8: Voice, or sound of his approach.

11: Winter, the rainy season. 14: Clefts . . . covert, figures of the bride's home.

¹⁴ O my dove, in the clefts of the rock,
in the covert of the cliff,
let me see your face,
let me hear your voice,
for your voice is sweet,
and your face is comely.

THE BOOK OF ISAIAH

The prophet Isaiah, the son of Amoz, proclaimed his message to Judah and Jerusalem between 742 and 687 B.C., that critical period in which the Northern Kingdom was annexed to the Assyrian empire (2 Kg. ch. 17) while Judah lived uneasily in its shadow as a tributary (2 Chr. 28:21). Nothing is known about the early life of the prophet, although it has been conjectured from certain aspects of his message and from Is. 6:1–8 that he may have been a priest.

Only chs. 1–39 can be assigned to Isaiah's time; it is generally accepted that chs. 40–66 come from the time of Cyrus of Persia (539 B.C.) and later, as shown by the differences in historical background, literary style, and theological emphases. Isaiah I (chs. 1–39) begins with Isaiah's memoirs (1:1–12:6); it continues with oracles against foreign and domestic enemies (13:1–23:18), followed by the "Isaiah Apocalypse" (24:1–27:13). Oracles generally concerned with Judah's intrigue with Egypt, its implications and consequences (28:1–32:20), are followed by a short collection of post-exilic eschatological oracles (33:1–35:10). An historical appendix (36:1–39:8) completes the pre-exilic section, in which there are other additions and some rearranging of oracles by post-exilic editors.

In the tradition of Amos, Hosea, and Micah, contemporaries whose work he seems to know, Isaiah attacks social injustice as that which is most indicative of Judah's tenuous relationship with God. He exhorts his hearers to place their confidence in their omnipotent God and to lead public and private lives which manifest this. Thus justice and righteousness, teaching and word, and assurance of divine blessing upon the faithful and punishment upon the faithless are recurrent themes in his message from the Holy One of Israel to a proud and stubborn people.

Chapters 40–66, commonly called Second Isaiah (or Second and Third Isaiah), originated immediately before the fall of Babylon (October 29, 539 B.C.) to the armies of Cyrus, king of Persia, and during the generation following. The anonymous author of the first bipartite section (chs. 40–55 [40–48; 49–55]) exults in joyful anticipation of exiled Judah's restoration to Palestine, for which Cyrus is God's precipitating agent (44:28). Second Isaiah emphasizes the significance of historical events in God's plan, a plan which extends from creation to redemption—and beyond. Blindness to God's way is a cardinal sin in Second Isaiah. The author's interest in cosmogony was unique up to his time; it is used to emphasize the concept of God as exclusive creator and lord of all, whose ultimate glorious manifestation will be accompanied by a new creation.

This eschatological hope is shared with the author, or authors, of the second bipartite section (chs. 56–66 [56–59 and 63–66; 60–62]). The contents of this section (sometimes called Third Isaiah) suggest a date between 530 and 510 B.C., perhaps contemporary with Haggai and Zechariah (520–518); chapters 60–62 may be later. Other concepts are also shared. Jacob and Israel have primarily religious, albeit national, significance. God's concern for the exiles in chs. 40–55 is paralleled by his comforting assurance to Zion's afflicted in chs. 56–66. But the direct "I-thou" relationship of Second Isaiah gives way to a more transcendent concept. In chs. 56–66 one is confronted by the sobering realities of life in the restored community. The Servant-motif vanishes, and there is growing emphasis on cultic matters.

Together these theologically significant sections present a moving vision of the assured hope of God's people in a world whose times are in God's hands. God's message to his responsible people is heard today as his covenant community, the church, redeemed by God through Jesus the Suffering Servant incarnate, proclaims to the world, "Arise, shine; for your light has come" (60:1).

THE VISION OF ISAIAH THE SON OF Amoz, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzzi'ah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Heze-ki'ah, kings of Judah.

² Hear, O heavens, and give ear, O earth;
for the LORD has spoken:
"Sons have I reared and brought up,
but they have rebelled against me.

³ The ox knows its owner,
and the ass its master's crib;
but Israel does not know,
my people does not understand."

⁴ Ah, sinful nation,
a people laden with iniquity,
offspring of evildoers,
sons who deal corruptly!
They have forsaken the LORD,
they have despised the Holy One
of Israel,
they are utterly estranged.

⁵ Why will you still be smitten,
that you continue to rebel?
The whole head is sick,
and the whole heart faint.

⁶ From the sole of the foot even to the
head,
there is no soundness in it,
but bruises and sores
and bleeding wounds;
they are not pressed out, or bound
up,
or softened with oil.

⁷ Your country lies desolate,

your cities are burned with fire;
in your very presence
aliens devour your land;
it is desolate, as overthrown by aliens.

⁸ And the daughter of Zion is left
like a booth in a vineyard,
like a lodge in a cucumber field,
like a besieged city.

⁹ If the LORD of hosts
had not left us a few survivors,
we should have been like Sodom,
and become like Gomor'rah.

¹⁰ Hear the word of the LORD,
you rulers of Sodom!
Give ear to the teaching of our God,
you people of Gomor'rah!

¹¹ "What to me is the multitude of your sacrifices?
says the LORD;
I have had enough of burnt offerings
of rams
and the fat of fed beasts;
I do not delight in the blood of bulls,
or of lambs, or of he-goats.

¹² "When you come to appear before
me,
who requires of you
this trampling of my courts?

¹³ Bring no more vain offerings;
incense is an abomination to me.
New moon and sabbath and the calling of assemblies—
I cannot endure iniquity and

1.1-5.24: Oracles against rebellious Judah. 1.1: Superscription. Vision of Isaiah (6.1-13; Jer. ch. 1; Ezek. chs. 1-3) identifies Is. chs. 1-39 as God's message to Judah through the prophet. The name Isaiah means "The LORD [Yahweh] gives salvation." The latter part of the verse beginning with "in the days of" may be an editorial expansion.

1.2-31: First series of oracles, serving as a kind of prologue. 2-3: Poetic exhortation reminiscent of God's address to the heavenly host in 40.1-2. Sons compare Jer.3.19-22. The Biblical word know implies a profound, identifying comprehension of the right relationship with God; it is a recurring prophetic theme (Jer.1.5; Hos.2.20; 4.1,6; 5.4). 4-9: An appeal to a people heedless of the significance of Judah's devastation by Tiglath-Pileser III (734-733 B.C.; 7.1-2) or Sennacherib (701 B.C.; 36.1) and Jerusalem's isolation (daughter of Zion, see Jer.4.29-31 n.). 4: Note the poetic parallelism: nation, people; offspring, sons. The expression, Holy One of Israel (5.19,24; 10.20; 12.6; 17.7; 29.19; 30.11,12,15; 37.23), emphasizes God's unapproachable separateness, which he has bridged by his gracious election of Israel as his people (Hos.8.1; Jer.3.20). 10-20: God's pronouncement concerning Judah's religious superficiality (Am.5.21-24; Jer.6.20). Judah may repent and return (Jer.7.5-7); the alternative is destruction (Jer.7.22-34). 10: Teaching, the Hebrew word is "torah," which is frequently translated "law." On Sodom and

and both of them shall burn together, with none to quench them.

2 The word which Isaiah the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

² It shall come to pass in the latter days that the mountain of the house of
the LORD
shall be established as the highest of
the mountains,
and shall be raised above the hills;
and all the nations shall flow to it,

³ and many peoples shall come,
and say:
"Come, let us go up to the mountain
of the LORD,
to the house of the God of Jacob;
that he may teach us his ways
and that we may walk in his
paths."

For out of Zion shall go forth the law,
and the word of the LORD from
Jerusalem.

⁴ He shall judge between the nations,
and shall decide for many
peoples;
and they shall beat their swords into
plowshares,
and their spears into pruning
hooks;
nation shall not lift up sword against
nation,
neither shall they learn war any
more.

⁵ O house of Jacob, come, let us walk
in the light of the LORD.

⁶ For thou hast rejected thy people,

the house of Jacob,
because they are full of diviners^a
from the east
and of soothsayers like the Philistines,
and they strike hands with foreigners.

⁷ Their land is filled with silver and gold,
and there is no end to their
treasures;
their land is filled with horses,
and there is no end to their chariots.

⁸ Their land is filled with idols;
they bow down to the work of their
hands,
to what their own fingers have made.

⁹ So man is humbled,
and men are brought low—forgive them not!

¹⁰ Enter into the rock,
and hide in the dust
from before the terror of the LORD,
and from the glory of his majesty.

¹¹ The haughty looks of man shall be brought low,
and the pride of men shall be humbled;
and the LORD alone will be exalted
in that day.

¹² For the LORD of hosts has a day against all that is proud and lofty, against all that is lifted up and high;^b

¹³ against all the cedars of Lebanon, lofty and lifted up;

2.1: Second superscription, perhaps for chs. 2–4. Word connotes "message" (Jer.7.1; 11.1). 2–5: The new age, involving the elevation of Zion, the acknowledgment of the nations, and the age of peace. This oracle (vv. 2–4) is also found in Mic.4.1–4. 3: Law, i.e. "teaching" (1.10), which is more suitable to the thought of the passage. 4: The age of peace will follow the judgment of the LORD (compare 5.25; 30.27–28). 5: Compare v. 3, paraphrased in Mic.4.5.

2.6–22: The day of the LORD. This is probably to be taken as three stanzas, vv. 6–11, 12–17, 18–22. The first two have a similar conclusion (compare vv. 11, 17), and it is suggested that the third ended similarly, for the present v. 22 is missing in the Septuagint and is grammatically corrupt. 6–11: Judgment on idolatry. 6: Diviners were forbidden in Israel (Ex.22.18; Lev.20.27; Dt.18.10–11; compare 8.19; 1 Sam.28.8–25; Ezek.13.9). The situation fits Uzziah's reign (2 Kg.15.1–7; 2 Chr. ch. 26). 7: Judah's prosperity (Dt.17.16–17; 1 Kg.10.14–29). 11: In that day, the day of the LORD, in which God judges his enemies and manifests his glory, is a recurring prophetic theme (13.6; Am.5.18–20; Jer.17.16–18; Ezek.30.3; Jl.1.15). 12–17: Pride and punish-

5 Let me sing for my beloved a love song concerning his vineyard:

My beloved had a vineyard on a very fertile hill.

² He digged it and cleared it of stones, and planted it with choice vines; he built a watchtower in the midst of it, and hewed out a wine vat in it; and he looked for it to yield grapes, but it yielded wild grapes.

³ And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah, judge, I pray you, between me and my vineyard.

⁴ What more was there to do for my vineyard, that I have not done in it? When I looked for it to yield grapes, why did it yield wild grapes?

⁵ And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard. I will remove its hedge, and it shall be devoured; I will break down its wall, and it shall be trampled down.

⁶ I will make it a waste; it shall not be pruned or hoed, and briers and thorns shall grow up; I will also command the clouds that they rain no rain upon it.

⁷ For the vineyard of the LORD of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah are his pleasant planting; and he looked for justice, but behold, bloodshed; for righteousness, but behold, a cry!

⁸ Woe to those who join house to house, who add field to field, until there is no more room, and you are made to dwell alone in the midst of the land.

⁹ The LORD of hosts has sworn in my hearing: "Surely many houses shall be desolate, large and beautiful houses, without inhabitant.

¹⁰ For ten acres of vineyard shall yield but one bath, and a homer of seed shall yield but an ephah."

¹¹ Woe to those who rise early in the morning, that they may run after strong drink, who tarry late into the evening till wine inflames them!

5.1-7: Song of the vineyard (Hos.10.1; Jer.2.21; Ezek.19.10-14), an allegory. This unique didactic poem may have been composed for a celebration of the feast of tabernacles during Jotham's reign, the prophet imitating a vintage festival song. 1a: Introduction to the poem. 2: Choice vines, the Hebrew word ("soreq") means either red grapes, or grapes native to the valley of Sorek, west of Jerusalem. 3-4: Judah's only possible answer would be judgment against the vineyard. Judah is asked to pass judgment on herself, much as Nathan through a parable had David pass judgment on himself (2 Sam.12.1-12). 7: Justice, the faithful application of God's will to daily living. Righteousness, the living, dynamic relationship between man and God wherein man is spiritually and morally acceptable to God (1.27; 9.7; 16.5; 28.17). Righteousness and justice are naturally coupled (1.21) and grow out of the covenant relationship, the existence of which is assumed (Ex. chs. 19-20). A cry, from the oppressed.

5.8-23: Six reproaches (vv. 8,11,18,20,21,22; perhaps 10.1-4 is a seventh). Compare Am.5.7, 18; 6.1; Jer.22.13. 8-10: Against covetousness (Mic.2.1-5,8-9; Ex.20.17). Bath, ephah, 6.07

6 In the year that King Uzzi'ah died
I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up; and his train filled the temple. ² Above him stood the seraphim; each had six wings: with two he covered his face, and with two he covered his feet, and with two he flew. ³ And one called to another and said:

"Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of
hosts;

the whole earth is full of his glory."

⁴ And the foundations of the thresholds shook at the voice of him who called,
and the house was filled with smoke.

⁵ And I said: "Woe is me! For I am lost; for I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for my eyes have seen the King, the LORD of hosts!"

⁶ Then flew one of the seraphim to me, having in his hand a burning coal which he had taken with tongs from the altar. ⁷ And he touched my mouth,

and said: "Behold, this has touched your lips; your guilt is taken away, and your sin forgiven." ⁸ And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Then I said, "Here am I! Send me." ⁹ And he said, "Go, and say to this people:

'Hear and hear, but do not understand;

see and see, but do not perceive.'

¹⁰ Make the heart of this people fat,
and their ears heavy,
and shut their eyes;

And he said:

It shall not stand,
and it shall not come to pass.

to weary men, that you weary my God also? ¹⁴ Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Behold, a young womanⁱ shall conceive and bearⁱ a son, and shall call his name Imman'u-el.^k ¹⁵ He shall eat curds and honey when he knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good. ¹⁶ For before the child knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good, the land before whose two kings you are in dread will be deserted. ¹⁷ The LORD will bring upon you and upon your people and upon your father's house such days as have not come since the day that E'phraim departed from Judah—the king of Assyria."

18 In that day the LORD will whistle for the fly which is at the sources of the streams of Egypt, and for the bee which is in the land of Assyria. ¹⁹ And they will all come and settle in the steep ravines, and in the clefts of the rocks, and on all the thornbushes, and on all the pastures.

20 In that day the Lord will shave with a razor which is hired beyond the River—with the king of Assyria—the head and the hair of the feet, and it will sweep away the beard also.

21 In that day a man will keep alive a young cow and two sheep; ²² and because of the abundance of milk which they give, he will eat curds; for every one that is left in the land will eat curds and honey.

23 In that day every place where there used to be a thousand vines, worth a thousand shekels of silver, will become briers and thorns. ²⁴ With bow and arrows men will come there, for all the land will be briers and thorns;²⁵ and as for all the hills which used to be hoed with a hoe, you will not come there for fear of briers and thorns; but they will become a place where cattle are let loose and where sheep tread.

8 Then the LORD said to me, "Take a large tablet and write upon it in common characters, 'Belonging to Ma'her-shal'al-hash-baz.'"¹ ² And I got reliable witnesses, Uri'ah the priest and Zechari'ah the son of Jeberechi'ah, to attest for me. ³ And I went to the prophetess, and she conceived and bore a son. Then the LORD said to me, "Call his name Ma'her-shal'al-hash-baz;⁴ for before the child knows how to cry 'My father' or 'My mother,' the wealth of Damascus and the spoil of Sama'ria will be carried away before the king of Assyria."

5 The LORD spoke to me again: ⁶ "Because this people have refused the waters of Shilo'ah that flow gently, and melt in fear before^m Rezin and the son of Remali'ah; ⁷ therefore, behold, the Lord is bringing up against them the waters of the River, mighty and many, the king of Assyria and all his glory; and it will rise over all its channels and go over all its banks; ⁸ and it will sweep on into Judah, it will overflow and pass on, reaching even to the neck; and its outspread wings will fill the breadth of your land, O Imman'u-el."

⁹ Be broken, you peoples, and be dismayed;
give ear, all you far countries;
gird yourselves and be dismayed;

gird yourselves and be dismayed.

¹⁰ Take counsel together, but it will come to nought;
speak a word, but it will not stand,
for God is with us.^x

¹¹ For the LORD spoke thus to me with his strong hand upon me, and warned me not to walk in the way of this people, saying: ¹² "Do not call conspiracy all that this people call conspiracy, and do not fear what they fear, nor be in dread. ¹³ But the LORD of hosts, him you shall regard as holy; let him be your fear, and let him be your dread. ¹⁴ And he will become a sanctuary, and a stone of offense, and a rock of stumbling to both houses of Israel, a trap and a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ¹⁵ And many shall stumble thereon; they shall fall and be broken; they shall be snared and taken."

¹⁶ Bind up the testimony, seal the teaching among my disciples. ¹⁷ I will wait for the LORD, who is hiding his face from the house of Jacob, and I will hope in him. ¹⁸ Behold, I and the children whom the LORD has given me are signs and portents in Israel from the LORD of hosts, who dwells on Mount Zion. ¹⁹ And when they say to you, "Consult the mediums and the wizards who chirp and mutter," should not a people consult their God? will curse^o their king and their God, and turn their faces upward; ²² and they will look to the earth, but behold, distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish; and they will be thrust into thick darkness.

^{9p} But there will be no gloom for her that was in anguish. In the former time he brought into contempt the land of Zeb'ulun and the land of Naph'tali, but in the latter time he will make glorious the way of the sea, the land beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations.

^{2a} The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light; those who dwelt in a land of deep darkness, on them has light shined.

³ Thou hast multiplied the nation, thou hast increased its joy; they rejoice before thee as with joy at the harvest, as men rejoice when they divide the spoil.

⁴ For the yoke of his burden, and the staff for his shoulder, the rod of his oppressor, thou hast broken as on the day of Mid'ian.

⁵ For every boot of the tramping warrior in battle tumult and every garment rolled in blood will be burned as fuel for the fire.

⁶ For to us a child is born, to us a son is given; and the government will be upon his shoulder, and his name will be called

“Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God,

Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.”

⁷ Of the increase of his government and of peace there will be no end, upon the throne of David, and over his kingdom, to establish it, and to uphold it with justice and with righteousness from this time forth and for evermore.
The zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

⁸ The Lord has sent a word against Jacob,

and it will light upon Israel;

⁹ and all the people will know, E'phraim and the inhabitants of Sama'ria, who say in pride and in arrogance of heart:

¹⁰ “The bricks have fallen, but we will build with dressed stones;

the sycamores have been cut down, but we will put cedars in their place.”

¹¹ So the LORD raises adversaries^r against them, and stirs up their enemies.

n. 9.1: Transitional verse from doom to promise. Zebulun, Naphtali, and Issachar constituted later Galilee. Way of the sea, the highway from Damascus to the sea, probable route of the Assyrian invasion in 733–732 B.C. (2 Kg.15.29).

9.2–7: The messianic king (compare 11.1–9). Filled with borrowed phrases referring to the Davidic monarchy, this passage may have originally celebrated the accession of a Judean king, perhaps Hezekiah; in its present context it describes the coming Messiah as the ideal king. 4: Midian, Jg.7.15–25. 6: Government, symbol of authority. Mighty God, divine in might. Everlasting Father, continuing fatherly love and care. Prince of Peace, the king who brings peace and prosperity. The king represents the best qualities of Israel's heroes (Ezek.37.25).

9.8–10.4: Ephraim's judgment an object lesson for Judah (five stanzas, including 5.24b–30; with the same refrain, 9.12,17,21; 10.4; 5.25; compare Jer.3.6–10; Ezek.16.44–58). 8–12: Punishment for pride and unrepented wickedness. 8: Word, more than a statement; it includes the potential and fact of accomplishment (55.10–11; Jer.23.18–20). 10: Bricks, sycamore, for ordinary houses; dressed stone, cedar for palaces (Jer.22.7,23). 13–17: Corrupt leaders misled

¹³ The people did not turn to him who smote them, nor seek the LORD of hosts.
¹⁴ So the LORD cut off from Israel
head and tail,
palm branch and reed in one day—¹⁵ the elder and honored man is the head,
and the prophet who teaches lies is the tail;
¹⁶ for those who lead this people lead them astray,
and those who are led by them are swallowed up.
¹⁷ Therefore the Lord does not rejoice over their young men,
and has no compassion on their fatherless and widows;
for every one is godless and an evildoer,
and every mouth speaks folly.
For all this his anger is not turned away
and his hand is stretched out still.

¹⁸ For wickedness burns like a fire,
it consumes briars and thorns;
it kindles the thickets of the forest,
and they roll upward in a column of smoke.
¹⁹ Through the wrath of the LORD of hosts
the land is burned,
and the people are like fuel for the fire;
no man spares his brother.
²⁰ They snatch on the right, but are still hungry,
and they devour on the left, but are not satisfied;
each devours his neighbor's^s flesh,
²¹ Manas'seh E'phraim, and E'phraim Manas'seh, and together they are against Judah.

For all this his anger is not turned away
and his hand is stretched out still.

10 Woe to those who decree iniquitous decrees,
and the writers who keep writing oppression,
² to turn aside the needy from justice and to rob the poor of my people of their right,
that widows may be their spoil,
and that they may make the fatherless their prey!
³ What will you do on the day of punishment,
in the storm which will come from afar?
To whom will you flee for help,
and where will you leave your wealth?
⁴ Nothing remains but to crouch among the prisoners
or fall among the slain.
For all this his anger is not turned away
and his hand is stretched out still.

⁵ Ah, Assyria, the rod of my anger,
the staff of my fury!
⁶ Against a godless nation I send him,
and against the people of my wrath I command him,
to take spoil and seize plunder,
and to tread them down like the mire of the streets.
⁷ But he does not so intend,
and his mind does not so think;
but it is in his mind to destroy,
and to cut off nations not a few;
⁸ for he says:
"Are not my commanders all kings?
⁹ Is not Calno like Car'chemish?
Is not Hamath like Arpad?"

their people (Jer.6.14). 18–21: Moral decay consumes like a forest fire (Hos.7.6); civil war breaks out (2 Kg.15.23–31; 16.5). 20: His neighbor's flesh; the Hebrew consonantal text may be read "the flesh of his offspring" (on cannibalism, see Jer.19.9). Some treat this passage as a proverb. 10.1–4: Justice is miscarried (3.13–15; Jer.8.8).

10.5–19: Woe, O Assyria! Unaware that he was serving as God's instrument, powerful Assyria was doomed by his pride to destruction (Jer.25.8–14; 50.23). 9: In northern Syria, Tiglath-Pileser III captured Calno (742 B.C.), Carchemish, Hamath (738), Arpad (741), southern

Is not Sama'ria like Damascus?
 10 As my hand has reached to the kingdoms of the idols whose graven images were greater than those of Jerusalem and Sama'ria,
 11 shall I not do to Jerusalem and her idols
 as I have done to Sama'ria and her images?"

12 When the Lord has finished all his work on Mount Zion and on Jerusalem he^u will punish the arrogant boasting of the king of Assyria and his haughty pride. 13 For he says:

"By the strength of my hand I have done it,
 and by my wisdom, for I have
 understanding;
 I have removed the boundaries of
 peoples,
 and have plundered their
 treasures;

like a bull I have brought down
 those who sat on thrones.

14 My hand has found like a nest
 the wealth of the peoples;
 and as men gather eggs that have been forsaken
 so I have gathered all the earth;
 and there was none that moved a wing,
 or opened the mouth, or chirped."

15 Shall the axe vaunt itself over him who hews with it,
 or the saw magnify itself against him who wields it?
 As if a rod should wield him who lifts it,

or as if a staff should lift him who is not wood!

16 Therefore the Lord, the LORD of
 hosts,
 will send wasting sickness among
 his stout warriors,
 and under his glory a burning will
 be kindled,
 like the burning of fire.

17 The light of Israel will become a fire,
 and his Holy One a flame;
 and it will burn and devour
 his thorns and briars in one day.
 18 The glory of his forest and of his fruitful land
 the LORD will destroy, both soul
 and body,
 and it will be as when a sick man
 wastes away.

19 The remnant of the trees of his forest will be so few
 that a child can write them down.

20 In that day the remnant of Israel and the survivors of the house of Jacob will no more lean upon him that smote them, but will lean upon the LORD, the Holy One of Israel, in truth. 21 A remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, to the mighty God. 22 For though your people Israel be as the sand of the sea, only a remnant of them will return. Destruction is decreed, overflowing with righteousness. 23 For the Lord, the LORD of hosts, will make a full end, as decreed, in the midst of all
 the earth.

Menahem of Israel paid him tribute (2 Kg.15.19–20). 10–11: To Assyria, the LORD was another idol. 12: Prose summation of vv. 5–11,13–19. 13–14: Assyria's boast. Removed boundaries, to discourage rebellion, Assyria transplanted subject peoples. 15: Rhetorical question recalling v. 5 (45.9). 16–19: Light of Israel, God's majestic glory (2.10; 29.6; Ezek.1.26–28). God will ravage Assyria like a forest fire.

10.20–23: Only a remnant will return. 21: A remnant will return, in Hebrew this is the same as the name of Isaiah's son Shear-jashub; in 7.3–4 it stands in an oracle of encouragement, but here in an oracle of doom. 22: Sand of the sea recalls God's oath to the patriarchs (Gen.22.17; compare Rom.9.27). In Isaiah (4.2–3; 6.13; 7.3; 28.5–6; 37.4; 37.31–32; compare Mic.4.7; 5.2–9; Zeph.2.7) remnant refers to those remaining after Judah's punishment, from whom a great people will arise. During the Exile the remnant was the deported people (Ezek.6.8–10; Jer.23.3; 31.7), whom God would bring back and make great. After the Exile Jewish faithlessness evoked again the pre-exilic concept (Zech.8.11; Hag.1.12; Zech.14.2).

14.24-27: Against Assyria (17.12-14; 30.27-33; 37.22-29); no power on earth can prevent God from accomplishing his purposes. 28-32: Against Philistia (715 B.C.; Jer. ch. 47; Am.1.6-8). Though momentarily it appears that Philistia is secure, the foe out of the north (Jer.1.13-15) will shortly destroy her, too.

 and the needy lie down in safety;
 but I will kill your root with famine,
 and your remnant I^a will slay.
- ³¹ Wail, O gate; cry, O city;
 melt in fear, O Philistia, all of you!
 For smoke comes out of the north,
 and there is no straggler in his

 Moab is undone;

 over Nebo and over Med'eba Moab wails.
 On every head is baldness,
 every beard is shorn;
³ in the streets they gird on sackcloth;
 on the housetops and in the squares
 every one wails and melts in tears.
- ⁴ Heshbon and Ele-a'leh cry out,
 their voice is heard as far as Jahaz;
 therefore the armed men of Moab
 cry aloud;
 his soul trembles.
- ⁵ My heart cries out for Moab;
 his fugitives flee to Zo'ar,
 to Eg'lath-shelish'iyah.
 For at the ascent of Luhith
 they go up weeping;
 on the road to Horona'im
- they raise a cry of destruction;
⁶ the waters of Nimrim
 are a desolation;
 the grass is withered, the new growth fails,
 the verdure is no more.
- ⁷ Therefore the abundance they have gained and what they have laid up they carry away
 over the Brook of the Willows.
- ⁸ For a cry has gone
 round the land of Moab;
 the wailing reaches to Eglai'm,
 the wailing reaches to Beer-e'lim.
- ⁹ For the waters of Dibon^c are full of blood;
 yet I will bring upon Dibon^c
 even more,
 a lion for those of Moab who escape,
 for the remnant of the land.

15.1-16.14: Against Moab (Ezek.25.8-11; Am.2.1-3). This oracle and Jer. ch. 48 are two recensions of the same elegy over once despised Moab (Gen.19.30-37) lying prostrate under the invader's (probably Assyria) heel (vv. 1-9). 16.1-5: Moabite refugees, appealing to the mercies of the crown, seek sanctuary in Judah; since the thought seems out of place here, the passage

⁵ then a throne will be established in steadfast love
and on it will sit in faithfulness
in the tent of David
one who judges and seeks justice
and is swift to do righteousness.”

⁶ We have heard of the pride of Moab,
how proud he was;
of his arrogance, his pride, and his insolence—
his boasts are false.

⁷ Therefore let Moab wail,
let every one wail for Moab.
Mourn, utterly stricken,
for the raisin-cakes of Kir-har'eseth.

⁸ For the fields of Heshbon languish,
and the vine of Sibmah;
the lords of the nations
have struck down its branches, which reached to Jazer
and strayed to the desert;
its shoots spread abroad
and passed over the sea.

⁹ Therefore I weep with the weeping of Jazer
for the vine of Sibmah;
I drench you with my tears,
O Heshbon and Ele-a'leh;
for upon your fruit and your harvest
the battle shout has fallen.

¹⁰ And joy and gladness are taken away
from the fruitful field;
and in the vineyards no songs are sung,
no shouts are raised;
no treader treads out wine in the presses;
the vintage shout is hushed.^d

¹¹ Therefore my soul moans like a lyre for Moab,
and my heart for Kir-he'res.

12 And when Moab presents himself, when he wearies himself upon the high place, when he comes to his sanctuary
to pray, he will not prevail.

13 This is the word which the LORD spoke concerning Moab in the past.
¹⁴ But now the LORD says, “In three years, like the years of a hireling, the glory of Moab will be brought into contempt,
in spite of all his great multitude,
and those who survive will be very few and feeble.”

|| ⁷ An oracle concerning Damascus.
Behold, Damascus will cease to be a city,
and will become a heap of ruins.

² Her cities will be deserted for ever;^e
they will be for flocks, which will lie down, and none will make them afraid.

³ The fortress will disappear from E'phraim,
and the kingdom from Damascus;
and the remnant of Syria will be like the glory of the children of Israel,

says the LORD of hosts.

⁴ And in that day
the glory of Jacob will be brought low,
and the fat of his flesh will grow
lean.

⁵ And it shall be as when the reaper gathers standing grain
and his arm harvests the ears,
and as when one gleanes the ears of grain

9 In that day their strong cities will be like the deserted places of the Hivites and the Amorites,^f which they deserted because of the children of Israel, and there will be desolation.

¹⁰ For you have forgotten the God of your salvation,
and have not remembered the Rock of your refuge;
therefore, though you plant pleasant plants

they roar like the roaring of mighty waters!

¹³ The nations roar like the roaring of many waters,

and whirling dust before the storm.

¹⁴ At evening time, behold, terror!
Before morning, they are no more!

and the lot of those who plunder us.

a nation mighty and conquering,
whose land the rivers divide.

³ All you inhabitants of the world,
you who dwell on the earth,
when a signal is raised on the mountains, look!

When a trumpet is blown, hear!

⁴ For thus the LORD said to me:
"I will quietly look from my dwelling
like clear heat in sunshine,
like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest."

¹⁴ Wail, O ships of Tarshish,
for your stronghold is laid waste.

¹⁵ In that day Tyre will be forgotten for seventy years, like the days of one king. At the end of seventy years, it will happen to Tyre as in the song of the harlot:

¹⁶ "Take a harp,
go about the city,
O forgotten harlot!
Make sweet melody,
sing many songs,
that you may be remembered."

¹⁷ At the end of seventy years, the LORD will visit Tyre, and she will return to her hire, and will play the harlot with all the kingdoms of the world upon the face of the earth. ¹⁸ Her merchandise and her hire will be dedicated to the LORD; it will not be stored or hoarded, but her merchandise will supply abundant food and fine clothing for those who dwell before the LORD.

24 Behold, the LORD will lay waste the earth and make it desolate, and he will twist its surface and scatter its inhabitants.

² And it shall be, as with the people,
so with the priest;
as with the slave, so with his master;
as with the maid, so with her mistress;

as with the buyer, so with the seller;
as with the lender, so with the borrower;
as with the creditor, so with the debtor.

³ The earth shall be utterly laid waste and utterly despoiled;
for the LORD has spoken this word.

⁴ The earth mourns and withers,
the world languishes and withers;
the heavens languish together with the earth.

⁵ The earth lies polluted under its inhabitants;
for they have transgressed the laws,
violated the statutes,
broken the everlasting covenant.

⁶ Therefore a curse devours the earth,
and its inhabitants suffer for their guilt;
therefore the inhabitants of the earth are scorched,
and few men are left.

⁷ The wine mourns,
the vine languishes,
all the merry-hearted sigh.

⁸ The mirth of the timbrels is stilled,
the noise of the jubilant has ceased,
the mirth of the lyre is stilled.

⁹ No more do they drink wine with singing;
strong drink is bitter to those who drink it.

^k The Hebrew of this verse is obscure reacts with alarm. With this section compare Ezek. ch. 26; 27.1-9, 25-36; ch. 28. 15-18: A very late addition (perhaps third century); compare the restoration in the late oracles in Jer. 48.47; 49.6, 39. Seventy years, Jer. 25.11. 17: Play the harlot, do anything for gain. 18: Even these sordid treasures will finally be dedicated to God (18.7; 45.14).

Chs. 24-27: The "Isaiah Apocalypse." These chapters, unrelated to their context, are frequently called the "Isaiah Apocalypse" because of their use of eschatological themes found in later apocalyptic writings (universal judgment, eschatological banquet, heavenly signs, and the like). One may regard the section as a transitional form between traditional prophetic and apocalyptic materials, dating between 540 and 425 B.C. The chapters contain a variety of types of materials, e.g. eschatological prophecy in four sections (24.1-6, 16b-23; 25.6-10a; 26.20-27.1), four apocalyptic poems of deliverance (24.7-16a; 25.1-5; 26.1-6; 27.2-11), oracles of doom and triumph (26.20-27.1; 27.12-13; compare 25.10b-12), and a processional and an apocalyptic psalm (26.1-6; 27.2-11).

24.1-6: Universal judgment (compare vv. 16b-23). A picture of total destruction; compare the flood of Noah. 1: Twist, by earthquake. 2: Expansion of Hos. 4.9. 3: This word, vv. 1-2. 5: Laws . . . statutes . . . covenants, Is. 42.22-25. Everlasting covenant, perhaps a reference to the promise to Noah (Gen. 9.1-17; compare Is. 54.9); in any case, not the Mosaic covenant.

24.7-16a: Deliverance after destruction. 7-12: Happiness of the vintage festivals is stilled.

¹⁰ The city of chaos is broken down, every house is shut up so that none
can enter.

¹¹ There is an outcry in the streets for lack of wine;
all joy has reached its eventide;
the gladness of the earth is banished.

¹² Desolation is left in the city,
the gates are battered into ruins.

¹³ For thus it shall be in the midst of
the earth
among the nations,
as when an olive tree is beaten,
as at the gleaning when the vintage is done.

¹⁴ They lift up their voices, they sing
for joy;
over the majesty of the LORD they shout from the west.

¹⁵ Therefore in the east give glory to
the LORD;
in the coastlands of the sea, to the name of the LORD, the God of Israel.

¹⁶ From the ends of the earth we hear songs of praise,
of glory to the Righteous One.

But I say, "I pine away,
I pine away. Woe is me!
For the treacherous deal
treacherously,
the treacherous deal very
treacherously."

¹⁷ Terror, and the pit, and the snare are upon you, O inhabitant of the earth!

¹⁸ He who flees at the sound of the terror
shall fall into the pit;

and he who climbs out of the pit
shall be caught in the snare.
For the windows of heaven are opened,
and the foundations of the earth tremble.

¹⁹ The earth is utterly broken,
the earth is rent asunder,
the earth is violently shaken.

²⁰ The earth staggers like a drunken
man,
it sways like a hut;
its transgression lies heavy upon it,
and it falls, and will not rise again.

²¹ On that day the LORD will punish the host of heaven, in heaven, and the kings of the earth, on the
earth.

²² They will be gathered together
as prisoners in a pit;
they will be shut up in a prison,
and after many days they will be punished.

²³ Then the moon will be confounded,
and the sun ashamed;
for the LORD of hosts will reign
on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem and before his elders he will manifest
his glory.

25 O LORD, thou art my God;
I will exalt thee, I will praise
thy name;
for thou hast done wonderful things,
plans formed of old, faithful and sure.

² For thou hast made the city a heap,
the fortified city a ruin;
the palace of aliens is a city no more,
it will never be rebuilt.

³ Therefore strong peoples will glorify
thee;

10: City of chaos, not Jerusalem (26.1-6); perhaps Babylon, destroyed by Xerxes I (485 B.C.), or it may refer to the universal destruction of vv. 1-6. 13-16a: The coming triumph. It, the scattered Jewish remnant (19.24; Ezek.38.12), which praises God for saving and vindicating Israel, the righteous one.

24.16b-23: Universal judgment. 16b-18b: This continues vv. 1-6. 17-18b: This appears in Jer.48.43-44. 18c-23: Reflection of Canaanite and Babylonian mythological background. Windows of heaven, source of downpours (Gen.7.11). 21-22: Host of heaven, rebellious astral deities (Zeph.1.5; Jer.19.13) imprisoned in the pit (Is.14.15; Rev.20.1-3). Many days, compare Rev.20.3.7. 23: Moon . . . confounded, sun . . . ashamed after losing their divine status (Jer.8.2; Dt.17.3). Elders, as with Moses (Ex.24.9-11,12-16; compare Rev.4.4,10-11).

25.1-5: Psalm of thanksgiving (compare Ps. 145). 2: Identity of the city uncertain. 4: Poor, cities of ruthless nations will fear thee.

- ⁴ For thou hast been a stronghold to the poor,
a stronghold to the needy in his distress,
a shelter from the storm and a shade from the heat;
for the blast of the ruthless is like a storm against a wall,
⁵ like heat in a dry place.
Thou dost subdue the noise of the aliens;
as heat by the shade of a cloud,
so the song of the ruthless is stilled.

6 On this mountain the LORD of hosts will make for all peoples a feast of fat things, a feast of wine on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wine on the lees well refined. ⁷ And he will destroy on this mountain the covering that is cast over all peoples, the veil that is spread over all nations. ⁸ He will swallow up death for ever, and the Lord God will wipe away tears from all faces, and the reproach of his people he will take away from all the earth; for the LORD has spoken.

9 It will be said on that day, "Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, that he might save us. This is the LORD; we have waited for him; let us be glad and rejoice in his salvation."

10 For the hand of the LORD will rest on this mountain, and Moab shall be trodden down in his place, as straw is trodden down in a dung-pit. ¹¹ And he will spread out his hands in the midst of it as a swimmer spreads his hands out to swim; but the LORD will lay low his pride together with the skill¹ of his hands. ¹² And the high fortifications of his walls he will bring down, lay low, and cast to the ground, even to the dust.

26 In that day this song will be sung in the land of Judah:

- "We have a strong city;
he sets up salvation
as walls and bulwarks.
² Open the gates,
that the righteous nation which keeps faith
may enter in.
³ Thou dost keep him in perfect peace,
whose mind is stayed on thee,
because he trusts in thee.
⁴ Trust in the LORD for ever, for the LORD GOD
is an everlasting rock.
⁵ For he has brought low
the inhabitants of the height,
the lofty city.
He lays it low, lays it low to the ground,
casts it to the dust.
⁶ The foot tramples it,
the feet of the poor,
the steps of the needy."
⁷ The way of the righteous is level;
thou^m dost make smooth the path
of the righteous.
⁸ In the path of thy judgments,
O LORD, we wait for thee;
thy memorial name
is the desire of our soul.
⁹ My soul yearns for thee in the night,
my spirit within me earnestly seeks thee.

26.1-6: Song of victory (24.7-16a; 25.1-5), a processional psalm, sung on entering Jerusalem, the strong city (v. 1; compare Ps.24.7-10), celebrating God's victory (salvation) over the enemies of Judah, the righteous nation. 5: Low . . . height, a familiar antithesis: the proud are abased, the humble exalted (Ps.147.6; Lk.1.52).

26.7-19: Apocalyptic psalm. 7: Proverb of confidence in God's help (Ps.9.19; 18.25-27; 34.21-22). 8: Compare Rev.22.20. God's chastisements are designed to benefit those chastized.

For when thy judgments are in the earth,
the inhabitants of the world learn righteousness.

¹⁰ If favor is shown to the wicked,
he does not learn righteousness;
in the land of uprightness he deals perversely
and does not see the majesty of the LORD.

¹¹ O LORD, thy hand is lifted up,
but they see it not.
Let them see thy zeal for thy people,
and be ashamed.
Let the fire for thy adversaries

thou hast wrought for us all our works.

other lords besides thee have ruled over us,
but thy name alone we acknowledge.

they are shades, they will not arise;

O dwellers in the dust, awake and sing for joy!
For thy dew is a dew of light,
and on the land of the shades thou wilt let it fall.

²⁰ Come, my people, enter your chambers,
and shut your doors behind you;
hide yourselves for a little while until the wrath is past.

²¹ For behold, the LORD is coming forth out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity,
and the earth will disclose the blood shed upon her,
and will no more cover her slain.

26.20-27.1: Fourth eschatological section, following logically the preceding petition, returns to the theme of judgment, and prepares for the return of the exiles referred to in 27.12-13. 20-21: The people should await God's victory. 27.1: Leviathan, Canaanite mythological sea monster; dragon, Hebrew "tannin," another sea monster (compare Ps.74.13-14). 27.12–13: Concluding oracle of doom and triumph. 12: The figure of an eschatological harvest symbolizes the separation of the wicked from the righteous (Jl.3.13; Mt.13.39; Rev.14.15–16). Brook of Egypt, Wadi el-‘Arish, fifty miles southwest of Gaza. 13: The great trumpet, which summoned Israel for solemn convocations (Num.10.2–10; Jl.2.15), will signal the final assembly of God’s elect (Mt.24.31; 1 Th.4.16).

²³ For when he sees his children,
the work of my hands, in his midst,
they will sanctify my name;
they will sanctify the Holy One of Jacob,
and will stand in awe of the God
of Israel.
²⁴ And those who err in spirit will come to understanding,
and those who murmur will accept
instruction."

30 "Woe to the rebellious
children," says the LORD,
"who carry out a plan, but not mine;
and who make a league, but not of
my spirit,
that they may add sin to sin;
² who set out to go down to Egypt,
without asking for my counsel,
to take refuge in the protection of Pharaoh,
and to seek shelter in the shadow
of Egypt!

³ Therefore shall the protection of Pharaoh turn to your shame,
and the shelter in the shadow of Egypt to your humiliation.
⁴ For though his officials are at Zo'an
and his envoys reach Ha'nes, ⁵ every one comes to shame
through a people that cannot profit
them,
that brings neither help nor profit,
but shame and disgrace."

⁶ An oracle on the beasts of the

Through a land of trouble and anguish,
from where come the lioness and
the lion,
the viper and the flying serpent,
they carry their riches on the backs
of asses,
and their treasures on the humps
of camels,
to a people that cannot profit them.
⁷ For Egypt's help is worthless and
empty,
therefore I have called her
"Rahab who sits still."

⁸ And now, go, write it before them
on a tablet,
and inscribe it in a book,
that it may be for the time to come
as a witness for ever.

⁹ For they are a rebellious people,
lying sons,
sons who will not hear
the instruction of the LORD;
¹⁰ who say to the seers, "See not";
and to the prophets, "Prophecy not

- prophesy illusions,
¹¹ leave the way, turn aside from the path,
 let us hear no more of the Holy One of Israel.”
¹² Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel, “Because you despise this word,
 and trust in oppression and perverseness,
 and rely on them;
¹³ therefore this iniquity shall be to you
 like a break in a high wall, bulging out,
 and about to collapse,
 whose crash comes suddenly, in an instant;
¹⁴ and its breaking is like that of a potter’s vessel which is smashed so ruthlessly that among its fragments not a sherd is found with which to take fire from the hearth,
 or to dip up water out of the cistern.”
¹⁵ For thus said the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel,
 “In returning and rest you shall be saved;
 in quietness and in trust shall be your strength.”
 And you would not, ¹⁶ but you said,
 “No! We will speed upon horses,” therefore you shall speed away;
 and, “We will ride upon swift steeds,”
 therefore your pursuers shall be swift.
¹⁷ A thousand shall flee at the threat of one,
 at the threat of five you shall flee,
 till you are left

like a flagstaff on the top of a mountain,
 like a signal on a hill.

- ¹⁸ Therefore the LORD waits to be gracious to you;
 therefore he exalts himself to show mercy to you.
 For the LORD is a God of justice;
 blessed are all those who wait for him.

¹⁹ Yea, O people in Zion who dwell at Jerusalem; you shall weep no more. He will surely be gracious to you at the sound of your cry; when he hears it, he will answer you. ²⁰ And though the Lord give you the bread of adversity and the water of affliction, yet your Teacher will not hide himself any more, but your eyes shall see your Teacher. ²¹ And your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying, “This is the way, walk in it,” when you turn to the right or when you turn to the left. ²² Then you will defile your silver-covered graven images and your gold-plated molten images. You will scatter them as unclean things; you will say to them, “Begone!”

²³ And he will give rain for the seed with which you sow the ground, and grain, the produce of the ground, which will be rich and plenteous. In that day your cattle will graze in large pastures; ²⁴ and the oxen and the asses that till the ground will eat salted provender, which has been winnowed with shovel and fork. ²⁵ And upon every lofty mountain and every high hill there will be brooks running with water, in the day of the great slaughter, when the towers fall. ²⁶ Moreover the light of the moon will be as the light of the Smooth things, pleasant, though false (Jer.28.8–9). 12–14: Sentence of judgment; this should probably follow vv. 15–17, since this word (v. 12b) is recorded in v. 15. Judah’s perverseness is a basic flaw which, under pressure, will burst and all will be lost. 15–17: Instead of demonstrating victorious faith, Judah seeks more tangible military devices, but these will be no source of strength (7.3–9; 10.20–21).

30.18–26: Hope for the afflicted. A later (perhaps Exilic) addition. Judah is not condemned for faithlessness, but encouraged to have patience under trial. Verses 19–26 are a commentary on v. 18 and include familiar, though later, imagery (Jer.31.10–14; Ezek.34.25–30). 20: Teacher, with some Hebrew manuscripts, but probably to be read “teachers,” i.e. prophets. 24: Salted provender, some kind of silage.

sun, and the light of the sun will be sevenfold, as the light of seven days, in the day when the LORD binds up the hurt of his people, and heals the wounds inflicted by his blow.

²⁷ Behold, the name of the LORD comes from far,
burning with his anger, and in thick rising smoke;
his lips are full of indignation,
and his tongue is like a devouring fire;

²⁸ his breath is like an overflowing stream
that reaches up to the neck;
to sift the nations with the sieve of destruction,
and to place on the jaws of the peoples a bridle that leads astray

²⁹ You shall have a song as in the night when a holy feast is kept; and gladness of heart, as when one sets out to the sound of the flute to go to the mountain of the LORD, to the Rock of Israel. ³⁰ And the LORD will cause his majestic voice to be heard and the descending blow of his arm to be seen, in furious anger and a flame of devouring fire, with a cloudburst and tempest and hailstones. ³¹ The Assyrians will be terror-stricken at the voice of the LORD, when he smites with his rod. ³² And every stroke of the staff of punishment which the LORD lays upon them will be to the sound of timbrels and lyres; battling with brandished arm he will fight with them. ³³ For a burning place^t has long been prepared; yea, for the king^u it is made ready, its pyre made deep and wide, with fire and wood in abundance; the breath of the LORD, like a stream of brimstone, kindles it.

31 Woe to those who go down to Egypt for help and rely on horses,
who trust in chariots because they are many
and in horsemen because they are very strong,
but do not look to the Holy One of Israel
or consult the LORD!

² And yet he is wise and brings disaster,
he does not call back his words,
but will arise against the house of the evildoers,
and against the helpers of those who work iniquity.

³ The Egyptians are men, and not God;
and their horses are flesh, and not spirit.

When the LORD stretches out his hand,
the helper will stumble, and he who is helped will fall,
and they will all perish together.

⁴ For thus the LORD said to me,
As a lion or a young lion growls over his prey,
and when a band of shepherds is called forth against him
is not terrified by their shouting or daunted at their noise,
so the LORD of hosts will come down to fight upon Mount Zion and upon its hill.

⁵ Like birds hovering, so the LORD of hosts
will protect Jerusalem;
he will protect and deliver it,
he will spare and rescue it.

30.27-33: Oracle against Assyria (about 701 B.C.; see chs. 36-37). The text is combined with a song of deliverance, and the probable original order is: vv. 27-28, 30-32a, 33, 25de, 29, 32b. 27-28, 30: Like an approaching thunderstorm, God's fury will burst over Judah's enemies. 33: Burning place, Topheth (see 2 Kg. 23.10 n.). For the king, i.e. Molech (see Lev. 18.21 n.).

31.1-3: Against Egypt (see 30.1-7). 1: Judah's limited treasury precluded extensive military expenditures; her terrain was unfavorable for Egyptian chariots. 3: Perhaps a reference to the crossing of the Red Sea (Ex. 14.26-31).

and a sword, not of man, shall devour him;

and he shall flee from the sword,
and his young men shall be put to forced labor.

⁹ His rock shall pass away in terror,
and his officers desert the standard in panic,"

says the LORD, whose fire is in Zion,
and whose furnace is in Jerusalem.

32 Behold, a king will reign in righteousness,
and princes will rule in justice.

² Each will be like a hiding place from the wind,
a covert from the tempest,
like streams of water in a dry place,
like the shade of a great rock in a weary land.

³ Then the eyes of those who see will not be closed,
and the ears of those who hear will hearken.

⁴ The mind of the rash will have good judgment, and the tongue of the stammerers will speak readily and distinctly.

⁵ The fool will no more be called noble,
nor the knave said to be honorable.

⁶ For the fool speaks folly,
and his mind plots iniquity:
to practice ungodliness,

to utter error concerning the LORD,
to leave the craving of the hungry unsatisfied,

and to deprive the thirsty of drink.

⁷ The knaveries of the knave are evil;
he devises wicked devices
to ruin the poor with lying words,
even when the plea of the needy is right.

⁸ But he who is noble devises noble things,
and by noble things he stands.

⁹ Rise up, you women who are at ease,

you complacent daughters, give ear to my speech.

¹⁰ In little more than a year
you will shudder, you complacent women;

later addition (compare 2.20). 8-9: God's sword will destroy Assyria (Ezek. ch. 21). Fire, furnace, a reference to the temple altar.

32.1-8: The coming age of justice (possibly a later addition). Patterned on wisdom literature (28.23-29), this non-messianic oracle describes Judah's coming rulers as men of integrity, patience and high-mindedness (Pr.8.15-21). Fools will no longer receive attention (compare Pr.15.2,7,14, etc.).

32.9-14: Against the complacency of Judah's women (3.16-4.1) who now celebrate vintage festival but in another year will bemoan Judah's desolation. 11-12a: Typical signs of mourning (Jer.4.7-8; 16.1-9).

32.15-20: The age of the Spirit (11.2) will see the transformation of all creation. The outpouring of the Spirit will produce a condition wherein man may enjoy true happiness (compare Jer.31.31-34). The section was probably added later (see 29.17-24).

and the fruitful field is deemed a forest.

and righteousness abide in the fruitful field.
- ¹⁷ And the effect of righteousness will be peace,
and the result of righteousness, quietness and trust for ever.
- ¹⁸ My people will abide in a peaceful habitation,
in secure dwellings, and in quiet resting places.
- ¹⁹ And the forest will utterly go down,^w
and the city will be utterly laid low.
- ²⁰ Happy are you who sow beside all waters,
who let the feet of the ox and the ass range free.

33 Woe to you, destroyer,
who yourself have not been destroyed;
you treacherous one,
with whom none has dealt treacherously!
When you have ceased to destroy,
you will be destroyed;
and when you have made an end of dealing treacherously,
you will be dealt with treacherously.

- ² O LORD, be gracious to us; we wait for thee.
Be our arm every morning,
our salvation in the time of trouble.
- ³ At the thunderous noise peoples flee,
at the lifting up of thyself nations are scattered;
- ⁴ and spoil is gathered as the caterpillar gathers;

as locusts leap, men leap upon it.

- ⁵ The LORD is exalted, for he dwells on high;
he will fill Zion with justice and righteousness;
- ⁶ and he will be the stability of your times,
abundance of salvation, wisdom, and knowledge;
the fear of the LORD is his treasure.

the envoys of peace weep bitterly.
- ⁸ The highways lie waste,
the wayfaring man ceases.
Covenants are broken,
witnesses^z are despised,
there is no regard for man.

Lebanon is confounded and withers away;
Sharon is like a desert;
and Bashan and Carmel shake off their leaves.

"now I will lift myself up;
now I will be exalted.

¹⁴ The sinners in Zion are afraid;
trembling has seized the godless:

devouring fire?"

Who among us can dwell with everlasting burnings?"

¹⁵ He who walks righteously and speaks

¹⁸ Your mind will muse on the terror:
"Where is he who counted, where is he who weighed the tribute?
Where is he who counted the ¹⁹ You will see no more the insolent

people,
the people of an obscure speech
which you cannot comprehend, stammering in a tongue which you cannot understand.

²⁰ Look upon Zion, the city of our appointed feasts!
Your eyes will see Jerusalem,
a quiet habitation, an immovable
tent,
whose stakes will never be plucked
up,
nor will any of its cords be broken.

²¹ But there the LORD in majesty will be for us

"The king in his beauty"; Zion restored

a place of broad rivers and streams,

where no galley with oars can go,
nor stately ship can pass.

the LORD is our king; he will save

²³ Your tackle hangs loose;
it cannot hold the mast firm in its place,
or keep the sail spread out.

Then prey and spoil in abundance
will be divided;
even the lame will take the prey.

²⁴ And no inhabitant will say, "I am sick";
the people who dwell there will be forgiven their iniquity.

34 Draw near, O nations, to hear,
and hearken, O peoples!

Let the earth listen, and all that fills
it;

the world, and all that comes from
it.

² For the LORD is enraged against all
the nations,
and furious against all their host,
he has doomed them, has given them over for slaughter.

³ Their slain shall be cast out,
and the stench of their corpses
shall rise;
the mountains shall flow with their
blood.

⁴ All the host of heaven shall rot away,
and the skies roll up like a scroll.
All their host shall fall,

36 In the fourteenth year of King
Hezeki'ah, Sennach'erib king of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah and took them. ² And the king of Assyria sent the Rab'shakeh from Lachish to King Hezeki'ah at Je-stood by the conduit of the upper pool

on the highway to the Fuller's Field.
³ And there came out to him Eli'akim
the son of Hilki'ah, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and Jo'ah the son of Asaph, the recorder.

⁴ And the Rab'shakeh said to them,
"Say to Hezeki'ah, 'Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria: On what do you rest this confidence of yours? ⁵ Do you think that mere words are strategy and power for war? On whom do you now rely, that you have rebelled against me? ⁶ Behold, you are relying on Egypt, that broken reed of a staff,
which will pierce the hand of any man who leans on it. Such is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who rely on him. ⁷ But if you say to me, 'We rely on the LORD
our God,' is it not he whose high places and altars Hezeki'ah has removed, say-

13 Then the Rab'shakeh stood and called out in a loud voice in the language of Judah: "Hear the words of the great king, the king of Assyria! ¹⁴ Thus says the king: 'Do not let Hezeki'ah deceive you, for he will not be able to deliver you. ¹⁵ Do not let Hezeki'ah make you rely on the LORD by saying, "The LORD will surely deliver us; this city will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria." ¹⁶ Do not listen to Hezeki'ah; for thus says the king of Assyria: Make your peace with me and come out to me; then every one of you will eat of his own vine, and every one of his own fig tree, and every one of you will drink the water of his own cistern; ¹⁷ until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and wine, a land of bread and vineyards. ¹⁸ Beware lest Hezeki'ah mislead you by saying, "The LORD will deliver us." 21 But they were silent and answered him not a word, for the king's command was, "Do not answer him."

37 When King Hezeki'ah heard it, he rent his clothes, and covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD. ² And he sent Eli'akim, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and the senior priests, clothed with sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz. ³ They said to him, "Thus says Hezeki'ah, 'This day is a day of distress, of rebuke, and of disgrace; children have come to the birth, and there is no strength to bring them forth.' ⁴ It may be that the LORD your God heard the words of the Rab'shakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent to mock the living God, and will rebuke the words which the LORD your God has heard; therefore lift up your prayer for the remnant that is left.' "

5 When the servants of King Hezeki'ah came to Isaiah, ⁶ Isaiah said to them, "Say to your master, 'Thus says the LORD: Do not be afraid because of the words that you have heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled me. ⁷ Behold, I will put a spirit in him, so that he shall hear a rumor, and return to his own land; and I will make him fall by the sword in his own land.' 8 The Rab'shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria fighting against Libnah; for he had heard that the king had left Lachish. ⁹ Now the king heard concerning Tirha'kah king of Ethiopia, "He has set out to fight against you." And when he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezeki'ah, saying, ¹⁰ "Thus shall you speak to Hezeki'ah king of Judah: 'Do not let your God on whom you rely deceive you by promising that Jerusalem will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria. ¹¹ Behold, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands, destroying them utterly. And shall you be delivered? ¹² Have the gods of the nations delivered them, the nations which my fathers destroyed, Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the people of Eden who were in Tel-assar? ¹³ Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharva'im, the king of Hena, or the king of Ivvah?' "

¹⁴ Hezeki'ah received the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it; and Hezeki'ah went up to the house of the LORD, and spread it before the LORD. ¹⁵ And Hezeki'ah prayed to the LORD: ¹⁶ "O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, who art enthroned above the cherubim, thou art the God, thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; thou hast made heaven and earth. ¹⁷ Incline thy ear, O LORD, and hear; open thy eyes, O LORD, and see; and hear all the words of Sennach'erib, which he has sent to mock the living God. ¹⁸ Of a truth, O LORD, the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the nations and their lands, ¹⁹ and have cast their gods into the fire; for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone; therefore they were destroyed. ²⁰ So now, O LORD our God, save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou alone art the LORD."

There was nothing in his house or in all his realm that Hezeki'ah did not show them. ³ Then Isaiah the prophet came to King Hezeki'ah, and said to him, "What did these men say? And whence did they come to you?" Hezeki'ah said, "They have come to me from a far country, from Babylon." ⁴ He said, "What have they seen in your house?" Hezeki'ah answered, "They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing in my storehouses that I did not show them."

⁵ Then Isaiah said to Hezeki'ah, "Hear the word of the LORD of hosts: ⁶ Behold, the days are coming, when all that is in your house, and that which your fathers have stored up till this day, shall be carried to Babylon; nothing shall be left, says the LORD. ⁷ And some of your own sons, who are born to you, shall be taken away; and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon." ⁸ Then said Hezeki'ah to Isaiah, "The word of the LORD which you have spoken is good." For he thought, "There will be peace and security in my days."

 an abomination is he who chooses
 you.

²⁵ I stirred up one from the north, and he has come,
 from the rising of the sun, and he shall call on my name;
 he shall trample^r on rulers as on mortar,
 as the potter treads clay.

²⁶ Who declared it from the beginning,
 that we might know,
 and beforetime, that we might say, "He is right?"

There was none who declared it,
 none who proclaimed,
 none who heard your words.

²⁷ I first have declared it to Zion,^s and I give to Jerusalem a herald of good tidings.

²⁸ But when I look there is no one;
 among these there is no counselor
 who, when I ask, gives an answer.

²⁹ Behold, they are all a delusion;
 their works are nothing;
 their molten images are empty
 wind.

42 Behold my servant, whom I uphold,
 my chosen, in whom my soul
 delights;

I have put my Spirit upon him,
 he will bring forth justice to the nations.

² He will not cry or lift up his voice,
 or make it heard in the street;

³ a bruised reed he will not break,
 and a dimly burning wick he will not quench;
 he will faithfully bring forth
 justice.

⁴ He will not fail^t or be discouraged^u till he has established justice in
 the earth;
 and the coastlands wait for his law.

⁵ Thus says God, the LORD, who created the heavens and stretched them out,
 who spread forth the earth and
 what comes from it,
 who gives breath to the people upon
 it
 and spirit to those who walk in it:

⁶ "I am the LORD, I have called you
 in righteousness,
 I have taken you by the hand and
 kept you;

I have given you as a covenant to
 the people,
 a light to the nations,

⁷ to open the eyes that are blind,
 to bring out the prisoners from the dungeon,
 from the prison those who sit in
 darkness.

⁸ I am the LORD, that is my name;
 my glory I give to no other,
 nor my praise to given images.

existence of the gods of other nations (43.8–13). 25–29: Second (compare vv. 11–13) judgment against the nations. From the north . . . the rising of the sun, from Persia to the northeast (the first phrase earlier referred to Assyria [14.31], and Babylonia [Jer.6.22]). 29: Compare v. 24; 40.18–20.

42.1–4: The first Servant Song (49.1–6; 50.4–11; 52.13–53.12). Scholars hold differing views of the identity of the Servant in these Songs. The position taken here is that the Servant is the nation; others regard him as an individual, and some as both. The mission of the Servant. The Servant is Israel (my chosen; not Cyrus) who will, with all patience (v. 3–4a), bring God's teaching (law, 1.10) and restore justice (5.16) to the nations. Spirit, 11.2. See Mt.12.18–21.

42.5–17: God's glorious victory. 5: God is creator of all (40.21–22) and source of life (Gen. 2.7; Acts 17.24–25). 6–9: God illumines history. 6–7: He has called Israel, his covenant people, to bring light to the nations groping in the darkness of ignorance (60.1–3; Lk.2.30–32; Acts 13.47; 26.23). 8: LORD, Yahweh, the only God (41.23–24; Dt.4.23–24). 10–13: Song of victory

⁹ Behold, the former things have come to pass,
and new things I now declare;
before they spring forth
I tell you of them."

¹⁰ Sing to the LORD a new song,
his praise from the end of the earth!

Let the sea roar" and all that fills it,
the coastlands and their inhabitants.

¹¹ Let the desert and its cities lift up their voice,
the villages that Kedar inhabits;
let the inhabitants of Sela sing for joy,

let them shout from the top of the mountains.

¹² Let them give glory to the LORD,
and declare his praise in the coastlands.

¹³ The LORD goes forth like a mighty man,
like a man of war he stirs up his fury;
he cries out, he shouts aloud,
he shows himself mighty against his foes.

¹⁴ For a long time I have held my peace,
I have kept still and restrained myself;
now I will cry out like a woman in travail,
I will gasp and pant.

¹⁵ I will lay waste mountains and hills,
and dry up all their herbage;
I will turn the rivers into islands,
and dry up the pools.

¹⁶ And I will lead the blind
in a way that they know not,
in paths that they have not known
I will guide them.

I will turn the darkness before them into light,
the rough places into level ground.
These are the things I will do,
and I will not forsake them.

¹⁷ They shall be turned back and utterly put to shame,
who trust in graven images,
who say to molten images,
"You are our gods."

¹⁸ Hear, you deaf;
and look, you blind, that you may see!

¹⁹ Who is blind but my servant,
or deaf as my messenger whom I send?

Who is blind as my dedicated one,
or blind as the servant of the LORD?

²⁰ He sees^v many things, but does not observe them;
his ears are open, but he does not hear.

²¹ The LORD was pleased, for his righteousness' sake, to magnify his law and make it glorious.

²² But this is a people robbed and plundered,
they are all of them trapped in holes
and hidden in prisons;
they have become a prey with none to rescue,
a spoil with none to say,
"Restore!"

²³ Who among you will give ear to this,
will attend and listen for the time to come?

²⁴ Who gave up Jacob to the spoiler,
and Israel to the robbers?
Was it not the LORD, against whom
we have sinned,

^v Cn Compare Ps 96.11; 98.7: Heb Those who go down to the sea ^w Heb you see

(Pss. 93; 96; 149). Kedar (Jer.49.28-29) and Sela (see Jer.49.20) represent remote and isolated places; all the world praises God, the victorious warrior (Ex.15.1-18; Jg.5.2-5). 14-17: God's intervention in history. Long time, from creation (v. 5) to redemption (vv. 14-16). 15: Jer.4.23-28. 16: Blind, (vv. 6-7) recalling God's leading Israel safely through the wilderness (41.17-20; Ex.13.21-22).

42.18-43.7: Israel, the blind and deaf servant. 18-25: Israel's judgment. 19-21: Blindness to God's will and way is, for Second Isaiah, Israel's chief sin (compare 6.9-10). Law, better, "teaching," or "revelation" (1.10) concerning the LORD. 23-25: God has punished Israel for and whose law they would not obey?

- ²⁵ So he poured upon him the heat of his anger
and the might of battle;
it set him on fire round about, but he did not understand;
it burned him, but he did not take it to heart.

43 But now thus says the LORD,
he who created you, O Jacob,
he who formed you, O Israel:
“Fear not, for I have redeemed
you;

I have called you by name, you are mine.

- ² When you pass through the waters
I will be with you;
and through the rivers, they shall not overwhelm you;
when you walk through fire you shall not be burned,
and the flame shall not consume
you.

- ³ For I am the LORD your God,
the Holy One of Israel, your Savior.

I give Egypt as your ransom,
Ethiopia and Seba in exchange for you.

- ⁴ Because you are precious in my eyes,
and honored, and I love you,
I give men in return for you,
peoples in exchange for your life.

- ⁵ Fear not, for I am with you;
I will bring your offspring from the east,
and from the west I will gather
you;

- ⁶ I will say to the north, Give up,

and to the south, Do not withhold;
bring my sons from afar
and my daughters from the end of
the earth,

whom I created for my glory,
whom I formed and made.”

- ⁸ Bring forth the people who are blind,
yet have eyes,
who are deaf, yet have ears!

- ⁹ Let all the nations gather together,
and let the peoples assemble.
Who among them can declare this,
and show us the former things?
Let them bring their witnesses to justify them,
and let them hear and say, It is
true.

there is none who can deliver from
my hand;
I work and who can hinder it?”

- ¹⁴ Thus says the LORD,
your Redeemer, the Holy One of its sins. 43.1-7: Israel's redemption (41.8-13). 1-3b: God is Israel's creator (44.2,21,24) and redeemer (41.14; 43.17; 49.7). By name, Israel is God's unique possession (45.3-4; Ex.19.5; 33.17). Through all dangers, God is with his people (Ps.66.12). 3c-7: God's ransom of Israel includes the nations of Africa (Egypt and Ethiopia) and Arabia (Seba), all of which Cyrus was expected to conquer.

43.8-13: The servant Israel is the LORD's witness. 8: Israel is capable of conversion. 9: Who can defend the nations' claims for their gods? 11-13: Besides God there is and will be no other god (41.23-24; 48.5).

43.14-44.5: The redemption and restoration of Israel. 14-15: The apposition of Redeemer

Babylon
and break down all the bars,
and the shouting of the Chalde'ans
will be turned to lamentations.^x
- ¹⁵ I am the LORD, your Holy One,
the Creator of Israel, your King."
- ¹⁶ Thus says the LORD,
who makes a way in the sea,
a path in the mighty waters,
¹⁷ who brings forth chariot and horse,
army and warrior;
they lie down, they cannot rise,
they are extinguished, quenched
like a wick:
- ¹⁸ "Remember not the former things,
nor consider the things of old.
- ¹⁹ Behold, I am doing a new thing;
now it springs forth, do you not perceive it?
I will make a way in the wilderness
and rivers in the desert.
- ²⁰ The wild beasts will honor me,
the jackals and the ostriches;
for I give water in the wilderness,
rivers in the desert,
to give drink to my chosen people, ²¹ the people whom I formed for myself
that they might declare my praise.
- ²² "Yet you did not call upon me, O
Jacob;
but you have been weary of me, O
Israel!
- ²³ You have not brought me your sheep
for burnt offerings,
or honored me with your sacrifices.
I have not burdened you with offerings,
or wearied you with frankincense.
- ²⁴ You have not bought me sweet cane
with money,
or satisfied me with the fat of your
sacrifices.
But you have burdened me with your sins,
you have wearied me with your
iniquities.
- ²⁵ "I, I am He who blots out your transgressions
for my own sake,
and I will not remember your sins.
- ²⁶ Put me in remembrance, let us argue
together;
set forth your case, that you may be proved right.
- ²⁷ Your first father sinned,
and your mediators transgressed
against me.
- ²⁸ Therefore I profaned the princes of the sanctuary,
I delivered Jacob to utter destruction
and Israel to reviling.
- 44 "But now hear, O Jacob my
servant,
Israel whom I have chosen!
- ² Thus says the LORD who made you,
who formed you from the womb
and will help you:
Fear not, O Jacob my servant,
Jeshu'run whom I have chosen.
- ³ For I will pour water on the thirsty
land,
and streams on the dry ground;
I will pour my Spirit upon your descendants,
and my blessing on your offspring.

(v. 1; 54.5; 59.20; Jer.50.34) and Holy One (41.14; 47.4; 48.17) is noteworthy. Second Isaiah refers to God as Redeemer more often than do other Old Testament writers. God redeems Israel not for its merits but because of his covenant relationship with Israel. Other nations have kings, but God is Israel's king (1 Sam.8.4-9). 16-17: Allusion to the passage through the Red Sea (Ex.14-15). The "new (and greater) Exodus" is an important theme in Second Isaiah (41.17-20; 42.16; compare Ex.14-15). 18-19: New thing, the return of Israel to Palestine. A way in the wilderness. This theme (40.3) is a part of the Exodus story (vv. 16-17). 20-21: Water in the wilderness, see Ex.17.1-7. 22-24: Israel has ignored and offended God. Sweet cane, Ex.30.23; Jer.6.20. 25-28: The imagery of a lawcourt (41.1); God shows himself gracious, yet just. First father, Jacob (Gen. ch. 27; Hos.12.2-4). Mediators, perhaps other patriarchal figures or prophets (1 Kg.13.11-32). 44.1-2: Jeshurun (Dt.32.15; 33.5,26), a poetic name of endearment for Israel; it may mean "dearest upright one." 3-4: Israel, like the world of nature, will be transformed.

⁴ They shall spring up like grass amid waters,^y

like willows by flowing streams.

⁵ This one will say, 'I am the LORD's,' another will call himself by the name of Jacob,
and another will write on his hand,
'The LORD's,'
and surname himself by the name
of Israel."

⁶ Thus says the LORD, the King of Israel
and his Redeemer, the LORD of
hosts:

"I am the first and I am the last;
besides me there is no god.

⁷ Who is like me? Let him proclaim it, let him declare and set it forth
before me.

Who has announced from of old the things to come?^z

Let them tell us^a what is yet to be.

⁸ Fear not, nor be afraid;
have I not told you from of old and declared it?

And you are my witnesses!

Is there a God besides me?

There is no Rock; I know not any."

⁹ All who make idols are nothing, and the things they delight in do not profit; their witnesses neither see nor know, that they may be put to shame.

¹⁰ Who fashions a god or casts an image, that is profitable for nothing?

¹¹ Behold, all his fellows shall be put to shame, and the craftsmen are but men; let them all assemble, let them stand forth, they shall be terrified, they shall be put to shame together.

¹² The ironsmith fashions it^b and works it over the coals; he shapes it with hammers, and forges it with his strong arm; he becomes hungry and his strength fails, he drinks no water and is faint. ¹³ The carpenter stretches a line,

he marks it out with a pencil; he fashions it with planes, and marks it with a compass; he shapes it into the figure of a man, with the beauty of a man, to dwell in a house. ¹⁴ He cuts down cedars; or he chooses a holm tree or an oak and lets it grow strong among the trees of the forest; he plants a cedar and the rain nourishes it. ¹⁵ Then it becomes fuel for a man; he takes a part of it and warms himself, he kindles a fire and bakes bread; also he makes a god and worships it, he makes it a graven image and falls down before it. ¹⁶ Half of it he burns in the fire; over the half he eats
flesh, he roasts meat and is satisfied;
also he warms himself and says, "Aha,
I am warm, I have seen the fire!"

¹⁷ And the rest of it he makes into a god, his idol; and falls down to it and worships it; he prays to it and says,
"Deliver me, for thou art my god!"
¹⁸ They know not, nor do they discern;
for he has shut their eyes, so that they cannot see, and their minds, so that they cannot understand. ¹⁹ No one considers, nor is there knowledge or discernment to say, "Half of it I burned in the fire, I also baked bread on its coals, I roasted flesh and have eaten;
and shall I make the residue of it an abomination? Shall I fall down before a block of wood?" ²⁰ He feeds on ashes; a deluded mind has led him astray, and he cannot deliver himself or say, "Is there not a lie in my right
hand?"

God's Spirit brings new life. 5: All people will identify themselves with Israel and Israel's God. Write on the hand, compare Dt.6.8. 6-8: God's uniqueness (compare vv. 21-23). 6: Note the apposition of Redeemer (43.14; 60.16) and LORD of hosts (first of several references in Second Isaiah; 45.13; 47.4). First . . . last, 41.4; Rev.1.8,17; 2.8; 22.13. 7: Perhaps a reference to God's promises to the patriarchs (Gen.12.1-3). 8: Rock, 17.10; Ps.18.2.

44.9-20: Satire against idolatry (interpolated here perhaps in view of vv. 8b and 21; compare 40.18-20; 41.6-7). 9-11: An idol is not a god but an image. 13-14: It is made by human craftsmen. 14-20: The same tree is used for fuel and for carving a god; but Israel does not note this ridiculous inconsistency.

²¹ Remember these things, O Jacob,
and Israel, for you are my servant;
I formed you, you are my servant;
O Israel, you will not be forgotten
by me.

²² I have swept away your transgressions like a cloud,
and your sins like mist;

done it;
shout, O depths of the earth;
break forth into singing, O
mountains,
O forest, and every tree in it!
For the LORD has redeemed Jacob,
and will be glorified in Israel.

²⁴ Thus says the LORD, your Redeemer,
who formed you from the womb:
"I am the LORD, who made all things,
who stretched out the heavens
alone,
who spread out the earth—Who was with me?"^c—

²⁵ who frustrates the omens of liars,

²⁸ who says of Cyrus, 'He is my shepherd,
and he shall fulfil all my purpose';
saying of Jerusalem, 'She shall be

and of the temple, 'Your foundation shall be laid.' "

45 Thus says the LORD to his anointed, to Cyrus,
whose right hand I have grasped,
to subdue nations before him
and ungird the loins of kings,
to open doors before him
that gates may not be closed:
² "I will go before you

⁷ How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him who brings good tidings, who publishes peace, who brings good tidings of good, who publishes salvation, who says to Zion, "Your God reigns."

⁸ Hark, your watchmen lift up their voice, together they sing for joy; for eye to eye they see the return of the LORD to Zion.

⁹ Break forth together into singing, you waste places of Jerusalem; for the LORD has comforted his people, he has redeemed Jerusalem.

¹⁰ The LORD has bared his holy arm before the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.

¹¹ Depart, depart, go out thence, touch no unclean thing; go out from the midst of her, purify yourselves, you who bear the vessels of the LORD.

¹² For you shall not go out in haste, and you shall not go in flight, for the LORD will go before you, and the God of Israel will be your rear guard.

¹³ Behold, my servant shall prosper, he shall be exalted and lifted up, and shall be very high.

¹⁴ As many were astonished at him^s—his appearance was so marred, beyond human semblance, and his form beyond that of the sons of men—

¹⁵ so shall he startle^t many nations; kings shall shut their mouths because of him; for that which has not been told them they shall see, and that which they have not heard they shall understand.

53 Who has believed what we have heard?
And to whom has the arm of the LORD been revealed?

² For he grew up before him like a young plant, and like a root out of dry ground; he had no form or comeliness that we should look at him, and no beauty that we should desire him.

³ He was despised and rejected^u by men; a man of sorrows,^v and acquainted with grief;^w and as one from whom men hide their faces he was despised, and we esteemed him not.

⁴ Surely he has borne our griefs^x and carried our sorrows;^y yet we esteemed him stricken, smitten by God, and afflicted.

⁵ But he was wounded for our transgressions,

your sons shall come from far,
and your daughters shall be carried in the arms.
- ⁵ Then you shall see and be radiant,
your heart shall thrill and rejoice;^k
because the abundance of the sea
shall be turned to you,
the wealth of the nations shall come to you.
- ⁶ A multitude of camels shall cover you,
the young camels of Mid'ian and Ephah;
all those from Sheba shall come.
They shall bring gold and frankincense,
and shall proclaim the praise of the LORD.
- ⁷ All the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered to you,
the rams of Nebai'oth shall minister to you;
they shall come up with acceptance on my altar,
and I will glorify my glorious house.

and like doves to their windows?
- ⁹ For the coastlands shall wait for me,
the ships of Tarshish first,
to bring your sons from far,
their silver and gold with them,
for the name of the LORD your God,
and for the Holy One of Israel,
because he has glorified you.
- ¹⁰ Foreigners shall build up your walls,
and their kings shall minister to you;
for in my wrath I smote you,
but in my favor I have had mercy on you.
- ¹¹ Your gates shall be open continually;
day and night they shall not be shut;
that men may bring to you the wealth of the nations,
with their kings led in procession.
- ¹² For the nation and kingdom that will not serve you shall perish;
those nations shall be utterly laid waste.
- ¹³ The glory of Lebanon shall come to you,
the cypress, the plane, and the pine,
to beautify the place of my sanctuary;
and I will make the place of my feet glorious.
- ¹⁴ The sons of those who oppressed you shall come bending low to you;
and all who despised you shall bow down at your feet;
they shall call you the City of the LORD,
the Zion of the Holy One of Israel.
- ¹⁵ Whereas you have been forsaken and hated,
with no one passing through,
I will make you majestic for ever,
a joy from age to age.
- ¹⁶ You shall suck the milk of nations,
you shall suck the breast of kings;
and you shall know that I, the LORD,
am your Savior

61 The Spirit of the Lord God is
upon me,

17-18: The new Jerusalem will surpass Solomon's city in beauty and tranquillity. 19-20: God's glory will perpetually illumine the joyful city (35.10; Rev.21.4). 21-22: In the divinely restored city, God will be glorified (9.7; 54.1-2).

61.1-11: The mission to Zion. This poem recalls the Servant Songs of chs. 42-53, especially 50.4-11. 1-3: Lk.4.16-20; compare Mt.11.5; Lk.7.22. God sends his prophet to bring encouragement to the exiled and oppressed; he will make them mighty oaks (60.21; Jer.17.8). Spirit is strongly emphasized in exilic and post-exilic writings (42.1; 59.21; Ezek.2.2). 2: Vengeance, better, "rescue." 4-5: 60.10-11. 6-7: Priests (Ex.19.6). Double portion, for double punishment

THE BOOK OF JEREMIAH

Jeremiah was a descendant of the priest Abiathar, who was banished by Solomon to Anathoth (1 Kg.2.26,27; compare 1 Sam.3.10-14). His ministry began in 627 B.C. and ended sometime after 580, probably in Egypt.

The book bearing his name consists essentially of a collection of oracles against Judah and Jerusalem which he dictated to his aide Baruch (1.4-6.30, from the time of Josiah; 7.1-20.18, from the time of Jehoiakim; 21.1-25.14, from the time of Zedekiah), Baruch's memoirs (chs. 26-35; 36-45), and a group of oracles against foreign nations (25.15-38; chs. 46-51), together with an introduction (1.1-3) and an historical appendix (ch. 52). Some other materials were added when the book was edited sometime after 560 B.C. In general a chronological order is followed in the two main sections of the book (1.4-25.14; chs. 26-45), but because of the editing, some materials are now misplaced.

The present Hebrew text differs from the Greek version (the Septuagint) in both content and order. The Septuagint omits several passages (e.g. 33.14-26) and combines the oracles against the foreign nations into a single section following 25.14, though in a different order.

Jeremiah is much concerned with rewards and punishment, the recompense for good and evil, faithfulness and disobedience (see ch. 35). He criticized Judah for its worship of gods other than the LORD, with all the attendant evils in cult and daily life. God's covenant people must return to him. The judgment must come, but the ominous future (later, the unhappy present) would be replaced by a new and more enduring relationship with God.

THE WORDS OF JEREMIAH, THE SON of Hilki'ah, of the priests who were in An'athoth in the land of Benjamin,² to whom the word of the LORD came in the days of Josi'ah the son of Amon, king of Judah, in the thirteenth year of his reign.³ It came also in the days of Jehoi'akim the son of Josi'ah, king of Judah, and until the end of the eleventh year of Zedeki'ah, the son of Josi'ah, king of Judah, until the captivity of Jerusalem in the fifth month.

4 Now the word of the LORD came to me saying,

⁵ "Before I formed you in the womb I knew you, and before you were born I consecrated you; I appointed you a prophet to the nations."

⁶ Then I said, "Ah, Lord God! Behold, I do not know how to speak, for I am only a youth." ⁷ But the LORD said to me,

"Do not say, 'I am only a youth'; for to all to whom I send you you shall go, and whatever I command you you shall speak.

⁸ Be not afraid of them, for I am with you to deliver you, says the LORD."

⁹ Then the LORD put forth his hand and touched my mouth; and the LORD said to me,

"Behold, I have put my words in your mouth.

¹⁰ See, I have set you this day over nations and over kingdoms, to pluck up and to break down, to destroy and to overthrow, to build and to plant."

1.1-3 Superscription. 1: Words, i.e. "history." The name Jeremiah means "The LORD [Yahweh] exalts." Priests . . . in Anathoth, see Introduction. Anathoth is located at modern Ras Kharrubeh about two miles northeast of Jerusalem. 2: Thirteenth year of Josiah, 627 B.C. 3: Eleventh year of Zedekiah, 587 B.C.

1.4-19: Jeremiah's call and related visions. 4: Word of the LORD, characteristic expression in Jeremiah, perhaps emphasizing that his message is God's word. 5: Knew, in the Biblical sense, a profound and intimate knowledge. To the nations, Assyria, Babylonia, Egypt, Judah. 6-8: God's support will supplement Jeremiah's inexperience (youth). 9: Compare 15.19; Mt.10.19-20. 10: God's word is a dynamic and vital force, not a static and symbolic figure (Is.55.10-11).

11 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, "Jeremiah, what do you see?" And I said, "I see a rod of almond."^a 12 Then the LORD said to me, "You have seen well, for I am watching^b over my word to perform it."

13 The word of the LORD came to me a second time, saying, "What do you see?" And I said, "I see a boiling pot, facing away from the north."

14 Then the LORD said to me, "Out of the north evil shall break forth upon all the inhabitants of the land. 15 For, lo, I am calling all the tribes of the kingdoms of the north, says the LORD; and they shall come and every one shall set his throne at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem, against all its walls round about, and against all the cities of Judah. 16 And I will utter my judgments against them, for all their wickedness in forsaking me; they have burned incense to other gods, and worshiped the works of their own hands."

17 But you, gird up your loins; arise, and say to them everything that I command you. Do not be dismayed by them, lest I dismay you before them."

18 And I, behold, I make you this day a fortified city, an iron pillar, and bronze walls, against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, its princes, its priests, and the people of the land."

19 They will fight against you; but they shall not prevail against you, for I am with you, says the LORD, to deliver you."

2 The word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Go and proclaim in the hearing of Jerusalem, Thus says the LORD,

I remember the devotion of your youth,

your love as a bride,
how you followed me in the wilderness,
in a land not sown.

3 Israel was holy to the LORD,
the first fruits of his harvest.
All who ate of it became guilty;
evil came upon them,
says the LORD."

4 Hear the word of the LORD, O house of Jacob, and all the families of the house of Israel. 5 Thus says the LORD:

"What wrong did your fathers find in me
that they went far from me,
and went after worthlessness, and became worthless?"

6 They did not say, 'Where is the LORD who brought us up from the land
of Egypt,
who led us in the wilderness,
in a land of deserts and pits,
in a land of drought and deep
darkness,
in a land that none passes through,
where no man dwells?'

7 And I brought you into a plentiful
land
to enjoy its fruits and its good
things.

But when you came in you defiled
my land,
and made my heritage an abomination.

8 The priests did not say, 'Where is the LORD?'

Those who handle the law did not know me;
the rulers^c transgressed against me;

11-12: Play on words (see notes a and b) to encourage the hesitant young prophet in the face of certain opposition. 13-14: Facing away from the north, the meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain; this translation implies that the pot was spilling its hot contents toward the south, symbolizing the trouble which would come from the north. Another view is that the draft on the fire came from the north. Invaders into Palestine often came from the north. 17-19: An expansion of the thought in vv. 4-8.

2.1-37: The apostasy of Israel. 1-3: God defended his bride (comparing the Sinai covenant with the marriage vow, see Hos.2.16) against all attempts to violate her (Amalekites, Canaanites, Philistines, etc.). 4-9: God remained unwaveringly faithful, despite Israel's rebellion. 8: Priests and law suggest a time during Josiah's reform. After Josiah's death, Jeremiah attacked the prophets prophesied by Ba'al, and went after things that do not profit.

6 The LORD said to me in the days of King Josi'ah: "Have you seen what she did, that faithless one, Israel, how she went up on every high hill and under every green tree, and there played the harlot? ⁷ And I thought, 'After she has done all this she will return to me'; but she did not return, and her false sister Judah saw it. ⁸ She saw that for all the adulteries of that faithless one, Israel, I had sent her away with a decree of divorce; yet her false sister Judah did not fear, but she too went and played the harlot. ⁹ Because harlotry was so light to her, she polluted the land, committing adultery with stone and tree. ¹⁰ Yet for all this her false sister Judah did not return to me with her whole heart, but in pretense, says the LORD."

11 And the LORD said to me,
"Faithless Israel has shown herself less guilty than false Judah. ¹² Go, and proclaim these words toward the north, and say,

'Return, faithless Israel,
says the LORD.

I will not look on you in anger,
for I am merciful,
says the LORD;

I will not be angry for ever.

that you rebelled against the LORD your God

and scattered your favors among strangers under every green and that you have not obeyed my

says the LORD;
for I am your master;
I will take you, one from a city and
two from a family,
and I will bring you to Zion.

of Israel, and together they shall come

Septuagint reads "woman." 6-14: The return of Israel. This oracle, although by Jeremiah (some scholars disagree), is intrusive here. Compare chs. 30-31; Ezek. chs. 16; 23. Because of her unheeding unfaithfulness (Hos.2.20) God sent Israel into exile (with a decree of divorce, Dt. 24.1-4), but Judah's guilt is worse; she failed to learn from Israel's experience. Somewhat inconsistent with vv. 1-5, Israel is invited to repent and return. 15-18: Return from exile and reunion of Israel and Judah under faithful rulers. This oracle is probably later than the rest of the section. 15: Shepherds, rulers. 16-17: Jerusalem will replace the ark as the symbol of a heritage most beautiful of all nations.

And I thought you would call me,
My Father,
and would not turn from following me.

husband,
so have you been faithless to me,
O house of Israel,

²¹ A voice on the bare heights is heard,
the weeping and pleading of Israel's sons,
because they have perverted their
way,
they have forgotten the LORD
their God.

²² "Return, O faithless sons,
I will heal your faithlessness."
"Behold, we come to thee;
for thou art the LORD our God.

²³ Truly the hills are a delusion,
the orgies on the mountains.
Truly in the LORD our God
is the salvation of Israel.

²⁴ "But from our youth the shameful thing has devoured all for which our fathers labored, their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters.
²⁵ Let us lie down in our shame, and let our dishonor cover us; for we have sinned against the LORD our God, we and our fathers, from our youth even to this day; and we have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God."

⁴ "If you return, O Israel,
says the LORD,
to me you should return.

If you remove your abominations
from my presence,
and do not waver,
² and if you swear, 'As the LORD lives,' in truth, in justice, and in
uprightness,
then nations shall bless themselves
in him,
and in him shall they glory."

³ For thus says the LORD to the men of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem:

"Break up your fallow ground,
and sow not among thorns.

⁴ Circumcise yourselves to the LORD, remove the foreskin of your hearts,
O men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem;
lest my wrath go forth like fire,
and burn with none to quench it,
because of the evil of your doings."

⁵ Declare in Judah, and proclaim in Jerusalem, and say,
"Blow the trumpet through the land;
cry aloud and say,
'Assemble, and let us go into the fortified cities!'

⁶ Raise a standard toward Zion, flee for safety, stay not,
for I bring evil from the north,
and great destruction.

⁷ A lion has gone up from his thicket,
a destroyer of nations has set out;

the throne of God (14.21; 17.12). 19-20: These verses continue vv. 1-5. Contrary to custom (Num.27.1-8) God would have made "his daughter" Judah his heir, but her faithlessness renders this impossible. 3.21-4.4: From the heights, sites of futile idolatry, come cries of profound repentance (vv. 12-14) and resolve to return to God (Hos.14.2-3). The conditions of repentance are removal of pagan shrines, recognition of God's exclusive claim by swearing in his name only (4.2b), and cleansing of hearts. 3-4: Compare 9.26; Hos.10.12; Rom.2.25-29.

4.5-31: The foe from the north, a recurring theme of Jeremiah (1.13-14; 5.15-17; 6.1-5; etc.). 5-12: Sound the alarm! Muster for the defense (6.1-8)! Like a beast of prey, the foe approaches (5.6)! Courage will fail the leaders of the people who have ignored all warnings of impending doom (6.13-15; 14.13-16; 23.16-17). God's judgment will sweep over the land like the hot

⁹ "In that day, says the LORD, courage shall fail both king and princes; the priests shall be appalled and the prophets astounded." ¹⁰ Then I said, "Ah, Lord God, surely thou hast utterly deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, 'It shall be well with you'; whereas the sword has reached their very life."

11 At that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem, "A hot wind from the bare heights in the desert toward the daughter of my people, not to winnow or cleanse, ¹² a wind too full for this comes for me. Now it is I who speak in judgment upon them."

Oh, the walls of my heart!

My heart is beating wildly;

I cannot keep silent;

for I hear the sound of the trumpet, the alarm of war.

²⁶ I looked, and lo, the fruitful land was a desert, and all its cities were laid in ruins before the LORD, before his fierce anger.

²⁷ For thus says the LORD, "The whole land shall be a desolation; yet I will not make a full end.

Thou hast smitten them,

Jeremiah is to search meticulously for a God-fearing person (5.1), but he finds none (20.7-18; Mic.7.1-2). God will pour out his wrath (Is.5.25; Ezek.6.14) upon the impenitent people, especially on the leaders who promised material and spiritual well-being (peace) when none was to be had (8.10-12; Ezek.13.10-11). 16-21: Jerusalem is without excuse. God gave his covenant and instruction (paths, my law) and sent his prophets (watchmen, my words; compare Hos.9.8) but both were ignored. Jeremiah disagreed (Mic.3.12); a complete moral change was required (vv. 5–6; compare Hos.4.2; Mic.6.8). As Shiloh (eighteen miles north of Jerusalem), the earlier central shrine, was destroyed (around 1050 B.C. in the days of Samuel; compare 1 Sam. chs. 4–6; Ps.78.56–72), so also this house, desecrated by idolatry, will be destroyed (v. 11; compare Mt. 21.13). to this day, I have persistently sent all my servants the prophets to them, day after day;²⁶ yet they did not listen to me, or incline their ear, but stiffened their neck. They did worse than their fathers.

Zion:
'How we are ruined!
We are utterly shamed,
because we have left the land,
because they have cast down our dwellings.'

LORD,
and let your ear receive the word
of his mouth;
teach to your daughters a lament,
and each to her neighbor a dirge.

²¹ For death has come up into our windows,
it has entered our palaces,
cutting off the children from the streets
and the young men from the squares.

Baal worship was man's fabrication, not God's revelation. 10-12, 17-22: The stillness of death shrouds the ruined land (7.34); only the howl of jackals breaks the silence. As customary in the ancient world, professional mourning women are hired to bewail the fate of Zion. 21: The verse reflects

'The dead bodies of men shall fall like dung upon the open field,
like sheaves after the reaper,
and none shall gather them.' "

23 Thus says the LORD: "Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, let not the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches; ²⁴ but let him who glories glory in this, that he understands and knows me, that I am the LORD who practice steadfast love, justice, and righteousness in the earth; for in these things I delight, says the LORD."

Tarshish,
and gold from Uphaz.

They are the work of the craftsman and of the hands of the goldsmith;

their clothing is violet and purple;
they are all the work of skilled
men.

¹⁰ But the LORD is the true God;
he is the living God and the everlasting King.

At his wrath the earth quakes,
and the nations cannot endure his indignation.

Related to but later than 9.10-22, this passage describes a siege (perhaps in 597 B.C.) which will not be lifted. In Exile, mother Zion will lose her children (Is.49.14-23; 54.1-3) because of the stupidity of Judah's rulers (shepherds). God's role in political events is not to be overlooked. 22b: 9.11. 23-25: Prayer of Jeremiah. While Judah is guilty and deserves punishment (Pr.20.24; compare Rom.1.18-23), God is asked to be merciful and not destroy Judah (Am.7.2-6; Ps.6.1). 25: A later addition, reflecting the sixth century desolation of Judah as an accomplished fact (as in Ps.79.6-7).

salem. ³ You shall say to them, Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Cursed be the man who does not heed the words of this covenant ⁴ which I commanded your fathers when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the iron furnace, saying, Listen to my voice, and do all that I command you. So shall you be my people, and I will be your God, ⁵ that I may perform the oath which I swore to your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as at this day." Then I answered, "So be it, LORD."

6 And the LORD said to me, "Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem: Hear the words of this covenant and do them. ⁷ For I solemnly warned your fathers when I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, warning them persistently, even to this day, saying, Obey my voice. ⁸ Yet they did not obey or incline their ear, but every one walked in the stubbornness of his evil heart. Therefore I brought upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did not."

9 Again the LORD said to me, "There is revolt among the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ¹⁰ They have turned back to the iniquities of their forefathers, who refused to hear my words; they have gone after other gods to serve them; the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken my covenant which I made with their fathers. ¹¹ Therefore, thus says the LORD, Behold, I am

14 "Therefore do not pray for this people, or lift up a cry or prayer on their behalf, for I will not listen when they call to me in the time of their trouble. ¹⁵ What right has my beloved in my house, when she has done vile deeds? Can vows^a and sacrificial flesh avert your doom? Can you then exult? ¹⁶ The LORD once called you, 'A green olive tree, fair with goodly fruit'; but with the roar of a great tempest he will set fire to it, and its branches will be consumed. ¹⁷ The LORD of hosts, who planted you, has pronounced evil against you, because of the evil which the house of Israel and the house of Judah have done, provoking me to anger by burning incense to Ba'al."

11.1-17: Jeremiah and the covenant. Jeremiah undoubtedly strongly supported Josiah's effort to eradicate practices of foreign worship (2 Kg. chs. 22-23) and to return to the provisions of the Mosaic covenant (v. 3, this covenant; v. 10, my covenant). Prophetic preaching was based upon the covenant relationship with God. Whether this somewhat re-edited speech is contemporary with Josiah's reform (627 B.C.) or is in retrospect (after 609) cannot be determined. Typically Deuteronomic is the word command used of the covenant (Dt.4.13; 6.17; etc.); note also other familiar Deuteronomic phrases: v. 3, Dt.27.26; v. 4, Dt.4.20; v. 5, Dt.7.12-13; v. 8, Dt.29.19. Iron furnace, Dt.4.20; 1 Kg.8.51; Is.48.10. Intercession for the apostate people is useless (14.11-12), as are also their rituals. 16: Symbolic of Judah's destruction is the incineration of the green olive trees in the temple area (Ps.52.8).

11.18-12.6: Jeremiah's first personal lament. A plot against the life of Jeremiah (11.18,19; 12.6; 11.20; 12.3b are perhaps to be transposed in this order). The first of Jeremiah's six personal

For I will bring evil upon the men of An'athoth, the year of their punishment."

12 Righteous art thou, O LORD,
when I complain to thee;
yet I would plead my case before thee.

Why does the way of the wicked prosper?
Why do all who are treacherous thrive?

He learns that he is the unwitting object (gentle lamb; compare Is.53.7) of an assassination plot, and prays the omniscient God for protection (17.10; Ps. 26). 21–23: The origin of the grievance against Jeremiah may be his identification of certain fellow citizens with false prophets and priests. In his characteristic phraseology (5.12; 18.21; 19.15; 23.12) their end is foretold. 12.1,2,4b,3a,4a,5: Against the background of the law court, Jeremiah questions the then nearly universal idea that the wicked always suffer and the righteous always prosper. The wicked, ostensibly faithful, prosper (Job. ch. 21; Ps. 73). ¹⁴ Thus says the LORD concerning all my evil neighbors who touch the heritage which I have given my people Israel to inherit: "Behold, I will pluck them up from their land, and I will pluck up the house of Judah from among them. ¹⁵ And after I have plucked them up, I will again have compassion on them, and I will bring them again each to his heritage and each to his land. ¹⁶ And it shall come to pass, if they will diligently learn the ways of my people, to swear by my name, 'As the LORD lives,' even as they taught my people to swear by Ba'al, then they shall be built up in the midst of my people. ¹⁷ But if any nation will not listen, then I will utterly pluck it up and destroy it, says the

LORD."

13 Thus said the LORD to me, "Go and buy a linen waistcloth, and put it on your loins, and do not dip it in water." ² So I bought a waistcloth
according to the word of the LORD, and put it on my loins. ³ And the word of the LORD came to me a second time, ⁴ "Take the waistcloth which you have bought, which is upon your loins, and arise, go to the Euphrates, and hide it there in a cleft of the rock." ⁵
So I went, and hid it by the Euphra'tes, as the LORD commanded me.
⁶ And after many days the LORD said to me, "Arise, go to the Euphrates, and take from there the waistcloth
which I commanded you to hide
there." ⁷ Then I went to the Euphrates, and dug, and I took the waistcloth
from the place where I had hidden it.
And behold, the waistcloth was spoiled; it was good for nothing.

⁸ Then the word of the LORD came to me: ⁹ "Thus says the LORD: Even so will I spoil the pride of Judah and heritage, 1 Sam.10.1) by the Babylonian-inspired raids of 601 B.C., led by several puppet rulers (birds of prey, shepherds), in reprisal for Jehoiakim's short-lived revolt (2 Kg.24.1-4).

12.14-17: Judah's neighbors. If Judah's erstwhile enemies are converted (16.19-21; Ps. 87), God will spare them when Judah is restored; otherwise they will be destroyed (25.12-38). 16: They, a reference to the Canaanites.

13.1-11: The story of the waistcloth. Using the figure of a linen waistcloth (v. 11; compare Ex.19.6; Lev.16.4), buried in the moist bank of the Euphrates (v. 7), Jeremiah underscores the corrupting effect of Jehoiakim's pro-Babylonian foreign policy (2.18) and the accompanying religious syncretism in Judah (2 Kg.24.1-7). The four hundred miles between Judah and the Euphrates have led some scholars to question whether Jeremiah made the journey, although the prophets sometimes took extreme measures to illustrate an oracle (compare Is.20.1-6; Ezek.4.1-17). It has been interpreted as a parable or vision.

13.12-14: The allegory of the wine jar. Jeremiah uses a proverb (v. 12a) and the figure of drunkenness (v. 13; compare 25.15-16; Ezek.23.31) to describe the divine judgment.

13.15-17: The last opportunity for repentance is offered to wayward Judah; her captivity is imminent (v. 17). 18-19: Exile! Almost resignedly, Jeremiah notes the deposition of Jehoiachin (2 Kg.24.8,15), the Babylonian military occupation of Judah (597 B.C.), and the first deportation (Jer.52.28).

13.20-27: Jerusalem's shame. came to Jeremiah concerning the drought:

² "Judah mourns
and her gates languish;
her people lament on the ground,
and the cry of Jerusalem goes up.
³ Her nobles send their servants for
water;
they come to the cisterns,
they find no water,
they return with their vessels
empty;
they are ashamed and confounded
and cover their heads.

its savior in time of trouble,
why shouldst thou be like a stranger
in the land,
like a wayfarer who turns aside
to tarry for a night?

⁹ Why shouldst thou be like a man
confused,
like a mighty man who cannot save?

Yet thou, O LORD, art in the midst of us,
and we are called by thy name;
leave us not."

¹⁰ Thus says the LORD concerning this
people:
"They have loved to wander thus,
they have not restrained their feet;
therefore the LORD does not accept

now he will remember their
iniquity
and punish their sins."

11 The LORD said to me: "Do not have famine, but I will give you assured peace in this place.'"¹⁴ And the LORD said to me: "The prophets are

No intercession or ritual acts will avert the divine punishment (7.16). 13-16: In this place, in the temple. 14.17–15.4: Further lament. 14.17–18: Here Jeremiah describes the calamity, using figures of war, drought, unburied dead, hunger, and confused spiritual leaders. 19–22: More strongly than in vv. 10–12, the people plead their case, casting themselves wholly on God's mercy. 15.1–4: If the people's greatest intercessors, Moses (Ex.32.11–14; Num.14.13–19; one of four references to Moses in prophetic literature [the others are Mic.6.4; Is.63.11; Mal.4.4]) and Samuel (1 Sam.12.17–18), were to plead for them, their sentence of total destruction would not be withdrawn (17.16–17). Manasseh, 2 Kg. ch. 21.

I am weary of relenting.
⁷ I have winnowed them with a winnowing fork
 in the gates of the land;
 I have bereaved them, I have destroyed my people;
 they did not turn from their ways.
⁸ I have made their widows more in number than the sand of the seas;
 I have brought against the mothers of young men
 a destroyer at noonday;
 I have made anguish and terror fall upon them suddenly.
⁹ She who bore seven has languished;
 she has swooned away;
 her sun went down while it was yet day;
 she has been shamed and disgraced.
 And the rest of them I will give to the sword
 before their enemies,
 says the LORD."

10 Woe is me, my mother, that you bore me, a man of strife and contention to the whole land! I have not lent, nor have I borrowed, yet all of them curse me. ¹¹ So let it be, O LORD,* if I have not entreated^y thee for their good, if I have not pleaded with thee on behalf of the enemy in the time of trouble and in the time of distress!
¹² Can one break iron, iron from the north, and bronze?

13 "Your wealth and your treasures I will give as spoil, without price, for all your sins, throughout all your territory. ¹⁴ I will make you serve your enemies in a land which you do not know, for in my anger a fire is kindled which shall burn for ever."

¹⁵ O LORD, thou knowest;
 remember me and visit me,
 and take vengeance for me on my persecutors.
 In thy forbearance take me not away;
 know that for thy sake I bear reproach.
¹⁶ Thy words were found, and I ate them,
 and thy words became to me a joy
 and the delight of my heart;
 for I am called by thy name,
 O LORD, God of hosts.
¹⁷ I did not sit in the company of merry-makers,
 nor did I rejoice;
 I sat alone, because thy hand was upon me,
 for thou hadst filled me with indignation.
¹⁸ Why is my pain unceasing,
 my wound incurable,
 refusing to be healed?
 Wilt thou be to me like a deceitful brook,
 like waters that fail?

¹⁹ Therefore thus says the LORD:
 "If you return, I will restore you,
 and you shall stand before me.
 If you utter what is precious, and not what is worthless,
 you shall be as my mouth.
 They shall turn to you,
 but you shall not turn to them.
²⁰ And I will make you to this people a fortified wall of bronze;
 they will fight against you,
 but they shall not prevail over you,
 for I am with you
 to save you and deliver you,
 says the LORD."

punishment by war continues. 6: Weary of relenting, compare Am.7.1-9. 7: Winnowed them, a common threshing figure (see Is.21.10; 27.12; Jer.51.2; Mt.3.12; Lk.3.17). 9: She who bore seven, a sign of favor (Ru.4.15; 1 Sam.2.5). Jerusalem will be bereaved (compare Hos.9.12).

15.10-21: Jeremiah's second personal lament, see 11.18-12.6 n. 10-18: Jeremiah points to his ostracism and the continued rejection of the life-giving word (v. 16; Ezek.2.8-10; Jn.4.32-34). Verses 13-14 are misplaced from 17.3-4. 15: With the familiar phrase, thou knowest (Pss.40.9; 139). Jeremiah prays God for vengeance against his persecutors. 17: The hand of God, often the symbol of inspiration (Is.8.11; Ezek.3.14,22), is here a symbol of burden. 19-21: God applies Jeremiah's own message to himself; God promises no respite from opposition, but

²¹ I will deliver you out of the hand of the wicked,

16 The word of the LORD came to me: ² "You shall not take a wife, nor shall you have sons or daughters in this place. ³ For thus says the LORD concerning the sons and daughters who are born in this place, and concerning the mothers who bore them and the fathers who begot them in this land: ⁴ They shall die of deadly diseases. They shall not be lamented, nor shall they be buried; they shall be as dung on the surface of the ground. They shall perish by the sword and by famine, and their dead bodies shall be food for the birds of the air and for the beasts of the earth.

⁵ "For thus says the LORD: Do not enter the house of mourning, or go to lament, or bemoan them; for I have taken away my peace from this people, says the LORD, my steadfast love and mercy. ⁶ Both great and small shall die in this land; they shall not be buried, and no one shall lament for them or cut himself or make himself bald for them. ⁷ No one shall break bread for the mourner, to comfort him for the dead; nor shall any one give him the cup of consolation to drink for his father or his mother. ⁸ You shall not go into the house of feasting to sit with them, to eat and drink. ⁹ For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will make to cease from this place, before your eyes and in your days, the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride.

¹⁰ "And when you tell this people all these words, and they say to you, 'Why has the LORD pronounced all this great evil against us? What is our iniquity? What is the sin that we have committed against the LORD our God?' ¹¹ then you shall say to them: 'Because your fathers have forsaken me, says the LORD, and have gone after other gods and have served and worshiped them, and have forsaken me and have not kept my law, ¹² and because you have done worse than your fathers, for behold, every one of you follows his stubborn evil will, refusing to listen to me; ¹³ therefore I will hurl you out of this land into a land which neither you nor your fathers have known, and there you shall serve other gods day and night, for I will show you no favor.'

¹⁴ "Therefore, behold, the days are coming, says the LORD, when it shall no longer be said, 'As the LORD lives who brought up the people of Israel out of the land of Egypt,' ¹⁵ but 'As the LORD lives who brought up the people of Israel out of the north country and out of all the countries where he had driven them.' For I will bring them back to their own land which I gave to their fathers.

16.1-13: Jeremiah's life, a symbol (Hos.1.2-9; Is.8.3-4). 1-9: An illustration of 15.17. 1-4: In view of the impending doom, Jeremiah relinquishes hope for home and family as a sign of the judgment (Ezek.24.15-27; 1 Cor.7.25-40). 5-7: Israel's faithlessness has nullified God's obligation for covenant loyalty. All symbols of mourning (cut himself, 41.5; make himself bald, Am.8.10; Is.22.12; compare Dt.14.1) are as futile as death is comfortless. 8-9: 25.10. 10-13: So Israel too will be alone (5.18-19).

16.14-15: Israel's homecoming. Their return, accomplished by God's actions, will be celebrated as the new Exodus (the passage duplicates 23.7-8; probably an editorial inclusion here).

16.16-18: No refuge for Israel (continues v. 13). As nothing escapes God's knowledge, so whose heart turns away from the LORD.

and shall not see any good come.
He shall dwell in the parched places

the LORD,
whose trust is the LORD.

⁸ He is like a tree planted by water, that sends out its roots by the stream,
and does not fear when heat comes,
for its leaves remain green,

17.14-18: Jeremiah's third personal lament (see 11.18-12.6 n.). Sick at heart because of his opponents' taunts, Jeremiah prays for healing (Ps.6.2-3). He does not want to see God's day of judgment (Am.5.18; Is.2.11); but if this be the only means of vindication, let it descend in all its fury.

17.19-27: Judah and the sabbath. Perhaps an illustration of 16.11 and an editorial expansion of Jeremiah's oracle citing the violation of the sabbath (Ex.23.12; Neh.13.15-22; compare Mt.12.1-8) as symptomatic of the people's general alienation from God (11.1-8; Am.8.5). Jeremiah's position at the Benjamin Gate (location unknown) would permit all concerned to hear. Only faithfulness would make their sacrifices acceptable (Ps.51.15-19) and preserve their land

18 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: ² "Arise, and go down to the potter's house, and there I will let you hear my words." ³ So I went down to the potter's house, and there he was working at his wheel. ⁴ And the vessel he was making of clay was spoiled in the potter's hand, and he reworked it into another vessel, as it seemed good to the potter to do.

⁵ Then the word of the LORD came to me: ⁶ "O house of Israel, can I not do with you as this potter has done?" says the LORD. Behold, like the clay in the potter's hand, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel. ⁷ If at any time I declare concerning a nation or a kingdom, that I will pluck up and break down and destroy it, ⁸ and if that nation, concerning which I have spoken, turns from its evil, I will repent of the evil that I intended to do to it. ⁹ And if at any time I declare concerning a nation or a kingdom that I will build and plant it, ¹⁰ and if it does evil in my sight, not listening to my voice, then I will repent of the good which I had intended to do to it. ¹¹ Now, therefore, say to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: "Thus says the LORD, Behold, I am shaping evil against you and devising a plan against you. Return, every one from his evil way, and amend your ways and your doings."

¹² "But they say, 'That is in vain! We will follow our own plans, and will every one act according to the stubbornness of his evil heart.'"

18.1-12: The allegory of the potter. Probably in Jerusalem's southern section, Jeremiah watched a potter shaping the inanimate clay. So God molds his people (Rom.9.20-24). God does not deal capriciously with them. The design for evil can be replaced by the design for good—if they repent. But they refuse.

18.13-17: A poetic commentary on v. 12. Judah has committed the nearly incredible folly of forsaking her God (2.10,32). God will ignore them (2.27-28) and will scatter them as before the east wind (4.11; 13.24; 23.19). Sirion, Mount Hermon. Mountain waters, perhaps from the Anti-Lebanon Mountains or from Mount Hermon itself, such as the Pharpar and Abanah rivers or the sources of the Jordan.

18.18-23: Jeremiah's fourth personal lament (see 11.18-12.6 n.). They (identity unknown) plot against Jeremiah because of his attacks against the leaders (2.8; 8.8). Jeremiah defends his innocence and prays to God for the merciless, total destruction of his enemies and their families. Note the assignment of the law to the priests (v. 18).

Yet they have dug a pit for my life.

Remember how I stood before thee to speak good for them, to turn away thy wrath from them.

²¹ Therefore deliver up their children to famine; give them over to the power of the sword, let their wives become childless and widowed. May their men meet death by pestilence, their youths be slain by the sword in battle.

²² May a cry be heard from their houses, when thou bringest the marauder suddenly upon them!

For they have dug a pit to take me, and laid snares for my feet.

²³ Yet, thou, O LORD, knowest all their plotting to slay me.

Forgive not their iniquity, nor blot out their sin from thy sight.

Let them be overthrown before thee; deal with them in the time of thine anger.

19 Thus said the LORD, "Go, buy a potter's earthen flask, and take some of the elders of the people and some of the senior priests, ² and go out to the valley of the son of Hinnom at the entry of the Potsherd Gate, and proclaim there the words that I tell you. ³ You shall say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, O kings of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I am bringing such evil upon this place that the ears of every one who hears of it will tingle. ⁴ Because the people have forsaken me, and have profaned this place by burning incense in it to other gods whom neither they nor their fathers nor the kings of Judah have known; and because they have filled this place with the blood of innocents, ⁵ and have built the high places of Ba'al to burn their sons in the fire as burnt offerings to Ba'al, which I did not command or decree, nor did it come into my mind; ⁶ therefore, behold, days are coming, says the LORD, when this place shall no more be called Topheth, or the valley of the son of Hinnom, but the valley of Slaughter. ⁷ And in this place I will make void the plans of Judah and Jerusalem, and will cause their people to fall by the sword before their enemies, and by the hand of those who seek their life. I will give their dead bodies for food to the birds of the air and to the beasts of the earth. ⁸ And I will make this city a horror, a thing to be hissed at; every one who passes by it will be horrified and will hiss because of all its disasters. ⁹ And I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and their daughters, and every one shall eat the flesh of his neighbor in the siege and in the distress, with which their enemies and those who seek their life afflict them.'

¹⁰ "Then you shall break the flask in the sight of the men who go with you, ¹¹ and shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: So will I break this people and this city, as one breaks a potter's vessel, so that it can never be mended. Men shall bury in Topheth because there will be no place else to bury. ¹² Thus will I do to this place, says the LORD, and to its inhabitants, making this city like Topheth. ¹³ The houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah—all the houses upon whose roofs incense has been burned to all the host of heaven, and drink offerings have been poured out to other gods—shall be defiled like the place of Topheth.’”

19.1-20.6: The public persecution of Jeremiah. 1-2: Jeremiah buys a flask and goes to the Potsherd Gate (later called the Dung Gate, Neh.2.13), taking with him some sympathizers. 3-9: Condemnation of the people for forsaking the LORD and for worshiping idols, and worst of all, for the offering of children to Baal (7.30-32). With a play on the Hebrew words for flask and make void, Jeremiah announces the people's horrible fate, which will make them resort to cannibalism. 10-15: The idol-worshipping city, like the flask, will be irreparably smashed; the specter of death will hover over it as over Topheth (see 7.31 n.). Host of heaven, 8.2; 2 Kg.21.3-5.

14 Then Jeremiah came from Topheth, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy, and he stood in the court of the LORD's house, and said to all the people: ¹⁵ “Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I am bringing upon this city and upon all its towns all the evil that I have pronounced against it, because they have stiffened their neck, refusing to hear my words.”

20 Now Pashhur the priest, the son of Immer, who was chief officer in the house of the LORD, heard Jeremiah prophesying these things. ² Then Pashhur beat Jeremiah the prophet, and put him in the stocks that were in the upper Benjamin Gate of the house of the LORD. ³ On the morrow, when Pashhur released Jeremiah from the stocks, Jeremiah said to him, “The LORD does not call your name Pashhur, but Terror on every side. ⁴ For thus says the LORD: Behold, I will make you a terror to yourself and to all your friends. They shall fall by the sword of their enemies while you look on. And I will give all Judah into the hand of the king of Babylon; he shall carry them captive to Babylon, and shall slay them with the sword. ⁵ Moreover, I will give all the wealth of the city, all its gains, all its prized belongings, and all the treasures of the kings of Judah into the hand of their enemies, who shall plunder them, and seize them, and carry them to Babylon. ⁶ And you, Pashhur, and all who dwell in your house, shall go into captivity; to Babylon you shall go; and there you shall die, and there you shall be buried, you and all your friends, to whom you have prophesied falsely.”

⁷ O LORD, thou hast deceived me, and I was deceived; thou art stronger than I, and thou hast prevailed. I have become a laughingstock all the day; every one mocks me.

⁸ For whenever I speak, I cry out, I shout, “Violence and destruction!” For the word of the LORD has become for me a reproach and derision all day long.

⁹ If I say, “I will not mention him, or speak any more in his name,” there is in my heart as it were a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I am weary with holding it in, and I cannot.

¹⁰ For I hear many whispering. Terror is on every side! “Denounce him! Let us denounce him!”

say all my familiar friends, watching for my fall.

“Perhaps he will be deceived, then we can overcome him, and take our revenge on him.”

¹¹ But the LORD is with me as a dread warrior; therefore my persecutors will stumble, they will not overcome me. They will be greatly shamed, for they will not succeed. Their eternal dishonor will never be forgotten.

20.1-6: To forestall a repetition of this frightful pronouncement, Pashhur of the temple police publicly punishes Jeremiah. On his release (v. 3) he tells Pashhur that Terror (6.25; Ps.31.13) will be his name and lot, for he and his family will share the fate of the doomed city (25.8-11).

20.7-13, 14-18: Jeremiah's fifth and sixth personal laments (see 11.18-12.6 n.). 7-9: Almost blasphemously, Jeremiah accuses God of deceiving him and of exerting irresistible power over him. Regardless of its effect, Jeremiah cannot refrain from his proclamation (Am.3.8; 1 Cor. 9.16). 10-13: Though his opponents plot his fall, Jeremiah expresses confidence in God's invincible protection of those who rely on him (the needy); he uses excerpts from liturgical

the son of Malchi'ah and Zephani'ah
the priest, the son of Ma-asei'ah, saying, ² "Inquire of the LORD for us, for

The threefold address (v. 29a; Is.6.3; Ezek.21.27) emphasizes the following oracle announcing that no descendant of Jehoiachin shall rule Judah.

23.1-8: A messianic oracle. After reproaching Judah’s rulers (shepherds; 22.22; Ezek. ch. 34) for scattering Judah (his flock), God promises to establish a righteous member (branch; Is.11.1; Zech.3.8) of David’s line over a restored Israel (30.9). He will rule responsibly before God as a king (Is.9.2-7), not as a puppet (like Zedekiah). This messianic expectation differs from the later militant nationalism (16.14-15).

23.9-40: Oracles concerning the prophets. 9-12: In the light of God’s will, Jeremiah is distraught over the moral delinquency of priest and prophet, supposedly guardians of Israel’s faith. 12: By their own devices the prophets will be destroyed. 13-15: In words they are worse than the prophets of Baal in Samaria; and in deeds, worse than the people of Sodom and

Gomor'rah."

¹⁵ Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts concerning the prophets:

"Behold, I will feed them with wormwood,
and give them poisoned water to

for from the prophets of Jerusalem ungodliness has gone forth into all
the land."

¹⁶ Thus says the LORD of hosts:

you with vain hopes; they speak visions of their own minds, not from the mouth of the LORD. ¹⁷ They say continually to those who despise the word of the LORD, 'It shall be well with you'; and to every one who stubbornly follows his own heart, they say, 'No evil shall come upon you.'"

the council of the LORD
to perceive and to hear his word, or who has given heed to his word
and listened?

it will burst upon the head of the
wicked.

yet they prophesied.

then they would have proclaimed
my words to my people,
and they would have turned them

24 After Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon had taken into exile from Jerusalem Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, together with the princes of Judah, the crafts-

² One basket had very good figs, like first-ripe figs, but the other basket had very bad figs, so bad that they could not be eaten. ³ And the LORD said to me, "What do you see, Jeremiah?" I said, "Figs, the good figs very good, and the bad figs very bad, so bad that they cannot be eaten."

⁴ Then the word of the LORD came to me: ⁵ "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Like these good figs, so I will regard as good the exiles from Judah, whom I have sent away from this place to the land of the Chalde'ans.

⁶ I will set my eyes upon them for good, and I will bring them back to this land. I will build them up, and not tear them down; I will plant them, and not uproot them. ⁷ I will give them a heart to know that I am the LORD; and they shall be my people and I will be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart.

⁸ "But thus says the LORD: Like the bad figs which are so bad they cannot be eaten, so will I treat Zedekiah the king of Judah, his princes, the remnant of Jerusalem who remain in this land, and those who dwell in the land of Egypt. ⁹ I will make them a horror^p to all the kingdoms of the earth, to be a reproach, a byword, a taunt, and a curse in all the places where I shall drive them. ¹⁰ And I will send sword, famine, and pestilence upon them, until they shall be utterly destroyed from the land which I gave to them and their fathers."

24.1-10: The vision of the baskets of figs. Those remaining in Palestine and Egypt (identity of these latter is unknown) after 597 B.C. (the bad figs) appropriated the property of those deported (the good figs), who were considered the objects of God's wrath (29.15-19; Ezek. 11.14-15). But the exiles will be returned (29.10-14) and will become a faithful nation. The others will be destroyed for their wilful indifference to God's chastisement.

25 The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josi'ah, king of Judah (that was the first year of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon), ² which Jeremiah the prophet spoke to all the people of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem: ³ "For twenty-three years, from the thirteenth year of Josi'ah the son of Amon, king of Judah, to this day, the word of the LORD has come to me, and I have spoken persistently to you, but you have not listened. ⁴ You have neither listened nor inclined your ears to hear, although the LORD persistently sent to you all his servants the prophets, ⁵ saying, 'Turn now, every one of you, from his evil way and wrong doings, and dwell upon the land which the LORD has given to you and your fathers from of old and for ever; ⁶ do not go after other gods to serve and worship them, or provoke me to anger with the work of your hands. Then I will do you no harm.' ⁷ Yet you have not listened to me, says the LORD, that you might provoke me to anger with the work of your hands to your own harm.

⁸ "Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: Because you have not obeyed my words, ⁹ behold, I will send for all the tribes of the north, says the LORD, and for Nebuchadrezzar the king of Babylon, my servant, and I will bring them against this land and its inhabitants, and against all these nations round about; I will utterly destroy them, and make them a horror, a hissing, and an everlasting reproach. ¹⁰ Moreover, I will banish from them the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the grinding of the millstones and the light of the lamp. ¹¹ This whole land shall become a ruin and a waste, and these nations shall serve the king of Babylon seventy years. ¹² Then after seventy years are completed, I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation, the land of the Chalde'ans, for their iniquity, says the LORD, making the land an everlasting waste. ¹³ I will bring upon that land all the words which I have uttered against it, everything written in this book, which Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations. ¹⁴ For many nations and great kings shall make slaves even of them; and I will recompense them according to their deeds and the work of their hands."

¹⁵ Thus the LORD, the God of Israel, said to me: "Take from my hand this cup of the wine of wrath, and make all the nations to whom I send you drink it. ¹⁶ They shall drink and stagger and be crazed because of the sword which I am sending among them."

Do with me as seems good and right to you. ¹⁵ Only know for certain that if you put me to death, you will bring innocent blood upon yourselves and upon this city and its inhabitants, for in truth the LORD sent me to you to speak all these words in your ears."

¹⁶ Then the princes and all the people said to the priests and the prophets, "This man does not deserve the sentence of death, for he has spoken to us in the name of the LORD our God." ¹⁷ And certain of the elders of the land arose and spoke to all the assembled people, saying, ¹⁸ "Micah of Mo'resheth prophesied in the days of Hezeki'ah king of Judah, and said to all the people of Judah: 'Thus says the LORD of hosts,

Zion shall be plowed as a field;

Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins,

and the mountain of the house a wooded height.'

¹⁹ Did Hezeki'ah king of Judah and all Judah put him to death? Did he not fear the LORD and entreat the favor of the LORD, and did not the LORD repent of the evil which he had pronounced against them? But we are about to bring great evil upon ourselves."

26.1-24: The temple sermon. 1-6: The sermon (7.1-15) was delivered perhaps during the Feast of Booths (September-October), 609 B.C. Baruch's summation here contains elements of ch. 7 and other sayings of Jeremiah (4.1-2; 18.7-11; 36.3). 7-19: Jeremiah's arrest and release. Frequently criticized by Jeremiah (2.8; 5.30-31; 6.13-14), priest and prophet alike would suffer from the temple's destruction. The royal officials assemble to hear the case. Jeremiah's dignified defense wins his release; the judges base their decision on a century-old precedent set by Hezekiah (715-687 B.C.) regarding the prophet Micah. New Gate, perhaps the Benjamin Gate, north of the temple (20.2; 2 Kg.15.35). Avenging of innocent blood, Gen.4.10; 2 Sam.21.1-14;

prophesied in the name of the LORD, Uri'ah the son of Shema'iah from Kir'iat-jearim. He prophesied against this city and against this land in words like those of Jeremiah.²¹ And when King Jehoi'akim, with all his warriors and all the princes, heard his words, the king sought to put him to death; but when Uri'ah heard of it, he was afraid and fled and escaped to Egypt.²² Then King Jehoi'akim sent to Egypt certain men, Elnathan the son of Achbor and others with him,²³ and they fetched Uri'ah from Egypt and brought him to King Jehoi'akim, who slew him with the sword and cast his dead body into the burial place of the common people.

24 But the hand of Ahi'kam the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah so that he was not given over to the people to be put to death.

27 In the beginning of the reign of Zedeki'ah^u the son of Josi'ah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD.² Thus the LORD said to me: "Make yourself thongs and yoke-bars, and put them on your neck.³ Send word^v to the king of Edom, the king of Moab, the king of the sons of Ammon, the king of Tyre, and the king of Sidon by the hand of the envoys who have come to Jerusalem to Zedeki'ah king of Judah.⁴ Give them this charge for their masters: 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: This is what you shall say to your masters: ⁵ "It is I who by my great power and my outstretched arm have made the earth, with the men and animals that are on the earth, and I give it to whomever it seems right to me.⁶ Now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, my servant, and I have given him also the beasts of the field to serve him.⁷ All the nations shall serve him and his son and his grandson, until the time of his own land comes; then many nations and great kings shall make him their slave.

8 " "But if any nation or kingdom will not serve this Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, I will punish that nation with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, says the LORD, until I have consumed it by his hand.⁹ So do not listen to your prophets, your diviners, your dreamers,^w your soothsayers, or your sorcerers, who are saying to you, 'You shall not serve the king of Babylon.'¹⁰ For it is a lie which they are prophesying to you, with the result that you will be removed far from your land, and I will drive you out, and you will perish.¹¹ But any nation which will bring its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon and serve him, I will leave on its own land, to till it and dwell there, says the LORD." " "

12 To Zedeki'ah king of Judah I spoke in like manner: "Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, and live.¹³ Why will you and your people die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, as the LORD

1 Kg. ch. 21. 20-24: Martyrdom of Uriah. Baruch adds this story to illustrate Jeremiah's personal danger and fortunate official support (Ahi'kam, 2 Kg. 22.12,14). As Egypt's vassal (2 Kg. 23.34-35), Jehoiakim had no difficulty arresting Uriah (Elnathan, 36.12,25). His execution is unusual in the annals of Israelite prophetism (2 Chr. 24.20-22; Mt. 23.29-31).

27.1-28.17: The yoke of the king of Babylon. 27.1-11: The yoke of Babylon was imposed by God upon Judah and her neighbors (21.1-10; 32.3-5); thus their plans for rebellion are against God's will. The occasion for the conspiracy lay in a revolt within Nebuchadnezzar's army (December 595-January 594 B.C.) and the accession in Egypt of Psammetichus II (594). Perhaps responding to Jeremiah's warning, Zedekiah did not carry out the rebellion, and so Judah was spared during Nebuchadnezzar's punitive campaign later that year. The form "Nebuchadnezzar" occurs in Jer. chs. 27-29; elsewhere in Jer. "Nebuchadrezzar" appears. The Babylonian form is Nabu-kudurru-usur. 12-15: Jeremiah repeats his warning: since God has not sent the prophets has spoken concerning any nation which will not serve the king of Babylon? ¹⁴ Do not listen to the words of the prophets who are saying to you, 'You shall not serve the king of Babylon,' for it is a lie which they are prophesying to you. ¹⁵ I have not sent them, says the LORD, but they are prophesying falsely in my name, with the result that I will drive you out and you will perish, you and the prophets who are prophesying to you."

¹⁶ Then I spoke to the priests and to all this people, saying, "Thus says the LORD: Do not listen to the words of your prophets who are prophesying to you, saying, 'Behold, the vessels of the LORD's house will now shortly be brought back from Babylon,' for it is a lie which they are prophesying to you. ¹⁷ Do not listen to them; serve the king of Babylon and live. Why should this city become a desolation? ¹⁸ If they are prophets, and if the word of the LORD is with them, then let them intercede with the LORD of hosts, that the vessels which are left in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem may not go to Babylon. ¹⁹ For thus says the LORD of hosts concerning the pillars, the sea, the stands, and the rest of the vessels which are left in this city, ²⁰ which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did not take away, when he took into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem—²¹ thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the vessels which are left in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem: ²² They shall be carried to Babylon and remain there until the day when I give attention to them, says the LORD. Then I will bring them back and restore them to this place."

28 In that same year, at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fifth month of the fourth year, Hananiah the son of Azzur, the prophet from Gibeon, spoke to me in the house of the LORD, in the presence of the priests and all the people, saying, ² "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. ³ Within two years I will bring back to this place all the vessels of the LORD's house, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon took away from this place and carried to Babylon. ⁴ I will also bring back to this place Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the exiles from Judah who went to Babylon, says the LORD, for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon."

⁵ Then the prophet Jeremiah spoke to Hananiah the prophet in the presence of the priests and all the people who were standing in the house of the LORD; ⁶ and the prophet Jeremiah said, "Amen! May the LORD do so; may the LORD make the words which you have prophesied come true, and bring back to this place from Babylon the vessels of the house of the LORD, and all the exiles. ⁷ Yet hear now this word which I speak in your hearing and in the hearing of all the people. ⁸ The prophets who preceded you and me from ancient times prophesied war, famine, and pestilence against many countries and great kingdoms. ⁹ As for the prophet who prophesies peace, when the word of that prophet comes to pass, then it will be known that the LORD has truly sent the prophet."

¹⁰ Then the prophet Hananiah took the yoke-bars from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, and broke them.

¹¹ And Hananiah spoke in the presence of all the people, saying, "Thus who are advising Zedekiah (14.14), they are unreliable guides. 16-22: He cautions the priests and the people against believing the baseless assurances of these prophets that the temple equipment taken as booty in 597 B.C. would be shortly returned. Instead, they should pray that what they have (Jer.52.17; 2 Kg.25.13) will not also be taken to Babylon. 28.1-17: Jeremiah and Hananiah. In August 594 B.C., Hananiah faced Jeremiah in the temple and predicted total restoration within two years, breaking Jeremiah's yoke to emphasize his point. Jeremiah says the LORD: Even so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon from the neck of all the nations within two years." But Jeremiah the prophet went his way.

12 Sometime after the prophet Hanani'ah had broken the yoke-bars from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: ¹³ "Go, tell Hanani'ah, 'Thus says the LORD: You have broken wooden bars, but I^x will make in their place bars of iron.' ¹⁴ For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I have put upon the neck of all these nations an iron yoke of servitude to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and they shall serve him, for I have given to him even the beasts of the field.'"

¹⁵ And Jeremiah the prophet said to the prophet Hanani'ah, "Listen, Hanani'ah, the LORD has not sent you, and you have made this people trust in a lie. ¹⁶ Therefore thus says the LORD: 'Behold, I will remove you from the face of the earth. This very year you shall die, because you have uttered rebellion against the LORD.'"

17 In that same year, in the seventh month, the prophet Hanani'ah died.

29 These are the words of the letter which Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem to the elders^y of the exiles, and to the priests, the prophets, and all the people, whom Nebuchadnezzar had taken into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon. ² This was after King Jeconiah, and the queen mother, the eunuchs, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem, the craftsmen, and the smiths had departed from Jerusalem. ³ The letter was sent by the hand of Ela'sah the son of Shaphan and Gemari'ah the son of Hilki'ah, whom Zedeki'ah king of Judah sent to Babylon to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. It said: ⁴ "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, to all the exiles whom I have sent into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon: ⁵ Build houses and live in them; plant gardens and eat their produce. ⁶ Take wives and have sons and daughters; take wives for your sons, and give your daughters in marriage, that they may bear sons and daughters; multiply there, and do not decrease. ⁷ But seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile, and pray to the LORD on its behalf, for in its welfare you will find your welfare. ⁸ For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Do not let your prophets and your diviners who are among you deceive you, and do not listen to the dreams which they dream, ⁹ for it is a lie which they are prophesying to you in my name; I did not send them, says the LORD.

10 "For thus says the LORD: When seventy years are completed for Babylon, I will visit you, and I will fulfil to you my promise and bring you back to this place. ¹¹ For I know the plans I have for you, says the LORD, plans for welfare and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope. ¹² Then you will call upon me and come and pray to me, and I will hear you. ¹³ You will seek me and find me; when you seek me with all your heart, ¹⁴ I will be found by you, says the LORD, and I recalled that their predecessors had predicted chastisement (Dt.18.20-22; Mic.3.5-12). Because the situation was unchanged, Hananiah's promise, though attractive, seemed very doubtful. Later Jeremiah used the symbolism of an iron yoke to emphasize that the Exile would continue (27.7). Yoke, placed on the neck of an ox, held on by leather straps.

29.1-32: Jeremiah's letters to Babylon. 1-23: Letter to the exiles. The exiles were being misled by the same baseless assurances of speedy return as those in Palestine (ch. 27). To counter this Jeremiah sent a letter by Elasah (perhaps the brother of Ahikam, 26.24) and Gemariah (36.10) to the elders of the people (Ezek.8.1; 14.1). His advice was revolutionary. They were to establish homes in Babylonia and even assist in the welfare of the state. God would be with them and would ultimately restore them (seventy years, 25.11; 27.7). Two colleagues of Hananiah, Ahab and Zedekiah (v. 21), were condemned by Jeremiah (compare Ezek. ch. 13). He pre-will restore your fortunes and gather you from all the nations and all the places where I have driven you, says the LORD, and I will bring you back to the place from which I sent you into exile.

15 "Because you have said, 'The LORD has raised up prophets for us in Babylon,'— 16 Thus says the LORD concerning the king who sits on the throne of David, and concerning all the people who dwell in this city, your kinsmen who did not go out with you into exile:

17 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, Behold, I am sending on them sword, famine, and pestilence, and I will make them like vile figs which are so bad they cannot be eaten. 18 I will pursue them with sword, famine, and pestilence, and will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, to be a curse, a terror, a hissing, and a reproach among all the nations where I have driven them,

19 because they did not heed my words, says the LORD, which I persistently sent to you by my servants the prophets, but you would not listen, says the LORD.— 20 Hear the word of the LORD, all you exiles whom I sent away from Jerusalem to Babylon:

21 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning Ahab the son of Kolaiah and Zedeki'ah the son of Ma-asei'ah, who are prophesying a lie to you in my name: Behold, I will deliver them into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he shall slay them before your eyes. 22 Because of them this curse shall be used by all the exiles from Judah in Babylon: "The LORD make you like Zedeki'ah and Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire," 23 because they have committed folly in Israel, they have committed adultery with their neighbors' wives, and they have spoken in my name lying words which I did not command them. I am the one who knows, and I am witness, says the LORD.'"

24 To Shemai'ah of Nehel'am you shall say: 25 "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You have sent letters in your name to all the people who are in Jerusalem, and to Zephani'ah the son of Ma-asei'ah the priest, and to all the priests, saying, 26 'The LORD has made you priest instead of Jehoi'ada the priest, to have charge in the house of the LORD over every madman who prophesies, to put him in the stocks and collar. 27 Now why have you not rebuked Jeremiah of An'athoth who is prophesying to you? 28 For he has sent to us in Babylon, saying, "Your exile will be long; build houses and live in them, and plant gardens and eat their produce."'"

29 Zephani'ah the priest read this letter in the hearing of Jeremiah the prophet. 30 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 31 "Send to all the exiles, saying, 'Thus says the LORD concerning Shemai'ah of Nehel'am: Because Shemai'ah has prophesied to you when I did not send him, and has made you trust in a lie, 32 therefore thus says the LORD: Behold, I will punish Shemai'ah of Nehel'am and his descendants; he shall not have any one living among this people to see^a the good that I will do to my people, says the LORD, for he has talked rebellion against the LORD.'"

dicted their execution; from the Babylonian point of view it would be for political subversion, not for the reason mentioned in v. 23. Verses 21–23 should follow v. 15; vv. 16–20 are an editorial comment on Jeremiah's letter. 24–32: Jeremiah and Shemaiah. Another "colleague" of Hananiah, Shemaiah, wrote from Babylon a scathing letter to the new temple overseer (compare 20.1), Zephaniah, charging him with dereliction of duty in not arresting Jeremiah for his letter (above). Instead Zephaniah (21.1; 37.3) read the letter to his friend Jeremiah. The latter sent another letter to the exiles, condemning Shemaiah and predicting that neither he nor his descendants would see the day of restoration (20.6).

30.1–31.40: The Book of Consolation. 30.1–4: Introduction. Initially collected by Baruch, says the LORD, the God of Israel: Write in a book all the words that I have spoken to you.³ For behold, days are coming, says the LORD, when I will restore the fortunes of my people, Israel and Judah, says the LORD, and I will bring them back to the land which I gave to their fathers, and they shall take possession of it."

4 These are the words which the LORD spoke concerning Israel and Judah:

5 "Thus says the LORD:

We have heard a cry of panic,
of terror, and no peace.

6 Ask now, and see,
can a man bear a child?

Why then do I see every man with his hands on his loins like a woman in labor?

Why has every face turned pale?

7 Alas! that day is so great
there is none like it;
it is a time of distress for Jacob;
yet he shall be saved out of it.

8 "And it shall come to pass in that day, says the LORD of hosts, that I will break the yoke from off their^b neck, and I will burst their^b bonds, and strangers shall no more make servants of them.^c ⁹ But they shall serve the LORD their God and David their king, whom I will raise up for them.

10 "Then fear not, O Jacob my servant, says the LORD,
nor be dismayed, O Israel;
for lo, I will save you from afar,
and your offspring from the land
of their captivity.
Jacob shall return and have quiet
and ease,
and none shall make him afraid.

11 For I am with you to save you,
says the LORD;

I will make a full end of all the nations
among whom I scattered you,
but of you I will not make a full end.

I will chasten you in just measure,
and I will by no means leave you unpunished.

12 "For thus says the LORD:

Your hurt is incurable,
and your wound is grievous.

13 There is none to uphold your cause,
no medicine for your wound,
no healing for you.

14 All your lovers have forgotten you;
they care nothing for you;
for I have dealt you the blow of an
enemy,

the punishment of a merciless foe,
because your guilt is great,
because your sins are flagrant.

15 Why do you cry out over your hurt?
Your pain is incurable.

Because your guilt is great,
because your sins are flagrant,
I have done these things to you.

16 Therefore all who devour you shall be devoured,
and all your foes, every one of them, shall go into captivity;
those who despoil you shall become
a spoil,
and all who prey on you I will make a prey.

17 For I will restore health to you,
and your wounds I will heal,
says the LORD,
because they have called you an outcast:
'It is Zion, for whom no one cares!'

throw, destroy, and bring evil, so I will watch over them to build and to plant, says the LORD. ²⁹ In those days they shall no longer say:

'The fathers have eaten sour grapes,

and the children's teeth are set on edge.'

³⁰ But every one shall die for his own sin; each man who eats sour grapes, his teeth shall be set on edge.

³¹ "Behold, the days are coming,
says the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah, ³² not like the covenant which I made with their fathers when I took them by the hand
to bring them out of the land of Egypt,
my covenant which they broke, though
I was their husband, says the LORD.

³³ But this is the covenant which I will make with the house of Israel after those days, says the LORD: I will put my law within them, and I will write it upon their hearts; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. ³⁴ And no longer shall each man teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, says the LORD; for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no
more."

³⁵ Thus says the LORD,
who gives the sun for light by day
and the fixed order of the moon
and the stars for light by night,
who stirs up the sea so that its waves
roar—

the LORD of hosts is his name:

³⁶ "If this fixed order departs from before me, says the LORD, then shall the descendants of Israel cease
from being a nation before me for
ever."

It shall not be uprooted or overthrown any more for ever."

32 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the tenth year of Zedeki'ah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar. ² At that time the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem, and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up in the court of the guard which was in the palace of the king of Judah. ³ For Zedeki'ah king of Judah had imprisoned him, saying, "Why do you prophesy and say, 'Thus says the LORD: Behold, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it; ⁴ Zedeki'ah king of Judah shall not escape out of the hand of the Chalde'ans, but shall surely be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and shall speak with him face to face and see him eye to eye; ⁵ and he shall take Zedeki'ah to Babylon, and there he shall remain until I visit him, says the LORD; though you fight against the Chalde'ans, you shall not succeed?'"

⁶ Jeremiah said, "The word of the LORD came to me: ⁷ Behold, Han'amel the son of Shallum your uncle will come to you and say, 'Buy my field which is at An'athoth, for the right of redemption by purchase is yours.' ⁸ Then Han'amel my cousin came to me in the court of the guard, in accordance with the word of the LORD, and said to me, 'Buy my field which is at An'athoth in the land of Benjamin, for the right of possession and redemption is yours; buy it for yourself.' Then I knew that this was the word of the LORD.

⁹ "And I bought the field at An'athoth from Han'amel my cousin, and weighed out the money to him, seventeen shekels of silver. ¹⁰ I signed the deed, sealed it, got witnesses, and weighed the money on scales. ¹¹ Then I took the sealed deed of purchase, containing the terms and conditions, and the open copy; ¹² and I gave the deed of purchase to Baruch the son of Neri'ah son of Mahsei'ah, in the presence of Han'amel my cousin, in the presence of the witnesses who signed the deed of purchase, and in the presence of all the Jews who were sitting in the court of the guard. ¹³ I charged Baruch in their presence, say-

assurance of Israel's continued existence (Is.44.24; 54.9-10). 38-40: This passage, coming from after the time of Jeremiah (compare Zech.14.10-11), describes Jerusalem's four corners: northeast (Hananel, Neh.3.1), northwest (Corner Gate, 2 Kg.14.13), southeast and southwest (Gareb, Goah, both unidentified); and southern (Hinnom, 7.31-32) and eastern (Kidron, 2 Kg.23.4,6) boundaries. Horse Gate (southeast corner), Neh.3.28.

32.1-44: Jeremiah purchases land in Anathoth. 1-5: For background, see ch. 37 (date: early 587 B.C.). Chronologically the account should follow ch. 37. Its being placed here emphasizes the validity of the preceding oracles concerning Judah's restoration. 6-15: To prevent the loss of family property, Jeremiah's cousin, Hanamel, offered to sell his land to Jeremiah (Lev.25.25-28). This is the most detailed account of a business transaction in the Bible (compare Gen.23.1-16). Seventeen shekels (about seven ounces) refers to weight, not coins. The official copy of the deed, written on papyrus, was rolled up and sealed; the open copy was for easy reference. Similar storage of deeds in earthen jars is known from Elephantine in Egypt. Baruch, Jeremiah's secretary, see ch. 36. Jeremiah's purchase illustrates his confidence in the future of

ing, ¹⁴ 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Take these deeds, both this sealed deed of purchase and this open deed, and put them in an earthenware vessel, that they may last for a long time. ¹⁵ For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Houses and fields and vineyards shall again be bought in this land.'

¹⁶ "After I had given the deed of purchase to Baruch the son of Neri'ah, I prayed to the LORD, saying: ¹⁷ 'Ah Lord God! It is thou who hast made the heavens and the earth by thy great power and by thy outstretched arm! Nothing is too hard for thee, ¹⁸ who showest steadfast love to thousands, but dost requite the guilt of fathers to their children after them, O great and mighty God whose name is the LORD of hosts, ¹⁹ great in counsel and mighty in deed; whose eyes are open to all the ways of men, rewarding every man according to his ways and according to the fruit of his doings; ²⁰ who hast shown signs and wonders in the land of Egypt, and to this day in Israel and among all mankind, and hast made thee a name, as at this day. ²¹ Thou didst bring thy people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and outstretched arm, and with great terror; ²² and thou gavest them this land, which thou didst swear to their fathers to give them, a land flowing with milk and honey; ²³ and they entered and took possession of it. But they did not obey thy voice or walk in thy law; they did nothing of all thou didst command them to do. Therefore thou hast made all this evil come upon them. ²⁴ Behold, the siege mounds have come up to the city to take it, and because of sword and famine and pestilence the city is given into the hands of the Chalde'ans who are fighting against it. What thou didst speak has come to pass, and behold, thou seest it. ²⁵ Yet thou, O Lord GOD, hast said to me, "Buy the field for money and get witnesses"—though the city is given into the hands of the Chalde'ans."

²⁶ The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: ²⁷ "Behold, I am the LORD, the God of all flesh; is anything too hard for me? ²⁸ Therefore, thus says the LORD: Behold, I am giving this city into the hands of the Chalde'ans and into the hand of Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon, and he shall take it. ²⁹ The Chalde'ans who are fighting against this city shall come and set this city on fire, and burn it, with the houses on whose roofs incense has been offered to Ba'al and drink offerings have been poured out to other gods, to provoke me to anger. ³⁰ For the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah have done nothing but evil in my sight from their youth; the sons of Israel have done nothing but provoke me to anger by the work of their hands, says the LORD. ³¹ This city has aroused my anger and wrath, from the day it was built to this day, so that I will remove it from my sight ³² because of all the evil of the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah which they did to provoke me to anger—their kings and their princes, their priests and their prophets, the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ³³ They have turned to me their back and not their face; and though I have taught them persistently they have not listened to receive instruction. ³⁴ They set up their abominations in the house which is called by my name, Judah. 16-44: This section is probably editorial, a later expansion of the preceding theme of the future of Judah. First is a formal prayer (vv. 16-25), drawn perhaps from liturgical sources (Neh.9.6-38). After praising God's omnipotence (10.16; 27.5), his omniscience (17.10), and his wondrous deeds in Israel's behalf (11.5), Jeremiah discreetly questions the wisdom of his purchase in view of the circumstances (vv. 24-25). God's answer (vv. 26-44) summarizes Jeremiah's (and the Deuteronomic) interpretation of the contemporary critical events. After a résumé of Judah's idolatry (incense, wine and oil offered on the rooftops, 19.13; comparative sinfulness of Israel and Judah, 3.6-11; human sacrifices, 7.30-32) and her stubborn indifference to God's warnings (17.21-23), her imminent destruction (in conventional terms: sword, to defile it.³⁵ They built the high places of Ba'al in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to offer up their sons and daughters to Molech, though I did not command them, nor did it enter into my mind, that they should do this abomination, to cause Judah to sin.

36 "Now therefore thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning this city of which you say, 'It is given into the hand of the king of Babylon by sword, by famine, and by pestilence':³⁷ Behold, I will gather them from all the countries to which I drove them in my anger and my wrath and in great indignation; I will bring them back to this place, and I will make them dwell in safety.³⁸ And they shall be my people, and I will be their God.³⁹ I will give them one heart and one way, that they may fear me for ever, for their own good and the good of their children after them.⁴⁰ I will make with them an everlasting covenant, that I will not turn away from doing good to them; and I will put the fear of me in their hearts, that they may not turn from me.⁴¹ I will rejoice in doing them good, and I will plant them in this land in faithfulness, with all my heart and all my soul.

42 "For thus says the LORD: Just as I have brought all this great evil upon this people, so I will bring upon them all the good that I promise them.⁴³ Fields shall be bought in this land of which you are saying, It is a desolation, without man or beast; it is given into the hands of the Chalde'ans.⁴⁴ Fields shall be bought for money, and deeds shall be signed and sealed and witnessed, in the land of Benjamin, in the places about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, in the cities of the hill country, in the cities of the Shephe'- lah, and in the cities of the Negeb; for I will restore their fortunes, says the LORD."

33 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah a second time, while he was still shut up in the court of the guard:² "Thus says the LORD who made the earth,^g the LORD who formed it to establish it—the LORD is his name:³ Call to me and I will answer you, and will tell you great and hidden things which you have not known.⁴ For thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city and the houses of the kings of Judah which were torn down to make a defense against the siege mounds and before the sword:^h ⁵ The Chalde'ans are coming in to fightⁱ and to fill them with the dead bodies of men whom I shall smite in my anger and my wrath, for I have hidden my face from this city because of all their wickedness.⁶ Behold, I will bring to it health and healing, and I will heal them and reveal to them abundance^j of prosperity and security.⁷ I will restore the fortunes of Judah and the fortunes of Israel, and rebuild them as they were at first.⁸ I will cleanse them from all the guilt of their sin against me, and I will forgive all the guilt of their sin and rebellion against me.⁹ And this city^k shall be to me a name of joy, a praise and a glory before all the nations of the earth who shall hear of all the good that I do for them; they shall fear and tremble because of all the good and all the prosperity I provide for it.

10 "Thus says the LORD: In this place of which you say, 'It is a waste pestilence, and famine, 14.11–12; 21.7) is affirmed. The section concludes with assurances of restoration, first with reference to the new covenant (31.31–34) and then the exchange and holding of property (vv. 42–44).

33.1–26: Appendix to the Book of Consolation. 1: Editorial connection with preceding chapter. 2: Liturgical doxology (Am.4.13; Is.45.18). 3: Apocalyptic overtones. 4: In siege defense measures, there was demolition of houses abutting against the wall to allow for easier troop movements (Is.22.10). 5–9: After punishment (and repentance) will come healing (3.22; 30.17), forgiveness, and the city will be to God a joyful name (renown), praise, and glory before without man or beast,' in the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem that are desolate, without man or inhabitant or beast, there shall be heard again ¹¹ the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voices of those who sing, as they bring thank offerings to the house of the LORD:

'Give thanks to the LORD of hosts,
for the LORD is good,
for his steadfast love endures for
ever!'

For I will restore the fortunes of the land as at first, says the LORD.

12 "Thus says the LORD of hosts: In this place which is waste, without man or beast, and in all of its cities, there shall again be habitations of shepherds resting their flocks. ¹³ In the cities of the hill country, in the cities of the Shephe'lah, and in the cities of the Negeb, in the land of Benjamin, the places about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, flocks shall again pass under the hands of the one who counts them, says the LORD.

14 "Behold, the days are coming, says the LORD, when I will fulfil the promise I made to the house of Israel and the house of Judah. ¹⁵ In those days and at that time I will cause a righteous Branch to spring forth for David; and he shall execute justice and righteousness in the land. ¹⁶ In those days Judah will be saved and Jerusalem will dwell securely. And this is the name by which it will be called: 'The LORD is our righteousness.'

17 "For thus says the LORD: David shall never lack a man to sit on the throne of the house of Israel, ¹⁸ and the Levitical priests shall never lack a man in my presence to offer burnt offerings, to burn cereal offerings, and to make sacrifices for ever."

19 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: ²⁰ "Thus says the LORD: If you can break my covenant with the day and my covenant with the night, so that day and night will not come at their appointed time, ²¹ then also my covenant with David my servant may be broken, so that he shall not have a son to reign on his throne, and my covenant with the Levitical priests my ministers. ²² As the host of heaven cannot be numbered and the sands of the sea cannot be measured, so I will multiply the descendants of David my servant, and the Levitical priests who minister to me."

23 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: ²⁴ "Have you not observed what these people are saying, 'The LORD has rejected the two families which he chose'? Thus they have despised my people so that they are no longer a nation in their sight. ²⁵ Thus says the LORD: If I have not established my covenant with day and night and the ordinances of heaven and earth, ²⁶ then I will reject the descendants of Jacob and David my servant and will not choose one of his descendants to rule over the seed of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. For I will restore their fortunes, and will have mercy upon them."

34 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD, when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon and all his army and all the kingdoms of the earth under his dominion and all the peoples were fighting against Jeru-

all the Gentile nations (13.11; Dt.26.19). 10-11: The silence of death (7.34) will be broken by the sounds of life (30.19) and songs of praise (Ps. 136). 12-13: Shepherds will again find pasture in the once desolate land (31.12; Ezek.20.37). 14-26: Commentary on 23.5-6, from the time of Haggai and Zechariah (520 B.C.); these verses are lacking in the Septuagint. 14-18: There will be not one but a succession of Davidic rulers (2 Sam.7.16; 1 Kg.9.5). The Deuteronomic reference to Levitical priests is unique in Jeremiah (Dt.18.1-5). 16: The new name of Jerusalem (see Is.1.26 n.). 22: A reinterpretation of Gen.22.17-18. 23-26: As night follows day (31.35-37; Gen.1.5; 8.22), God's promise to the patriarchs (compare Rom.4.13) and David will be kept.

34.1-7: Warning to Zedekiah. The siege of Jerusalem (January 588 B.C.) was but weeks away;

saalem and all of its cities: ² "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Go and speak to Zedeki'ah king of Judah and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: Behold, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire. ³ You shall not escape from his hand, but shall surely be captured and delivered into his hand; you shall see the king of Babylon eye to eye and speak with him face to face; and you shall go to Babylon.' ⁴ Yet hear the word of the LORD, O Zedeki'ah king of Judah! Thus says the LORD concerning you: 'You shall not die by the sword. ⁵ You shall die in peace. And as spices were burned for your fathers, the former kings who were before you, so men shall burn spices for you and lament for you, saying, "Alas, lord!"' For I have spoken the word, says the LORD."

⁸ The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD, after King Zedeki'ah had made a covenant with all the people in Jerusalem to make a proclamation of liberty to them, ⁹ that every one should set free his Hebrew slaves, male and female, so that no one should enslave a Jew, his brother. ¹⁰ And they obeyed, all the princes and all the people who had entered into the covenant that every one would set free his slave, male or female, so that they would not be enslaved again; they obeyed and set them free. ¹¹ But afterward they turned around and took back the male and female slaves they had set free, and brought them into subjection as slaves. ¹² The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD: ¹³ "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: I made a covenant with your fathers when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, saying, ¹⁴ 'At the end of six' years each of you must set free the fellow Hebrew who has been sold to you and has served you six years; you must set him free from your service.' But your fathers did not listen to me or incline their ears to me. ¹⁵ You recently repented and did what was right in my eyes by proclaiming liberty, each to his neighbor, and you made a covenant before me in the house which is called by my name; ¹⁶ but then you turned around and profaned my name when each of you took back his male and female slaves, whom you had set free according to their desire, and you brought them into subjection to be your slaves. ¹⁷ Therefore, thus says the LORD: You have not obeyed me by proclaiming liberty, every one to his brother and to his neighbor; behold, I proclaim to you liberty to the sword, to pestilence, and to famine, says the LORD. I will make you a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth. ¹⁸ And the men who transgressed my covenant only Lachish (twenty-three miles southwest of Jerusalem) and Azekah (eleven miles north of Lachish) held out. Warning Zedekiah of Jerusalem's imminent destruction and his own captivity, Jeremiah assured Zedekiah of a peaceful death and appropriate funeral rites (but compare 52.8-11).

34.8-22: Manumission of slaves and perfidy of the Jerusalemites. Probably to simplify the problem of the domestic food supply, to free more men for Jerusalem's defense, and to propitiate the LORD, Zedekiah proclaimed the manumission of all slaves. But when the Egyptian army approached (37.6-15), causing the Babylonians temporarily to lift the siege, the manumission was rescinded. 13-22: Making reference to Ex.21.2 and Dt.15.1,2, Jeremiah condemned this perfidy as one more example of notorious faithlessness. He assured the people of punishment like that implied in their covenant ritual (v. 18; Gen.15.9-17); the transgressor should suffer the same fate as the slaughtered animal, a practice known from non-Biblical sources also. The use of the ancient formula "cut a covenant" is noteworthy here (in vv. 8,13,15, etc., and did not keep the terms of the covenant which they made before me, I will make like^m the calf which they cut in two and passed between its parts—¹⁹ the princes of Judah, the princes of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, the priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the parts of the calf; ²⁰ and I will give them into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those who seek their lives. Their dead bodies shall be food for the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth. ²¹ And Zedeki'ah king of Judah, and his princes I will give into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those who seek their lives, into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon which has withdrawn from you. ²² Behold, I will command, says the LORD, and will bring them back to this city; and they will fight against it, and take it, and burn it with fire. I will make the cities of Judah a desolation without inhabitant."

35 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the days of Jehoi'akim the son of Josi'ah, king of Judah: ² "Go to the house of the Re'chabites, and speak with them, and bring them to the house of the LORD, into one of the chambers; then offer them wine to drink." ³ So I took Ja-azani'ah the son of Jeremiah, son of Habazzini'ah, and his brothers, and all his sons, and the whole house of the Re'chabites. ⁴ I brought them to the house of the LORD into the chamber of the sons of Hanan the son of Igdali'ah, the man of God, which was near the chamber of the princes, above the chamber of Ma-asei'ah the son of Shal-

lum, keeper of the threshold. ⁵ Then I set before the Re'chabites pitchers full of wine, and cups; and I said to them, "Drink wine." ⁶ But they answered, "We will drink no wine, for Jon'adab the son of Rechab, our father, commanded us, 'You shall not drink wine, neither you nor your sons for ever; ⁷ you shall not build a house; you shall not sow seed; you shall not plant or have a vineyard; but you shall live in tents all your days, that you may live many days in the land where you sojourn.'" ⁸ We have obeyed the voice of Jon'adab the son of Rechab, our father, in all that he commanded us, to drink no wine all our days, ourselves, our wives, our sons, or our daughters, ⁹ and not to build houses to dwell in. We have no vineyard or field or seed; ¹⁰ but we have lived in tents, and have obeyed and done all that Jon'adab our father commanded us. ¹¹ But when Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon came up against the land, we said, 'Come, and let us go to Jerusalem for fear of the army of the Chalde'ans and the army of the Syrians.' So we are living in Jerusalem."

¹² Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: ¹³ "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Go and say to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will you not receive instruction and listen to my words? says the LORD. ¹⁴ The command which Jon'adab the son of Rechab gave to his sons, to drink no wine, has been kept; and they drink none to this day, for they have obeyed their father's command. I have spoken to you persistently, but you have not listened to m Cn: Heb lacks like

"made" is literally "cut"; see 31.31 n.) rather than the Deuteronomic formula "command a covenant."

35.1-19: The symbol of the Rechabites. The Rechabites were a religious order, similar to the Nazirites (Num.6.1-21), founded by Jonadab, son of Rechab, during the reign of Jehu (842-815 B.C.). Religious fanatics, they assisted Jehu in the blood-bath accompanying the revolt against the dynasty of Omri (2 Kg.10.15-28). They held that the more sophisticated sedentary life in Canaan jeopardized the purity of the worship of the LORD. Consequently, returning to desert ways, they lived in tents, were shepherds, and abstained from wine (for symbolic, not religious reasons). Jeremiah's association with them does not imply acceptance of their position, but only the approbation of their faithfulness to their principles, in contrast to Judah's me. ¹⁵ I have sent to you all my servants the prophets, sending them persistently, saying, 'Turn now every one of you from his evil way, and amend your doings, and do not go after other gods to serve them, and then you shall dwell in the land which I gave to you and your fathers.' But you did not incline your ear or listen to me. ¹⁶ The sons of Jon'adab the son of Rechab have kept the command which their father gave them, but this people has not obeyed me. ¹⁷ Therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I am bringing on Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the evil that I have pronounced against them; because I have spoken to them and they have not listened, I have called to them and they have not answered."

18 But to the house of the Re'chabites Jeremiah said, "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Because you have obeyed the command of Jon'adab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done all that he commanded you, ¹⁹ therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Jon'adab the son of Rechab shall never lack a man to stand before me."

36 In the fourth year of Jehoi'akim the son of Josi'ah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: ² "Take a scroll and write on it all the words that I have spoken to you against Israel and Judah and all the nations, from the day I spoke to you, from the days of Josi'ah until today. ³ It may be that the house of Judah will hear all the evil which I intend to do to them, so that every one may turn from his evil way, and that I may forgive their iniquity and their sin."

4 Then Jeremiah called Baruch the son of Neri'ah, and Baruch wrote upon a scroll at the dictation of Jeremiah all the words of the LORD which he had spoken to him. ⁵ And Jeremiah ordered Baruch, saying, "I am debarred from going to the house of the LORD; ⁶ so you are to go, and on a fast day in the hearing of all the people in the LORD's house you shall read the words of the LORD from the scroll which you have written at my dictation. You shall read them also in the hearing of all the men of Judah who come out of their cities. ⁷ It may be that their supplication will come before the LORD, and that every one will turn from his evil way, for great is the anger and wrath that the LORD has pronounced against this people." ⁸ And Baruch the son of Neri'ah did all that Jeremiah the prophet ordered him about reading from the scroll the words of the LORD in the LORD's house.

9 In the fifth year of Jehoi'akim the son of Josi'ah, king of Judah, in the ninth month, all the people in Jerusalem and all the people who came from the cities of Judah to Jerusalem proclaimed a fast before the LORD. ¹⁰ Then, in the hearing of all the people, Baruch read the words of Jeremiah from the scroll, in the house of the LORD, in the chamber of Gemari'ah the son of Shaphan the secretary, which was in the upper court, at the entry of the New Gate of the LORD's house.

11 When Micai'ah the son of Gemari'ah, son of Shaphan, heard all the faithlessness. The occasion is probably the crisis of 601 B.C. (see 12.7-13 n.). Maaseiah, perhaps the father of Zephaniah (compare 21.1).

36.1-45.5: The trials and the sufferings of Jeremiah. 36.1-32: Jeremiah, Jehoiakim, and the scrolls. 1-4: In the light of portentous contemporary events (25.1-14), Jeremiah commissioned Baruch, the son of Neriah and brother of Seraiah (32.12; 51.59), to transcribe his oracles (words of the LORD) on a papyrus scroll. Fourth year, 605 B.C. 5-10: For an unknown reason, Jeremiah was barred from the temple; so, on the occasion of a fast proclaimed by Jehoiakim because of Nebuchadrezzar's advance against Ashkelon (in November, 604 B.C.), he instructed Baruch to read the scroll in his stead. Shaphan, a friend of Jeremiah (26.24). 11-19: Baruch was asked to re-read the scroll before an assembly of royal officials. Deeply impressed, they words of the LORD from the scroll, ¹² he went down to the king's house, into the secretary's chamber; and all the princes were sitting there: Eli'shama the secretary, Delai'ah the son of Shemai'ah, Elna'than the son of Achbor, Gemari'ah the son of Shaphan, Zedeki'ah the son of Hanani'ah, and all the princes. ¹³ And Micai'ah told them all the words that he had heard, when Baruch read the scroll in the hearing of the people. ¹⁴ Then all the princes sent Jehu'di the son of Nethani'ah, son of Shelemi'ah, son of Cush, to say to Baruch, "Take in your hand the scroll that you read in the hearing of the people, and come." So Baruch the son of Neri'ah took the scroll in his hand and came to them. ¹⁵ And they said to him, "Sit down and read it." So Baruch read it to them. ¹⁶ When they heard all the words, they turned one to another in fear; and they said to Baruch, "We must report all these words to the king." ¹⁷ Then they asked Baruch, "Tell us, how did you write all these words? Was it at his dictation?" ¹⁸ Baruch answered them, "He dictated all these words to me, while I wrote them with ink on the scroll." ¹⁹ Then the princes said to Baruch, "Go and hide, you and Jeremiah, and let no one know where you are."

²⁰ So they went into the court to the king, having put the scroll in the chamber of Eli'shama the secretary; and they reported all the words to the king. ²¹ Then the king sent Jehu'di to get the scroll, and he took it from the chamber of Eli'shama the secretary; and Jehu'di read it to the king and all the princes who stood beside the king. ²² It was the ninth month, and the king was sitting in the winter house and there was a fire burning in the brazier before him. ²³ As Jehu'di read three or four columns, the king would cut them off with a penknife and throw them into the fire in the brazier, until the entire scroll was consumed in the fire that was in the brazier. ²⁴ Yet neither the king, nor any of his servants who heard all these words, was afraid, nor did they rend their garments. ²⁵ Even when Elna'than and Delai'ah and Gemari'ah urged the king not to burn the scroll, he would not listen to them. ²⁶ And the king commanded Jerah'meel the king's son and Serai'ah the son of Az'ri-el and Shelemi'ah the son of Abdeel to seize Baruch the secretary and Jeremiah the prophet, but the LORD hid them.

²⁷ Now, after the king had burned the scroll with the words which Baruch wrote at Jeremiah's dictation, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: ²⁸ "Take another scroll and write on it all the former words that were in the first scroll, which Jehoi'akim the king of Judah has burned. ²⁹ And concerning Jehoi'akim king of Judah you shall say, 'Thus says the LORD, You have burned this scroll, saying, "Why have you written in it that the king of Babylon will certainly come and destroy this land, and will cut off from it man and beast?" ³⁰ Therefore thus says the LORD concerning Jehoi'akim king of Judah, He shall have none to sit upon the throne of David, and his dead body shall be cast out to the heat by day and the frost by night. ³¹ And I will punish him and his offspring and his servants for their iniquity; I will bring upon them, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the men of Judah, all the evil that I have pronounced against them, but they would not hear.'"

resolved to inform Jehoiakim. Sensing the possibility of repercussions, they instructed Baruch and Jeremiah to go into hiding. 20-26: Jehoiakim ordered the scroll brought from the court scribe's office. Despite protests from some officials, he burned it as it was read, three or four columns at a time. Irritated by its contents, Jehoiakim ordered the arrest of Jeremiah and Baruch. Penknife, a knife used to sharpen the point of the scribes' quill pens. 27-32: Using the destruction of the scroll as a symbol, Jeremiah announced the ignominious death of Jehoiakim (22.18-19; 2 Kg.24.6-15) and dictated an expanded copy of the scroll (probably contained largely in chs. 1-25).

32 Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to Baruch the scribe, the son of Neri'ah, who wrote on it at the dictation of Jeremiah all the words of the scroll which Jehoi'akim king of Judah had burned in the fire; and many similar words were added to them.

37 Zedeki'ah the son of Josi'ah, whom Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon made king in the land of Judah, reigned instead of Coni'ah the son of Jehoi'akim. ² But neither he nor his servants nor the people of the land listened to the words of the LORD which he spoke through Jeremiah the prophet.

³ King Zedeki'ah sent Jehu'cal the son of Shelemi'ah, and Zephani'ah the priest, the son of Ma-asei'ah, to Jeremiah the prophet, saying, "Pray for us to the LORD our God." ⁴ Now Jeremiah was still going in and out among the people, for he had not yet been put in prison. ⁵ The army of Pharaoh had come out of Egypt; and when the Chalde'ans who were besieging Jerusalem heard news of them, they withdrew from Jerusalem.

⁶ Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah the prophet: ⁷ "Thus says the LORD, God of Israel: Thus shall you say to the king of Judah who sent you to me to inquire of me, 'Behold, Pharaoh's army which came to help you is about to return to Egypt, to its own land. ⁸ And the Chalde'ans shall come back and fight against this city; they shall take it and burn it with fire. ⁹ Thus says the LORD, Do not deceive yourselves, saying, "The Chal-de'ans will surely stay away from us," for they will not stay away. ¹⁰ For even if you should defeat the whole army of Chalde'ans who are fighting against you, and there remained of them only wounded men, every man in his tent, they would rise up and burn this city with fire.'"

¹¹ Now when the Chalde'an army had withdrawn from Jerusalem at the approach of Pharaoh's army, ¹² Jeremiah set out from Jerusalem to go to the land of Benjamin to receive his portionⁿ there among the people. ¹³ When he was at the Benjamin Gate, a sentry there named Iri'jah the son of Shelemi'ah, son of Hanani'ah, seized Jeremiah the prophet, saying, "You are deserting to the Chalde'ans." ¹⁴ And Jeremiah said, "It is false; I am not deserting to the Chalde'ans." But Iri'jah would not listen to him, and seized Jeremiah and brought him to the princes. ¹⁵ And the princes were enraged at Jeremiah, and they beat him and imprisoned him in the house of Jonathan the secretary, for it had been made a prison.

¹⁶ When Jeremiah had come to the dungeon cells, and remained there many days, ¹⁷ King Zedeki'ah sent for him, and received him. The king questioned him secretly in his house, and said, "Is there any word from the LORD?" Jeremiah said, "There is." Then he said, "You shall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon." ¹⁸ Jeremiah also said to King Zedeki'ah, "What wrong have I done to you or your servants or this people, that you have put me in prison? ¹⁹ Where are your prophets who prophesied to you, saying, 'The king of Babylon will not come against you and against this land'? ²⁰ Now hear, I pray you, O my lord the king: let my humble plea

37.1-38.28: Jeremiah, Zedekiah, and the siege. 37.1-2: Editorial transition from ch. 36 to 37. 3-10: Shortly after his accession (spring, 588 B.C.), an army of Pharaoh Hophra (Apries) came up from Egypt to relieve besieged Jerusalem (34.21). The inhabitants concluded that a deliverance as in the days of Hezekiah (2 Kg.19.32-37) had occurred, but Jeremiah warned them that such optimism was wholly unwarranted. 11-15: Leaving the city by the Benjamin Gate (20.2), Jeremiah was arrested on suspicion of desertion (38.18-19), perhaps based on oracles such as 21.1-10. 12: To receive his portion; see 32.6-15, which may suggest the occasion. 16-21: In a secret interview, Zedekiah sought reassurance for his ill-advised revolt, but in vain (21.2). He modified Jeremiah's imprisonment to house arrest, and guaranteed him a come before you, and do not send me back to the house of Jonathan the secretary, lest I die there.” ²¹ So King Zedeki’ah gave orders, and they committed Jeremiah to the court of the guard; and a loaf of bread was given him daily from the bakers’ street, until all the bread of the city was gone. So Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

38 Now Shephati’ah the son of Mattan, Gedali’ah the son of Pashhur, Jucal the son of Shelemi’ah, and Pashhur the son of Malchi’ah heard the words that Jeremiah was saying to all the people, ² “Thus says the LORD, He who stays in this city shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence; but he who goes out to the Chalde’ans shall live; he shall have his life as a prize of war, and live. ³ Thus says the LORD, This city shall surely be given into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon and be taken.” ⁴ Then the princes said to the king, “Let this man be put to death, for he is weakening the hands of the soldiers who are left in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking such words to them. For this man is not seeking the welfare of this people, but their harm.” ⁵ King Zedeki’ah said, “Behold, he is in your hands; for the king can do nothing against you.” ⁶ So they took Jeremiah and cast him into the cistern of Malchi’ah, the king’s son, which was in the court of the guard, letting Jeremiah down by ropes. And there was no water in the cistern, but only mire, and Jeremiah sank in the mire.

⁷ When E’bed-mel’ech the Ethiopian, a eunuch, who was in the king’s house, heard that they had put Jeremiah into the cistern—the king was sitting in the Benjamin Gate—⁸ E’bed-mel’ech went from the king’s house and said to the king, ⁹ “My lord the king, these men have done evil in all that they did to Jeremiah the prophet by casting him into the cistern; and he will die there of hunger, for there is no bread left in the city.” ¹⁰ Then the king commanded E’bed-mel’ech, the Ethiopian, “Take three men with you from here, and lift Jeremiah the prophet out of the cistern before he dies.” ¹¹ So E’bed-mel’ech took the men with him and went to the house of the king, to a wardrobe of^o the storehouse, and took from there old rags and worn-out clothes, which he let down to Jeremiah in the cistern by ropes. ¹² Then E’bed-mel’ech the Ethiopian said to Jeremiah, “Put the rags and clothes between your armpits and the ropes.” Jeremiah did so. ¹³ Then they drew Jeremiah up with ropes and lifted him out of the cistern. And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

¹⁴ King Zedeki’ah sent for Jeremiah the prophet and received him at the third entrance of the temple of the LORD. The king said to Jeremiah, “I will ask you a question; hide nothing from me.” ¹⁵ Jeremiah said to Zedeki’ah, “If I tell you, will you not be sure to put me to death? And if I give you counsel, you will not listen to me.” ¹⁶ Then King Zedeki’ah swore secretly to Jeremiah, “As the LORD lives, who made our souls, I will not put you to death or deliver you into the hand of these men who seek your life.”

minimum food ration as long as there were supplies. 38.1–13: Jeremiah’s continued insistence on surrender to Nebuchadrezzar was dangerous for Zedekiah’s pro-Egyptian counselors (Gedaliah, son of Pashhur, 20.1; Jucal = Jehucal, 37.3; Pashhur, 21.1). They persuaded the vacillating Zedekiah that Jeremiah was subverting the war effort (there is similar phraseology in a letter written eighteen months earlier, found in the excavations at Lachish). 6: The cistern was nearly dry, indicating a time shortly before Nebuchadrezzar’s final assault August 587 B.C. (52.5–7). Ironically, Jeremiah was delivered from murder at the hands of his countrymen by a foreign court official (who was not necessarily a eunuch physically, v. 7). 14–28: Uncertain and fearful, Zedekiah again (37.17–20) summoned Jeremiah for a private interview (location of third entrance is unknown). Justifiably suspicious, Jeremiah exacted an oath from Zedekiah

17 Then Jeremiah said to Zedeki'ah, "Thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel, If you will surrender to the princes of the king of Babylon, then your life shall be spared, and this city shall not be burned with fire, and you and your house shall live.

¹⁸ But if you do not surrender to the princes of the king of Babylon, then this city shall be given into the hand of the Chalde'ans, and they shall burn it with fire, and you shall not escape from their hand." ¹⁹ King Zedeki'ah said to Jeremiah, "I am afraid of the Jews who have deserted to the Chal-de'ans, lest I be handed over to them and they abuse me." ²⁰ Jeremiah said, "You shall not be given to them. Obey now the voice of the LORD in what I say to you, and it shall be well with you, and your life shall be spared. ²¹ But if you refuse to surrender, this is the vision which the LORD has shown to me: ²² Behold, all the women left in the house of the king of Judah were being led out to the princes of the king of Babylon and were saying,

'Your trusted friends have deceived you and prevailed against you;

now that your feet are sunk in the mire,

they turn away from you.'

²³ All your wives and your sons shall be led out to the Chal-de'ans, and you yourself shall not escape from their hand, but shall be seized by the king of Babylon; and this city shall be burned with fire."

24 Then Zedeki'ah said to Jeremiah, "Let no one know of these words and you shall not die. ²⁵ If the princes hear that I have spoken with you and come to you and say to you, 'Tell us what you said to the king and what the king said to you; hide nothing from us and we will not put you to death,' ²⁶ then you shall say to them, 'I made a humble plea to the king that he would not send me back to the house of Jonathan to die there.'" ²⁷ Then all the princes came to Jeremiah and asked him, and he answered them as the king had instructed him. So they left off speaking with him, for the conversation had not been overheard. ²⁸ And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard until the day that Jerusalem was taken.

39 In the ninth year of Zedeki'ah king of Judah, in the tenth month, Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon and all his army came against Jerusalem and besieged it; ² in the eleventh year of Zedeki'ah, in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, a breach was made in the city. ³ When Jerusalem was taken,^p all the princes of the king of Babylon came and sat in the middle gate: Ner'gal-share'zer, Sam'gar-ne'bo, Sar'sechim the Rab'saris, Ner'gal-share'zer the Rabmag, with all the rest of the officers of the king of Babylon. ⁴ When Zedeki'ah king of Judah and all the soldiers saw them, they fled, going out of the city at night by way of the king's garden through the gate between the two walls; and they went toward the Arabah. ⁵ But the army of the Chal-de'ans pursued them, and overtook Zedeki'ah in the plains of Jericho; and when they had taken him, they brought him up to Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon, at Riblah, in the land of Hamath; and he passed sentence upon him. ⁶ The king for his safety. He repeated his counsel of "surrender and live" (20.1-16; 21.4-10; 27.1-11) and emphasized it by relating a vision depicting the capture of the royal household and the burning of Jerusalem (in the mire recalls Jeremiah's own recent experience, 38.6). Jeremiah assured Zedekiah of safety from Judean deserters (39.9), if he surrendered. Zedekiah characteristically hesitated, exacted a promise of secrecy from Jeremiah, and returned him to house arrest (37.21).

39.1-40.6: Jeremiah and the fall of Jerusalem. 39.1-14: Verses 1-10 summarize 52.4-16 (2 Kg.25.1-12) adding the names of Babylonian officials (v. 3). Alternative reading of v. 3: "... Nergal-sharezer the Simmagir, Nebushazban the chief court official, Nergal-sharezer the Rabmag..." Simmagir and Rabmag are titles of Babylonian officials. According to 52.6-14, of Babylon slew the sons of Zedeki'ah at Riblah before his eyes; and the king of Babylon slew all the nobles of Judah. ⁷ He put out the eyes of Zedeki'ah, and bound him in fetters to take him to Babylon. ⁸ The Chalde'ans burned the king's house and the house of the people, and broke down the walls of Jerusalem. ⁹ Then Nebu'zarad'an, the captain of the guard, carried into exile to Babylon the rest of the people who were left in the city, those who had deserted to him, and the people who remained. ¹⁰ Nebu'zarad'an, the captain of the guard, left in the land of Judah some of the poor people who owned nothing, and gave them vineyards and fields at the same time.

¹¹ Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon gave command concerning Jeremiah through Nebu'zarad'an, the captain of the guard, saying, ¹² "Take him, look after him well and do him no harm, but deal with him as he tells you." ¹³ So Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard, Nebushaz'ban the Rab'saris, Ner'gal-share'zer the Rabmag, and all the chief officers of the king of Babylon ¹⁴ sent and took Jeremiah from the court of the guard. They entrusted him to Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, son of Shaphan, that he should take him home. So he dwelt among the people.

¹⁵ The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah while he was shut up in the court of the guard: ¹⁶ "Go, and say to E'bed-mel'ech the Ethiopian, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will fulfil my words against this city for evil and not for good, and they shall be accomplished before you on that day. ¹⁷ But I will deliver you on that day, says the LORD, and you shall not be given into the hand of the men of whom you are afraid. ¹⁸ For I will surely save you, and you shall not fall by the sword; but you shall have your life as a prize of war, because you have put your trust in me, says the LORD.'"

40 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD after Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard had let him go from Ramah, when he took him bound in chains along with all the captives of Jerusalem and Judah who were being exiled to Babylon. ² The captain of the guard took Jeremiah and said to him, "The LORD your God pronounced this evil against this place; ³ the LORD has brought it about, and has done as he said. Because you sinned against the LORD, and did not obey his voice, this thing has come upon you. ⁴ Now, behold, I release you today from the chains on your hands. If it seems good to you to come with me to Babylon, come, and I will look after you well; but if it seems wrong to you to come with me to Babylon, do not come. See, the whole land is before you; go wherever you think it good and right to go. ⁵ If you remain, ⁹ then return to Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon appointed governor of the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people; or go wherever you think it right to go." So the captain of the guard gave him an allowance of food and a present, and let him go. ⁶ Then Jeremiah went to Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, at Mizpah, and dwelt with him among the people who were left in the land.

the sack of Jerusalem (v. 8) occurred a month after its capture. 15-18: This oracle, assuring Ebed-melech of his personal safety because of his trust in God, is a continuation of 38.13. 40.1-6: Ramah (31.15) was a transit point for deportees. For reasons unknown, Jeremiah was allowed to choose exile or residence in Judah. Choosing the latter, he was placed in the custody of Gedaliah, the newly-appointed governor of Judah with whose family Jeremiah had long been friendly (26.24; 36.10).

40.7-41.18: The third revolt. 40.7-12: Gedaliah, a member of a prominent Judean family

kam governor in the land, and had committed to him men, women, and children, those of the poorest of the land who had not been taken into exile to Babylon, ⁸ they went to Gedali'ah at Mizpah—Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah, Joha'nán the son of Kare'ah, Serai'ah the son of Tanhu'meth, the sons of Ephai the Netoph'athite, Jezani'ah the son of the Ma-ac'athite, they and their men. ⁹ Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, son of Shaphan, swore to them and their men, saying, "Do not be afraid to serve the Chalde'ans. Dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you. ¹⁰ As for me, I will dwell at Mizpah, to stand for you before the Chalde'ans who will come to us; but as for you, gather wine and summer fruits and oil, and store them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities that you have taken." ¹¹ Likewise, when all the Jews who were in Moab and among the Ammonites and in Edom and in other lands heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judah and had appointed Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, son of Shaphan, as governor over them, ¹² then all the Jews returned from all the places to which they had been driven and came to the land of Judah, to Gedali'ah at Mizpah; and they gathered wine and summer fruits in great abundance.

¹³ Now Joha'nán the son of Kare'ah and all the leaders of the forces in the open country came to Gedali'ah at Mizpah ¹⁴ and said to him, "Do you know that Ba'alís the king of the Ammonites has sent Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah to take your life?" But Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam would not believe them. ¹⁵ Then Joha'nán the son of Kare'ah spoke secretly to Gedali'ah at Mizpah, "Let me go and slay Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah, and no one will know it. Why should he take your life, so that all the Jews who are gathered about you would be scattered, and the remnant of Judah would perish?" ¹⁶ But Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam said to Joha'nán the son of Kare'ah, "You shall not do this thing, for you are speaking falsely of Ish'mael."

41 In the seventh month, Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah, son of Eli'shama, of the royal family, one of the chief officers of the king, came with ten men to Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, at Mizpah. As they ate bread together there at Mizpah, ² Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah and the ten men with him rose up and struck down Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, son of Shaphan, with the sword, and killed him, whom the king of Babylon had appointed governor in the land. ³ Ish'mael also slew all the Jews who were with Gedali'ah at Mizpah, and the Chalde'an soldiers who happened to be there.

⁴ On the day after the murder of Gedali'ah, before any one knew of it, ⁵ eighty men arrived from Shechem and Shiloh and Sama'ria, with their beards shaved and their clothes torn, and their bodies gashed, bringing cereal offerings and incense to present at the temple of the LORD. ⁶ And Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah came out from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he came. As he met them, he said to them, "Come in to Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam." ⁷ When they came into the city,

(2 Kg.22.12-14), assured his countrymen that he would represent them before the Babylonians (Chaldeans) and urged them to return to their fields and cities. Benjamin seems to have been largely spared (32.1-8; Neh. ch. 7) and Mizpah (perhaps at present-day Tell en-Nasbeh, seven miles north of Jerusalem) became the provincial capital. 40.13-41.3: After about five prosperous years and with encouragement from Baalis of Ammon (for political reasons), Ishmael, a member of the royal family (as Gedaliah was not) and a super-patriot, plotted Gedaliah's assassination. When told of it, Gedaliah discredited the report. Probably in September 582 B.C. (52.30), Gedaliah, his entourage, and the Babylonian garrison in Mizpah, were slain. 4-10: The next day Ishmael intercepted a group from the north on a pilgrimage to Jerusalem. Luring them into Mizpah, he slaughtered all but ten who bought their lives with stores of food. After Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah and the men with him slew them, and cast them into a cistern. ⁸ But there were ten men among them who said to Ish'mael, "Do not kill us, for we have stores of wheat, barley, oil, and honey hidden in the fields." So he refrained and did not kill them with their companions.

⁹ Now the cistern into which Ish'mael cast all the bodies of the men whom he had slain was the large cistern^r which King Asa had made for defense against Ba'asha king of Israel; Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah filled it with the slain. ¹⁰ Then Ish'mael took captive all the rest of the people who were in Mizpah, the king's daughters and all the people who were left at Mizpah, whom Nebu'zarad'an, the captain of the guard, had committed to Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam. Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah took them captive and set out to cross over to the Ammonites.

¹¹ But when Joha'nán the son of Kare'ah and all the leaders of the forces with him heard of all the evil which Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah had done, ¹² they took all their men and went to fight against Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah. They came upon him at the great pool which is in Gibeon. ¹³ And when all the people who were with Ish'mael saw Joha'nán the son of Kare'ah and all the leaders of the forces with him, they rejoiced. ¹⁴ So all the people whom Ish'mael had carried away captive from Mizpah turned about and came back, and went to Joha'nán the son of Kare'ah. ¹⁵ But Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah escaped from Joha'nán with eight men, and went to the Ammonites. ¹⁶ Then Joha'- nan the son of Kare'ah and all the leaders of the forces with him took all the rest of the people whom Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah had carried away captive^s from Mizpah after he had slain Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam—soldiers, women, children, and eunuchs, whom Joha'nán brought back from Gibeon. ¹⁷ And they went and stayed at Geruth Chimham near Bethlehem, intending to go to Egypt ¹⁸ because of the Chaldeans; for they were afraid of them, because Ish'mael the son of Nethani'ah had slain Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, whom the king of Babylon had made governor over the land.

42 Then all the commanders of the forces, and Joha'nán the son of Kare'ah and Azari'ah^r the son of Hoshai'ah, and all the people from the least to the greatest, came near ² and said to Jeremiah the prophet, "Let our supplication come before you, and pray to the LORD your God for us, for all this remnant (for we are left but a few of many, as your eyes see us), ³ that the LORD your God may show us the way we should go, and the thing that we should do." ⁴ Jeremiah the prophet said to them, "I have heard you; behold, I will pray to the LORD your God according to your request, and whatever the LORD answers you I will tell you; I will keep nothing back from you." ⁵ Then they said to Jeremiah, "May the LORD be a true and faithful witness against us if we do not act according to all the word with which the LORD your God sends you to us. ⁶ Whether it is good or evil, we will obey the voice of the LORD our God to whom we are sending you, that it may casting the bodies into an old cistern (1 Kg.15.22), the assassins took the remaining people in Mizpah and headed for Ammon. 11-18: An avenging group under Johanan overtook Ishmael at Gibeon (28.1; 2 Sam.2.13). In the melee, Ishmael and eight conspirators escaped to Ammon (40.14), but their captives were freed. Fearing Babylonian reprisals Johanan's group turned toward Egypt, encamping en route at Geruth Chimham (perhaps "Chimham's Inn") near Bethlehem.

42.1-43.7: Flight to Egypt. 42.1-6: Jeremiah may have been one of the captives freed by Johanan (41.16). He was asked to intercede (15.11) for the group, who were uncertain what they should do and where they should go. To remain could mean reprisals from Babylon (52.30);

be well with us when we obey the voice of the LORD our God.”

7 At the end of ten days the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah. ⁸ Then he summoned Joha’nan the son of Kare’ah and all the commanders of the forces who were with him, and all the people from the least to the greatest, ⁹ and said to them, “Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to whom you sent me to present your supplication before him: ¹⁰ If you will remain in this land, then I will build you up and not pull you down; I will plant you, and not pluck you up; for I repent of the evil which I did to you. ¹¹ Do not fear the king of Babylon, of whom you are afraid; do not fear him, says the LORD, for I am with you, to save you and to deliver you from his hand. ¹² I will grant you mercy, that he may have mercy on you and let you remain in your own land. ¹³ But if you say, ‘We will not remain in this land,’ disobeying the voice of the LORD your God ¹⁴ and saying, ‘No, we will go to the land of Egypt, where we shall not see war, or hear the sound of the trumpet, or be hungry for bread, and we will dwell there,’ ¹⁵ then hear the word of the LORD, O remnant of Judah. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: If you set your faces to enter Egypt and go to live there, ¹⁶ then the sword which you fear shall overtake you there in the land of Egypt; and the famine of which you are afraid shall follow hard after you to Egypt; and there you shall die. ¹⁷ All the men who set their faces to go to Egypt to live there shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence; they shall have no remnant or survivor from the evil which I will bring upon them.

18 “For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: As my anger and my wrath were poured out on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so my wrath will be poured out on you when you go to Egypt. You shall become an execration, a horror, a curse, and a taunt. You shall see this place no more. ¹⁹ The LORD has said to you, O remnant of Judah, ‘Do not go to Egypt.’ Know for a certainty that I have warned you this day ²⁰ that you have gone astray at the cost of your lives. For you sent me to the LORD your God, saying, ‘Pray for us to the LORD our God, and whatever the LORD our God says declare to us and we will do it.’ ²¹ And I have this day declared it to you, but you have not obeyed the voice of the LORD your God in anything that he sent me to tell you. ²² Now therefore know for a certainty that you shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence in the place where you desire to go to live.”

43 When Jeremiah finished speaking to all the people all these words of the LORD their God, with which the LORD their God had sent him to them, ² Azari’ah the son of Hoshai’ah and Joha’nan the son of Kare’ah and all the insolent men said to Jeremiah, “You are telling a lie. The LORD our God did not send you to say, ‘Do not go to Egypt to live there’; ³ but Baruch the son of Neri’ah has set you against us, to deliver us into the hand of the Chalde’ans, that they may kill us or take us into exile in Babylon.” ⁴ So Joha’nan the son of Kare’ah and to flee would mean safety, though with a de facto admission of guilt. 7–22: After ten days, Jeremiah brought the reply: to remain was God’s will (29.1–14; 32.6–15) and they would receive God’s blessing; to flee would only bring suffering upon the fugitives. 43.1–7: Apparently the tension in the camp during the ten days that followed allowed those who favored the flight to prevail over the good intentions of those who wished to abide by Jeremiah’s oracle. Jeremiah was accused of being unduly influenced by Baruch, and his oracle was not regarded as God’s word. It has been suggested that 42.19–22 should come between verses 3 and 4 as Jeremiah’s response to Azariah and his colleagues, since 42.19–22 may indicate that the decision had already been made to go to Egypt; Jeremiah reminded them of their earlier resolve and the danger of disobeying the LORD’s will. They decided to go to Egypt, taking Jeremiah and Baruch with them, perhaps to assure themselves of the continuing availability of oracles

all the commanders of the forces and all the people did not obey the voice of the LORD, to remain in the land of Judah. ⁵ But Joha'nān the son of Kare'ah and all the commanders of the forces took all the remnant of Judah who had returned to live in the land of Judah from all the nations to which they had been driven— ⁶ the men, the women, the children, the princesses, and every person whom Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard had left with Gedali'ah the son of Ahi'kam, son of Shaphan; also Jeremiah the prophet and Baruch the son of Neri'ah. ⁷ And they came into the land of Egypt, for they did not obey the voice of the LORD. And they arrived at Tah'panhes.

away captive; and he shall clean the land of Egypt, as a shepherd cleans his cloak of vermin; and he shall go away from there in peace. ¹³ He shall break the obelisks of Heliopolis which is in the land of Egypt; and the temples of the gods of Egypt he shall burn with fire.'"

44 The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews that dwelt in the land of Egypt, at Migdol, at Tah'panhes, at Memphis, and in the land of Pathros, ² "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You have seen all the evil that I brought upon Jerusalem and upon all the cities of Judah. Behold, this day they are a desolation, and no one dwells in them, ³ because of the wickedness which they committed, provoking me to anger, in that they went to burn incense and serve other gods that they knew not, neither they, nor you, nor your fathers. ⁴ Yet I persistently sent to you all my servants the prophets, saying, 'Oh, do not do this abominable thing that I hate!' ⁵ But they did not listen or incline their ear, to turn from their wickedness and burn no incense to other gods. ⁶ Therefore my wrath and my anger were poured forth and kindled in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; and they became a waste and a desolation, as at this day. ⁷ And now thus says the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel: Why do you commit this great evil against yourselves, to cut off from you man and

43.8–45.5: Jeremiah in Egypt. 43.8–13: This oracle is intended to show that Egypt is no safe refuge from Nebuchadrezzar (my servant, 25.9; 27.6), who led a successful raid against Amasis (Ahmosis II) in 568/567 B.C., probably some years later than this oracle (46.13–26). Clean his cloak, literally "delouse," illustrates Jeremiah's low opinion of Egypt. Heliopolis (also called On; Gen.41.45), six miles northeast of Cairo; ancient center of the worship of sun-god Re (see Is.19:18 n.). Obelisks, monuments, slightly tapered square granite shafts, capped by a pyramidion. 44.1–14: This oracle, addressed to the Jewish diaspora in Egypt, is an expansion of Jeremiah's warning against repeating the mistakes of their fathers in Judah and suffering the consequences (compare 42.14–18). 1: Migdol, present day Tell el-Heir, east of Tahpanhes (43.7). Memphis, 2.16. Pathros, "Land of the South," upper (i.e. southern) Egypt, where perhaps there was already by this time a Jewish colony at Elephantine, known from discoveries of Aramaic woman, infant and child, from the midst of Judah, leaving you no remnant? ⁸ Why do you provoke me to anger with the works of your hands, burning incense to other gods in the land of Egypt where you have come to live, that you may be cut off and become a curse and a taunt among all the nations of the earth? ⁹ Have you forgotten the wickedness of your fathers, the wickedness of the kings of Judah, the wickedness of their^w wives, your own wickedness, and the wickedness of your wives, which they committed in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? ¹⁰ They have not humbled themselves even to this day, nor have they feared, nor walked in my law and my statutes which I set before you and before your fathers.

¹¹ "Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will set my face against you for evil, to cut off all Judah. ¹² I will take the remnant of Judah who have set their faces to come to the land of Egypt to live, and they shall all be consumed; in the land of Egypt they shall fall; by the sword and by famine they shall be consumed; from the least to the greatest, they shall die by the sword and by famine; and they shall become an execration, a horror, a curse, and a taunt. ¹³ I will punish those who dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have punished Jerusalem, with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, ¹⁴ so that none of the remnant of Judah who have come to live in the land of Egypt shall escape or survive or return to the land of Judah, to which they desire to return to dwell there; for they shall not return, except some fugitives."

¹⁵ Then all the men who knew that their wives had offered incense to other gods, and all the women who stood by, a great assembly, all the people who dwelt in Pathros in the land of Egypt, answered Jeremiah: ¹⁶ "As for the word which you have spoken to us in the name of the LORD, we will not listen to you. ¹⁷ But we will do everything that we have vowed, burn incense to the queen of heaven and pour out libations to her, as we did, both we and our fathers, our kings and our princes, in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; for then we had plenty of food, and prospered, and saw no evil. ¹⁸ But since we left off burning incense to the queen of heaven and pouring out libations to her, we have lacked everything and have been consumed by the sword and by famine." ¹⁹ And the women said,^x "When we burned incense to the queen of heaven and poured out libations to her, was it without our husbands' approval that we made cakes for her bearing her image and poured out libations to her?"

²⁰ Then Jeremiah said to all the people, men and women, all the people who had given him this answer: ²¹ "As for the incense that you burned in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you and your fathers, your kings and your princes, and the people of the land, did not the LORD remember it?" Did it not come into his mind? ²² The LORD could no longer bear your evil doings and the abominations which you committed; therefore your land has become a desolation and a waste and a curse, without inhabitant, as it is this day. ²³ It is because you burned incense, and because you sinned papyri dating from the fifth century B.C. 15-28: The refugees return to the worship of the queen of heaven (7.16-20), which was the Babylonian-Assyrian goddess Ishtar, goddess of the star Venus (compare the Canaanite Astarte, Greek Aphrodite, Roman Venus). First introduced, presumably, by Manasseh (2 Kg.21.1-18), suppressed by Josiah (2 Kg.23.4-14), and restored by Jehoiakim (2 Kg.23.36-24.7), the cult was especially popular among women, who had an inferior role in the cult of the LORD. Offerings included wine and star-shaped or crescent-shaped cakes or figurines bearing the image of the goddess. The cult persisted into the Christian centuries, and features of it were incorporated by the early Syrian church in the adoration of 24 Jeremiah said to all the people and all the women, "Hear the word of the LORD, all you of Judah who are in the land of Egypt, ²⁵ Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You and your wives have declared with your mouths, and have fulfilled it with your hands, saying, 'We will surely perform our vows that we have made, to burn incense to the queen of heaven and to pour out libations to her.' Then confirm your vows and perform your vows! ²⁶ Therefore hear the word of the LORD, all you of Judah who dwell in the land of Egypt: Behold, I have sworn by my great name, says the LORD, that my name shall no more be invoked by the mouth of any man of Judah in all the land of Egypt, saying, 'As the Lord GOD lives.' ²⁷ Behold, I am watching over them for evil and not for good; all the men of Judah who are in the land of Egypt shall be consumed by the sword and by famine, until there is an end of them. ²⁸ And those who escape the sword shall return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah, few in number; and all the remnant of Judah, who came to the land of Egypt to live, shall know whose word will stand, mine or theirs. ²⁹ This shall be the sign to you, says the LORD, that I will punish you in this place, in order that you may know that my words will surely stand against you for evil: ³⁰ Thus says the LORD, Behold, I will give Pharaoh Hophra king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies and into the hand of those who seek his life, as I gave Zedeki'ah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon, who was his enemy and sought his life."

45 The word that Jeremiah the prophet spoke to Baruch the son of Neri'ah, when he wrote these words in a book at the dictation of Jeremiah, in the fourth year of Jehoi'akim the son of Josi'ah, king of Judah: ² "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to you, O Baruch: ³ You said, 'Woe is me! for the LORD has added sorrow to my pain; I am weary with my groaning, and I find no rest.' ⁴ Thus shall you say to him, Thus says the LORD: Behold, what I have built I am breaking down, and what I have planted I am plucking up—that is, the whole land. ⁵ And do you seek great things for yourself? Seek them not; for, behold, I am bringing evil upon all flesh, says the LORD; but I will give you your life as a prize of war in all places to which you may go."

48.1-47: Against Moab. The original occasion for this dirge may have been the suppression of the revolt of Moab and other western states by Assurbanipal about 650 B.C. The immediate occasion may be either the punitive raids against Judah in 601 (12.7-13) or the inconclusive plot to revolt in 594 (27.1-11)—probably the former. The dirge was apparently popular in Judah (Is.15.1-16.14). 1-10: The advance of the enemy (perhaps Nebuchadrezzar), against which Moab is defenseless. 7: For Chemosh, chief god of Moab, see Jg.11.24 n. 11-17: Though Moab was not on the main trade-route or invasion-route, she will not escape; her heroes will quail before the enemy. 13: Perhaps here Bethel is the name of a contemporary god

How they wail! How Moab has turned his back in shame! So Moab has become a derision and a horror to all that are round about him."

and his people settled in its cities?

² Therefore, behold, the days are coming,

then Israel shall dispossess those

49.1-6: Against Ammon. The occasion for this comparatively mild oracle may be the Ammonite raid of 601 B.C. (see 12.7-13 n.). Ammon, the northern "brother" of Moab (Gen.19.30-38), had previously occupied Transjordanian territory claimed by Israel (Jg.10.6-12.6; 2 Kg. 15.29) and was Israelite territory under David (2 Sam.12.26-31; Am.1.13-14 perhaps reflects their war for independence). Ammon too must suffer for its idolatry and violence. Milcom, Ammonite national god (1 Kg.11.5,33); Rabbah, capital of Ammon.

⁷ Concerning Edom.

Thus says the LORD of hosts:

"Is wisdom no more in Teman?
Has counsel perished from the prudent?
Has their wisdom vanished?

⁸ Flee, turn back, dwell in the depths,
O inhabitants of Dedan!
For I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him,
the time when I punish him.

⁹ If grape-gatherers came to you,
would they not leave gleanings?
If thieves came by night,
would they not destroy only enough for themselves?

¹⁰ But I have stripped Esau bare,
I have uncovered his hiding

himself.

His children are destroyed, and his punished, but you must drink. ¹³ For I have sworn by myself, says the LORD, that Bozrah shall become a horror, a taunt, a waste, and a curse;

and all her cities shall be perpetual wastes."

¹⁴ I have heard tidings from the LORD,
and a messenger has been sent

come against her,

49.7-22: Against Edom. After 587 B.C. the relationship between Israel and "brother" Edom (Dt.23.7-8) deteriorated to consistent Jewish vengefulness because of Edom's occupation of southern Judah (Lam.4.21-22; Ezek.25.12-14), an occupation caused by pressure from Arab tribes. Jeremiah and Obadiah (Ob.1-9) share an oracle (which may be original with neither) that describes the bleak future of Edom. For another possible occasion, see vv. 1-6 n. Teman, modern Tawilan, about three miles east of Sela (Petra). Bozrah, a great fortress city in northern Edom. 19-21: Editorial revision of 50.44-46.

they melt in fear, they are troubled

²⁸ Concerning Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor which Nebuchadrez'- zar king of Babylon smote.

Thus says the LORD:

“Rise up, advance against Kedar!

Destroy the people of the east!

²⁹ Their tents and their flocks shall be taken,
their curtains and all their goods;
their camels shall be borne away
from them,
and men shall cry to them:
‘Terror on every side!’

O inhabitants of Hazor!

For Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon
has made a plan against you,
and formed a purpose against you.

that dwells securely,

says the LORD,

that has no gates or bars,
that dwells alone.

³² Their camels shall become booty,

49.23-27: Against Damascus. The occasion for this composite oracle (compare v. 27; Am.1.4) is unidentifiable. Damascus lost its independence with the capture of Arpad by Tiglath-Pileser III in 740 B.C., Hamath in 738, and Damascus in 732 (Is.10.9; 37.13). Ben-hadad, 1 Kg.15.18,20.

49.28-33: Against Kedar and Hazor. In mid-winter 599/598 B.C. Nebuchadrezzar led a successful expedition against the Arab tribes in the desert east of Syria-Palestine, which may have been the occasion for this oracle (9.26; 25.23-24). These people with no fortresses, who lived in the desert expanses, would not escape attack from the wide-ranging Nebuchadrezzar.

Elam, in the beginning of the reign of Zedeki'ah king of Judah.

35 Thus says the LORD of hosts: "Behold, I will break the bow of Elam, the mainstay of their might; ³⁶ and I will bring upon Elam the four winds from the four quarters of heaven; and I will scatter them to all those winds, and there shall be no nation to which those driven out of Elam shall not come. ³⁷ I will terrify Elam before their enemies, and before those who seek their life; I will bring evil upon them, my fierce anger, says the LORD. I will send the sword after them, until I have consumed them; ³⁸ and I will set my throne in Elam, and destroy their king and princes, says the LORD.

39 "But in the latter days I will restore the fortunes of Elam, says the LORD."

50 The word which the LORD spoke concerning Babylon, concerning the land of the Chalde'ans, by Jeremiah the prophet:

² "Declare among the nations and proclaim,
set up a banner and proclaim,
conceal it not, and say:

'Babylon is taken,
Bel is put to shame,
Mer'odach is dismayed.

Her images are put to shame,
her idols are dismayed.'

3 "For out of the north a nation has come up against her, which shall make her land a desolation, and none shall dwell in it; both man and beast shall flee away.

4 "In those days and in that time, says the LORD, the people of Israel and the people of Judah shall come together, weeping as they come; and they shall seek the LORD their God. ⁵ They shall ask the way to Zion, with faces turned toward it, saying, 'Come, let us join ourselves to the LORD in an everlasting covenant which will never be forgotten.'

6 "My people have been lost sheep; their shepherds have led them astray, turning them away on the mountains; from mountain to hill they have gone, they have forgotten their fold. ⁷ All who found them have devoured them, and their enemies have said, 'We are not guilty, for they have sinned against the LORD, their true habitation, the LORD, the hope of their fathers.'

8 "Flee from the midst of Babylon, and go out of the land of the Chalde'ans, and be as he-goats before the flock. ⁹ For behold, I am stirring up and bringing against Babylon a company of great nations, from the north country; and they shall array themselves against her; from there she shall be taken. Their arrows are like a skilled warrior who does not return empty-handed. ¹⁰ Chalde'a shall be

49.34-39: Against Elam. In the winter of 596 B.C. Nebuchadrezzar attacked Elam, east of Babylonia, and was apparently successful. Zedekiah became king in March 597, when Jehoia-chin was deposed. Bow of Elam reflects the prowess of Elamite archers (Is.22.6). 39: This verse (like 46.26; 48.47; and 49.6) is probably an editorial addition.

50.1-51.64: Against Babylon. This collection of illogically arranged and sometimes reduplicated oracles was probably not composed by Jeremiah, though materials from his oracles were used. It contains two main themes: the fall of Babylon (sometimes represented as accomplished, sometimes represented as still in the future) and the return of the exiles (compare 24.6; 29.10). The attitude toward Babylon is somewhat harsher (50.14,24) than one finds elsewhere in the book (27.6; 43.10), but is not unprecedented (e.g. 25.12-14). The oracles concerning Judah (Israel) are here marked with the letters (a) to (f). 50.1: By Jeremiah, literally "by the hand of Jeremiah," an idiom found also in the superscriptions in Hag.1.1; Mal.1.1; contrast Jer.46.1; 49.34. 2-3: The downfall of Babylon. The nation out of the north, patterned on Jeremiah's expression (4.6), may or may not refer to Cyrus and Persia, before whom Babylon fell in October 539 B.C. Bel (Baal), 51.44; Is.46.1, originally chief god of Nippur, later identified in Babylon with the great cosmic god Marduk (Merodach). 4-5,6-7: (a) An apostrophe on Israel's homecoming (31.7-9) and guilt (2.20; 23.1-2). 8-16: The residents are urged to flee before and she who bore you shall be disgraced.

Lo, she shall be the last of the nations,

- 13 Because of the wrath of the LORD she shall not be inhabited,
but shall be an utter desolation;
every one who passes by Babylon
shall be appalled,
and hiss because of all her wounds.

- 14 Set yourselves in array against Babylon round about,
all you that bend the bow;

17 "Israel is a hunted sheep driven away by lions. First the king of Assyria devoured him, and now at last Nebuchadrez'zar king of Babylon has gnawed his bones. 18 Therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I am bringing punishment on the king of Babylon and his land, as I punished the king of Assyria. 19 I will restore Israel to his pasture, and he shall feed on Carmel and in Bashan, and his desire shall be satisfied on the hills of E'phraim and in Gilead. 20 In those days and in that time, says the LORD, iniquity shall be sought in Israel, and there shall be none; and sin in Judah, and none shall be found; for I will pardon those whom I leave as a remnant.

Babylon's approaching doom (13.14) and desolation (18.16). Not only is the city destroyed, but more damaging, in a way, is the destruction of food production. 17-20: (b) Though successively subject to Assyria and Babylonia, Israel will be restored (31.4-5; 33.8) and Babylon, as Assyria earlier, will be destroyed (25.12). 21-32: God's judgment against Babylon. Mera-thaim, "Double Rebellion" is a play on the name of southern Babylonia, mât marrâti, "Land of the Lagoons." Pekod, "Punishment," is a play on the name Puqûdu, an east Babylonian tribe (Ezek.23.23). The writer derides Babylon as a smashed hammer and a captured bird (compare 5.26-27). He sees the destruction of the temple as an affront to God which must and will be a horror among the nations!

42 The sea has come up on Babylon;
she is covered with its tumultuous
waves.
43 Her cities have become a horror,
a land of drought and a desert,
a land in which no one dwells,
and through which no son of man passes.
44 And I will punish Bel in Babylon, and take out of his mouth what he has swallowed.
The nations shall no longer flow to
him;
the wall of Babylon has fallen.
- 45 "Go out of the midst of her, my
people!
Let every man save his life
from the fierce anger of the LORD!
46 Let not your heart faint, and be not fearful
at the report heard in the land,
when a report comes in one year
and afterward a report in another year,
and violence is in the land,
and ruler is against ruler.
- 47 "Therefore, behold, the days are coming when I will punish the images of Babylon;
her whole land shall be put to shame,
and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her.
48 Then the heavens and the earth,
and all that is in them,
shall sing for joy over Babylon;
for the destroyers shall come against them out of the north,
says the LORD.
- 49 Babylon must fall for the slain of Israel,
as for Babylon have fallen the slain of all the earth.
- 50 "You that have escaped from the sword,
go, stand not still!
Remember the LORD from afar,
and let Jerusalem come into your mind:
51 'We are put to shame, for we have heard reproach;
dishonor has covered our face,
for aliens have come into the holy places of the LORD's
house.'
- 52 "Therefore, behold, the days are coming, says the LORD,
when I will execute judgment
upon her images,
and through all her land
the wounded shall groan.
53 Though Babylon should mount up to heaven,
and though she should fortify her strong height,
yet destroyers would come from me
upon her,
says the LORD.
- 54 "Hark! a cry from Babylon!
The noise of great destruction
from the land of the Chalde'ans!
55 For the LORD is laying Babylon waste,
and stilling her mighty voice.
Their waves roar like many waters,
the noise of their voice is raised;
56 for a destroyer has come upon her,
upon Babylon;
her warriors are taken,
their bows are broken in pieces;
for the LORD is a God of recompense,

⁵⁹ The word which Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraî'ah the son of Neri'ah, son of Mahsei'ah, when he went with Zedeki'ah king of Judah to Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign. Seraî'ah was the quartermaster. ⁶⁰ Jeremiah wrote in a book all the evil that should come upon Babylon, all these words that are written concerning Babylon. ⁶¹ And Jeremiah said to Seraî'ah: "When you come to Babylon, see that you read all these words, ⁶² and say, 'O LORD, thou hast said concerning this place that thou wilt cut it off, so that nothing shall dwell in it, neither man nor beast, and it shall be desolate for ever.' ⁶³ When you finish reading this book, bind a stone to it, and cast it into the midst of the Euphrates, ⁶⁴ and say, 'Thus shall Babylon sink, to rise no more, because of the evil that I am bringing upon her.'"

Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

52 Zedeki'ah was twenty-one years old when he became king; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamu'tal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. ² And he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoi'akim had done. ³ Surely because of the anger of the LORD things came to such a pass in Jerusalem and Judah that he cast them out from his presence.

And Zedeki'ah rebelled against the king of Babylon. ⁴ And in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came with all his army against Jerusalem, and they laid siege to it and built siege-works against it round about. ⁵ So the city was besieged till the eleventh year of King Zedeki'ah. ⁶ On the ninth day of the fourth month the famine was so severe in the city, that there was no food for the people of the land. ⁷ Then a breach was made in the city; and all the men of war fled and went out from the city by night by the way of a gate between the two walls, by the king's garden, while the Chalde'ans were round about the city. And they went in the direction of the Arabah. ⁸ But the army of the Chalde'ans pursued the king, and overtook Zedeki'ah in the plains of Jericho; and all his army was section is largely a composite of other verses in this collection of oracles. 59-64: The oracles are written in a book and taken to Babylon. Though we know of no journey of Zedekiah, he may have gone to renew his fealty after the abortive plot of 594 B.C. (chs. 27-28) became known to Nebuchadrezzar. Seraiah, brother of Baruch (32.12). 63: By a symbolic act the oracle against Babylon is emphasized; this oracle may have been the causative factor for the composition of 50.1-51.58. Though for a time God endowed Babylon with great power, he did so that it might accomplish his purposes, not that it should be established as a great power forever.

52.1-34: Historical appendix. Though largely a duplicate of 2 Kg.24.18-25.30, this historical section, together with 39.1-10 and 40.7-43.7, provides much important complementary information (for similar historical additions, see Is. chs. 36-39). 1-3: Reign of Zedekiah (2 Kg.24.18-20; 597-587 B.C.). For details on the contemporary religious situation, see Ezek. ch. 8. 4-27: Siege and fall of Jerusalem (39.1-10; 2 Kg.24.20b-25.26). 4-11: January 588 B.C. to August 587. scattered from him.⁹ Then they captured the king, and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he passed sentence upon him.¹⁰ The king of Babylon slew the sons of Zedeki'ah before his eyes, and also slew all the princes of Judah at Riblah.¹¹ He put out the eyes of Zedeki'ah, and bound him in fetters, and the king of Babylon took him to Babylon, and put him in prison till the day of his death.

12 In the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month—which was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon—Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the bodyguard who served the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem.¹³ And he burned the house of the LORD, and the king's house and all the houses of Jerusalem; every great house he burned down.¹⁴ And all the army of the Chalde'ans, who were with the captain of the guard, broke down all the walls round about Jerusalem.¹⁵ And Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard carried away captive some of the poorest of the people and the rest of the people who were left in the city and the deserters who had deserted to the king of Babylon, together with the rest of the artisans.¹⁶ But Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard left some of the poorest of the land to be vine-dressers and plowmen.

17 And the pillars of bronze that were in the house of the LORD, and the stands and the bronze sea that were in the house of the LORD, the Chalde'ans broke in pieces, and carried all the bronze to Babylon.¹⁸ And they took away the pots, and the shovels, and the snuffers, and the basins, and the dishes for incense, and all the vessels of bronze used in the temple service;¹⁹ also the small bowls, and the fire-pans, and the basins, and the pots, and the lampstands, and the dishes for incense, and the bowls for libation. What was of gold the captain of the guard took away as gold, and what was of silver, as silver.²⁰ As for the two pillars, the one sea, the twelve bronze bulls which were under the sea,^z and the stands, which Solomon the king had made for the house of the LORD, the bronze of all these things was beyond weight.²¹ As for the pillars, the height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, its circumference was twelve cubits, and its thickness was four fingers, and it was hollow.²² Upon it was a capital of bronze; the height of the one capital was five cubits; a network and pomegranates, all of bronze, were upon the capital round about. And the second pillar had the like, with pomegranates.²³ There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides; all the pomegranates were a hundred upon the network round about.

24 And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the threshold;²⁵ and from the city he took an officer who had been in command of the men of war, and seven men of the king's council, who were found in the city; and the secretary of the commander of the army who mustered the people of the land; and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the midst of the city.²⁶ And Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah.²⁷ And the king of Babylon smote them, and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was carried captive out of its land.

away captive: in the seventh year, three thousand and twenty-three Jews; ²⁹ in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrez'zar he carried away captive from Jerusalem eight hundred and thirty-two persons; ³⁰ in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadrez'zar, Nebu'zarad'an the captain of the guard carried away captive of the Jews seven hundred and forty-five persons; all the persons were four thousand and six hundred.

31 And in the thirty-seventh year of the captivity of Jehoi'achin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth day of the month, E'vilmer'odach king of Babylon, in the year that he became king, lifted up the head of Jehoi'achin king of Judah and brought him out of prison; ³² and he spoke kindly to him, and gave him a seat above the seats of the kings who were with him in Babylon. ³³ So Jehoi'achin put off his prison garments. And every day of his life he dined regularly at the king's table; ³⁴ as for his allowance, a regular allowance was given him by the king according to his daily need, until the day of his death as long as he lived.

(597 B.C.; 2 Kg.24.12-16), the suppression of Zedekiah's revolt (587 B.C.), and the reprisals for Gedaliah's assassination (582 B.C.; 40.7-41.18; 2 Kg.25.22-26). 31-34: 2 Kg.25.27-30. The presence of this material proves that the editing of Jeremiah's material was later than 560 B.C. Jehoiachin's restoration may well have been viewed by his contemporaries as the beginning of Judah's restoration (23.5-6).

THE LAMENTATIONS

OF JEREMIAH

Lamentations is a series of poems mourning over the desolation of Jerusalem and the sufferings of her people, following the siege and destruction of the city and the burning of the temple by the Babylonians in 587(586) B.C. The poems have been ascribed traditionally to the prophet Jeremiah (2 Chr.35.25), but their thought and diction are sufficiently different from his to make this improbable. The first four chapters are alphabetic acrostics (with a stanza for each of the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet), and the fifth has the same number of verses as the alphabet. All were composed or adapted for public recitation on days of fasting and mourning (Jl.2.15-17; Zech.7.2-3), notably that of the ninth of Ab (August), which commemorated the disaster of 587(586).

Chapters 1, 2, and 4 are in form dirges over the dead city. The elegy's limping 3:2 meter (three beats followed by two beats) is recognizable even in translation, together with the exclamatory "How . . ." in the opening line as an expression of grief (2 Sam.1.25, 27; Is.1.21). In ch. 3 the sadness of the desolate people and reflection upon the meaning of the disaster are voiced by an individual. Chapter 5 in its form and language recalls the liturgies for use in time of national trouble, such as Pss. 74 and 79. The common theme of all the poems is the agony of the people, the apparent desertion of Zion by her God, and the hope that God will yet restore a humbled and repentant Israel.

The book of Lamentations is the work chiefly of one author but with the assistance of others speaking out of the poignant situation in Jerusalem shortly after 587(586) B.C.

HOW LONELY SITS THE CITY
that was full of people!
How like a widow has she become,
she that was great among the nations!

She that was a princess among the cities
has become a vassal.

² She weeps bitterly in the night,
tears on her cheeks;
among all her lovers
she has none to comfort her;
all her friends have dealt treacherously with her,
they have become her enemies.

³ Judah has gone into exile because of affliction
and hard servitude;
she dwells now among the nations,
but finds no resting place;
her pursuers have all overtaken her in the midst of her distress.

⁴ The roads to Zion mourn,
for none come to the appointed feasts;

all her gates are desolate,
her priests groan;
her maidens have been dragged away,^a
and she herself suffers bitterly.

⁵ Her foes have become the head,
her enemies prosper,
because the LORD has made her suffer
for the multitude of her transgressions;
her children have gone away,
captives before the foe.

⁶ From the daughter of Zion has departed
all her majesty.
Her princes have become like harts
that find no pasture;
they fled without strength
before the pursuer.

- all the precious things
that were hers from days of old.
When her people fell into the hand
of the foe,
and there was none to help her,
the foe gloated over her,
mocking at her downfall.
- ⁸ Jerusalem sinned grievously,
therefore she became filthy;
all who honored her despise her,
for they have seen her nakedness;
yea, she herself groans,
and turns her face away.
- ⁹ Her uncleanness was in her skirts;
she took no thought of her doom;
therefore her fall is terrible,
she has no comforter.
"O LORD, behold my affliction,
for the enemy has triumphed!"
- ¹⁰ The enemy has stretched out his hands
over all her precious things;
yea, she has seen the nations
invade her sanctuary,
those whom thou didst forbid
to enter thy congregation.
- ¹¹ All her people groan
as they search for bread;
they trade their treasures for food
to revive their strength.
"Look, O LORD, and behold,
for I am despised."
- ¹² "Is it nothing to you,^c all you who pass by?
Look and see if there is any sorrow like my sorrow
which was brought upon me, which the LORD inflicted on the day of his fierce anger.
- ¹³ "From on high he sent fire;
into my bones^d he made it descend;
he spread a net for my feet;
he turned me back;
he has left me stunned,
faint all the day long.
- ¹⁴ "My transgressions were bound^e
into a yoke;
by his hand they were fastened
together;
they were set upon my neck;
he caused my strength to fail;
the Lord gave me into the hands of those whom I cannot withstand.
- ¹⁵ "The Lord flouted all my mighty
men
in the midst of me;
he summoned an assembly against
me
to crush my young men;
the Lord has trodden as in a wine press
the virgin daughter of Judah.
- ¹⁶ "For these things I weep;
my eyes flow with tears;
for a comforter is far from me,
one to revive my courage;
my children are desolate,
for the enemy has prevailed."
- ¹⁷ Zion stretches out her hands,
but there is none to comfort her;
the LORD has commanded against
Jacob
that his neighbors should be his foes;
Jerusalem has become a filthy thing among them.
- ¹⁸ "The LORD is in the right,
for I have rebelled against his word;
but hear, all you peoples,
and behold my suffering;
my maidens and my young men have gone into captivity.

while they sought food
to revive their strength.

²⁰ "Behold, O LORD, for I am in distress,
my soul is in tumult,
my heart is wrung within me,
because I have been very rebellious.

In the street the sword bereaves;
in the house it is like death.

²¹ "Hear^f how I groan;
there is none to comfort me.
All my enemies have heard of my
trouble;
they are glad that thou hast done
it.

Bring thou^g the day thou hast
announced,
and let them be as I am.

²² "Let all their evil-doing come before thee;
and deal with them
as thou hast dealt with me
because of all my transgressions;
for my groans are many
and my heart is faint."

Q How the Lord in his anger has set the daughter of Zion
under a cloud!

He has cast down from heaven to
earth

the splendor of Israel;
he has not remembered his footstool
in the day of his anger.

² The Lord has destroyed without mercy
all the habitations of Jacob;
in his wrath he has broken down
the strongholds of the daughter
of Judah;
he has brought down to the ground
in dishonor
the kingdom and its rulers.

³ He has cut down in fierce anger
all the might of Israel;
he has withdrawn from them his right hand
in the face of the enemy;
he has burned like a flaming fire in Jacob,
consuming all around.

⁴ He has bent his bow like an enemy,
with his right hand set like a foe;
and he has slain all the pride of our
eyes
in the tent of the daughter of Zion;
he has poured out his fury like fire.

⁵ The Lord has become like an
enemy,
he has destroyed Israel;
he has destroyed all its palaces,
laid in ruins its strongholds;
and he has multiplied in the daughter of Judah
mourning and lamentation.

⁶ He has broken down his booth like that of a garden,
laid in ruins the place of his
appointed feasts;
the LORD has brought to an end in Zion
appointed feast and sabbath,
and in his fierce indignation has spurned
king and priest.

⁷ The Lord has scorned his altar,
disowned his sanctuary;
he has delivered into the hand of the
enemy
the walls of her palaces;
a clamor was raised in the house of
the LORD
as on the day of an appointed feast.

THE BOOK OF EZEKIEL

Ezekiel was a priest whose ministry to his fellow exiles extended from 593 (1.2) to 563 B.C., if the enigmatic "thirtieth year" in 1.1 is taken as the thirtieth year after his call and as the date of the initial compilation of the book of Ezekiel by the prophet himself. The latest dated oracle included in the book is of the year 571 B.C. (29.17). The book of Ezekiel has the most thoroughgoing chronological notations of any of the books of the prophets, with only three dates out of order (26.1; 29.17; 33.21). The dates do not necessarily apply to all the oracles following a given date, and the chronological position of undated oracles may be ascertained from the nature of their contents. The capture and destruction of Jerusalem in 587 B.C. was a decisive factor in Ezekiel's ministry. The oracles of warning (chs. 1–24) are to be dated before the fall of Jerusalem. The oracles of hope (chs. 33–48) belong after the fall of Jerusalem. The oracles against the foreign nations (chs. 25–32) belong to the middle period of Ezekiel's ministry (587 to 585 B.C.; but 29.17–21, 571 B.C.)

The original collection was rewritten and expanded by an editor, but Ezekiel's beautiful prose and poetry may be recognized throughout the book. The text has suffered much in transmission; as a consequence, the interpretation is frequently uncertain.

As a prophet to the exiles, Ezekiel assured his hearers of the abiding presence of God among them. He constantly emphasized the LORD's role in the events of the day, so that Israel and the nations "will know that I am the LORD" (a refrain which occurs many times throughout the book). He underscored the integrity of the individual and his personal responsibility to God. To a helpless and hopeless people he brought hope of restoration to homeland and temple by their just and holy God. In Ezekiel we have an unparalleled synthesis of the terrestrial and celestial in Israel's religion, truly fitting for one whose ministry marks the transition from pre-exilic Israelite religion to post-exilic Judaism.

IN THE THIRTIETH YEAR, IN THE fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I was among the exiles by the river Chebar, the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God. ² On the fifth day of the month (it was the fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiachin), ³ the word of the LORD came to Ezekiel the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chalde'ans by the river Chebar; and the hand of the LORD was upon him there.

4 As I looked, behold, a stormy wind came out of the north, and a great cloud, with brightness round about it, and fire flashing forth continually, and in the midst of the fire, as it were gleaming bronze. ⁵ And from the midst of it came the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance: they had the form of men, ⁶ but each had four faces, and each of them had four wings. ⁷ Their legs were straight, and the soles of their feet were like the sole of a calf's foot; and they sparkled like burnished

1.1–3.27: The call of Ezekiel. 1.1–3: Superscription. The thirtieth year, perhaps the thirtieth year after Ezekiel's call, and if so, the date of the initial composition of the book, 563 B.C. (compare Jer.36.1–3). Fifth day of the fourth month . . . , fifth year of the exile would be July 31, 593 B.C. This is reckoned from a lunar calendar, with the year beginning in the spring. The name Ezekiel means "God strengthens." Chebar, a canal which is mentioned also in the Babylonian records, flowing southeast from its fork above Babylon, through Nippur, and rejoining the Euphrates near Erech. Hand of the LORD expresses Ezekiel's sense of divine compulsion (3.14,22; 8.1; 33.22; 37.1; 40.1).

1.4–28a: The throne chariot vision. Compare the imagery in 1 Kg.22.19–22; Is.6.1–9. 4: Out of the north, a literary figure drawn from Canaanite mythology, according to which the gods lived in the north. Stormy wind (1 Kg.19.11), cloud (Ex.19.16), and fire (1 Kg.19.11–12) are all elements in the theophany (manifestation) of God. 5: The living creatures (Rev.4.7) are cherubim, guardians of God's throne (see Ex.25.10–22; 1 Kg.6.23–28), namely winged human-bronze. ⁸ Under their wings on their four sides they had human hands. And the four had their faces and their wings thus: ⁹ their wings touched one another; they went every one straight forward, without turning as they went.

¹⁰ As for the likeness of their faces, each had the face of a man in front;^a the four had the face of a lion on the right side, the four had the face of an ox on the left side, and the four had the face of an eagle at the back.^b

¹¹ Such were their faces. And their wings were spread out above; each creature had two wings, each of which touched the wing of another, while two covered their bodies. ¹² And each went straight forward; wherever the spirit would go, they went, without turning as they went. ¹³ In the midst of^c the living creatures there was something that looked like burning coals of fire, like torches moving to and fro among the living creatures; and the fire was bright, and out of the fire went forth lightning. ¹⁴ And the living creatures darted to and fro, like a flash of lightning.

¹⁵ Now as I looked at the living creatures, I saw a wheel upon the earth beside the living creatures, one for each of the four of them.^d ¹⁶ As for the appearance of the wheels and their construction: their appearance was like the gleaming of a chrysolite; and the four had the same likeness, their construction being as it were a wheel within a wheel. ¹⁷ When they went, they went in any of their four directions^e without turning as they went. ¹⁸ The four wheels had rims and they had spokes;^f and their rims were full of eyes round about. ¹⁹ And when the living creatures went, the wheels went beside them; and when the living creatures rose from the earth, the wheels rose. ²⁰ Wherever the spirit would go, they went, and the wheels rose along with them; for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels. ²¹ When those went, these went; and when those stood, these stood; and when those rose from the earth, the wheels rose along with them; for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels.

²² Over the heads of the living creatures there was the likeness of a firmament, shining like crystal,^g spread out above their heads. ²³ And under the firmament their wings were stretched out straight, one toward another; and each creature had two wings covering its body. ²⁴ And when they went, I heard the sound of their wings like the sound of many waters, like the thunder of the Almighty, a sound of tumult like the sound of a host; when they stood still, they let down their wings. ²⁵ And there came a voice from above the firmament over their heads; when they stood still, they let down their wings.

²⁶ And above the firmament over their heads there was the likeness of a throne, in appearance like sapphire;^h and seated above the likeness of a throne was a likeness as it were of a human form. ²⁷ And upward from what had the appearance of his loins I saw as it were gleaming bronze, like the appearance of fire enclosed round about; and downward from what had the appearance of his loins I saw as it were the appearance of fire, and there was brightness round about him.ⁱ ²⁸ Like the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud on the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness round about.

Such was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD. And when I saw it, I fell upon my face, and I heard the voice of one speaking.

2 And he said to me, "Son of man, stand upon your feet, and I will speak with you."² And when he spoke to me, the Spirit entered into me and set me upon my feet; and I heard him speaking to me.³ And he said to me, "Son of man, I send you to the people of Israel, to a nation^j of rebels, who have rebelled against me; they and their fathers have transgressed against me to this very day.⁴ The people also are impudent and stubborn: I send you to them; and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord God.'⁵ And whether they hear or refuse to hear (for they are a rebellious house) they will know that there has been a prophet among them.⁶ And you, son of man, be not afraid of them, nor be afraid of their words, though briars and thorns are with you and you sit upon scorpions; be not afraid of their words, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house.⁷ And you shall speak my words to them, whether they hear or refuse to hear; for they are a rebellious house.

8 "But you, son of man, hear what I say to you; be not rebellious like that rebellious house; open your mouth, and eat what I give you."⁹ And when I looked, behold, a hand was stretched out to me, and, lo, a written scroll was in it;¹⁰ and he spread it before me; and it had writing on the front and on the back, and there were written on it words of lamentation and mourning house of Israel."² So I opened my mouth, and he gave me the scroll to eat.³ And he said to me, "Son of man, eat this scroll that I give you and fill your stomach with it." Then I ate it; and it was in my mouth as sweet as honey.

4 And he said to me, "Son of man, go, get you to the house of Israel, and speak with my words to them.⁵ For you are not sent to a people of foreign speech and a hard language, but to the house of Israel—⁶ not to many peoples of foreign speech and a hard language, whose words you cannot understand. Surely, if I sent you to such, they would listen to you.⁷ But the house of Israel will not listen to you; for they are not willing to listen to me; because all the house of Israel are of a hard forehead and of a stubborn heart.⁸ Behold, I have made your face hard against their faces, and your forehead hard against their foreheads.⁹ Like adamant harder than flint have I made your forehead; fear them not, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house."¹⁰ Moreover he said to me, "Son of man, all my words that I shall speak to you receive in your heart, and hear with your ears.¹¹ And go, get you to the exiles, to your people, and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord God'; whether they hear or refuse to hear."

16 And at the end of seven days, the word of the LORD came to me:

¹⁷ "Son of man, I have made you a watchman for the house of Israel; whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. ¹⁸ If I say to the wicked, 'You shall surely die,' and you give him no warning, nor speak to warn the wicked from his wicked way, in order to save his life, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood I will require at your hand. ¹⁹ But if you warn the wicked, and he does not turn from his wickedness, or from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity; but you will have saved your life."

²¹ Nevertheless if you warn the righteous man not to sin, and he does not sin, he shall surely live, because he took warning; and you will have saved your life."

22 And the hand of the LORD was there upon me; and he said to me,

"Arise, go forth into the plain,"^m and there I will speak with you."²³ So I arose and went forth into the plain;^m and, lo, the glory of the LORD stood there, like the glory which I had seen by the river Chebar; and I fell on my face. ²⁴ But the Spirit entered into me, and set me upon my feet; and he spoke with me and said to me, "Go, shut yourself within your house. ²⁵ And you, O son of man, behold, cords will be placed upon you, and you shall be bound with them, so that you cannot go out among the people; ²⁶ and I will make your tongue cleave to the roof of your mouth, so that you shall be dumb and unable to reprove them; for they are a rebellious house. ²⁷ But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord God'; he that will hear, let him hear; and he that will refuse to hear, let him refuse; for they are a rebellious house."

This is a sign for the house of Israel."

This watchman passage (Jer.6.17; Hos.9.8) is an application of Ezekiel's doctrine of personal responsibility (18.1-32) to the prophetic office (33.7-16). 22-27: Fifth commission. The plain (valley) is the southern Tigris-Euphrates valley (37.1; Gen.11.2). Ezekiel's dumbness may refer to his apparent inability to speak of anything but the doom of Judah and Jerusalem for the following seven and one-half years (24.26-27; 33.21-22).

⁹ "And you, take wheat and barley, beans and lentils, millet and spelt, and put them into a single vessel, and make bread of them. During the number of days that you lie upon your side, three hundred and ninety days, you shall eat it. ¹⁰ And the food which you eat shall be by weight, twenty shekels a day; once a day you shall eat it. ¹¹ And water you shall drink by measure, the sixth part of a hin; once a day you shall drink. ¹² And you shall eat it as a barley cake, baking it in their sight on human dung." ¹³ And the LORD said, "Thus shall the people of Israel eat their bread unclean, among the nations whither I will drive them." ¹⁴ Then I said, "Ah Lord God! behold, I have never defiled myself; from my youth up till now I have never eaten what died of itself or was torn by beasts, nor has foul flesh come into my mouth."

¹⁵ Then he said to me, "See, I will let you have cow's dung instead of human dung, on which you may prepare your bread." ¹⁶ Moreover he said to me, "Son of man, behold, I will break the staff of bread in Jerusalem; they shall eat bread by weight and with fearfulness; and they shall drink water by measure and in dismay. ¹⁷ I will do this that they may lack bread and water, and look at one another in dismay, and waste away under their punishment.

5 "And you, O son of man, take a sharp sword; use it as a barber's razor and pass it over your head and your beard; then take balances for weighing, and divide the hair. ² A third part you shall burn in the fire in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are completed; and a third part you shall take and strike with the sword round about the city; and a third part you shall scatter to the wind, and I will unsheathe the sword after them. ³ And you shall take from these a small number, and bind them in the skirts of your robe. ⁴ And of these again you shall take some, and cast them into the fire, and burn them in the fire; from there a fire will come forth into all the house of Israel. ⁵ Thus says the Lord God: This is Jerusalem; I have set her in the center of the nations, with countries round about her. ⁶ And she has wickedly rebelled against my ordinances^o more than the nations, and against my statutes more than the countries round about her, by rejecting my ordinances and not walking in my statutes. ⁷ Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you are more turbulent than the nations that are

8 In the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I sat in my house, with the elders of Judah sitting before me, the hand of the Lord GOD fell there upon me. ² Then I beheld, and, lo, a form that had the appearance of a man;^e below what appeared to be his loins it was fire, and above his loins it was like the appearance of brightness, like gleaming bronze. ³ He put forth the form of a hand, and took me by a lock of my head; and the Spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven, and brought me in visions of God to Jerusalem, to the entrance of the gateway of the inner court that faces north, where was the seat of the image of jealousy, which provokes to jealousy. ⁴ And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, like the vision that I saw in the plain.

⁵ Then he said to me, "Son of man, lift up your eyes now in the direction of the north." So I lifted up my eyes toward the north, and behold, north of the altar gate, in the entrance, was this image of jealousy. ⁶ And he said to me, "Son of man, do you see what they are doing, the great abominations that the house of Israel are committing here, to drive me far from my sanctuary? But you will see still greater abominations."

⁷ And he brought me to the door of the court; and when I looked, behold, there was a hole in the wall. ⁸ Then said he to me, "Son of man, dig in the wall"; and when I dug in the wall, lo,

Each had his censer in his hand, and the smoke of the cloud of incense went up. ¹² Then he said to me, "Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the dark, every man in his room of pictures? For they say, 'The LORD does not see us, the LORD has forsaken the land.'" ¹³ He said also to me, "You will see still greater abominations which they commit."

¹⁴ Then he brought me to the entrance of the north gate of the house of the LORD; and behold, there sat women weeping for Tammuz. ¹⁵ Then he said to me, "Have you seen this, O son of man? You will see still greater abominations than these."

¹⁶ And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the LORD; and behold, at the door of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men, with their backs to the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east, worshipping the sun toward the east. ¹⁷ Then he said to me, "Have you seen this, O son of man? Is it too slight a thing for the house of Judah to commit the abominations which they commit here, that they should fill the land with violence, and provoke me further to anger? Lo, they put the branch to their nose. ¹⁸ Therefore I will deal in wrath; my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity; and though they cry in my ears with a loud voice, I will not hear them."

⁹ Then he cried in my ears with a loud voice, saying, "Draw near, you executioners of the city, each with his destroying weapon in his hand." ² And lo, six men came from the direction of the upper gate, which faces north, every man with his weapon for slaughter in his hand, and with them was a man clothed in linen, with a writing case at his side. And they went in and stood beside the bronze altar.

³ Now the glory of the God of Israel had gone up from the cherubim on which it rested to the threshold of the house; and he called to the man clothed in linen, who had the writing case at his side. ⁴ And the LORD said to him, "Go through the city, through Jerusalem, and put a mark upon the foreheads of the men who sigh and groan over all the abominations that are committed in it." ⁵ And to the others he said in my hearing, "Pass through the city after him, and smite; your eye shall not spare, and you shall show no pity; ⁶ slay old men outright, young men and maidens, little children and women, but touch no one upon whom is the mark. And begin at my sanctuary." So they began with the elders who were before the house. ⁷ Then he said to them, "Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain. Go forth." So they went forth, and smote in the city. ⁸ And while they were smiting, and I was left alone, I fell upon my face, and cried, "Ah Lord GOD! wilt thou destroy all that remains of Israel in the outpouring of thy wrath upon Jerusalem?"

⁹ Then he said to me, "The guilt of the house of Israel and Judah is exceedingly great; the land is full of blood, and the city full of injustice; for they say, 'The LORD has forsaken the land, and the LORD does not see.' ¹⁰ As for me, my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity, but I will requite their deeds upon their heads."

¹¹ And lo, the man clothed in linen, with the writing case at his side, brought back word, saying, "I have done as thou didst command me."

10 Then I looked, and behold, on the firmament that was over the heads of the cherubim there appeared above them something like a sapphire, in form resembling a throne. ² And he said to the man clothed in linen, "Go in among the whirling wheels underneath the cherubim; fill your hands with burning coals from between the cherubim, and scatter them over the city."

And he went in before my eyes. ³ Now the cherubim were standing on the south side of the house, when the man went in; and a cloud filled the inner court. ⁴ And the glory of the LORD went up from the cherubim to the threshold of the house; and the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was full of the brightness of the glory of the LORD. ⁵ And the sound of the wings of the cherubim was heard as far as the outer court, like the voice of God Almighty when he speaks.

⁶ And when he commanded the man clothed in linen, "Take fire from between the whirling wheels, from between the cherubim," he went in and stood beside a wheel. ⁷ And a cherub stretched forth his hand from between the cherubim to the fire that was between the cherubim, and took some of it, and put it into the hands of the man clothed in linen, who took it and went out. ⁸ The cherubim appeared to have the form of a human hand under their wings.

⁹ And I looked, and behold, there were four wheels beside the cherubim, one beside each cherub; and the appearance of the wheels was like sparkling chrysolite. ¹⁰ And as for their appearance, the four had the same likeness, as if a wheel were within a wheel. ¹¹ When they went, they went in any of their four directions^g without turning as they went, but in whatever direction the front wheel faced the others followed without turning as they went. ¹² And^h their rims, and their spokes,ⁱ and the wheels were full of eyes round about—the wheels that the four of them had. ¹³ As for the wheels, they were called in my hearing the whirling wheels. ¹⁴ And every one had four faces: the first face was the face of the cherub, and the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

¹⁵ And the cherubim mounted up. These were the living creatures that I saw by the river Chebar. ¹⁶ And when the cherubim went, the wheels went beside them; and when the cherubim lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the wheels did not turn from beside them. ¹⁷ When they stood still, these stood still, and when they mounted up, these mounted up with them; for the spirit of the living creatures^j was in them.

And behold, at the door of the gateway there were twenty-five men; and I saw among them Ja-azani'ah the son of Az-zur, and Pelati'ah the son of Benai'ah, princes of the people. ² And he said to me, "Son of man, these are the men who devise iniquity and who give wicked counsel in this city; ³ who say, 'The time is not near^k to build houses; this city is the caldron, and we are the flesh.' ⁴ Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, O son of man."

5 And the Spirit of the LORD fell upon me, and he said to me, "Say, Thus says the LORD: So you think, O house of Israel; for I know the things that come into your mind. ⁶ You have multiplied your slain in this city, and have filled its streets with the slain. ⁷ Therefore thus says the Lord God: Your slain whom you have laid in the midst of it, they are the flesh, and this city is the caldron; but you shall be brought forth out of the midst of it. ⁸ You have feared the sword; and I will bring the sword upon you, says the Lord God. ⁹ And I will bring you forth out of the midst of it, and give you into the hands of foreigners, and execute judgments upon you. ¹⁰ You shall fall by the sword; I will judge you at the border of Israel; and you shall know that I am the LORD. ¹¹ This city shall not be your caldron, nor shall you be the flesh in the midst of it; I will judge you at the border of Israel; ¹² and you shall know that I am the LORD; for you have not walked in my statutes, nor executed my ordinances, but have acted according to the ordinances of the nations that are round about you."

13 And it came to pass, while I was prophesying, that Pelati'ah the son of Benai'ah died. Then I fell down upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and said, "Ah Lord God! wilt thou make a full end of the remnant of Israel?"

14 And the word of the LORD came to me: ¹⁵ "Son of man, your brethren, even your brethren, your fellow exiles,^l the whole house of Israel, all of them, are those of whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, 'They have gone far from the LORD; to us this land is given for a possession.' ¹⁶ Therefore say, 'Thus says the Lord

But say to them, The days are at hand, and the fulfilment^v of every vision. ²⁴ For there shall be no more any false vision or flattering divination within the house of Israel. ²⁵ But I the LORD will speak the word which I will speak, and it will be performed. It will no longer be delayed, but in your days, O rebellious house, I will speak the word and perform it, says the Lord GOD."

²⁶ Again the word of the LORD came to me: ²⁷ "Son of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, 'The vision that he sees is for many days hence, and he prophesies of times far off.' ²⁸ Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: None of my words will be delayed any longer, but the word which I speak will be performed, says the Lord GOD."

13 The word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel, prophesy" and say to those who prophesy out of their own minds: 'Hear the word of the LORD!' ³ Thus says the Lord GOD, Woe to the foolish prophets who follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing! ⁴ Your prophets have been like foxes among ruins, O Israel. ⁵ You have not gone up into the breaches, or built up a wall for the house of Israel, that it might stand in battle in the day of the LORD. ⁶ They have spoken falsehood and divined a lie; they say, 'Says the LORD,' when the LORD has not sent them, and yet they expect him to fulfil their word. ⁷ Have you not seen a delusive vision, and

12.21-14.23: Of prophets and people. 21-28: A condemnation of the popular attitude that prophetic visions could be safely ignored (Hos.12.10; Jer.14.14-15; 23.28-29), and a correction of the impression that the fulfilment of prophecies of destruction such as those of Jeremiah was distant (Jer.5.12-13; 17.15). 27: Compare Is.22.13; 1 Cor.15.32. 13.1-16: Against false prophets. The absence of objective criteria (Jer.28.8-9) resulted in the perennial problem of identifying the true prophet (1 Kg. ch. 22; Mic.3.5; Is.9.15; Jer. chs. 14-15; with this passage, compare uttered a lying divination, whenever you have said, 'Says the LORD,' although I have not spoken?"

8 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "Because you have uttered delusions and seen lies, therefore behold, I am against you, says the Lord GOD.

⁹ My hand will be against the prophets who see delusive visions and who give lying divinations; they shall not be in the council of my people, nor be enrolled in the register of the house of Israel, nor shall they enter the land of Israel; and you shall know that I am the Lord GOD. ¹⁰ Because, yea, because they have misled my people, saying, 'Peace,' when there is no peace; and because, when the people build a wall, these prophets daub it with whitewash; ¹¹ say to those who daub it with whitewash that it shall fall! There will be a deluge of rain,^x great hailstones will fall, and a stormy wind break out; ¹² and when the wall falls, will it not be said to you, 'Where is the daubing with which you daubed it?'

¹³ Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I will make a stormy wind break out in my wrath; and there shall be a deluge of rain in my anger, and great hailstones in wrath to destroy it. ¹⁴ And I will break down the wall that you have daubed with whitewash, and bring it down to the ground, so that its foundation will be laid bare; when it falls, you shall perish in the midst of it; and you shall know that I am the LORD.

Will you hunt down souls belonging to my people, and keep other souls alive for your profit?

¹⁹ You have profaned me among my people for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, putting to death persons who should not die and keeping alive persons who should not live, by your lies to my people, who listen to lies.

20 "Wherefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against your magic bands with which you hunt the souls,^y and I will tear them from your arms; and I will let the souls that you hunt go free^z like birds. ²¹ Your veils also I will tear off, and deliver my people out of your hand, and they shall be no more in your hand as prey; and you shall know that I am the LORD. ²² Because you have disheartened the righteous falsely, although I have not disheartened him, and you have encouraged the wicked, that he should not turn from his wicked way to save his life; ²³ therefore you shall no more see delusive visions nor practice divination; I will deliver my people out of your hand. Jer.23.9-32). Divination (Ex.28.30; 1 Sam.28.6) played practically no role among the great prophets of Israel, but was common in contemporary non-Israelite prophetism, and apparently also in Israel. The false prophets' message (Jer. chs. 28-29) was like whitewash on a mud-brick wall (12.5) which provided no protection against the storm. 9: Register, Ezra ch. 2; Ex.32.32-33. 17-23: Against prophetesses. The reference here is to sorceresses and mediums (vv. 18,20; 1 Sam.28.7-25), who were probably outside the cult of Yahweh, which provided few opportunities for participation of women (Miriam, Ex.15.20; Deborah, Jg.4.4; Huldah, 2 Kg.22.14, are widely scattered Old Testament examples; compare 1 Cor.14.34). The significance of magic bands and veils is unknown. 14.1-11: Against idolators. Religious duplicity was so reprehensi-

me.² And the word of the LORD came to me:³ "Son of man, these men have taken their idols into their hearts, and set the stumbling block of their iniquity before their faces; should I let myself be inquired of at all by them?"

⁴ Therefore speak to them, and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Any man of the house of Israel who takes his idols into his heart and sets the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to the prophet, I the LORD will answer him myself^a because of the multitude of his idols,⁵ that I may lay hold of the hearts of the house of Israel, who are all estranged from me through their idols.

⁶ "Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: Repent and turn away from your idols; and turn away your faces from all your abominations.⁷ For any one of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn in Israel, who separates himself from me, taking his idols into his heart and putting the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to a prophet to inquire for himself of me, I the LORD will answer him myself;⁸ and I will set my face against that man, I will make him a sign and a byword and cut him off from the midst of my people; and you shall know that I am the LORD.⁹ And if the prophet be deceived and speak a word, I, the LORD, have deceived that prophet, and I will stretch out my hand against him, and will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel.¹⁰ And they shall bear their punishment—the punishment of the prophet and the punishment of the inquirer shall be alike—¹¹ that the house of Israel may go no more astray from me, nor defile themselves any more with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people and I may be their God, says the Lord GOD."

¹² And the word of the LORD came to me:¹³ "Son of man, when a land sins against me by acting faithlessly, and I stretch out my hand against it, and break its staff of bread and send famine upon it, and cut off from it man and beast,¹⁴ even if these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they would deliver but their own lives by their righteousness, says the Lord GOD.¹⁵ If I cause wild beasts to pass through the land, and they ravage it, and it be made desolate, so that no man may pass through because of the beasts;¹⁶ even if these three men were in it, as I live, says the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters; they alone would be delivered, but the land would be desolate.¹⁷ Or if I bring a sword upon that land, and say, Let a sword go through the land; and I cut off from it man and beast;¹⁸ though these three men were in it, as I live, says the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters, but they alone would be delivered.¹⁹ Or if I send a pestilence into that land, and pour out my wrath upon it with blood, to cut off from it man and beast;²⁰ even if Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live, says the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither son nor daughter; they would deliver but their own lives by their righteousness.

ble to God that God himself would punish anyone guilty of it. Idols translates Ezekiel's characteristic term "gillulim" (literally, "dung balls"), found thirty-nine times in Ezekiel, compared with nine times in the rest of the Old Testament. Strangers probably refers to proselytes who were considered equal with Israelites (47.22; Lev.17.8). 12-23: Against false hopes. One would be saved only if he were righteous; righteousness is non-transferable and non-cumulative (33.12). Noah and Job are known in the Bible for their righteousness, as is Daniel. Ezekiel's reference to Daniel (see 28.3 n.), however, suggests the Canaanite Dan'el (so spelled in Ezekiel also) rather than the Biblical Daniel. There were undoubtedly cycles of literature associated with these patriarchs of which we now know very little.

ment, sword, famine, evil beasts, and pestilence, to cut off from it man and beast! ²² Yet, if there should be left in it any survivors to lead out sons and daughters, when they come forth to you, and you see their ways and their doings, you will be consoled for the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, for all that I have brought upon it. ²³ They will console you, when you see their ways and their doings; and you shall know that I have not done without cause all that I have done in it, says the Lord GOD."

15 And the word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, how does the wood of the vine surpass any wood, the vine branch which is among the trees of the forest? ³ Is wood taken from it to make anything? Do men take a peg from it to hang any vessel on? ⁴ Lo, it is given to the fire for fuel; when the fire has consumed both ends of it, and the middle of it is charred, is it useful for anything? ⁵ Behold, when it was whole, it was used for nothing; how much less, when the fire has consumed it and it is charred, can it ever be used for anything! ⁶ Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so will I give up the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ⁷ And I will set my face against them; though they escape from the fire, the fire shall yet consume them; and you will know that I am the LORD, when I set my face against them. ⁸ And I will make the land desolate, because they have acted faithlessly, says the Lord GOD."

16 Again the word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, make known to Jerusalem her abominations, ³ and say, Thus says the Lord GOD to Jerusalem: Your origin and your birth are of the land of the Canaanites; your father was an Amorite, and your mother a Hittite. ⁴ And as for your birth, on the day you were born your navel string was not cut, nor were you washed with water to cleanse you, nor rubbed with salt, nor swathed with bands. ⁵ No eye pitied you, to do any of these things to you out of compassion for you; but you were cast out on the open field, for you were abhorred, on the day that you were born.

⁸ "When I passed by you again and looked upon you, behold, you were at the age for love; and I spread my skirt over you, and covered your nakedness: yea, I plighted my troth to you and entered into a covenant with you, says the Lord GOD, and you became mine. ⁹ Then I bathed you with 15.1-8: Allegory of the vine. Vines and vineyards are common figures (Jg.9.8-15; Is.5.1-7; Jer.2.21) but the reference to the wood is unique. The wood of the vine is good only when it produces satisfactorily; otherwise, even as fuel, it is practically useless. This is a figure for Judah; unproductive Judah must be destroyed (compare Jn.15.1-11).

16.1-63: The allegory of the unfaithful wife. 1-7: Jerusalem, the foundling. Ezekiel uses a folk-tale as an allegory. Jerusalem's ancestry was pagan and not related to the covenant. The Canaanites were the Semitic-speaking residents in Palestine before the Israelite invasion in the thirteenth century B.C., probably largely a part of the Amorite irruption into the Fertile Crescent in the early second millennium B.C. The Hittites were an Armenoid people living in Palestine with the Canaanites (Gen. ch. 23; Jos.3.10; compare 2 Sam.11.3). Unwanted and denied the common Palestinian amenities at birth, she, like female children in pagan antiquity, constituted a financial liability and was abandoned to die. By God's help, however, she grew into full maidenhood. 8-14: The maiden. She was adopted (by marriage) into God's covenant (compare 2 Sam.5.6-10) and became queen, receiving lavish adornment and generous nourishment water and washed off your blood from you, and anointed you with oil. ¹⁰ I clothed you also with embroidered cloth and shod you with leather, I swathed you in fine linen and covered you with silk. ¹¹ And I decked you with ornaments, and put bracelets on your arms, and a chain on your neck. ¹² And I put a ring on your nose, and earrings in your ears, and a beautiful crown upon your head. ¹³ Thus you were decked with gold and silver; and your raiment was of fine linen, and silk, and embroidered cloth; you ate fine flour and honey and oil. You grew exceedingly beautiful, and came to regal estate. ¹⁴ And your renown went forth among the nations because of your beauty, for it was perfect through the splendor which I had bestowed upon you, says the Lord God.

¹⁵ "But you trusted in your beauty, and played the harlot because of your renown, and lavished your harlotries on any passer-by. ¹⁶ You took some of your garments, and made for yourself gaily decked shrines, and on them played the harlot; the like has never been, nor ever shall be. ¹⁷ You also took your fair jewels of my gold and of my silver, which I had given you, and made for yourself images of men, and with them played the harlot; ¹⁸ and you took your embroidered garments to cover them, and set my oil and my incense before them. ¹⁹ Also my bread which I gave you—I fed you with fine flour and oil and honey—you set before them for a pleasing odor, says the Lord God.^d ²⁰ And you took your sons and your daughters, whom you had borne to me, and these you sacrificed to them to be devoured. Were your harlotries so small a matter ²¹ that you slaughtered my children and delivered them up as an offering by fire to them? ²² And in all your abominations and your harlotries you did not remember the days of your youth, when you were naked and bare, weltering in your blood.

²³ "And after all your wickedness (woe, woe to you! says the Lord God), ²⁴ you built yourself a vaulted chamber, and made yourself a lofty place in every square; ²⁵ at the head of every street you built your lofty place and prostituted your beauty, offering yourself to any passer-by, and multiplying your harlotry. ²⁶ You also played the harlot with the Egyptians, your lustful neighbors, multiplying your harlotry, to provoke me to anger. ²⁷ Behold, therefore, I stretched out my hand against you, and diminished your allotted portion, and delivered you to the greed of your enemies, the daughters of the Philistines, who were ashamed of your lewd behavior. ²⁸ You played the harlot also with the Assyrians, because you were insatiable; yea, you played the harlot with them, and still you were not satisfied. ²⁹ You multiplied your harlotry also with the trading land of Chaldea; and even with this you were not satisfied.

³⁰ "How lovesick is your heart, says the Lord God, seeing you did all these things, the deeds of a brazen harlot; ³¹ building your vaulted chamber at the head of every street, and making your lofty place in every square. Yet you were not like a harlot, because you scorned hire. ³² Adulterous wife, who receives strangers instead of her husband! ³³ Men give gifts to all harlots; but you gave your gifts to all your lovers, bribing them to come to you from every side for your harlotries.

(Jerusalem in Israel's golden age under Solomon). 15-22: The degenerate. The word harlotries is used here in a double sense, referring both to the actual practice of cult prostitution and to Jerusalem's unfaithfulness (Hos.4.13-14), which became widespread in the days of Manasseh (687-642 B.C.; 2 Kg.21.1-18) and Zedekiah (ch. 8). She used her garments to make shrines and on them indulged in her promiscuity (Am.2.7-8). She fashioned her jewelry into idols (Jg.8.24-27) and amulets. God's gifts were used as offerings to other gods. 23-34: Jerusalem is condemned for her religious infidelity and her proclivity toward foreign alliances—a major cause of her degeneration. But she was worse than a common prostitute who is paid for her services;

³⁴ So you were different from other women in your harlotries: none solicited you to play the harlot; and you gave hire, while no hire was given to you; therefore you were different.

³⁵ "Wherefore, O harlot, hear the word of the LORD: ³⁶ Thus says the Lord GOD, Because your shame was laid bare and your nakedness uncovered in your harlotries with your lovers, and because of all your idols, and because of the blood of your children that you gave to them, ³⁷ therefore, behold, I will gather all your lovers, with whom you took pleasure, all those you loved and all those you loathed; I will gather them against you from every side, and will uncover your nakedness to them, that they may see all your nakedness. ³⁸ And I will judge you as women who break wedlock and shed blood are judged, and bring upon you the blood of wrath and jealousy. ³⁹ And I will give you into the hand of your lovers, and they shall throw down your vaulted chamber and break down your lofty places; they shall strip you of your clothes and take your fair jewels, and leave you naked and bare. ⁴⁰ They shall bring up a host against you, and they shall stone you and cut you to pieces with their swords. ⁴¹ And they shall burn your houses and execute judgments upon you in the sight of many women; I will make you stop playing the harlot, and you shall also give hire no more. ⁴² So will I satisfy my fury on you, and my jealousy shall depart from you; I will be calm, and will no more be angry. ⁴³ Because you have not remembered the days of your youth, but have enraged me with all these things; therefore, behold, I will requite your deeds upon your head, says the Lord GOD.

"Have you not committed lewdness

in addition to all your abominations?

⁴⁴ Behold, every one who uses proverbs will use this proverb about you, 'Like mother, like daughter.' ⁴⁵ You are the daughter of your mother, who loathed her husband and her children; and you are the sister of your sisters, who loathed their husbands and their children. Your mother was a Hittite and your father an Amorite. ⁴⁶ And your elder sister is Sama'ria, who lived with her daughters to the north of you; and your younger sister, who lived to the south of you, is Sodom with her daughters. ⁴⁷ Yet you were not content to walk in their ways, or do according to their abominations; within a very little time you were more corrupt than they in all your ways. ⁴⁸ As I live, says the Lord GOD, your sister Sodom and her daughters have not done as you and your daughters have done. ⁴⁹ Behold, this was the guilt of your sister Sodom: she and her daughters had pride, surfeit of food, and prosperous ease, but did not aid the poor and needy. ⁵⁰ They were haughty, and did abominable things before me; therefore I removed them, when I saw it. ⁵¹ Sama'ria has not committed half your sins; you have committed more abominations than they, and have made your sisters appear righteous by all the abominations which you have committed. ⁵² Bear your disgrace, you also, for you have made judgment favorable to your sisters; because of your sins in which you acted more abominably than they, they are more in the right than you. So be ashamed, you also, and bear your disgrace, for you have made your sisters appear righteous.

Jerusalem invited her lovers and paid them (Is.30.6; Hos. ch. 2; 8.9; Jer. chs. 2-3). 35-43: Her lovers will turn against her and strip her. God himself will divorce her and expose her to be stoned (Dt.22.21,24). Her beauty will be destroyed and she will again find herself ignoble and ignored. 44-52: This section expands on the preceding theme, showing Jerusalem to be so much worse than her "elder sister" Samaria and the "younger sister" Sodom (Jer.3.6-11), both of whom were destroyed, that they appear righteous by comparison. 53-63: The revision of the oracle is manifest in the reference to Edom which occupied Judahite territory after 587 B.C.

ria and her daughters, and I will restore your own fortunes in the midst of them,⁵⁴ that you may bear your disgrace and be ashamed of all that you have done, becoming a consolation to them.⁵⁵ As for your sisters, Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former estate, and Sama'ria and her daughters shall return to their former estate; and you and your daughters shall return to your former estate.⁵⁶ Was not your sister Sodom a byword in your mouth in the day of your pride,⁵⁷ before your wickedness was uncovered? Now you have become like her^e an object of reproach for the daughters of Edom' and all her neighbors, and for the daughters of the Philistines, those round about who despise you.⁵⁸ You bear the penalty of your lewdness and your abominations, says the LORD.

59 "Yea, thus says the Lord God: I will deal with you as you have done, who have despised the oath in breaking the covenant,⁶⁰ yet I will remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish with you an everlasting covenant.⁶¹ Then you will remember your ways, and be ashamed when I^f take your sisters, both your elder and your younger, and give them to you as daughters, but not on account of the covenant with you.⁶² I will establish my covenant with you, and you shall know that I am the LORD,⁶³ that you may remember and be confounded, and never open your mouth again because of your shame, when I forgive you all that you have done, says the Lord God."

¶ 7 The word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, propound a riddle, and speak an allegory to the house of Israel; ³ say, Thus says the Lord God: A great eagle with great wings and long pinions, rich in plumage of many colors, came to Lebanon and took the top of the cedar; ⁴ he broke off the topmost of its young twigs and carried it to a land of trade, and set it in a city of merchants.⁵ Then he took of the seed of the land and planted it in fertile soil; he placed it beside abundant waters. He set it like a willow twig,⁶ and it sprouted and became a low spreading vine, and its branches turned toward him, and its roots remained where it stood. So it became a vine, and brought forth branches and put forth foliage.

7 "But there was another great eagle with great wings and much plumage; and behold, this vine bent its roots toward him, and shot forth its branches toward him that he might water it. From the bed where it was planted ⁸ he transplanted it^h to good soil by abundant waters, that it might bring forth branches, and bear fruit, and become a noble vine.⁹ Say, Thus says the Lord God: Will it thrive? Will he not pull up its roots and cut off its branches,ⁱ so that all its fresh sprouting leaves wither? It will not take a strong arm or many people to pull it from its roots.¹⁰ Behold, when it is transplanted, will it thrive? Will it not utterly wither when the east wind strikes it—wither away on the bed where it grew?"

11 Then the word of the LORD came to me: ¹² "Say now to the rebellious house, Do you not know what these things mean? Tell them, Behold, the king of Babylon came to Jerusalem, and took her king and her princes and brought them to him to Babylon.

All three will be restored (Jer.12.14–17) and a new covenant established (Jer.31.31–34). 62: I will establish my covenant (see also v. 60), this phrase is characteristic of the "P" source in the Pentateuch (see Gen.6.18; 9.9,11; 17.7,19, etc.).

(The chief men of the land he had taken away, ¹⁴ that the kingdom might be humble and not lift itself up, and that by keeping his covenant it might stand.) ¹⁵ But he rebelled against him by sending ambassadors to Egypt, that they might give him horses and a large army. Will he succeed? Can a man escape who does such things? Can he break the covenant and yet escape? ¹⁶ As I live, says the Lord God, surely in the place where the king dwells who made him king, whose oath he despised, and whose covenant with him he broke, in Babylon he shall die. ¹⁷ Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company will not help him in war, when mounds are cast up and siege walls built to cut off many lives. ¹⁸ Because he despised the oath and broke the covenant, because he gave his hand and yet did all these things, he shall not escape. ¹⁹ Therefore thus says the Lord God: As I live, surely my oath which he despised, and my covenant which he broke, I will requite upon his head. ²⁰ I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare, and I will bring him to Babylon and enter into judgment with him there for the treason he has committed against me. ²¹ And all the pick^j of his troops shall fall by the sword, and the survivors shall be scattered to every wind; and you shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken."

18 The word of the LORD came to me again: ² "What do you mean by repeating this proverb concerning the land of Israel, 'The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge'? ³ As I live, says the Lord God, this proverb shall no more be used by you in Israel. ⁴ Behold, all souls are mine; the soul of the father as well as the soul of the son is mine: the soul that sins shall die.

18.1-32: Individual responsibility. 1-4: It is human to blame someone else for one's plight; the exiles did this, blaming their fathers for their misfortunes (Jer.31.27-30), presumably based on the covenant provision in Ex.20.5. Ezekiel points out that the blame rests directly upon themselves. This discussion parallels the provision regarding three generations in Ex.20.5. 5-9: First generation. Eat upon the mountains, sacred meals in pagan high places (6.1-14). The list includes moral and religious provisions; note the strong legalistic emphasis: if he is "careful

10 “If he begets a son who is a robber, a shedder of blood,”¹¹ who does none of these duties, but eats upon the mountains, defiles his neighbor’s wife,¹² oppresses the poor and needy, commits robbery, does not restore the pledge, lifts up his eyes to the idols, commits abomination,¹³ lends at interest, and takes increase; shall he then live? He shall not live. He has done all these abominable things; he shall surely die; his blood shall be upon himself.

14 “But if this man begets a son who sees all the sins which his father has done, and fears, and does not do likewise,¹⁵ who does not eat upon the mountains or lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, does not defile his neighbor’s wife,¹⁶ does not wrong any one, exacts no pledge, commits no robbery, but gives his bread to the hungry and covers the naked with a garment,¹⁷ withholds his hand from iniquity,¹⁸ takes no interest or increase, observes my ordinances, and walks in my statutes; he shall not die for his father’s iniquity; he shall surely live.¹⁸ As for his father, because he practiced extortion, robbed his brother, and did what is not good among his people, behold, he shall die for his iniquity.

19 “Yet you say, ‘Why should not the son suffer for the iniquity of the father?’ When the son has done what is lawful and right, and has been careful to observe all my statutes, he shall surely live.²⁰ The soul that sins shall die. The son shall not suffer for the iniquity of the father, nor the father suffer for the iniquity of the son; the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself.

21 “But if a wicked man turns away from all his sins which he has committed and keeps all my statutes and does what is lawful and right, he shall surely live; he shall not die.²² None of the transgressions which he has committed shall be remembered against him; for the righteousness which he has done he shall live.²³ Have I any pleasure in the death of the wicked, says the Lord God, and not rather that he should turn from his way and live?²⁴ But when a righteous man turns away from his righteousness and commits iniquity and does the same abominable things that the wicked man does, shall he live? None of the righteous deeds which he has done shall be remembered; for the treachery of which he is guilty and the sin he has committed, he shall die.

25 “Yet you say, ‘The way of the Lord is not just.’ Hear now, O house of Israel: Is my way not just? Is it not your ways that are not just?²⁶ When a righteous man turns away from his righteousness and commits iniquity, he shall die for it; for the iniquity which he has committed he shall die.²⁷ Again, when a wicked man turns away from the wickedness he has committed and does what is lawful and right, he shall save his life.²⁸ Because he considered and turned away from all the transgressions which he had committed, he shall surely live, he shall not die.²⁹ Yet the house of Israel says, ‘The way of the Lord is not just.’ O house of Israel, are my ways not just? Is it not your ways that are not just?

19 And you, take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel, ² and say:

- What a lioness was your mother among lions!
She couched in the midst of young lions,
rearing her whelps.
³ And she brought up one of her whelps;
he became a young lion,
and he learned to catch prey;
he devoured men.
⁴ The nations sounded an alarm against him;
he was taken in their pit;
and they brought him with hooks to the land of Egypt.
⁵ When she saw that she was baffled,^p
that her hope was lost,
she took another of her whelps
and made him a young lion.
⁶ He prowled among the lions;
he became a young lion,
and he learned to catch prey;
he devoured men.
⁷ And he ravaged their strongholds,^q
and laid waste their cities;
and the land was appalled and all who were in it
at the sound of his roaring.

- ⁸ Then the nations set against him snares^r on every side;
they spread their net over him;
he was taken in their pit.
⁹ With hooks they put him in a cage,
and brought him to the king of Babylon;
they brought him into custody,
that his voice should no more be heard
upon the mountains of Israel.
¹⁰ Your mother was like a vine in a vineyard^s transplanted by the water, fruitful and full of branches
by reason of abundant water.
¹¹ Its strongest stem became a ruler's scepter;
it towered aloft
among the thick boughs;
it was seen in its height
with the mass of its branches.
¹² But the vine was plucked up in fury,
cast down to the ground;
the east wind dried it up;
its fruit was stripped off,
its strong stem was withered;
the fire consumed it.
¹³ Now it is transplanted in the wilderness,
in a dry and thirsty land.
¹⁴ And fire has gone out from its stem,
has consumed its branches and fruit,
so that there remains in it no strong stem,
no scepter for a ruler.

This is a lamentation, and has become a lamentation.

justice. 30-32: Because God is just, Israel's only hope is to repent and renew their covenant with him (v. 23; 36.24-32; Lam.3.33).

19.1-14: Two laments. 1-9: The lioness is Judah (Gen.49.9; symbol of Judah in 1 Kg.10.18-20 and found on Israelite seals). The first whelp is Jehoahaz, who was taken to Egypt (Jer. 22.10-12; 2 Kg.23.30-34). Jehoiachin, the second whelp, was exiled to Babylon (Jer.22.24-30; 2 Kg.24.8-16). Each reigned only three months and accomplished little, so the description should not be pressed. 10-14: The vine is Judah (Is.5.1-7; Jer.2.21). The strongest stem is Zedekiah (17.13) who was stripped (Jer.6.9) by the east wind (Nebuchadrezzar) and taken to Babylon (transplanted; Jer.52.1-11).

20 In the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, certain of the elders of Israel came to inquire of the LORD, and sat before me. ² And the word of the LORD came to me: ³ "Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel, and say to them, Thus says the Lord God, Is it to inquire of me that you come? As I live, says the Lord God, I will not be inquired of by you. ⁴ Will you judge them, son of man, will you judge them? Then let them know the abominations of their fathers, ⁵ and say to them, Thus says the Lord God: On the day when I chose Israel, I swore to the seed of the house of Jacob, making myself known to them in the land of Egypt, I swore to them, saying, I am the LORD your God. ⁶ On that day I swore to them that I would bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land that I had searched out for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most glorious of all lands. ⁷ And I said to them, Cast away the detestable things your eyes feast on, every one of you, and do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt; I am the LORD your God. ⁸ But they rebelled against me and would not listen to me; they did not every man cast away the detestable things their eyes feasted on, nor did they forsake the idols of Egypt.

"Then I thought I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt. ⁹ But I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations among whom they dwelt, in whose sight I made myself known to them in bringing them out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁰ So I led them out of the land of Egypt and brought them into the wilderness. ¹¹ I gave them my statutes and showed them my ordinances, by whose observance man shall live. ¹² Moreover I gave them my sabbaths, as a sign between me and them, that they might know that I the LORD sanctify them. ¹³ But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness; they did not walk in my statutes but rejected my ordinances, by whose observance man shall live; and my sabbaths they greatly profaned.

"Then I thought I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to make a full end of them. ¹⁴ But I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. ¹⁵ Moreover I swore to them in the wilderness that I would not bring them into the land which I had given them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most glorious of all lands, ¹⁶ because they rejected my ordinances and did not walk in my statutes, and profaned my sabbaths; for their heart went after their idols. ¹⁷ Nevertheless my eye spared them, and I did not destroy them or make a full end of them in the wilderness.

¹⁸ "And I said to their children in the wilderness, Do not walk in the statutes of your fathers, nor observe their ordinances, nor defile yourselves with their idols. ¹⁹ I the LORD am your God; walk in my statutes, and be careful to observe my ordinances, ²⁰ and hallow my sabbaths that they may be a sign between me and you,

20.1-44: The fall and rise of Israel (compare Ps. 106). 1-4: Setting: August 14, 591 B.C. Elders of the Exile, 14.1-11. 5-8: Apostasy in Egypt, where Israel served idols (Jos.24.14). There is some chronological confusion: God's promise to Israel was traditionally in a Palestinian setting (Gen.28.13-15); his revelation, I am the LORD your God, in the wilderness (Ex.20.2). 9-26: Apostasy in the wilderness. For the sake of my name (36.22; Jer.14.7; Ps. 106.8) expresses the important concept that Israel's delivery from Egypt, the wilderness, and eventually from the Exile, was not accomplished because of Israel's intrinsic worth, but to demonstrate to all who would see that God is faithful and he alone is God (v. 44; Num.14.13-19). 12-13: Of interest is the picture here of the institution of the sabbath in the wilderness period (Ex.31.13); compare the emphasis on the divine institution of the sabbath at creation in the "P" source in Genesis (Gen.2.1-3). The proper observance of the sabbath (see Jer.17.19-27 n.) became that you may know that I the LORD am your God.²¹ But the children rebelled against me; they did not walk in my statutes, and were not careful to observe my ordinances, by whose observance man shall live; they profaned my sabbaths.

"Then I thought I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the wilderness.²² But I withheld my hand, and acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out.²³ Moreover I swore to them in the wilderness that I would scatter them among the nations and disperse them through the countries,²⁴ because they had not executed my ordinances, but had rejected my statutes and profaned my sabbaths, and their eyes were set on their fathers' idols.²⁵ Moreover I gave them statutes that were not good and ordinances by which they could not have life;²⁶ and I defiled them through their very gifts in making them offer by fire all their first-born, that I might horrify them; I did it that they might know that I am the LORD.

27 "Therefore, son of man, speak to the house of Israel and say to them, Thus says the Lord God: In this again your fathers blasphemed me, by dealing treacherously with me.²⁸ For when I had brought them into the land which I swore to give them, then wherever they saw any high hill or any leafy tree, there they offered their sacrifices and presented the provocation of their offering; there they sent up their soothing odors, and there they poured out their drink offerings.²⁹ (I said to them, What is the high place to which you go? So its name is called Bamah^t to this day.)³⁰ Wherefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God: Will you defile yourselves after the manner of your fathers and go astray after their detestable things?³¹ When you offer your gifts and sacrifice your sons by fire, you defile yourselves with all your idols to this day. And shall I be inquired of by you, O house of Israel? As I live, says the Lord God, I will not be inquired of by you.

32 "What is in your mind shall never happen—the thought, 'Let us be like the nations, like the tribes of the countries, and worship wood and stone.'

33 "As I live, says the Lord God, surely with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and with wrath poured out, I will be king over you.³⁴ I will bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you are scattered, with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and with wrath poured out;³⁵ and I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there I will enter into judgment with you face to face.³⁶ As I entered into judgment with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will enter into judgment with you, says the Lord God.³⁷ I will make you pass under the rod, and I will let you go in by number.³⁸ I will purge out the rebels from among you, and those who transgress against me; I will bring them out of the land where they sojourn, but they shall not enter the land of Israel. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

increasingly important in post-exilic Judaism (Mt.12.1-8; Jn.9.13-16). 25-26: This seems to contradict Jer.7.31, Lev.18.21, and the nature of God himself. One may interpret it as God's allowing his people to degenerate to this level so that they might conclusively learn his superiority to any man-made deity (Jer.19.4-6); these events, however, post-date the wilderness period. 27-29: Apostasy in Canaan. The emphasis is on the fertility cult associated with the high places (6.1-7; 16.15-22). 30-31: In view of their constant faithlessness, they should not presume to approach God now. 32-39: As in the Sinai wilderness (Num.14.13-25), the unfaithful will be purged in the Syrian wilderness. hereafter, if you will not listen to me; but my holy name you shall no more profane with your gifts and your idols.

40 "For on my holy mountain, the mountain height of Israel, says the Lord GOD, there all the house of Israel, all of them, shall serve me in the land; there I will accept them, and there I will require your contributions and the choicest of your gifts, with all your sacred offerings. ⁴¹ As a pleasing odor I will accept you, when I bring you out from the peoples, and gather you out of the countries where you have been scattered; and I will manifest my holiness among you in the sight of the nations. ⁴² And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I bring you into the land of Israel, the country which I swore to give to your fathers. ⁴³ And there you shall remember your ways and all the doings with which you have polluted yourselves; and you shall loathe yourselves for all the evils that you have committed. ⁴⁴ And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I deal with you for my name's sake, not according to your evil ways, nor according to your corrupt doings, O house of Israel, says the Lord GOD."

45^v And the word of the LORD came to me: ⁴⁶ "Son of man, set your face toward the south, preach against the south, and prophesy against the forest land in the Negeb; ⁴⁷ say to the forest of the Negeb, Hear the word of the LORD: Thus says the Lord GOD, Behold, I will kindle a fire in you, and it shall devour every green tree in you and every dry tree; the blazing flame shall not be quenched, and all faces from south to north shall be scorched by it. ⁴⁸ All flesh shall see that I the LORD have kindled it; it shall not be

21^w The word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, set your face toward Jerusalem and preach against the sanctuaries; prophesy against the land of Israel ³ and say to the land of Israel, Thus says the LORD: Behold, I am against you, and will draw forth my sword out of its sheath, and will cut off from you both righteous and wicked. ⁴ Because I will cut off from you both righteous and wicked, therefore my sword shall go out of its sheath against all flesh from south to north; ⁵ and all flesh shall know that I the LORD have drawn my sword out of its sheath; it shall not be sheathed again. ⁶ Sigh therefore, son of man; sigh with breaking heart and bitter grief before their eyes. ⁷ And when they say to you, 'Why do you sigh?' you shall say, 'Because of the tidings. When it comes, every heart will melt and all hands will be feeble, every spirit will faint and all knees will be weak as water. Behold, it comes and it will be fulfilled,' " says the Lord GOD.

8 And the word of the LORD came to me: ⁹ "Son of man, prophesy and say, Thus says the Lord, Say:

I have given the glittering sword; ah! it is made like lightning, it is polished^x for slaughter. ¹⁶ Cut sharply to right^y and left where your edge is directed. ¹⁷ I also will clap my hands, and I will satisfy my fury; I the LORD have spoken."

18 The word of the LORD came to me again: ¹⁹ "Son of man, mark two ways for the sword of the king of Babylon to come; both of them shall come forth from the same land. And make a signpost, make it at the head of the way to a city; ²⁰ mark a way for the sword to come to Rabbah of the Ammonites and to Judah and to^z Jerusalem the fortified. ²¹ For the king of Babylon stands at the parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, to use divination; he shakes the arrows, he consults the teraphim, he looks at the liver. ²² Into his right hand comes the lot for Jerusalem,^a to open the mouth with a cry,^b to lift up the voice with shouting, to set battering rams against the gates, to cast up mounds, to build siege towers. ²³ But to them it will seem like a false divination; they have sworn solemn oaths; but he brings their guilt to remembrance, that they may be captured.

24 "Therefore thus says the Lord God: Because you have made your guilt to be remembered, in that your transgressions are uncovered, so that in all your doings your sins appear—because you have come to remembrance, you shall be taken in them.^c ²⁵ And you, O unhallowed wicked one, prince of Israel, whose day has come, the time of your final punishment, ²⁶ thus says the Lord God: Remove the turban, and take off the crown; things shall not remain as they are; exalt that which is low, and abase that which is high. ²⁷ A ruin, ruin, ruin I will make it; there shall not be even a trace^d of it until he comes whose right it is; and to him I will give it.

28 "And you, son of man, prophecy, and say, Thus says the Lord God concerning the Ammonites, and concerning their reproach; say, A sword, a sword is drawn for the slaughter, it is polished to glitter^e and to flash like lightning—²⁹ while they see for you false visions, while they divine lies for you—to be laid on the necks of the unhallowed wicked, whose day has come, the time of their final punishment. ³⁰ Return it to its sheath. In the place where you were created, in the land of your origin, I will judge you. ³¹ And I will pour out my indignation upon you; I will blow upon you with the fire of my wrath; and I will deliver you into the hands of brutal men, skilful to destroy. ³² You shall be fuel for the fire; your blood shall be in the midst of the land; you shall be no more remembered; for I the LORD have spoken."

Perhaps from Riblah (compare 2 Kg.25.6), Nebuchadrezzar determines which rebel to attack first by using divination: belomancy (i.e. casting of arrows with names of projected victims on the heads); consultation of teraphim, an oracular device the use of which is unclear (Hos.3.4); and hepatoscopy (analytical observation of the configurations and markings of sheep livers). 22 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, ² "And you, son of man, will you judge, will you judge the bloody city? Then declare to her all her abominable deeds. ³ You shall say, Thus says the Lord GOD: A city that sheds blood in the midst of her, that her time may come, and that makes idols to defile herself! ⁴ You have become guilty by the blood which you have shed, and defiled by the idols which you have made; and you have brought your day near, the appointed time^f of your years has come. Therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations, and a mocking to all the countries. ⁵ Those who are near and those who are far from you will mock you, you infamous one, full of tumult.

⁶ "Behold, the princes of Israel in you, every one according to his power, have been bent on shedding blood. ⁷ Father and mother are treated with contempt in you; the sojourner suffers extortion in your midst; the fatherless and the widow are wronged in you. ⁸ You have despised my holy things, and profaned my sabbaths. ⁹ There are men in you who slander to shed blood, and men in you who eat upon the mountains; men commit lewdness in your midst. ¹⁰ In you men uncover their fathers' nakedness; in you they humble women who are unclean in their impurity. ¹¹ One commits abomination with his neighbor's wife; another lewdly defiles his daughter-in-law; another in you defiles his sister, his father's daughter. ¹² In you men take bribes to shed blood; you take interest and increase and make gain of your neighbors by extortion; and you

22.1–31: Oracles of indictment. 1–16: This writ of indictment contains a catalogue of sins (18.5–18) including idolatry (6.2–14; 14.3–5), injustice (18.12), violence (7.23), slander (Jer.6.28), adultery and fornication (18.6; Jer.3.1–4), and extortion—a list reminiscent of the regulations in the Holiness Code, Lev. chs. 17–26. In scorn and anger (strike my hands together, 6.11; 21.14,17) God will wreak punishment upon this bloody city (Nah.3.1, referring to Nineveh). 17–22: The judgment will be like a smelter in which base metals are removed; so Judah must endure the rigorous refining process and be purified of her baseness (Is.1.22–25; Jer.6.27–30). 23–31: This oracle seems to come after Jerusalem's fall (587 B.C.; v. 31) and describes Judah's sinfulness in

⁵ "Oho'lah played the harlot while she was mine; and she doted on her lovers the Assyrians, ⁶ warriors clothed in purple, governors and commanders, all of them desirable young men, horsemen riding on horses. ⁷ She bestowed her harlotries upon them, the choicest men of Assyria all of them; and she defiled herself with all the idols of every one on whom she doted. ⁸ She did not give up her harlotry which she had practiced since her days in Egypt; for in her youth men had lain with her and handled her virgin bosom and poured out their lust upon her. ⁹ Therefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, into the hands of the Assyrians, upon whom she doted. ¹⁰ These uncovered her nakedness; they seized her sons and her daughters; and her they slew with the sword; and she became a byword among women, when judgment had been executed upon her.

i Gk: Heb a conspiracy of her prophets retrospect. All classes of Judean society were corrupt (Jer.8.8-10): princes, priests (Jer.2.8; Zeph.3.4), nobles (Mic.7.3), prophets (13.10-16), and people (12.19); and all must be punished (Jer.6.27).

23.1-49: The allegory of the sisters, Oholah and Oholibah (compare ch. 16). 1-4: Introduction. Israel's apostasy began in Egypt (20.5-9). The word-play Oholah, "she who has a tent" (i.e. Samaria), and Oholibah, "my tent [is] in her" (i.e. Jerusalem), suggests that though Samaria had a sanctuary (tent) THE sanctuary was in Jerusalem, thus emphasizing the enormity of Judah's apostasy. Or it may refer to the pagan sanctuaries (16.16) found in both lands. On the marrying of sisters, see Gen.31.41; Lev.18.18. 5-10: Oholah. Like Hosea (8.9-10), Isaiah (7.1-9), and Jeremiah (4.30; same word for "lovers" in Ezek.23.9), Ezekiel viewed foreign alliances as disloyalty to God, though alternatives were not always politically available. Jehu (842-815 B.C.) surrendered to Shalmaneser III of Assyria; Jehoahaz (815-801) paid tribute to Adad-Nirari III, as did Menahem (745-738) to Tiglath-Pileser III (2 Kg.15.19-29) and Hoshea (732-724) to Shalmaneser V (2 Kg.17.1-14). 11-21: Oholibah. Judah, like Samaria, was tributary to Assyria, Ahaz (735-715 B.C.) to Tiglath-Pileser III (2 Kg.16.7-9), Hezekiah (715-687) was worse than that of her sister.

¹² She doted upon the Assyrians, governors and commanders, warriors clothed in full armor, horsemen riding on horses, all of them desirable young men. ¹³ And I saw that she was defiled; they both took the same way.

¹⁴ But she carried her harlotry further; she saw men portrayed upon the wall, the images of the Chalde'ans portrayed in vermilion, ¹⁵ girded with belts on their loins, with flowing turbans on their heads, all of them looking like officers, a picture of Babylonians whose native land was Chaldea.

¹⁶ When she saw them she doted upon them, and sent messengers to them in Chaldea. ¹⁷ And the Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, and they defiled her with their lust; and after she was polluted by them, she turned from them in disgust. ¹⁸ When she carried on her harlotry so openly and flaunted her nakedness, I turned in disgust from her, as I had turned from her sister. ¹⁹ Yet she increased her harlotry, remembering the days of her youth, when she played the harlot in the land of Egypt ²⁰ and doted upon her paramours there, whose members were like those of asses, and whose issue was like that of horses. ²¹ Thus you longed for the lewdness of your youth, when the Egyptians^j handled your bosom and pressed^k your young breasts."

²² Therefore, O Ohol'ibah, thus says the Lord God: "Behold, I will rouse against you your lovers from whom you turned in disgust, and I will bring them against you from every side: ²³ the Babylonians and all the Chalde'ans, Pekod and Sho'a and Ko'a, and all the Assyrians with them, desirable young men, governors and commanders all of them, officers and warriors,^l all of them riding on horses.

²⁴ And they shall come against you from the north^m with chariots and wagons and a host of peoples; they shall set themselves against you on every side with buckler, shield, and helmet, and I will commit the judgment to them, and they shall judge you according to their judgments. ²⁵ And I will direct my indignation against you, that they may deal with you in fury. They shall cut off your nose and your ears, and your survivors shall fall by the sword. They shall seize your sons and your daughters, and your survivors shall be devoured by fire. ²⁶ They shall also strip you of your clothes and take away your fine jewels. ²⁷ Thus I will put an end to your lewdness and your harlotry brought from the land of Egypt; so that you shall not lift up your eyes to the Egyptians or remember them any more. ²⁸ For thus says the Lord God: Behold, I will deliver you into the hands of those whom you hate, into the hands of those from whom you turned in disgust; ²⁹ and they shall deal with you in hatred, and take away all the fruit of your labor, and leave you naked and bare, and the nakedness of your harlotry shall be uncovered. Your lewdness and your harlotry ³⁰ have brought this upon you, because you played the harlot with the nations, and polluted yourself with their idols. ³¹ You have gone the way of your sister; therefore I will give her cup into your hand. ³² Thus says the Lord God:

to Sennacherib (2 Kg.18.1-36), and Manasseh (687-642) to Esarhaddon. Judah made alliances with Babylon; Hezekiah with Merodach-Baladan (2 Kg.20.12-21), Jehoiakim and Zedekiah with Nebuchadrezzar (2 Kg.24.1; compare Jer.22.18-23; 2 Kg.24.17; compare Jer.27.1-22) as well as with Egypt (Jer.2.18,36), and in both instances probably others not known to us (Hos. 7.11). The prophets' objections were based on the inherent, and demonstrated, dangers of syncretism and apostasy (2 Kg.16.7-19). 22-35: Such faithlessness, religious and political, will be punished. The Babylonians, their Aramean mercenaries (Pekod, Jer.50.21; Shoa and Koa), and Assyrian auxiliaries will devastate the land (strip you; leave you naked). From the north, the usual invasion route from Mesopotamia into Palestine (Jer.4.6; 6.1; 25.9). The oracle of the cup

"You shall drink your sister's cup which is deep and large;
you shall be laughed at and held in derision,
for it contains much;
³³ you will be filled with drunkenness
and sorrow.

A cup of horror and desolation,
is the cup of your sister Sama'ria;
³⁴ you shall drink it and drain it out,
and pluck out your hair,"
and tear your breasts;

for I have spoken, says the Lord GOD.

³⁵ Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
Because you have forgotten me and cast me behind your back, therefore bear the consequences of your lewd-ness and harlotry."

36 The LORD said to me: "Son of man, will you judge Oho'lah and Ohol'ibah? Then declare to them their abominable deeds. ³⁷ For they have committed adultery, and blood is upon their hands; with their idols they have committed adultery; and they have even offered up to them for food the sons whom they had borne to me.

³⁸ Moreover this they have done to me: they have defiled my sanctuary on the same day and profaned my sabbaths. ³⁹ For when they had slaughtered their children in sacrifice to their idols, on the same day they came into my sanctuary to profane it.
And lo, this is what they did in my house. ⁴⁰ They even sent for men to come from far, to whom a messenger was sent, and lo, they came. For them you bathed yourself, painted your eyes, and decked yourself with ornaments; ⁴¹ you sat upon a stately couch, with a table spread before it on which you had placed my incense and my oil. ⁴² The sound of a carefree multitude was with her; and with men of the common sort drunkards^o were brought from the wilderness; and they put bracelets upon the hands of the women, and beautiful crowns upon their heads.

43 "Then I said, Do not men now commit adultery^p when they practice harlotry with her? ⁴⁴ For they have gone in to her, as men go in to a harlot.
Thus they went in to Oho'lah and to Ohol'ibah to commit lewdness.^q ⁴⁵ But righteous men shall pass judgment on them with the sentence of adulteresses, and with the sentence of women that shed blood; because they are adulteresses, and blood is upon their hands."

46 For thus says the Lord GOD:
"Bring up a host against them, and make them an object of terror and a spoil. ⁴⁷ And the host shall stone them
and dispatch them with their swords;
they shall slay their sons and their daughters, and burn up their houses.
⁴⁸ Thus will I put an end to lewdness in the land, that all women may take warning and not commit lewdness as you have done. ⁴⁹ And your lewdness shall be requited upon you, and you shall bear the penalty for your sinful idolatry; and you shall know that I am the Lord GOD."

24 In the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to

of wrath (vv. 32-34; Jer.25.15-29; Hab.2.16) assigns Samaria's fate to Jerusalem. 36-49: As the adulteress is stoned (Lev.20.10), so the adultery (i.e. human sacrifice, pagan worship, profanation of the sabbath) of Samaria and Judah (Jer.4.30) has been and will be punished—with death.

24.1-27: The beginning of the end. 1-14: The allegory of the caldron (Jer.1.13-19) combines two themes (perhaps from two oracles). In the caldron (i.e. Jerusalem, 11.3-12) everyone, the good and bad (21.4; Mic.2.2-3), will be boiled as the besiegers heap wood (siege equipment) around it. The contents will be thoroughly boiled, the pot emptied (i.e. after the siege), and the bones burned (a reference to the sacking of the city). Verses 6 and 11 introduce the theme of corrosion, referring to Jerusalem's bloody past (22.2-12; Gen.4.10-11). Recalling the theme of refining (22.17-22), this corrosion must be burned out. 1: The date of the oracle is January 15, 588 B.C.

me: ² "Son of man, write down the name of this day, this very day. The king of Babylon has laid siege to Jerusalem this very day. ³ And utter an allegory to the rebellious house and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD:

Set on the pot, set it on,
pour in water also;
⁴ put in it the pieces of flesh,
all the good pieces, the thigh and
the shoulder;
fill it with choice bones.
⁵ Take the choicest one of the flock,
pile the logs^r under it;
boil its pieces,^s seethe^t also its bones in it.

⁶ "Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the bloody city, to the pot whose rust is in it, and whose rust has not gone out of it! Take out of it piece after piece, without making any choice."^u ⁷ For the blood she has shed is still in the midst of her; she put it on the bare rock, she did not pour it upon the ground to cover it with dust.
⁸ To rouse my wrath, to take vengeance, I have set on the bare rock the blood she has shed, that it may not be covered. ⁹ Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the bloody city! I also will make the pile great. ¹⁰ Heap on the logs, kindle the fire, boil well the flesh, and empty out the broth,^v and let the bones be burned up. ¹¹ Then set it empty upon the coals, that it may become hot, and its copper may burn, that its filthiness may be melted in it, its rust consumed. ¹² In vain I have wearied myself;^w its thick rust does not go out of it by fire. ¹³ Its rust is your filthy lewdness. Because I would have cleansed you and you were not cleansed from your filthiness, you shall not be cleansed any more till I have satisfied my fury upon you. ¹⁴ I the LORD have spoken; it shall come to pass, I will do it; I will not go back, I will not spare, I will not repent; according to your ways and your doings I will judge you, says the Lord GOD."

¹⁵ Also the word of the LORD came to me: ¹⁶ "Son of man, behold, I am about to take the delight of your eyes away from you at a stroke; yet you shall not mourn or weep nor shall your tears run down. ¹⁷ Sigh, but not aloud; make no mourning for the dead. Bind on your turban, and put your shoes on your feet; do not cover your lips, nor eat the bread of mourners^x."
¹⁸ So I spoke to the people in the morning, and at evening my wife died. And on the next morning I did as I was commanded.

¹⁹ And the people said to me, "Will you not tell us what these things mean for us, that you are acting thus?"
²⁰ Then I said to them, "The word of the LORD came to me: ²¹ 'Say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will profane my sanctuary, the pride of your power, the delight of your eyes, and the desire of your soul; and your sons and your daughters whom you left behind shall fall by the sword. ²² And you shall do as I have done; you shall not cover your lips, nor eat the bread of mourners.^x ²³ Your turbans shall be on your heads and your shoes on your feet; you shall not mourn or weep, but you shall pine away in your iniquities and groan to one another. ²⁴ Thus shall Ezekiel be to you a sign; according to all that he has done you shall do. When this comes, then you will know that I am the Lord GOD.'

²⁶ on that day a fugitive will come to you to report to you the news. ²⁷ On that day your mouth will be opened to the fugitive, and you shall speak and be no longer dumb. So you will be a sign to them; and they will know that I am the LORD."

25 The word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, set your face toward the Ammonites, and prophesy against them. ³ Say to the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD, Because you said, 'Aha!' over my sanctuary when it was profaned, and over the land of Israel when it was made desolate, and over the house of Judah when it went into exile; ⁴ therefore I am handing you over to the people of the East for a possession, and they shall set their encampments among you and make their dwellings in your midst; they shall eat your fruit, and they shall drink your milk. ⁵ I will make Rabbah a pasture for camels and the cities of the Ammonites^y a fold for flocks. Then you will know that I am the LORD. ⁶ For thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have clapped your hands and stamped your feet and rejoiced with all the malice within you against the land of Israel, ⁷ therefore, behold, I have stretched out my hand against you, and will hand you over as spoil to the nations; and I will cut you off from the peoples and will make you perish out of the countries; I will destroy you. 25.1-17: Oracles against Ammon, Moab, Edom, and Philistia. 1-7: Against Ammon (21.28-32; Am.1.13-15; Jer.49.1-6). Ammon, which had seized one-time Israelite territory (Jer.49.1), is to be occupied by the people of the East (Is.11.14), i.e. Arab tribes, whose expansion during this period pushed the Edomites into southern Judah (vv. 12-14). This Arab expansion eventually produced the Nabatean empire (compare 2 Cor.11:32). 8-11: Against Moab. Compare Jer.48.1-47. 26 In the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, because Tyre said concerning Jerusalem, 'Aha, the gate of the peoples is broken, it has swung open to me; I shall be replenished, now that she is laid waste,' ³ therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against you, O Tyre, and will bring up many nations against you, as the sea brings up its waves. ⁴ They shall destroy the walls of Tyre, and break down her towers; and I will scrape her soil from her, and make her a bare rock. ⁵ She shall be in the midst of the sea a place for the spreading of nets; for I have spoken, says the Lord GOD; and she shall become a spoil to the nations; ⁶ and her daughters on the mainland shall be slain by the sword. Then they will know that I am the LORD.

⁷ "For thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will bring upon Tyre from the north Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, king of kings, with horses and chariots, and with horsemen and a host of many soldiers. ⁸ He will slay with the sword your daughters on the mainland; he will set up a siege wall against you, and throw up a mound against you, and raise a roof of shields against you. ⁹ He will direct the shock of his battering rams against your walls, and with his axes he will break down your towers. ¹⁰ His horses will be so many that their dust will cover you;

your walls will shake at the noise of the horsemen and wagons and chariots, when he enters your gates as one enters a city which has been breached.

¹¹ With the hoofs of his horses he will trample all your streets; he will slay your people with the sword; and your mighty pillars will fall to the ground. ¹² They will make a spoil of your riches and a prey of your merchandise; they will break down your walls and destroy your pleasant houses; your stones and timber and soil they will cast into the midst of the waters. ¹³ And I will stop the music of your songs, and the sound of your lyres shall be heard no more. ¹⁴ I will make you a bare rock; you shall be a place for the spreading of nets; you shall never be rebuilt; for I the LORD have spoken, says the Lord GOD.

¹⁵ "Thus says the Lord GOD to Tyre: Will not the coastlands shake at the sound of your fall, when the wounded groan, when slaughter is made in the midst of you? ¹⁶ Then all the princes of the sea will step down from their thrones, and remove their robes, and strip off their embroidered garments; they will clothe themselves with trembling; they will sit upon the ground and tremble every moment, and be appalled at you. ¹⁷ And they will raise a lamentation over you, and say to you,

26.1-28.19: Oracles against Tyre. 26.1-21: Tyre is to be destroyed by Nebuchadrezzar. Note the four divisions of the oracle, each with the introductory "Thus says the Lord God" (vv. 3,7,15,19). 26.1-6: Announcement of the judgment. For its failure to aid its ally Jerusalem (Jer.27.3), and because of its inordinate pride (28.2-10), Tyre is to fall. 4: Rock, in Hebrew a play on the word "Tyre," which could also be read as "rock." 7-14: With mighty siege works, Nebuchadrezzar will besiege the city, which lay a half mile off-shore on an island, and he will occupy its suburbs (daughters) on the mainland. Nebuchadrezzar's thirteen-year siege of Tyre apparently began shortly after Jerusalem's fall (the eleventh year of v. 1 should perhaps be read "the twelfth year" with the Septuagint; namely 586 B.C.), and ended in a negotiated settlement (29.18). Tyre finally fell to Alexander the Great in 332 B.C. 14: Compare vv. 4-5. 15-18: Lamentation of the princes of the sea, perhaps cities in trade alliance with Tyre. 19-21:

28 The word of the LORD came to me: ² “Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre, Thus says the Lord God:

“Because your heart is proud,
and you have said, ‘I am a god,
I sit in the seat of the gods,
in the heart of the seas,’
yet you are but a man, and no god, though you consider yourself as wise as a god—

³ you are indeed wiser than Daniel;
no secret is hidden from you;

⁴ by your wisdom and your
understanding
you have gotten wealth for yourself,
and have gathered gold and silver
into your treasuries;

⁵ by your great wisdom in trade
you have increased your wealth,
and your heart has become proud
in your wealth—

⁶ therefore thus says the Lord God:
“Because you consider yourself
as wise as a god,

⁷ therefore, behold, I will bring strangers upon you,
the most terrible of the nations;
and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of your wisdom
and defile your splendor.

⁸ They shall thrust you down into the Pit,
and you shall die the death of the slain
in the heart of the seas.

⁹ Will you still say, ‘I am a god,’
in the presence of those who slay
you,

god,
in the hands of those who wound
you?

¹¹ Moreover the word of the LORD came to me: ¹² “Son of man, raise a lamentation over the king of Tyre, and 28.1–10: Oracle against Tyre, apparently using mythological themes, including the Canaanite story of Dan’el (see 14.12–23 n.) in which Dan’el is the wise judge of widows and orphans. Pride leads one to regard himself as God. Thus the prince of Tyre sat in the seat of the gods (compare Is.14.13–14); but he will be slain by the most terrible of the nations, Babylonia (30.10–11), and come to an ignominious end (the death of the uncircumcized) in Sheol (31.14–18).

28.11–19: Lamentation over the king of Tyre, based on a variant version of the Eden story. Man, created as a perfect being, dwelt in Eden, with a covering of precious stones (compare the twelve precious stones of the ephod in Ex.28.17–20 and the description of the heavenly Jerusalem in Rev.4.1–6; 21.15–21). But pride and idolatry caused his banishment by the guardian

¹⁵ You were blameless in your ways

¹⁶ In the abundance of your trade you were filled with violence, and you sinned;
 so I cast you as a profane thing from the mountain of God,
 and the guardian cherub drove you

¹⁷ Your heart was proud because of your beauty;
 you corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor.
 I cast you to the ground;
 I exposed you before kings,
 to feast their eyes on you.
¹⁸ By the multitude of your iniquities,
 in the unrighteousness of your trade
 you profaned your sanctuaries;
 so I brought forth fire from the midst
 of you;
 it consumed you,
 and I turned you to ashes upon the

 in the sight of all who saw you.

the midst of desolated countries; and her cities shall be a desolation forty years among cities that are laid waste. I will scatter the Egyptians among the na-countries.

¹³ “For thus says the Lord God:
At the end of forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples among whom they were scattered; ¹⁴ and I will restore the fortunes of Egypt, and bring them back to the land of Pathros, the land of their origin; and there they shall be a lowly kingdom. ¹⁵ It shall be the most lowly of the kingdoms, and never again exalt itself above the na-

²⁶ "Meshech and Tubal are there, and all their multitude, their graves round about them, all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword; for they spread terror in the land of the living. ²⁷ And they do not lie with the fallen mighty men of old^q who went down to Sheol with their weapons of war, whose swords were laid under their heads, and whose shields^r are upon their bones; for the terror of the mighty men was in the land of the living. ²⁸ So you shall be broken and lie among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword.

³¹ "When Pharaoh sees them, he will comfort himself for all his multitude, Pharaoh and all his army, slain by the sword, says the Lord God. ³² For he^s spread terror in the land of the living; therefore he shall be laid among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword, Pharaoh and all his multitude, says the Lord God."

33 The word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, speak to your people and say to them, If I bring the sword upon a land, and the people of the land take a man from among them, and make him their watchman; ³ and if he sees the sword coming upon the land and blows the trumpet and warns the people; ⁴ then if any one who hears the sound of the trumpet does not take warning, and the sword comes and takes him away, his blood shall be upon his own head. ⁵ He heard the sound of the trumpet, and did not take warning; his blood shall be upon himself. But if he had taken warning, he would have saved his life. ⁶ But if the watchman sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, so that the people are not warned, and the sword comes, and takes any one of them; that man is taken away in his iniquity, but his blood I will require at the watchman's hand.

⁷ "So you, son of man, I have made a watchman for the house of Israel; whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. ⁸ If I say to the wicked, O wicked man, you shall surely die, and you do not speak to warn the wicked to turn from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, but his blood I will require at your hand. ⁹ But if you warn the wicked to turn from his way, and he does not turn from his way;

he shall die in his iniquity, but you will have saved your life.

10 "And you, son of man, say to the house of Israel, Thus have you said: 'Our transgressions and our sins are upon us, and we waste away because of them; how then can we live?' ¹¹ Say to them, As I live, says the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live; turn back, turn back from your evil ways; for why will you die, O house of Israel? ¹² And you, son of man, say to your people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him when he transgresses; and as for the wickedness of the wicked, he shall not fall by it when he turns from his wickedness; and the righteous shall not be able to live by his righteousness' when he sins. ¹³ Though I say to the righteous that he shall surely live, yet if he trusts in his righteousness and commits iniquity, none of his righteous deeds shall be remembered; but in the iniquity that he has committed he shall die. ¹⁴ Again, though I say to the wicked, 'You shall surely die,' yet if he turns from his sin and does what is lawful and right, ¹⁵ if the wicked restores the pledge, gives back what he has taken by robbery, and walks in the statutes of life, committing no iniquity; he shall surely live, he shall not die. ¹⁶ None of the sins that he has committed shall be remembered against him; he has done what is lawful and right, he shall surely live.

17 "Yet your people say, 'The way of the Lord is not just'; when it is their own way that is not just. ¹⁸ When the righteous turns from his righteousness, and commits iniquity, he shall die for it. ¹⁹ And when the wicked turns from his wickedness, and does what is lawful and right, he shall live by it. ²⁰ Yet you say, 'The way of the Lord is not just.' O house of Israel, I will judge each of you according to his ways."

21 In the twelfth year of our exile, in the tenth month, on the fifth day of the month, a man who had escaped from Jerusalem came to me and said, "The city has fallen." ²² Now the hand of the LORD had been upon me the evening before the fugitive came; and he had opened my mouth by the time the man came to me in the morning; so my mouth was opened, and I was no longer dumb.

23 The word of the LORD came to me: ²⁴ "Son of man, the inhabitants of these waste places in the land of Israel keep saying, 'Abraham was only one man, yet he got possession of the land; but we are many; the land is surely given us to possess.' ²⁵ Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: You eat flesh with the blood, and lift up your eyes to your idols, and shed blood; shall you then possess the land? ²⁶ You resort to the sword, you commit abominations and each of you defiles his neighbor's wife; shall you then possess the land? ²⁷ Say this to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, surely those who are in the waste places shall fall by the sword; and him that is in the open field I will give to the beasts to be devoured; and those who are in strongholds and in caves shall die by pestilence. ²⁸ And I will make the land a desolation and a waste; and her proud might shall come to an end; and the mountains of Israel shall be so desolate that none will pass through. ²⁹ Then they will know that I am the LORD, when I have made the land a desolation and a waste because of all their abominations which they have committed.

34 The word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say to them, even to the shepherds, Thus says the Lord GOD: Ho, shepherds of Israel who have been feeding yourselves! Should not shepherds feed the sheep? ³ You eat the fat, you clothe yourselves with the wool, you slaughter the fatlings; but you do not feed the sheep. ⁴ The weak you have not strengthened, the sick you have not healed, the crippled you have not bound up, the strayed you have not brought back, the lost you have not sought, and with force and harshness you have ruled them. ⁵ So they were scattered, because there was no shepherd; and they became food for all the wild beasts. ⁶ My sheep were scattered, they wandered over all the mountains and on every high hill; my sheep were scattered over all the face of the earth, with none to search or seek for them.

⁷ "Therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: ⁸ As I live, says the Lord GOD, because my sheep have become a prey, and my sheep have become food for all the wild beasts, since there was no shepherd; and because my shepherds have not searched for my sheep, but the shepherds have fed themselves, and have not fed my sheep; ⁹ therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: ¹⁰ Thus says the Lord GOD, Behold, I am against the shepherds; and I will require my sheep at their hand, and put a stop to their feeding the sheep; no longer shall the shepherds feed themselves. I will rescue my sheep from their mouths, that they may not be food for them.

¹¹ "For thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I, I myself will search for my sheep, and will seek them out. ¹² As a shepherd seeks out his flock when some of his sheep" have been scattered abroad, so will I seek out my sheep; and I will rescue them from all places where they have been scattered on a day of clouds and thick darkness. ¹³ And I will bring them out from the peoples, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them into their own land; and I will feed them on the mountains of Israel, by the fountains, and in all the inhabited places of the country. ¹⁴ I will feed them with good pasture, and upon the mountain heights of Israel shall be their pasture; there they shall lie down in good grazing land, and on fat pasture they shall feed on the mountains of Israel. ¹⁵ I myself will be the shepherd of my sheep, and I will make them lie down, says the Lord GOD. ¹⁶ I will seek the lost, and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the crippled, and I will strengthen the weak, and the fat and

This oracle applies the doctrine of individual responsibility (18.5–32) to the rulers, who are also subject to God's law (2 Sam.12.1–15). Wild beasts, Judah's attackers, especially Babylonia. 11–16: God is the Good Shepherd (Is.40.11; Jer.31.10) who will gather the dispersed and injured flock. 17 "As for you, my flock, thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I judge between sheep and sheep, rams and he-goats.¹⁸ Is it not enough for you to feed on the good pasture, that you must tread down with your feet the rest of your pasture; and to drink of clear water, that you must foul the rest with your feet?¹⁹ And must my sheep eat what you have trodden with your feet, and drink what you have fouled with your feet?

20 "Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD to them: Behold, I, I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep.²¹ Because you push with side and shoulder, and thrust at all the weak with your horns, till you have scattered them abroad,²² I will save my flock, they shall no longer be a prey; and I will judge between sheep and sheep.²³ And I will set up over them one shepherd, my servant David, and he shall feed them: he shall feed them and be their shepherd.²⁴ And I, the LORD, will be their God, and my servant David shall be prince among them; I, the LORD, have spoken.

25 "I will make with them a covenant of peace and banish wild beasts from the land, so that they may dwell securely in the wilderness and sleep in the woods.²⁶ And I will make them and the places round about my hill a blessing; and I will send down the showers in their season; they shall be showers of blessing.²⁷ And the trees of the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield its increase, and they shall be secure in their land; and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I break the bars of their yoke, and deliver them from the hand of those who enslaved them.²⁸ They shall no more be a prey to the nations, nor shall the beasts of the land devour them; they shall dwell securely, and none shall make them afraid.²⁹ And I will provide for them prosperous^x plantations so that they shall no more be consumed with hunger in the land, and no longer suffer the reproach of the nations.³⁰ And they shall know that I, the LORD their God, am with them, and that they, the house of Israel, are my people, says the Lord GOD.³¹ And you are my sheep, the sheep of my pasture," and I am your God, says the Lord GOD."

35 The word of the LORD came to me: ² "Son of man, set your face against Mount Se'ir, and prophesy against it, ³ and say to it, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against you, mount Se'ir, and I will stretch out my hand against you, and I will make you a desolation and a waste. ⁴ I will lay your cities waste, and you shall become a desolation; and you shall know that I am the LORD. ⁵ Because you cherished perpetual enmity, and gave over the people of Israel to the power of the sword at the time of their calamity, at the time of their final punishment; ⁶ therefore, as I live, says the Lord GOD, I will prepare you

The figure may have a double meaning and refer also to the nations which oppress Israel. 23-24: God will place his servant David (2 Sam.3.18), i.e. a restored monarchy, over his people (37.22-25; Jer.23.5-6). One shepherd, see Hos.1.11; Jn.10.16. 25-31: Using the oldest term for covenant making (see Jer.31.31-34), the prophet affirms that God will make a covenant of peace (37.26; Heb.13.20). God, again resident on Mount Zion (my hill), will preserve the proper sequence of seasons (Gen.8.21-22), assuring his people of continuous prosperity (Am.9.13-14), free from fear of destruction within (wild beasts, Lev.26.6) and without (prey of nations).

35.1-15: The oracle against Edom is an editorial expansion of an oracle of Ezekiel, using Ezekiel's phraseology (compare vv. 1-3 with 6.1-3). Properly belonging with 25.12-14, it was placed here to be contrasted with ch. 36 (especially 36.5), forming the prelude to Israel's restoration. It reflects the growing intensity of Jewish hatred for Edom subsequent to Edom's occupation of southern Judah (Jer.49.7-22). In contrast with Egypt (29.13-16), Edom will remain for blood, and blood shall pursue you; because you are guilty of blood,² therefore blood shall pursue you. ⁷ I will make Mount Se'ir a waste and a desolation; and I will cut off from it all who come and go. ⁸ And I will fill your mountains with the slain; on your hills and in your valleys and in all your ravines those slain with the sword shall fall. ⁹ I will make you a perpetual desolation, and your cities shall not be inhabited. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

10 "Because you said, 'These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will take possession of them,'—although the LORD was there—¹¹ therefore, as I live, says the LORD GOD, I will deal with you according to the anger and envy which you showed because of your hatred against them; and I will make myself known among you,^a when I judge you. ¹² And you shall know that I, the LORD, have heard all the revilings which you uttered against the mountains of Israel, saying, 'They are laid desolate, they are given us to devour.' ¹³ And you magnified yourselves against me with your mouth, and multiplied your words against me; I heard it. ¹⁴ Thus says the LORD GOD: For the rejoicing of the whole earth I will make you desolate. ¹⁵ As you rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so I will deal with you; you shall be desolate, Mount Se'ir, and all Edom, all of it. Then they will know that I am the LORD.

36 "And you, son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel, and say, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD. ² Thus says the LORD GOD: Because the enemy said of you, 'Aha!' and, 'The ancient heights have become our possession,' ³ therefore prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Because, yea, because they made you desolate, and crushed you from all sides, so that you became the possession of the rest of the nations, and you became the talk and evil gossip of the people; ⁴ therefore, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and the hills, the ravines and the valleys, the desolate wastes and the deserted cities, which have become a prey and derision to the rest of the nations round about; ⁵ therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I speak in my hot jealousy against the rest of the nations, and against all Edom, who gave my land to themselves as a possession with wholehearted joy and utter contempt, that they might possess^b it and plunder it. ⁶ Therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I speak in my jealous wrath, because you have suffered the reproach of the nations; ⁷ therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I swear that the nations that are round about you shall themselves suffer reproach.

8 "But you, O mountains of Israel, shall shoot forth your branches, and yield your fruit to my people Israel; for they will soon come home. ⁹ For, behold, I am for you, and I will turn to you, and you shall be tilled and sown; ¹⁰ and I will multiply men upon you, the whole house of Israel, all of it; the cities shall be inhabited and the waste places rebuilt; ¹¹ and I will multiply upon you man and beast; and they shall increase and be fruitful; and I will cause you to be inhabited as in your former times, and will do more good to you than ever before. 16 The word of the LORD came to me:¹⁷ "Son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their own land, they defiled it by their ways and their doings; their conduct before me was like the uncleanness of a woman in her impurity.¹⁸ So I poured out my wrath upon them for the blood which they had shed in the land, for the idols with which they had defiled it.¹⁹ I scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed through the countries; in accordance with their conduct and their deeds I judged them.²⁰ But when they came to the nations, wherever they came, they profaned my holy name, in that men said of them, 'These are the people of the LORD, and yet they had to go out of his land.'²¹ But I had concern for my holy name, which the house of Israel caused to be profaned among the nations to which they came.

22 "Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God: It is not for your sake, O house of Israel, that I am about to act, but for the sake of my holy name, which you have profaned among the nations to which you came.²³ And I will vindicate the holiness of my great name, which has been profaned among the nations, and which you have profaned among them; and the nations will know that I am the LORD, says the Lord God, when through you I vindicate my holiness before their eyes.²⁴ For I will take you from the nations, and gather you from all the countries, and bring you into your own land.²⁵ I will sprinkle clean water upon you, and you shall be clean from all your uncleanness, and from all your idols I will cleanse you.²⁶ A new heart I will give you, and a new spirit I will put within you; and I will take out of your flesh the heart of stone and give you a heart of flesh.²⁷ And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes and be careful to observe my ordinances.²⁸ You shall dwell in the land which I gave to your fathers; and you shall be my people, and I will be your God.²⁹ And I will deliver you from all your uncleanness; and I will summon the grain and make it abundant and lay no famine upon you.³⁰ I will make the fruit of the tree and the increase of the field abundant, that you may never again suffer the disgrace of famine among the nations.³¹ Then you will remember your evil ways, and your deeds that were not good; and you will loathe yourselves for your iniquities and your abominable deeds.³² It is not for your sake that I will act, says the Lord God; let that be known to you. your iniquities, I will cause the cities to be inhabited, and the waste places shall be rebuilt: ³⁴ And the land that was desolate shall be tilled, instead of being the desolation that it was in the sight of all who passed by. ³⁵ And they will say, 'This land that was desolate has become like the garden of Eden; and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are now inhabited and fortified.' ³⁶ Then the nations that are left round about you shall know that I, the LORD, have rebuilt the ruined places, and replanted that which was desolate; I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will do it.

37 "Thus says the Lord GOD: This also I will let the house of Israel ask me to do for them: to increase their men like a flock. ³⁸ Like the flock for sacrifices,^c like the flock at Jerusalem during her appointed feasts, so shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of men. Then they will know that I am the LORD."

37 The hand of the LORD was upon me, and he brought me out by the Spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the midst of the valley;^d it was full of bones. ² And he led me round among them; and behold, there were very many upon the valley;^d and lo, they were very dry. ³ And he said to me, "Son of man, can these bones live?" And I answered, "O Lord GOD, thou knowest." ⁴ Again he said to me, "Prophecy to these bones, and say to them, O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. ⁵ Thus says the Lord GOD to these bones: Behold, I will cause breath^e to enter you, and you shall live. ⁶ And I will lay sinews upon you, and will cause flesh to come upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath^e in you, and you shall live; and you shall know that I am the LORD."

7 So I prophesied as I was commanded; and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold, a rattling; and the bones came together, bone to its bone. ⁸ And as I looked, there were sinews on them, and flesh had come upon them, and skin had covered them; but there was no breath in them. ⁹ Then he said to me, "Prophecy to the breath, prophecy, son of man, and say to the breath,^f Thus says the Lord GOD: Come from the four winds, O breath,^f and breathe upon these slain, that they may live." ¹⁰ So I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood upon their feet, an exceedingly great host.

11 Then he said to me, "Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say, 'Our bones are dried up, and our hope is lost; we are clean cut off.' ¹² Therefore prophecy, and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I will open your graves, and raise you from your graves, O my people; and I will bring you home into the land of Israel. ¹³ And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I open your graves, and raise you from your graves, O my people. ¹⁴ And I will put my Spirit within you, and you shall live, and I will place you in your own land; then you shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken, and I have done it, says the LORD."

15 The word of the LORD came to me: ¹⁶ "Son of man, take a stick and write on it, 'For Judah, and the children of Israel associated with him'; then take another stick and write upon it, 'For Joseph (the stick of E'phraim) and all the house of Israel associated with him'; ¹⁷ and join them together

37.1-14: Vision of the valley of dry bones. 1: Valley, "plain" in 3.22; 8.4. The bones are the exiles, who have no more hope of resuscitating the kingdom of Israel than of putting flesh on a skeleton and calling it to life. 9: Hebrew "rûah" means "spirit, breath, wind"; thus there is a constant word-play here. Four winds may refer to God's omnipresence (1.17). 14: This vision has no direct connection with the Christian doctrine of resurrection.

earlier predicted will prevail (34.28): law-abiding living (11.20) in the promised land (28.25) under the Davidic king (34.23–24); the covenant of peace (34.25); and the re-established central sanctuary (45.1–8). 25: Prince, the king (compare 12.10; 34.24).

38.1–39.29: The Gog and Magog oracles describe in apocalyptic language the coming of the foe from the north (38.15; Jer.6.22) against God's people living peacefully in the promised land (38.8,11–12). After a cataclysmic battle the aggressor forces will be completely defeated, and God will be acknowledged by all nations as the undisputed victor (38.23; 39.21–29; 36.22–23). Since the foe from the north in Jeremiah (Jer.25.9) and Ezekiel (Ezek.26.7) was Babylon, it is probable that the foe here described is a grandiose surrogate for Babylon. The conflict is that preceding the fall of Babylon, and the victory includes Israel's restoration to its land (34.11–16; 36.8–38; Jer.31.23–28). The limited scope and goal of these oracles has been expanded to cosmic proportions by the writer of Rev.20.7–10. 38.1–9: Gog, king of Magog, both unidentified, though general location is in the north. Meshech, Assyrian "Mushku," south of Gomer, west of the Anti-Taurus mountains (27.13). Tubal, Assyrian "Tabal," south of Beth-togarmah, east of the Anti-Taurus mountains. Cush, Ethiopia. Put, see 30.5 n. Gomer, Assyrian "Gimirrai," Cimmerians in central Asia Minor (Gen.10.2–3). Beth-togarmah, Assyrian "Til-garimmu," east of the

and all the hosts that are assembled about you, and be a guard for them. ⁸ After many days you will be mustered; in the latter years you will go against the land that is restored from war, the land where people were gathered from many nations upon the mountains of Israel, which had been a continual waste; its people were brought out from the nations and now dwell securely, all of them. ⁹ You will advance, coming on like a storm, you will be like a cloud covering the land, you and all your hordes, and many peoples with you.

10 "Thus says the Lord God: On that day thoughts will come into your mind, and you will devise an evil scheme ¹¹ and say, 'I will go up against the land of unwallled villages; I will fall upon the quiet people who dwell securely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having no bars or gates'; ¹² to seize spoil and carry off plunder; to assail the waste places which are now inhabited, and the people who were gathered from the nations, who have gotten cattle and goods, who dwell at the center of the earth. ¹³ Sheba and Dedan and the merchants of Tarshish and all its villages will say to you, 'Have you come to seize spoil? Have you assembled your hosts to carry off plunder, to carry away silver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, to seize great spoil?'

14 "Therefore, son of man, prophesy, and say to Gog, Thus says the Lord God: On that day when my people Israel are dwelling securely, you will bestir yourself ¹⁵ and come from your place out of the uttermost parts of the north, you and many peoples with you, all of them riding on horses, a great host, a mighty army; ¹⁶ you will come up against my people Israel, like a cloud covering the land. In the latter days I will bring you against my land, that the nations may know me, when through you, O Gog, I vindicate my holiness before their eyes.

17 "Thus says the Lord God: Are you he of whom I spoke in former days by my servants the prophets of Israel, who in those days prophesied for years that I would bring you against them? ¹⁸ But on that day, when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, says the Lord God, my wrath will be roused. ¹⁹ For in my jealousy and in my blazing wrath I declare, On that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel; ²⁰ the fish of the sea, and the birds of the air, and the beasts of the field, and all creeping things that creep on the ground, and all the men that are upon the face of the earth, shall quake at my presence, and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the cliffs shall fall, and every wall shall tumble to the ground. ²¹ I will summon every kind of terror ⁱ against Gog, ^k says the Lord God; every man's sword will be against his brother. ²² With pestilence and bloodshed I will enter into judgment with him; and I will rain upon him and his hordes and the many peoples that are with him, torrential rains and hailstones, fire and brimstone. ²³ So I will show my greatness and my holiness and make myself known in the eyes of many nations. Then they will know that I am the LORD.

southernmost Halys River, southeast of Gomer (27.14). Though people and places in apocalyptic literature can often be identified, they are part of the literary equipment and should rarely be taken literally. In the latter years corresponds to "in the latter days" (Hos.3.5; Jer. 30.24) before the re-establishment of David's line (34.23-24; Jer.23.5-6). 10-23: The plot against God's defenseless people is doomed to defeat. 39.1-20: Gog's defeat. The magnitude of the opposing forces, and thus of God's victory, is of Meshech and Tubal; ² and I will turn you about and drive you forward, and bring you up from the uttermost parts of the north, and lead you against the mountains of Israel; ³ then I will strike your bow from your left hand, and will make your arrows drop out of your right hand. ⁴ You shall fall upon the mountains of Israel, you and all your hordes and the peoples that are with you; I will give you to birds of prey of every sort and to the wild beasts to be devoured. ⁵ You shall fall in the open field; for I have spoken, says the Lord GOD. ⁶ I will send fire on Magog and on those who dwell securely in the coastlands; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

7 "And my holy name I will make known in the midst of my people Israel; and I will not let my holy name be profaned any more; and the nations shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel. ⁸ Behold, it is coming and it will be brought about, says the Lord GOD. That is the day of which I have spoken.

9 "Then those who dwell in the cities of Israel will go forth and make fires of the weapons and burn them, shields and bucklers, bows and arrows, handpikes and spears, and they will make fires of them for seven years; ¹⁰ so that they will not need to take wood out of the field or cut down any out of the forests, for they will make their fires of the weapons; they will despoil those who despoiled them, and plunder those who plundered them, says the Lord GOD.

11 "On that day I will give to Gog a place for burial in Israel, the Valley of the Travelers' east of the sea; it will block the travelers, for there Gog and all his multitude will be buried; it will be called the Valley of Hamon-gog.^m ¹² For seven months the house of Israel will be burying them, in order to cleanse the land. ¹³ All the people of the land will bury them; and it will redound to their honor on the day that I show my glory, says the Lord GOD. ¹⁴ They will set apart men to pass through the land continually and buryⁿ those remaining upon the face of the land, so as to cleanse it; at the end of seven months they will make their search. ¹⁵ And when these pass through the land and any one sees a man's bone, then he shall set up a sign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the Valley of Hamon-gog. ¹⁶ (A city Hamo'nah^o is there also.) Thus shall they cleanse the land.

17 "As for you, son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: Speak to the birds of every sort and to all beasts of the field, 'Assemble and come, gather from all sides to the sacrificial feast which I am preparing for you, a great sacrificial feast upon the mountains of Israel, and you shall eat flesh and drink blood. ¹⁸ You shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth—of rams, of lambs, and of goats, of bulls, all of them fatlings of Bashan. ¹⁹ And you shall eat fat till you are filled, and drink blood till you are drunk, at the sacrificial feast which I am preparing for you. ²⁰ And you shall be filled at my table with horses and riders, with mighty men and all kinds of warriors,' says the Lord GOD.

21 "And I will set my glory among the nations; and all the nations shall see my judgment which I have executed, and my hand which I have laid on them. ²² The house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God, from that day forward. ²³ And the nations shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity, because they dealt so treacherously with me that I hid my face from them and gave them into the hand of their adversaries, and they all fell by the sword. ²⁴ I dealt with them according to their uncleanness and their transgressions, and hid my face from them.

²⁵ "Therefore thus says the Lord God: Now I will restore the fortunes of Jacob, and have mercy upon the whole house of Israel; and I will be jealous for my holy name. ²⁶ They shall forget their shame, and all the treachery they have practiced against me, when they dwell securely in their land with none to make them afraid, ²⁷ when I have brought them back from the peoples and gathered them from their enemies' lands, and through them have vindicated my holiness in the sight of many nations. ²⁸ Then they shall know that I am the LORD their God because I sent them into exile among the nations, and then gathered them into their own land. I will leave none of them remaining among the nations any more; ²⁹ and I will not hide my face any more from them, when I pour out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, says the Lord God."

40 In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after the city was conquered, on that very day, the hand of the LORD was upon me, ² and brought me in the visions of God into the land of Israel, and set me down upon a very high mountain, on which was a structure like a city opposite me.^p ³ When he brought me there, behold, there was a man, whose appearance was like bronze, with a line of flax and a measuring reed in his hand; and he was standing in the gateway. ⁴ And the man said to me, "Son of man, look with your eyes, and hear with your ears, and set your mind upon all that I shall show you, for you were brought here in order that I might show it to you; declare all that you see to the house of Israel."

⁵ And behold, there was a wall all around the outside of the temple area, and the length of the measuring reed in the man's hand was six long cubits, each being a cubit and a handbreadth in length; so he measured the thickness of the wall, one reed; and the height, one reed. ⁶ Then he went into the gateway facing east, going up its steps, and measured the threshold of the gate, one reed deep;^q ⁷ and the side rooms, one reed long, and one reed broad; and the space between the side rooms, five cubits; and the threshold of the gate by the vestibule of the gate at the inner end, one reed. ⁸ Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, eight cubits; ⁹ and its jambs, two cubits; and the vestibule of the gate was at the inner end. ¹⁰ And there were three side rooms on either side of the east gate; the three were of the same size; and the jambs on either side were of the same size. ¹¹ Then he measured the breadth of 40.1-48.35: The vision of the restored temple and land. This section is really a continuation of the theme of chs. 33-39, but because of its unified description of Israel's religious and political restoration it may be separated from the less homogeneous preceding section. The temple, though somewhat idealized, is the Solomonic temple, in which Ezekiel probably served as priest before his exile (1.3) and which was destroyed in 587 B.C. 40.1-47: The temple area, gates, outer and inner courts. 1-5: April 28, 573 B.C. On the twenty-fifth anniversary of his exile, Ezekiel is transported in a vision (compare 8.2-3) to the temple mountain (very high mountain, 17.22; Mic.4.1). 3: The reed was about ten feet, four inches long. 5: The long cubit was about 20.68 inches; the ordinary cubit was about 17.5 inches. The equal height and width of the outer retaining wall corresponds to the symmetry of the enclosure itself (42.16-20). 6-16: The detailed description of the east or processional gate (10.19) makes it possible to compare it with Solomonic gateways found at Megiddo, Gezer, and Hazor, all having the same design and essentially the same dimensions. After ascending seven steps (vv. 22,26) one came to the temple gate which had a double entrance vestibule, the second narrower than the first,

the opening of the gateway, ten cubits; and the breadth of the gateway, thirteen cubits. ¹² There was a barrier before the side rooms, one cubit on either side; and the side rooms were six cubits on either side. ¹³ Then he measured the gate from the back^r of the one side room to the back^r of the other, a breadth of five and twenty cubits, from door to door. ¹⁴ He measured also the vestibule, twenty cubits; and round about the vestibule of the gateway was the court.^s ¹⁵ From the front of the gate at the entrance to the end of the inner vestibule of the gate was fifty cubits. ¹⁶ And the gateway had windows round about, narrowing inwards into their jambs in the side rooms, and likewise the vestibule had windows round about inside, and on the jambs were palm trees.

¹⁷ Then he brought me into the outer court; and behold, there were chambers and a pavement, round about the court; thirty chambers fronted on the pavement. ¹⁸ And the pavement ran along the side of the gates, corresponding to the length of the gates; this was the lower pavement. ¹⁹ Then he measured the distance from the inner front of the lower gate to the outer front of the inner court, a hundred cubits.

Then he went before me to the north, ²⁰ and behold, there was a gate^u which faced toward the north, belonging to the outer court. He measured its length and its breadth. ²¹ Its side rooms, three on either side, and its jambs and its vestibule were of the same size as those of the first gate; its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. ²² And its windows, its vestibule, and its palm trees were of the same size as those of the gate which faced toward the east; and seven steps led up to it; and its vestibule was on the inside. ²³ And opposite the gate on the north, as on the east, was a gate to the inner court; and he measured from gate to gate, a hundred cubits.

²⁴ And he led me toward the south, and behold, there was a gate on the south; and he measured its jambs and its vestibule; they had the same size as the others. ²⁵ And there were windows round about in it and in its vestibule, like the windows of the others; its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. ²⁶ And there were seven steps leading up to it, and its vestibule was on the inside; and it had palm trees on its jambs, one on either side. ²⁷ And there was a gate on the south of the inner court; and he measured from gate to gate toward the south, a hundred cubits.

²⁸ Then he brought me to the inner court by the south gate, and he measured the south gate; it was of the same size as the others. ²⁹ Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others; and there were windows round about in it and in its vestibule; its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. ³⁰ And there were vestibules round about, twenty-five cubits long and five cubits broad. ³¹ Its vestibule faced the outer court, and palm trees were on its jambs, and its stairway had eight steps.

³² Then he brought me to the inner and closed off from the interior by doors. The wall joined the gate at the entrance vestibules; the remainder of the gate extended into the outer court. The interior had three chambers, or guardrooms, on either side separated by heavy piers. Passing the last pier, one entered the outer court, or possibly first into an inner vestibule and then the outer court. The side chambers had back doors opening into the outer court. The windows, as the temple itself, were of Phoenician, or Tyrian, design, narrowing inwards. Palm trees were a common Near Eastern decorative motif. 17-19: The thirty chambers were probably for the use of people and Levites worshipping in the outer court. 20-27: Northern and southern gates were similar to the east gate. 28-37: Eight steps above the outer court were the gates leading to the inner court corresponding to court on the east side, and he measured the gate; it was of the same size as the others.³³ Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others; and there were windows round about in it and in its vestibule; its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits.³⁴ Its vestibule faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its jambs, one on either side; and its stairway had eight steps.

35 Then he brought me to the north gate, and he measured it; it had the same size as the others.³⁶ Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others;^v and it had windows round about; its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits.³⁷ Its vestibule^w faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its jambs, one on either side; and its stairway had eight steps.

38 There was a chamber with its door in the vestibule of the gate,^x where the burnt offering was to be washed.³⁹ And in the vestibule of the gate were two tables on either side, on which the burnt offering and the sin offering and the guilt offering were to be slaughtered.⁴⁰ And on the outside of the vestibule^y at the entrance of the north gate were two tables; and on the other side of the vestibule of the gate were two tables.⁴¹ Four tables were on the inside, and four tables on the outside of the side of the gate, eight tables, on which the sacrifices were to be slaughtered.⁴² And there were also four tables of hewn stone for the burnt offering, a cubit and a half long, and a cubit and a half broad, and one cubit high, on which the instruments were to be laid with which the burnt offerings and the sacrifices were slaughtered.

⁴³ And hooks, a handbreadth long, were fastened round about within. And on the tables the flesh of the offering was to be laid.

44 Then he brought me from without into the inner court, and behold, there were two chambers^z in the inner court, one^a at the side of the north gate facing south, the other at the side of the south^b gate facing north.⁴⁵ And he said to me, This chamber which faces south is for the priests who have charge of the temple,⁴⁶ and the chamber which faces north is for the priests who have charge of the altar; these are the sons of Zadok, who alone among the sons of Levi may come near to the LORD to minister to him.⁴⁷ And he measured the court, a hundred cubits long, and a hundred cubits broad, foursquare; and the altar was in front of the temple.

48 Then he brought me to the vestibule of the temple and measured the jambs of the vestibule, five cubits on either side; and the breadth of the gate was fourteen cubits; and the side-walls of the gate were three cubits^c on either side.⁴⁹ The length of the vestibule was twenty cubits, and the breadth twelve^d cubits; and ten steps led up^e to it; and there were pillars beside the jambs on either side.

41 Then he brought me to the nave, and measured the jambs; on each side six cubits was the breadth of the jambs.^f ² And the breadth of the entrance was ten cubits; and the sidewalls of the entrance were five cubits on either side; and he measured the length of the nave forty cubits, and its breadth, twenty cubits. ³ Then he went into the inner room and measured the jambs of the entrance, two cubits; and the breadth of the entrance, six cubits; and the sidewalls^g of the entrance, seven cubits. ⁴ And he measured the length of the room, twenty cubits, and its breadth, twenty cubits, beyond the nave. And he said to me, This is the most holy place.

⁵ Then he measured the wall of the temple, six cubits thick; and the breadth of the side chambers, four cubits, round about the temple. ⁶ And the side chambers were in three stories, one over another, thirty in each story. There were offsets^h all around the wall of the temple to serve as supports for the side chambers, so that they should not be supported by the wall of the temple. ⁷ And the side chambers became broader as they roseⁱ from story to story, corresponding to the enlargement of the offset^j from story to story round about the temple; on the side of the temple a stairway led upward, and thus one went up from the lowest story to the top story through the middle story. ⁸ I saw also that the temple had a raised platform round about; the foundations of the side chambers measured a full reed of six long cubits. ⁹ The thickness of the outer wall of the side chambers was five cubits; and the part of the platform which was left free was five cubits.^k Between the platform^l of the temple and the ¹⁰ chambers of the court was a breadth of twenty cubits round about the temple on every side. ¹¹ And the doors of the side chambers opened on the part of the platform that was left free, one door toward the north, and another door toward the south; and the breadth of the part that was left free was five cubits round about.

¹² The building that was facing the temple yard on the west side was seventy cubits broad; and the wall of the building was five cubits thick round about, and its length ninety cubits.

¹⁵ Then he measured the length of the building facing the yard which was at the west and its walls^m on either side, a hundred cubits.

The nave of the temple and the inner room and the outerⁿ vestibule ¹⁶ were paneled^o and round about all three had windows with recessed^p frames. Over against the threshold the temple was paneled with wood round about, from the floor up to the windows (now the windows were covered), ¹⁷ to the space above the door, even to the inner room, and on the outside. And on all the walls round about in the inner room and the nave were carved likenesses^q ¹⁸ of cherubim and palm trees, a palm tree between cherub and cherub. 21 The doorposts of the nave were squared; and in front of the holy place was something resembling ²² an altar of wood, three cubits high, two cubits long, and two cubits broad;^s its corners, its base,^t and its walls were of wood. He said to me, "This is the table which is before the LORD."²³ The nave and the holy place had each a double door. ²⁴ The doors had two leaves apiece, two swinging leaves for each door. ²⁵ And on the doors of the nave were carved cherubim and palm trees, such as were carved on the walls; and there was a canopy of wood in front of the vestibule outside. ²⁶ And there were recessed windows and palm trees on either side, on the sidewalls of the vestibule.^u

42 Then he led me out into the inner^v court, toward the north, and he brought me to the chambers which were opposite the temple yard and opposite the building on the north. ² The length of the building which was on the north side^w was^x a hundred cubits, and the breadth fifty cubits. ³ Adjoining the twenty cubits which belonged to the inner court, and facing the pavement which belonged to the outer court, was gallery^y against gallery^y in three stories. ⁴ And before the chambers was a passage inward, ten cubits wide and a hundred cubits long,^z and their doors were on the north. ⁵ Now the upper chambers were narrower, for the galleries^y took more away from them than from the lower and middle chambers in the building. ⁶ For they were in three stories, and they had no pillars like the pillars of the outer^a court; hence the upper chambers were set back from the ground more than the lower and the middle ones. ⁷ And there was a wall outside parallel to the chambers, toward the outer court, opposite the chambers, fifty cubits long. ⁸ For the chambers on the outer court were fifty cubits long, while those opposite the temple were a hundred cubits long. ⁹ Below these chambers was an entrance on the east side, as one enters them from the outer court, ¹⁰ where the outside wall begins.^b

On the south^c also, opposite the yard and opposite the building, there were chambers ¹¹ with a passage in front of them; they were similar to the chambers on the north, of the same length and breadth, with the same exits^d and arrangements and doors. ¹² And below the south chambers was an entrance on the east side, where one enters the passage, and opposite them was a dividing wall.^e

13 Then he said to me, "The north chambers and the south chambers opposite the yard are the holy chambers, where the priests who approach the LORD shall eat the most holy offerings; there they shall put the most holy offerings—the cereal offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering, for the place is holy. ¹⁴ When the priests enter the holy place, they shall not go out of it into the outer court without

15 Now when he had finished measuring the interior of the temple area, he led me out by the gate which faced east, and measured the temple area round about. ¹⁶ He measured the east side with the measuring reed, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. ¹⁷ Then he turned and measured^f the north side, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. ¹⁸ Then he turned and measured^g the south side, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. ¹⁹ Then he turned to the west side and measured, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. ²⁰ He measured it on the four sides. It had a wall around it, five hundred cubits long and five hundred cubits broad, to make a separation between the holy and the common.

43 Afterward he brought me to the gate, the gate facing east. ² And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from the east; and the sound of his coming was like the sound of many waters; and the earth shone with his glory. ³ And^g the vision I saw was like the vision which I had seen when he came to destroy the city, and^h like the vision which I had seen by the river Chebar; and I fell upon my face. ⁴ As the glory of the LORD entered the temple by the gate facing east, ⁵ the Spirit lifted me up, and brought me into the inner court; and behold, the glory of the LORD filled the temple.

out of the temple; ⁷ and he said to me, "Son of man, this is the place of my throne and the place of the soles of my feet, where I will dwell in the midst of the people of Israel for ever. And the house of Israel shall no more defile my holy name, neither they, nor their kings, by their harlotry, and by the dead bodiesⁱ of their kings, ⁸ by setting their threshold by my threshold and their doorposts beside my doorposts, with only a wall between me and them. They have defiled my holy name by their abominations which they have committed, so I have consumed them in my anger. ⁹ Now let them put away their idolatry and the dead bodiesⁱ of their kings far from me, and I will dwell in their midst for ever.

¹⁰ "And you, son of man, describe to the house of Israel the temple and its appearance and plan,^j that they may be ashamed of their iniquities. ¹¹ And if they are ashamed of all that they have done, portray^k the temple, its arrangement, its exits and its entrances, and its whole form; and make known to them all its ordinances and all its laws; and write it down in their sight, so that they may observe and perform all its laws^l and all its ordinances. ¹² This is the law of the temple: the whole territory round about upon the top of the mountain shall be most holy. Behold, this is the law of the temple.

court. 15-20: The total temple area was five hundred cubits square (861.63 feet square; see 40.5 n.).

43.1-12: Return of the glory of God. As God on his throne-chariot had forsaken the temple by the east gate (10.18-19; 11.22-23), so he returns from the same direction and re-consecrates the purified temple by his Presence (Ex.40.34-38; 1 Kg.8.10-11). Thundering of many waters, 1.24; Rev.14.2; 19.6. Like the brightness of the sun, the earth shone with his glory (Is.60.1-3). 6-12: The restored temple is to be restricted to purely religious uses, as commanded by God; especially discouraged is any influence from the crown (ch. 8; 1 Kg.7.1-12; 11.33; Am.7.13).

43.13-26: The altar of burnt offering. 13-17: The altar was built in three superimposed squares of sixteen, fourteen, and twelve cubits respectively, resting on a foundation platform, shall be one cubit high,^m and one cubit broad, with a rim of one span around its edge. And this shall be the height^r of the altar: ¹⁴ from the base on the ground to the lower ledge, two cubits, with a breadth of one cubit; and from the smaller ledge to the larger ledge, four cubits, with a breadth of one cubit; ¹⁵ and the altar hearth, four cubits; and from the altar hearth projecting upward, four horns, one cubit high.ⁿ ¹⁶ The altar hearth shall be square, twelve cubits long by twelve broad. ¹⁷ The ledge also shall be square, fourteen cubits long by fourteen broad, with a rim around it half a cubit broad, and its base one cubit round about. The steps of the altar shall face east."

¹⁸ And he said to me, "Son of man, thus says the Lord God: These are the ordinances for the altar: On the day when it is erected for offering burnt offerings upon it and for throwing blood against it, ¹⁹ you shall give to the Levitical priests of the family of Zadok, who draw near to me to minister to me, says the Lord God, a bull for a sin offering. ²⁰ And you shall take some of its blood, and put it on the four horns of the altar, and on the four corners of the ledge, and upon the rim round about; thus you shall cleanse the altar and make atonement for it. ²¹ You shall also take the bull of the sin offering, and it shall be burnt in the appointed place belonging to the temple, outside the sacred area. ²² And on the second day you shall offer a he-goat without blemish for a sin offering; and the altar shall be cleansed, as it was cleansed with the bull. ²³ When you have finished cleansing it, you shall offer a bull without blemish and a ram from the flock without blemish. ²⁴ You shall present them before the LORD, and the priests shall sprinkle salt upon them and offer them up as a burnt offering to the LORD. ²⁵ For seven days you shall provide daily a goat for a sin offering; also a bull and a ram from the flock, without blemish, shall be provided. ²⁶ Seven days shall they make atonement for the altar and purify it, and so consecrate it. ²⁷ And when they have completed these days, then from the eighth day onward the priests shall offer upon the altar your burnt offerings and your peace offerings; and I will accept you, says the Lord God."

44 Then he brought me back to the outer gate of the sanctuary, which faces east; and it was shut. ² And he^o said to me, "This gate shall remain shut; it shall not be opened, and no one shall enter by it; for the LORD, the God of Israel, has entered by it; therefore it shall remain shut. ³ Only the prince may sit in it to eat bread before the LORD; he shall enter by way of the vestibule of the gate, and shall go out by the same way."

⁴ Then he brought me by way of the north gate to the front of the temple; and I looked, and behold, the glory of the LORD filled the temple of the LORD; and I fell upon my face. ⁵ And the LORD said to me, "Son of man, mark well, see with your eyes, and hear with your ears all that I shall tell you concerning all the ordinances of the temple of the LORD and all its laws; and mark well those who may be admitted to^p the temple and all those who are to be excluded from the sanctuary. ⁶ And say to the rebellious house,^q to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God:

The total height of the altar is twelve cubits (20.68 feet). 18-26: On the analogy of earlier consecratory rites (Ex.29.36-37; 40.1-38; Lev.8.14-15), the priests of Zadok (44.5-31) are to dedicate the altar.

44.1-31: Temple ordinances. 44.1-5: The outer east gate should remain closed, perhaps symbolizing its consecration by God's entrance and God's continued presence (43.7). The prince (see 37.15-28 n.) apparently entered from the temple side for the ceremonial meal (Lev.7.15; Dt.12.7), and thus the gate remained closed (compare 46.1). 6-9: No more foreigners may

O house of Israel, let there be an end to all your abominations, ⁷ in admitting foreigners, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, to be in my sanctuary, profaning it, when you offer to me my food, the fat and the blood. You^s have broken my covenant, in addition to all your abominations. ⁸ And you have not kept charge of my holy things; but you have set foreigners to keep my charge in my sanctuary.

⁹ "Therefore^r thus says the Lord God: No foreigner, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, of all the foreigners who are among the people of Israel, shall enter my sanctuary. ¹⁰ But the Levites who went far from me, going astray from me after their idols when Israel went astray, shall bear their punishment. ¹¹ They shall be ministers in my sanctuary, having oversight at the gates of the temple, and serving in the temple; they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and they shall attend on the people, to serve them. ¹² Because they ministered to them before their idols and became a stumbling block of iniquity to the house of Israel, therefore I have sworn concerning them, says the Lord God, that they shall bear their punishment. ¹³ They shall not come near to me, to serve me as priest, nor come near any of my sacred things and the things that are most sacred; but they shall bear their shame, because of the abominations which they have committed. ¹⁴ Yet I will appoint them to keep charge of the temple, to do all its service and all that is to be done in it.

¹⁵ "But the Levitical priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept the charge of my sanctuary when the people of Israel went astray from me, shall come near to me to minister to me; and they shall attend on me to offer me the fat and the blood, says the Lord God; ¹⁶ they shall enter my sanctuary, and they shall approach my table, to minister to me, and they shall keep my charge. ¹⁷ When they enter the gates of the inner court, they shall wear linen garments; they shall have nothing of wool on them, while they minister at the gates of the inner court, and within. ¹⁸ They shall have linen turbans upon their heads, and linen breeches upon their loins; they shall not gird themselves with anything that causes sweat. ¹⁹ And when they go out into the outer court to the people, they shall put off the garments in which they have been ministering, and lay them in the holy chambers; and they shall put on other garments, lest they communicate holiness to the people with their garments. ²⁰ They shall not shave their heads or let their locks grow long; they shall only trim the hair of their heads. ²¹ No priest shall drink wine, when he enters the inner court. ²² They shall not marry a widow, or a divorced woman, but only a virgin of the stock of the house of Israel, or a widow who is the widow of a priest. ²³ They shall teach my people the difference between the holy and the common, and show them how to distinguish between the unclean and the clean. ²⁴ In a controversy they shall act as judges, and they shall judge it according to my judgments. They shall keep my laws and my statutes in all my appointed feasts,

Solomon elevated Zadok to be chief priest after Abiathar's defection and banishment (2 Sam.15.24-29; 1 Kg.1.7-8; 2.26-27). 1 Chr.6.50-53 and 24.31 trace the lineage back to Eleazar, Aaron's son. ²⁸ "They shall have no" inheritance; I am their inheritance: and you shall give them no possession in Israel; I am their possession. ²⁹ They shall eat the cereal offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering; and every devoted thing in Israel shall be theirs. ³⁰ And the first of all the first fruits of all kinds, and every offering of all kinds from all your offerings, shall belong to the priests; you shall also give to the priests the first of your coarse meal, that a blessing may rest on your house. ³¹ The priests shall not eat of anything, whether bird or beast, that has died of itself or is torn.

45 "When you allot the land as a possession, you shall set apart for the LORD a portion of the land as a holy district, twenty-five thousand cubits long and twenty* thousand cubits broad; it shall be holy throughout its whole extent. ² Of this a square plot of five hundred by five hundred cubits shall be for the sanctuary, with fifty cubits for an open space around it. ³ And in the holy district you shall measure off a section twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand broad, in which shall be the sanctuary, the most holy place. ⁴ It shall be the holy portion of the land; it shall be for the priests, who minister in the sanctuary and approach the LORD to minister to him; and it shall be a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. ⁵ Another section, twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand cubits broad, shall be for the Levites who minister at the temple, as their possession for cities to live in.^y

⁶ "Alongside the portion set apart as the holy district you shall assign for the possession of the city an area five thousand cubits broad, and twenty-five thousand cubits long; it shall belong to the whole house of Israel.

⁷ "And to the prince shall belong the land on both sides of the holy district and the property of the city, alongside the holy district and the property of the city, on the west and on the east, corresponding in length to one of the tribal portions, and extending from the western to the eastern boundary of the land. ⁸ It is to be his property in Israel. And my princes shall no more oppress my people; but they shall let the house of Israel have the land according to their tribes.

⁹ "Thus says the Lord God: Enough, O princes of Israel! Put away violence and oppression, and execute justice and righteousness; cease your evictions of my people, says the Lord God.

45.1-9: The distribution of land (continued in 47.13-48.35) is completely idealistic. The holy district is divided into two sections, each 25,000 by 10,000 cubits; the northern section is for the Levites, the southern for the Zadokite priests. The latter included the five hundred cubit square section for the temple area plus an enclosure-space fifty cubits deep not mentioned earlier (42.20). The 25,000 by 5,000 cubit property of Jerusalem south of the holy district (v. 6) made with the holy district (v. 1) an area 25,000 cubits (8.3 miles) square.

This is the offering for cereal offerings, burnt offerings, and peace offerings, to make atonement for them, says the Lord God.¹⁶ All the people of the land shall give^d this offering to the prince in Israel.¹⁷ It shall be the prince's duty to furnish the burnt offerings, cereal offerings, and drink offerings, at the feasts, the new moons, and the sabbaths, all the appointed feasts of the house of Israel: he shall provide the sin offerings, cereal offerings, burnt offerings, and peace offerings, to make atonement for the house of Israel.

18 "Thus says the Lord God: In the first month, on the first day of the month, you shall take a young bull without blemish, and cleanse the sanctuary.¹⁹ The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the doorposts of the temple, the four corners of the ledge of the altar, and the posts of the gate of the inner court.²⁰ You shall do the same on the seventh day of the month for any one who has sinned through error or ignorance; so you shall make atonement for the temple.

21 "In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, you shall celebrate the feast of the passover, and for seven days unleavened bread shall be eaten.²² On that day the prince shall provide for himself and all the people of the land a young bull for a sin offering.²³ And on the seven days of the festival he shall provide as a burnt offering to the LORD seven young bulls and seven rams without blemish, on each of the seven days; and a he-goat daily for a sin offering.²⁴ And he shall provide as a cereal offering an ephah for each bull, an ephah for each ram, and a hin of oil to each ephah.²⁵ In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month and for the seven days of the feast, he shall make the same provision for sin offerings, burnt offerings, and cereal offerings, and for the oil.

46 "Thus says the Lord God: The gate of the inner court that faces east shall be shut on the six working days; but on the sabbath day it shall be opened and on the day of the new moon it shall be opened.² The prince shall enter by the vestibule of the gate from without, and shall take his stand by the post of the gate. The priests shall offer his burnt offering and his peace offerings, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate. Then he shall go out, but the gate shall not be shut until evening.³ The people of the land shall worship at the entrance of that gate before the LORD on the sabbaths and on the new moons.⁴ The burnt offering that the prince offers to the LORD on the sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish;⁵ and the cereal offering with

46.1-18: Regulations regarding the prince. 46.1-8: The prince (see 37.15-28 n.) shall bring his offerings (45.13-16) through the east gate of the inner court to its inner vestibule where he will stand (2 Kg.11.14) by the ritually cleansed doorway (45.18-19), while the priests offer

the ram shall be an ephah, and the cereal offering with the lambs shall be as much as he is able, together with a hin of oil to each ephah.⁶ On the day of the new moon he shall offer a young bull without blemish, and six lambs and a ram, which shall be without blemish;⁷ as a cereal offering he shall provide an ephah with the bull and an ephah with the ram, and with the lambs as much as he is able, together with a hin of oil to each ephah.⁸ When the prince enters, he shall go in by the vestibule of the gate, and he shall go out by the same way.

9 "When the people of the land come before the LORD at the appointed feasts, he who enters by the north gate to worship shall go out by the south gate; and he who enters by the south gate shall go out by the north gate: no one shall return by way of the gate by which he entered, but each shall go out straight ahead.¹⁰ When they go in, the prince shall go in with them; and when they go out, he shall go out.

11 "At the feasts and the appointed seasons the cereal offering with a young bull shall be an ephah, and with a ram an ephah, and with the lambs as much as one is able to give, together with a hin of oil to an ephah.¹² When the prince provides a freewill offering, either a burnt offering or peace offerings as a freewill offering to the LORD, the gate facing east shall be opened for him; and he shall offer his burnt offering or his peace offerings as he does on the sabbath day. Then he shall go out, and after he has gone out the gate shall be shut.

13 "He shall provide a lamb a year old without blemish for a burnt offering to the LORD daily; morning by morning he shall provide it.¹⁴ And he shall provide a cereal offering with it morning by morning, one sixth of an ephah, and one third of a hin of oil to moisten the flour, as a cereal offering to the LORD; this is the ordinance for the continual burnt offering.^e ¹⁵ Thus the lamb and the meal offering and the oil shall be provided, morning by morning, for a continual burnt offering.

16 "Thus says the Lord God: If the prince makes a gift to any of his sons out of his inheritance, it shall belong to his sons, it is their property by inheritance.¹⁷ But if he makes a gift out of his inheritance to one of his servants, it shall be his to the year of liberty; then it shall revert to the prince; only his sons may keep a gift from his inheritance.¹⁸ The prince shall not take any of the inheritance of the people, thrusting them out of their property; he shall give his sons their inheritance out of his own property, so that none of my people shall be dispossessed of his property."

19 Then he brought me through the entrance, which was at the side of the gate, to the north row of the holy chambers for the priests; and there I saw a place at the extreme western end of them.²⁰ And he said to me, "This is the place where the priests shall boil the guilt offering and the sin offering, and where they shall bake the cereal offering, in order not to bring them out into the outer court and so communicate holiness to the people."

21 Then he brought me forth to the outer court, and led me to the four corners of the court; and in each corner of the court there was a court-

For the sacrifices, see Ex.29.38-42; Num.28.3-15. New moon, first day of the month; note the increasingly strong emphasis on the sabbath. 9-10: The great festival crowds require regulations for controlled egress. 11-15: When the prince makes a free-will offering (Lev.22.18-23), the east gate (v. 1) will also be opened. The prince must also provide for daily sacrifices (Ex.29.38-42; 1 Kg.18.29; 2 Kg.16.15). 16-18: Crown property could not be disposed of permanently. When given to a non-relative, it had to be returned on the year of liberty (jubilee year, Lev.25.8-17).

47 Then he brought me back to the door of the temple; and behold, water was issuing from below the threshold of the temple toward the east (for the temple faced east); and the water was flowing down from below the south end of the threshold of the temple, south of the altar. ² Then he brought me out by way of the north gate, and led me round on the outside to the outer gate, that faces toward the east;^h and the water was coming out on the south side.

³ Going on eastward with a line in his hand, the man measured a thousand cubits, and then led me through the water; and it was ankle-deep. ⁴ Again he measured a thousand, and led me through the water; and it was knee-deep. Again he measured a thousand, and led me through the water; and it was up to the loins. ⁵ Again he measured a thousand, and it was a river that I could not pass through, for the water had risen; it was deep enough to swim in, a river that could not be passed through. ⁶ And he said to me, "Son of man, have you seen this?"

Then he led me back along the bank of the river. ⁷ As I went back, I saw upon the bank of the river very many trees on the one side and on the other. ⁸ And he said to me, "This water flows toward the eastern region and goes down into the Arabah; and when it enters the stagnant waters of the sea,ⁱ the water will become fresh. ⁹ And wherever the river^j goes every living creature which swarms will live, and there will be very many fish; for this water goes there, that the waters of the sea^k may become fresh; so everything will live where the river goes. ¹⁰ Fishermen will stand beside the sea; from En-ge'di to En-eg'laim it will be a place for the spreading of nets; its fish will be of very many kinds, like the fish of the Great Sea. ¹¹ But its swamps and marshes will not become fresh; they are to be left for salt. ¹² And on the banks, on both sides of the river, there will grow all kinds of trees for food. Their leaves will not wither nor their fruit fail, but they will bear fresh fruit every month, because the water for them flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food, and their leaves for healing."

¹³ Thus says the Lord God: "These are the boundaries by which you shall divide the land for inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel. Joseph shall have two portions. ¹⁴ And you shall divide it equally; I swore to give it to your fathers, and this land shall fall to you as your inheritance."

¹⁵ "This shall be the boundary of the land: On the north side, from the Great Sea by way of Hethlon to the entrance of Hamath, and on to Zedad,^l ¹⁶ Bero'thah, Sib'raim (which lies on the border between Damascus and Hamath), as far as Hazer-hatticon,

THE BOOK OF DANIEL

The six stories and four dream-visions of the book of Daniel make up the first great work of apocalyptic, later examples of which are 1 Enoch, Syriac Baruch, and the New Testament book of Revelation. These apocalypses come from times of national or community tribulation, and are not actual history, but, through symbols and signs, are interpretations of current history with its background and predictions of a future where tribulations and sorrows will give place to triumph and peace. The Apocalyptists usually set forth their messages under the name of some ancient worthy, e.g. Adam, Enoch, Noah, Abraham, or some other figure of note.

This book appears under the name of Daniel, or Dan'el, a worthy twice referred to in Ezekiel (Ezek.14.14; 28.3), and whose name appears also in the North Canaanite clay-tablet texts found at Ras Shamra. The author was a pious Jew living under the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes, 167-164 B.C. (see "Survey of . . . Bible Lands," §15). To encourage his suffering fellow-believers he tells six stories, set in earlier days in Babylon just before and just after the Persian conquest, which illustrate how faithful Jews, loyally practicing their religion, were enabled by divine aid to triumph over their enemies. Then in four visions he ventures to interpret current history and predict the coming consummation when the "saints" will have ultimate victory. His book was originally written in Aramaic, and the section from 2.4b to 7.28 is still in Aramaic, though the remainder is now in Hebrew.

IN THE THIRD YEAR OF THE REIGN OF Jehoi'akim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it. ² And the Lord gave Jehoi'akim king of Judah into his hand, with some of the vessels of the house of God; and he brought them to the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, and placed the vessels in the treasury of his god. ³ Then the king commanded Ash'penaz, his chief eunuch, to bring some of the people of Israel, both of the royal family and of the nobility, ⁴ youths without blemish, handsome and skilful in all wisdom, endowed with knowledge, understanding learning, and competent to serve in the king's palace, and to teach them the letters and language of the Chalde'ans. ⁵ The king assigned them a daily portion of the rich food which the king ate, and of the wine which he drank. They were to be educated for three years, and at the end of that time they were to stand before the king. ⁶ Among these were Daniel, Hanani'ah, Mish'a-el, and Azari'ah of the tribe of Judah. ⁷ And the chief of the eunuchs gave them names: Daniel he called Belteshazzar, Hanani'ah he called Shadrach, Mish'a-el he called Meshach, and Azari'ah he called Abed'nego.

⁸ But Daniel resolved that he would not defile himself with the king's rich food, or with the wine which he drank; therefore he asked the chief of the eunuchs to allow him not to defile himself. ⁹ And God gave Daniel favor and compassion in the sight of the chief of the eunuchs; ¹⁰ and the chief of the eunuchs said to Daniel, "I fear lest my lord the king, who appointed your food and your drink, should see that you were in poorer condition than the youths who are of your own age. So you would endanger my head with the king.”¹¹ Then Daniel said to the steward whom the chief of the eunuchs had appointed over Daniel, Hanani’ah, Mish’a-el, and Azari’ah;¹² “Test your servants for ten days; let us be given vegetables to eat and water to drink.”¹³ Then let our appearance and the appearance of the youths who eat the king’s rich food be observed by you, and according to what you see deal with your servants.”¹⁴ So he hearkened to them in this matter, and tested them for ten days.¹⁵ At the end of ten days it was seen that they were better in appearance and fatter in flesh than all the youths who ate the king’s rich food.¹⁶ So the steward took away their rich food and the wine they were to drink, and gave them vegetables.

¹⁷ As for these four youths, God gave them learning and skill in all letters and wisdom; and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams.¹⁸ At the end of the time, when the king had commanded that they should be brought in, the chief of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar.¹⁹ And the king spoke with them, and among them all none was found like Daniel, Hanani’ah, Mish’a-el, and Azari’ah; therefore they stood before the king.²⁰ And in every matter of wisdom and understanding concerning which the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters that were in all his kingdom.²¹ And Daniel continued until the first year of King Cyrus.

2 In the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchad-

nez’zar had dreams; and his spirit was troubled, and his sleep left him.² Then the king commanded that the magicians, the enchanters, the sorcerers, and the Chalde’ans be summoned, to tell the king his dreams. So they came in and stood before the king.³ And the king said to them, “I had a dream, and my spirit is troubled to know the dream.”⁴ Then the Chalde’ans said to the king,^a “O king, live for ever! Tell your servants the dream, and we will show the interpretation.”⁵ The king answered the Chalde’ans, “The word from me is sure: if you do not make known to me the dream and its interpretation, you shall be torn limb from limb, and your houses shall be laid in ruins.”⁶ But if you show the dream and its interpretation, you shall receive from me gifts and rewards and great honor. Therefore show me the dream and its interpretation.”⁷ They answered a second time, “Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will show its interpretation.”⁸ The king answered, “I know with certainty that you are trying to gain time, because you see that the word from me is sure⁹ that if you do not make the dream known to me, there is but one sentence for you. You have agreed to speak lying and corrupt words before me till the times change. Therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that you can show me its interpretation.”¹⁰ The Chalde’ans answered the king, “There is not a man on earth who can meet the king’s demand; for no great and powerful king has asked such a thing of any magician or enchanter or Chal-

2.1–49: Nebuchadnezzar’s dream. A story to teach the feebleness of human wisdom compared with that conferred by God. 1: Second year is a slip (compare “third year” in 1.5–6,17,20). 2: Chaldeans here means not an ethnic group but a caste of wise men. In ancient as in modern times it was believed that important matters were revealed in dreams (Gen.20.3; 41.1–32; Mt.27.19). 4–11: Cuneiform tablets on divination through dreams are still extant. If the king would tell the dream they could consult dream-books and find the interpretation, but asking them to show the dream itself was unheard of and difficult beyond human skill. 11: The word de'an. ¹¹ The thing that the king asks is difficult, and none can show it to the king except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh."

¹² Because of this the king was angry and very furious, and commanded that all the wise men of Babylon be destroyed. ¹³ So the decree went forth that the wise men were to be slain, and they sought Daniel and his companions, to slay them. ¹⁴ Then Daniel replied with prudence and discretion to Ar'ioch, the captain of the king's guard, who had gone out to slay the wise men of Babylon; ¹⁵ he said to Ar'ioch, the king's captain, "Why is the decree of the king so severe?" Then Ar'ioch made the matter known to Daniel. ¹⁶ And Daniel went in and besought the king to appoint him a time, that he might show to the king the interpretation.

¹⁷ Then Daniel went to his house and made the matter known to Hanani'ah, Mish'a-el, and Azari'ah, his companions, ¹⁸ and told them to seek mercy of the God of heaven concerning this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions might not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. ¹⁹ Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision of the night. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven. ²⁰ Daniel said:

"Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever.
to whom belong wisdom and might.

²¹ He changes times and seasons;
he removes kings and sets up
kings;
he gives wisdom to the wise
and knowledge to those who have
understanding;

²² he reveals deep and mysterious
things;
he knows what is in the darkness,
and the light dwells with him.

²³ To thee, O God of my fathers,
I give thanks and praise,
for thou hast given me wisdom and
strength,
and hast now made known to me
what we asked of thee,
for thou hast made known to us
the king's matter."

²⁴ Therefore Daniel went in to Ar'ioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon; he went and said thus to him, "Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon; bring me in before the king, and I will show the king the interpretation."

²⁶ The king said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazz'zar, "Are you able to make known to me the dream that I have seen and its interpretation?"

²⁷ Daniel answered the king, "No wise men, enchanters, magicians, or astrologers can show to the king the mystery which the king has asked, ²⁸ but there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has made known to King Nebuchadnezz'zar what will be in the latter days. Your dream and the visions of your head as you lay in bed are these: ²⁹ To you, O king, as you lay in bed came thoughts of what would be hereafter, and he who reveals mysteries made known to you what is to be. ³⁰ But as for me, not because of any wisdom that I have more than all the living has this mystery been revealed to me, but in order that the interpretation may be made known to the king, and that you may know the thoughts of your mind.

ing.³² The head of this image was of fine gold, its breast and arms of silver, its belly and thighs of bronze,³³ its legs of iron, its feet partly of iron and partly of clay.³⁴ As you looked, a stone was cut out by no human hand, and it smote the image on its feet of iron and clay, and broke them in pieces;³⁵ then the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver, and the gold, all together were broken in pieces, and became like the chaff of the summer threshing floors; and the wind carried them away, so that not a trace of them could be found. But the stone that struck the image became a great mountain and filled the whole earth.

36 "This was the dream; now we will tell the king its interpretation.³⁷ You, O king, the king of kings, to whom the God of heaven has given the kingdom, the power, and the might, and the glory,³⁸ and into whose hand he has given, wherever they dwell, the sons of men, the beasts of the field, and the birds of the air, making you rule over them all—you are the head of gold.³⁹ After you shall arise another kingdom inferior to you, and yet a third kingdom of bronze, which shall rule over all the earth.⁴⁰ And there shall be a fourth kingdom, strong as iron, because iron breaks to pieces and shatters all things; and like iron which crushes, it shall break and crush all these.⁴¹ And as you saw the feet and toes partly of potter's clay and partly of iron, it shall be a divided kingdom; but some of the firmness of iron shall be in it, just as you saw iron mixed with the miry clay.⁴² And as the toes of the feet were partly iron and partly clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong and partly brittle.⁴³ As you saw the iron mixed with miry clay, so they will mix with one another in marriage,^b but they will not hold together, just as iron does not mix with clay.⁴⁴ And in the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed, nor shall its sovereignty be left to another people. It shall break in pieces all these kingdoms and bring them to an end, and it shall stand for ever;⁴⁵ just as you saw that a stone was cut from a mountain by no human hand, and that it broke in pieces the iron, the bronze, the clay, the silver, and the gold. A great God has made known to the king what shall be hereafter. The dream is certain, and its interpretation sure."

46 Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and did homage to Daniel, and commanded that an offering and incense be offered up to him.⁴⁷ The king said to Daniel, "Truly, your God is God of gods and Lord of kings, and a revealer of mysteries, for you have been able to reveal this mystery."⁴⁸ Then the king gave Daniel high honors and many great gifts, and made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon, and chief prefect over all the wise men of Babylon.⁴⁹ Daniel made request of the king, and he appointed Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego over the affairs of the province of Babylon; but Daniel remained at the king's court.

3 King Nebuchadnezzar made an image of gold, whose height was upper legs being the thighs. 34: The image was of human construction, but the stone was quarried supernaturally. This could become a mountain filling the whole earth because the earth was pictured as a disk beneath the heavenly vault. 36-45: For this writer the five kingdoms are the Babylonian, Median, Persian, Greek, and the coming universal kingdom of God. 41: The declining strength of the fourth kingdom means the divided kingdoms of the Seleucids and Ptolemies (see "Survey of . . . Bible Lands," §14) whose rulers, though they intermarried, did not hold together. 46-49: That the king did homage to Daniel, recognized his God, and gave him and his friends honors, was to symbolize how oppressing nations would presently treat Israel.

3.1-30: The three youths in the fiery furnace. A story to show how martyrdom is preferable to apostasy. 1: Huge images of deities were common in ancient times. This one was gold-sixty cubits and its breadth six cubits. He set it up on the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon. ² Then King Nebuchadnezzar sent to assemble the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces to come to the dedication of the image which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. ³ Then the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces, were assembled for the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up; and they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up. ⁴ And the herald proclaimed aloud, "You are commanded, O peoples, nations, and languages, ⁵ that when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, you are to fall down and worship the golden image that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up; ⁶ and whoever does not fall down and worship shall immediately be cast into a burning fiery furnace." ⁷ Therefore, as soon as all the peoples heard the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, all the peoples, nations, and languages fell down and worshiped the golden image which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

⁸ Therefore at that time certain Chaldeans came forward and maliciously accused the Jews. ⁹ They said to King Nebuchadnezzar, "O king, live for ever! ¹⁰ You, O king, have made a decree, that every man who hears the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, shall fall down and worship the golden image; ¹¹ and whoever does not fall down and worship shall be cast into a burning fiery furnace. ¹² There are certain Jews whom you have appointed over the affairs of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. These men, O king, pay no heed to you; they do not serve your gods or worship the golden image which you have set up."

¹³ Then Nebuchadnezzar in furious rage commanded that Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego be brought. Then they brought these men before the king. ¹⁴ Nebuchadnezzar said to them, "Is it true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you do not serve my gods or worship the golden image which I have set up? ¹⁵ Now if you are ready when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, to fall down and worship the image which I have made, well and good; but if you do not worship, you shall immediately be cast into a burning fiery furnace; and who is the god that will deliver you out of my hands?"

¹⁶ Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered the king, "O Nebuchadnezzar, we have no need to answer you in this matter. ¹⁷ If it be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace; and he will deliver us out of your hand, O king. ¹⁸ But if not, be it known to you, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the golden image which you have set up."

¹⁹ Then Nebuchadnezzar was full of fury, and the expression of his face was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. He ordered the furnace heated seven times more than it was wont to be heated. ²⁰ And he ordered certain mighty men of his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the

The meaning of the Aramaic word translated bagpipe is uncertain; some think it means a drum. 6: Punishment by burning alive was not uncommon (Gen.38.24; Jos.7.15). The furnace was the local kiln-type oven, with openings at top and at ground level. 19: The burning fiery furnace. ²¹ Then these men were bound in their mantles,^d their tunics,^d their hats, and their other garments, and they were cast into the burning fiery furnace. ²² Because the king's order was strict and the furnace very hot, the flame of the fire slew those men who took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed'nego. ²³ And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed'nego, fell bound into the burning fiery furnace.

²⁴ Then King Nebuchadnezzar was astonished and rose up in haste. He said to his counselors, "Did we not cast three men bound into the fire?" They answered the king, "True, O king." ²⁵ He answered, "But I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they are not hurt; and the appearance of the fourth is like a son of the gods."

²⁶ Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the door of the burning fiery furnace and said, "Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed'nego, servants of the Most High God, come forth, and come here!" Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed'nego came out from the fire. ²⁷ And the satraps, the prefects, the governors, and the king's counselors gathered together and saw that the fire had not had any power over the bodies of those men; the hair of their heads was not singed, their mantles^d were not harmed, and no smell of fire had come upon them. ²⁸ Nebuchadnezzar said, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed'nego, who has sent his angel and delivered his servants, who trusted in him, and set at nought the king's command, and yielded up their bodies rather than serve and worship any god except their own God. ²⁹ Therefore I make a decree: Any people, nation, or language that speaks anything against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed'nego shall be torn limb from limb, and their houses laid in ruins; for there is no other god who is able to deliver in this way." ³⁰ Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed'nego in the province of Babylon.

⁴ King Nebuchadnezzar to all peoples, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth: Peace be multiplied to you! ² It has seemed good to me to show the signs and wonders that the Most High God has wrought toward me.

and his dominion is from

⁴ I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at ease in my house and prospering in my palace. ⁵ I had a dream which made me afraid; as I lay in bed the fancies and the visions of my head alarmed me. ⁶ Therefore I made a decree that all the wise men of Babylon should be brought before me, that they might make known to me the interpretation of the dream. ⁷ Then the magicians, the enchanters, the Chalde'ans, and the astrologers came in; and I told them the dream, but they could not make known to me its interpretation. ⁸ At last Daniel came in before me—he who was named Belteshazzar after the name of my god, and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods^e—and I told him the dream, saying, ⁹ "O Belteshazzar, seven times is merely rhetorical. 21: Usually victims were stripped; the binding and clothing here heightens the miracle of their deliverance. 22: They were cast in at the top opening, flames from which slew the soldiers. The king was looking into the ground level opening and saw where they fell. 25: A son of the gods; a celestial being (v. 28). 26: They emerged from the ground level opening. 29: This dismemberment of person and property was not uncommon punishment (2.5).

4.1-37: Nebuchadnezzar's madness. A story to show how helpless is the greatest heathen power against Israel's God. 1: Many ancient monarchs imagined they ruled all the earth. 6: As in 2.2 court sages are expected to be skilled interpreters of dreams. 9: For Daniel's office chief of the magicians, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods^g is in you and that no mystery is difficult for you, here is^h the dream which I saw; tell me its interpretation. ¹⁰ The visions of my head as I lay in bed were these: I saw, and behold, a tree in the midst of the earth; and its height was great. ¹¹ The tree grew and became strong, and its top reached to heaven, and it was visible to the end of the whole earth. ¹² Its leaves were fair and its fruit abundant, and in it was food for all. The beasts of the field found shade under it, and the birds of the air dwelt in its branches, and all flesh was fed from it.

¹³ "I saw in the visions of my head as I lay in bed, and behold, a watcher, a holy one, came down from heaven. ¹⁴ He cried aloud and said thus, 'Hew down the tree and cut off its branches, strip off its leaves and scatter its fruit; let the beasts flee from under it and the birds from its branches. ¹⁵ But leave the stump of its roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze, amid the tender grass of the field. Let him be wet with the dew of heaven; let his lot be with the beasts in the grass of the earth; ¹⁶ let his mind be changed from a man's, and let a beast's mind be given to him; and let seven times pass over him. ¹⁷ The sentence is by the decree of the watchers, the decision by the word of the holy ones, to the end that the living may know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men, and gives it to whom he will, and sets over it the lowliest of men.' ¹⁸ This dream I, King Nebuchadnezzar, saw. And you, O Belteshaz'zar, declare the interpretation, because all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known to me the interpretation, but you are able, for the spirit of the holy godsⁱ is in you."

¹⁹ Then Daniel, whose name was Belteshaz'zar, was dismayed for a moment, and his thoughts alarmed him. The king said, "Belteshaz'zar, let not the dream or the interpretation alarm you." Belteshaz'zar answered, "My lord, may the dream be for those who hate you and its interpretation for your enemies! ²⁰ The tree you saw, which grew and became strong, so that its top reached to heaven, and it was visible to the end of the whole earth; ²¹ whose leaves were fair and its fruit abundant, and in which was food for all; under which beasts of the field found shade, and in whose branches the birds of the air dwelt— ²² it is you, O king, who have grown and become strong. Your greatness has grown and reaches to heaven, and your dominion to the ends of the earth. ²³ And whereas the king saw a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and saying, 'Hew down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump of its roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze, in the tender grass of the field; and let him be wet with the dew of heaven; and let his lot be with the beasts of the field, till seven times pass over him'; ²⁴ this is the interpretation, O king: It is a decree of the Most High, which has come upon my lord the king, ²⁵ that you shall be driven from among men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field; you shall be made to eat grass compare 2.48; 5.11. What the spirit of the holy gods (v. 18; 5.11) means is quite obscure. 10: Tree, see Ezek.31.3–14. It is the world-tree at the center of the earth disk, whose branches touch the heavenly vault and stretch in all directions to where this vault touches the rim of the disk (see 2.34 n.). 13,17,23: The watcher was a celestial being (see, in the pseudepigraphic literature, 1 Enoch 12.2,3; Jubilees 4.15), who cried aloud to his attendants (v. 14); such celestial beings, as a kind of heavenly council, execute the sentence given by God. 16: The seven times means a conventional number of years. 19: Dismayed, i.e. embarrassed and perplexed, so he uses a stereotyped formula of aversion. 22: The tree is you, for a tree not uncommonly symbolized a man (Pss.1.3; 37.35; Jer.17.8). 25: The king will suffer temporarily from "insania zoanthropia," a form of insanity in which a man acts like a beast (v. 33). History knows of no like an ox, and you shall be wet with the dew of heaven, and seven times shall pass over you, till you know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men, and gives it to whom he will.

²⁶ And as it was commanded to leave the stump of the roots of the tree, your kingdom shall be sure for you from the time that you know that Heaven rules.

²⁷ Therefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable to you; break off your sins by practicing righteousness, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the oppressed, that there may perhaps be a lengthening of your tranquillity."

28 All this came upon King Nebuchadnezzar. ²⁹ At the end of twelve months he was walking on the roof of the royal palace of Babylon, ³⁰ and the king said, "Is not this great Babylon, which I have built by my mighty power as a royal residence and for the glory of my majesty?" ³¹ While the words were still in the king's mouth, there fell a voice from heaven, "O King Nebuchadnezzar, to you it is spoken: The kingdom has departed from you, ³² and you shall be driven from among men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field; and you shall be made to eat grass like an ox; and seven times shall pass over you, until you have learned that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will." ³³ Immediately the word was fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar. He was driven from among men, and ate grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven till his hair grew as long as eagles' feathers, and his nails were like birds' claws.

34 At the end of the days I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to heaven, and my reason returned to me, and I blessed the Most High, and praised and honored him who lives for ever;

for his dominion is an everlasting dominion,
and his kingdom endures from generation to generation;

³⁵ all the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing;
and he does according to his will in the host of heaven
and among the inhabitants of the earth;

and none can stay his hand
or say to him, "What doest thou?"

³⁶ At the same time my reason returned to me; and for the glory of my kingdom, my majesty and splendor returned to me. My counselors and my lords sought me, and I was established in my kingdom, and still more greatness was added to me. ³⁷ Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and extol and honor the King of heaven; for all his works are right and his ways are just; and those who walk in pride he is able to abase.

5 King Belshazzar made a great feast for a thousand of his lords, and drank wine in front of the thousand.

2 Belshazzar, when he tasted the wine, commanded that the vessels of gold and of silver which Nebuchadnezzar his father had taken out of the temple in Jerusalem be brought, that the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines might drink from them. ³ Then they brought in the golden and silver vessels which had been taken out of the temple, the house of God in Jerusalem; and the king and his lords, his wives, and his such affliction affecting Nebuchadnezzar, but some later tale may have associated it with him. The tale may have originally been told of Nabonidus, to judge from a Dead Sea Scroll text. 30: Nebuchadnezzar had a reputation as a builder. 36: His counselors were his ministers of state, his lords his courtiers.

5.1-31: Belshazzar's feast. A story to show that divine punishment is visited on sacrilege. 1: Belshazzar, son of Nabonidus the last Neo-Babylonian ruler, was only viceroy during his father's absences. Great feast probably means a state banquet. 2: For the vessels see 1.2; Ezra 1.7-11. His father, i.e. his predecessor, for three kings ruled between Nebuchadnezzar and Nabonidus. From vv. 11,13,18,22, however, we see that this writer thought Nebuchadnezzar concubines drank from them. ⁴ They drank wine, and praised the gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone.

⁵ Immediately the fingers of a man's hand appeared and wrote on the plaster of the wall of the king's palace, opposite the lampstand; and the king saw the hand as it wrote. ⁶ Then the king's color changed, and his thoughts alarmed him; his limbs gave way, and his knees knocked together. ⁷ The king cried aloud to bring in the enchanters, the Chalde'ans, and the astrologers. The king said to the wise men of Babylon, "Whoever reads this writing, and shows me its interpretation, shall be clothed with purple, and have a chain of gold about his neck, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom."

¹⁰ The queen, because of the words of the king and his lords, came into the banquetting hall; and the queen said, "O king, live for ever! Let not your thoughts alarm you or your color change. ¹¹ There is in your kingdom a man in whom is the spirit of the holy gods.^k In the days of your father light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, were found in him, and King Nebuchadnezzar, your father, made him chief of the magicians, enchanters, Chalde'ans, and astrologers,^l ¹² because an excellent spirit, knowledge, and understanding to interpret dreams, explain riddles, and solve problems were found in this Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar. Now let Daniel be called, and he will show the interpretation."

of Judah, whom the king my father brought from Judah. ¹⁴ I have heard of you that the spirit of the holy gods^k is in you, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom are found in you. ¹⁵ Now the wise men, the enchanters, have been brought in before me to read this writing and make known to me its interpretation; but they could not show the interpretation of the matter. ¹⁶ But I have heard that you can give interpretations and solve problems. Now if you can read the writing and make known to me its interpretation, you shall be clothed with purple, and have a chain of gold about your neck, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom."

¹⁷ Then Daniel answered before the king, "Let your gifts be for yourself, and give your rewards to another; nevertheless I will read the writing to the king and make known to him the interpretation. ¹⁸ O king, the Most High God gave Nebuchadnezzar your father kingship and greatness and glory and majesty; ¹⁹ and because of the greatness that he gave him, all peoples, nations, and languages trembled and feared before him; whom he would he slew, and whom he would he kept alive; whom he would he raised up, and whom he would he put down. ²⁰ But when his heart was lifted up and his spirit was hardened so that he dealt proudly, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and his glory was taken from him; ²¹ he was driven from among men, and his mind was made like that of a beast, and his dwelling was with the wild asses; he was fed grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, until he knew that the Most High God rules the kingdom of men, and sets over it whom he will. ²² And you his son, Belshazzar, have not humbled your heart, was his real father. 4: During the drinking, libations were poured out to heathen deities. 5: This sacrilege brought forth the fingers of a man's hand writing a message of doom. 7: The writing, we learn from v. 25, was Aramaic, but the message was cryptic and needed interpretation. Third ruler means he would rank third in the kingdom. 10-11: The queen was the queen-

though you knew all this, ²³ but you have lifted up yourself against the Lord of heaven; and the vessels of his house have been brought in before you, and you and your lords, your wives, and your concubines have drunk wine from them; and you have praised the gods of silver and gold, of bronze, iron, wood, and stone, which do not see or hear or know, but the God in whose hand is your breath, and whose are all your ways, you have not honored.

24 "Then from his presence the hand was sent, and this writing was inscribed. ²⁵ And this is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, and PARSIN. ²⁶ This is the interpretation of the matter: MENE, God has numbered the days of your kingdom and brought it to an end; ²⁷ TEKEL, you have been weighed in the balances and found wanting; ²⁸ PERES, your kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians."

29 Then Belshaz'zar commanded, and Daniel was clothed with purple, a chain of gold was put about his neck, and proclamation was made concerning him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 That very night Belshaz'zar the Chalde'an king was slain. ³¹ And Darius the Mede received the kingdom, being about sixty-two years old.

6 It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom a hundred and twenty satraps, to be throughout the whole kingdom; ² and over them three presidents, of whom Daniel was one, to whom these satraps should give account, so that the king might suffer no loss. ³ Then this Daniel became distinguished above all the other presidents and satraps, because an excellent spirit was in him; and the king planned to set him over the whole kingdom. ⁴ Then the presidents and the satraps sought to find a ground for complaint against Daniel with regard to the kingdom; but they could find no ground for complaint or any fault, because he was faithful, and no error or fault was found in him. ⁵ Then these men said, "We shall not find any ground for complaint against this Daniel unless we find it in connection with the law of his God."

6 Then these presidents and satraps came by agreement^m to the king and said to him, "O King Darius, live for ever! ⁷ All the presidents of the kingdom, the prefects and the satraps, the counselors and the governors are agreed that the king should establish an ordinance and enforce an interdict, that whoever makes petition to any god or man for thirty days, except to you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. ⁸ Now, O king, establish the interdict and sign the document, so that it cannot be changed, according to the law of the Medes and the Persians, which cannot be revoked." ⁹ Therefore King Darius signed the document and interdict.

mother. 25-28: All three words represent weights, mene a mina, tekell a shekel, parsin two half-minas, but they may also be read as the verbs "to number," "to weigh," and "to divide." So the meaning may be that Evil-merodach, who succeeded Nebuchadnezzar, weighs a mina, his successor Neriglissar also a mina, his successor Labashi-Marduk only a shekel, Nabonidus and Belshazzar half a mina each, but that now by the judgment of numbering, weighing, and dividing the Neo-Babylonian kingdom is to be conquered by the Medo-Persians. 31: No such person as Darius the Mede is known to history. It was Cyrus who overthrew the Neo-Babylonian power. Perhaps it means Cyrus's general Gobyras, who was about sixty-two.

6.1-28: Daniel in the lions' den. A story to show how God will deliver his faithful servants. 1: Darius I set up the satrapies (i.e. provinces, each governed by a satrap), but Darius here means the Mede of 5.31. Jewish tradition increased the twenty-odd satrapies into over one hundred and twenty (Est.1.1; 8.9). 2-5: Each satrap had a military chief and a civil secretary, these being the three presidents. The king, however, planned to appoint Daniel as grand vizier. From this pinnacle jealous fellow officials seek to topple him, using his religion as their lever. 7: Their request is that for a month the king should be treated as divine. From vv. 17,23,24 it appears that the den was thought of as a pit. 8: For the unchangeableness of Medo-Persian

10 When Daniel knew that the document had been signed, he went to his house where he had windows in his upper chamber open toward Jerusalem; and he got down upon his knees three times a day and prayed and gave thanks before his God, as he had done previously.¹¹ Then these men came by agreement^m and found Daniel making petition and supplication before his God.¹² Then they came near and said before the king, concerning the interdict, "O king! Did you not sign an interdict, that any man who makes petition to any god or man within thirty days except to you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions?" The king answered, "The thing stands fast, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which cannot be revoked."¹³ Then they answered before the king, "That Daniel, who is one of the exiles from Judah, pays no heed to you, O king, or the interdict you have signed, but makes his petition three times a day."

14 Then the king, when he heard these words, was much distressed, and set his mind to deliver Daniel; and he labored till the sun went down to rescue him.¹⁵ Then these men came by agreement^m to the king, and said to the king, "Know, O king, that it is a law of the Medes and Persians that no interdict or ordinance which the king establishes can be changed."

16 Then the king commanded, and Daniel was brought and cast into the den of lions. The king said to Daniel, "May your God, whom you serve continually, deliver you!"¹⁷ And a stone was brought and laid upon the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his own signet and with the signet of his lords, that nothing might be changed concerning Daniel.¹⁸ Then the king went to his palace, and spent the night fasting; no diversions were brought to him, and sleep fled from him.

19 Then, at break of day, the king arose and went in haste to the den of lions.²⁰ When he came near to the den where Daniel was, he cried out in a tone of anguish and said to Daniel, "O Daniel, servant of the living God, has your God, whom you serve continually, been able to deliver you from the lions?"²¹ Then Daniel said to the king, "O king, live for ever!²² My God sent his angel and shut the lions' mouths, and they have not hurt me, because I was found blameless before him; and also before you, O king, I have done no wrong."²³ Then the king was exceedingly glad, and commanded that Daniel be taken up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no kind of hurt was found upon him, because he had trusted in his God.²⁴ And the king commanded, and those men who had accused Daniel were brought and cast into the den of lions—they, their children, and their wives; and before they reached the bottom of the den the lions overpowered them and broke all their bones in pieces.

25 Then King Darius wrote to all the peoples, nations, and languages that dwell in all the earth: "Peace be multiplied to you.²⁶ I make a decree, that in all my royal dominion men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel,

for he is the living God,
enduring for ever;

28 So this Daniel prospered during the reign of Darius and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

7 In the first year of Belshazz'zar king of Babylon, Daniel had a dream and visions of his head as he lay in his bed. Then he wrote down the dream, and told the sum of the matter. ² Daniel said, "I saw in my vision by night, and behold, the four winds of heaven were stirring up the great sea. ³ And four great beasts came up out of the sea, different from one another. ⁴ The first was like a lion and had eagles' wings. Then as I looked its wings were plucked off, and it was lifted up from the ground and made to stand upon two feet like a man; and the mind of a man was given to it. ⁵ And behold, another beast, a second one, like a bear. It was raised up on one side; it had three ribs in its mouth between its teeth; and it was told, 'Arise, devour much flesh.' ⁶ After this I looked, and lo, another, like a leopard, with four wings of a bird on its back; and the beast had four heads; and dominion was given to it. ⁷ After this I saw in the night visions, and behold, a fourth beast, terrible and dreadful and exceedingly strong; and it had great iron teeth; it devoured and broke in pieces, and stamped the residue with its feet. It was different from all the beasts that were before it; and it had ten horns. ⁸ I considered the horns, and behold, there came up among them another horn, a little one, before which three of the first horns were plucked up by the roots; and behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of a man, and a mouth speaking great things. ⁹ As I looked,

and came forth from before him;
a thousand thousands served him,
and ten thousand times ten

the court sat in judgment,
and the books were opened.

¹¹ I looked then because of the sound of the great words which the horn was speaking. And as I looked, the beast was slain, and its body destroyed and given over to be burned with fire. ¹² As for the rest of the beasts, their dominion was taken away, but their lives were prolonged for a season and a time.

¹³ I saw in the night visions, and behold, with the clouds of 7.1-28: The vision of the four beasts. A vision of the passing of kingdoms to make way for the kingdom of God. 1: The first year, i.e. 554 B.C., when he began to act as viceroy for his father. The sum, i.e. the main substance. 2: In accord with the view that there were four kingdoms (see ch. 2), four winds appropriately introduce the beasts symbolizing these kingdoms. 4-8: The winged lion represents the Babylonian empire, the bear the Medes, the four-headed winged leopard the Persians, the dragon-like beast the Greeks, whose ten horns represent the ten rulers who succeeded Alexander. The little horn (compare 8.9) is Antiochus Epiphanes, who gained his throne by uprooting others. 9-14: The divine judgment. God, the Ancient One, appears on his fiery throne surrounded by his court (1 Kg.22.19); the record books are examined and judgment is given. 11-12: The Greek empire will be destroyed, but the remnant of the others will continue until absorbed into the final kingdom. 13-14: God will then give

15 "As for me, Daniel, my spirit within me was anxious and the visions of my head alarmed me. ¹⁶ I approached one of those who stood there and asked him the truth concerning all this. So he told me, and made known to me the interpretation of the things. ¹⁷ 'These four great beasts are four kings who shall arise out of the earth. ¹⁸ But the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom, and possess the kingdom for ever, for ever and ever.'

19 "Then I desired to know the truth concerning the fourth beast, which was different from all the rest, exceedingly terrible, with its teeth of iron and claws of bronze; and which devoured and broke in pieces, and stamped the residue with its feet; ²⁰ and concerning the ten horns that were on its head, and the other horn which came up and before which three of them fell, the horn which had eyes and a mouth that spoke great things, and which seemed greater than its fellows. ²¹ As I looked, this horn made war with the saints, and prevailed over them, ²² until the Ancient of Days came, and judgment was given for the saints of the Most High, and the time came when the saints received the kingdom.

23 "Thus he said: 'As for the fourth beast, there shall be a fourth kingdom on
earth,
which shall be different from all
the kingdoms,
and it shall devour the whole
earth,

and trample it down, and break
it to pieces.

²⁴ As for the ten horns,
out of this kingdom
ten kings shall arise,
and another shall arise after them;
he shall be different from the former
ones,

and shall put down three kings.

²⁵ He shall speak words against the Most High,
and shall wear out the saints of the Most High,
and shall think to change the times and the law;
and they shall be given into his hand
for a time, two times, and half a time.

²⁶ But the court shall sit in judgment,
and his dominion shall be taken
away,
to be consumed and destroyed to the end.

²⁷ And the kingdom and the dominion
and the greatness of the kingdoms
under the whole heaven
shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High;
their kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom,
and all dominions shall serve and obey them.'

28 "Here is the end of the matter.
As for me, Daniel, my thoughts greatly alarmed me, and my color changed;
but I kept the matter in my mind."

8 In the third year of the reign of King Belshaz'zar a vision appeared to me, Daniel, after that which appeared to me at the first. ² And I saw in the vision; and when I saw, I was in Susa the capital, which is in the province of Elam; and I saw in the vision, and I was at the river U'lai.
³ I raised my eyes and saw, and be-the messianic king a universal and everlasting dominion. 16: At the seer's request an angel gives him the interpretation. 21: Antiochus Epiphanes persecuted the righteous (see "Survey of . . . hold, a ram standing on the bank of the river. It had two horns; and both horns were high, but one was higher than the other, and the higher one came up last. ⁴I saw the ram charging westward and northward and southward; no beast could stand before him, and there was no one who could rescue from his power; he did as he pleased and magnified himself.

⁵As I was considering, behold, a he-goat came from the west across the face of the whole earth, without touching the ground; and the goat had a conspicuous horn between his eyes. ⁶He came to the ram with the two horns, which I had seen standing on the bank of the river, and he ran at him in his mighty wrath. ⁷I saw him come close to the ram, and he was enraged against him and struck the ram and broke his two horns; and the ram had no power to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground and trampled upon him; and there was no one who could rescue the ram from his power. ⁸Then the he-goat magnified himself exceedingly; but when he was strong, the great horn was broken, and instead of it there came up four conspicuous horns toward the four winds of heaven.

⁹Out of one of them came forth a little horn, which grew exceedingly great toward the south, toward the east, and toward the glorious land. ¹⁰It grew great, even to the host of heaven; and some of the host of the stars it cast down to the ground, and trampled upon them. ¹¹It magnified itself, even up to the Prince of the host; and the continual burnt offering was taken away from him, and the place of his

sanctuary was overthrown. ¹²And the host was given over to it together with the continual burnt offering through transgression; and truth was cast down to the ground, and the horn acted and prospered. ¹³Then I heard a holy one speaking; and another holy one said to the one that spoke, "For how long is the vision concerning the continual burnt offering, the transgression that makes desolate, and the giving over of the sanctuary and host to be trampled under foot?" ¹⁴And he said to him, ^p"For two thousand and three hundred evenings and mornings; then the sanctuary shall be restored to its rightful state."

¹⁵When I, Daniel, had seen the vision, I sought to understand it; and behold, there stood before me one having the appearance of a man. ¹⁶And I heard a man's voice between the banks of the U'lai, and it called, "Gabriel, make this man understand the vision." ¹⁷So he came near where I stood; and when he came, I was frightened and fell upon my face. But he said to me, "Understand, O son of man, that the vision is for the time of the end."

¹⁸As he was speaking to me, I fell into a deep sleep with my face to the ground; but he touched me and set me on my feet. ¹⁹He said, "Behold, I will make known to you what shall be at the latter end of the indignation; for it pertains to the appointed time of the end. ²⁰As for the ram which you saw with the two horns, these are the kings of Media and Persia. ²¹And the he-goat^q is the king of Greece; and the

is the Eulaeus. 3-4: The two-horned ram is the Medo-Persian empire (v. 20), the advance of the Persians being irresistible. 5-7: The he-goat from the west is Alexander the Great (v. 21), who overthrew the Persian empire. 8: Alexander's empire was divided, the four conspicuous leaders being Cassander, Lysimachus, Seleucus, and Ptolemy. 9-14: From the Seleucids sprang Antiochus Epiphanes who in 167 B.C. conquered Palestine, violated the sanctuary, and prohibited worship there (vv. 23-25; see "Survey of . . . Bible Lands," §15). The angels comment and calculate that this will continue about three and a half years (two thousand and three hundred evenings and mornings are one thousand, one hundred and fifty days; see 7.25-28 n.). The sanctuary was restored on 25th Chislew (December 14th) 164 B.C. 16: A man's voice i.e. a celestial being speaking human language. 17: The end, compare v. 19; 11.35; 12.4,9,13. 23-24:

²³ And at the latter end of their rule, when the transgressors have reached their full measure, a king of bold countenance, one who understands riddles, shall arise.²⁴ His power shall be great,^s and he shall cause fearful destruction, and shall succeed in what he does, and destroy mighty men and the people of the saints.²⁵ By his cunning he shall make deceit prosper under his hand, and in his own mind he shall magnify himself. Without warning he shall destroy many; and he shall even rise up against the Prince of princes; but, by no human hand, he shall be broken.²⁶ The vision of the evenings and the mornings which has been told is true; but seal up the vision, for it pertains to many days hence."

27 And I, Daniel, was overcome and lay sick for some days; then I rose and went about the king's business; but I was appalled by the vision and did not understand it.

9 In the first year of Darius the son of Ahasu-e-rus, by birth a Mede, who became king over the realm of the Chalde'ans—² in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, perceived in the books the number of years which, according to the word of the LORD to Jeremiah the prophet, must pass before the end of the desolations of Jerusalem, namely, seventy years.

3 Then I turned my face to the Lord God, seeking him by prayer and supplications with fasting and sackcloth and ashes.⁴ I prayed to the LORD my God and made confession, saying,

"O Lord, the great and terrible God, who keepest covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments,⁵ we have sinned and done wrong and acted wickedly and rebelled, turning aside from thy commandments and ordinances;⁶ we have not listened to thy servants the prophets, who spoke in thy name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land.⁷ To thee, O Lord, belongs righteousness, but to us confusion of face, as at this day, to the men of Judah, to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to all Israel, those that are near and those that are far away, in all the lands to which thou hast driven them, because of the treachery which they have committed against thee.⁸ To us, O Lord, belongs confusion of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee.⁹ To the Lord our God belong mercy and forgiveness; because we have rebelled against him,¹⁰ and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God by following his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets.¹¹ All Israel has transgressed thy law and turned aside, refusing to obey thy voice. And the curse and oath which are written in the law of Moses the servant of God have been poured out upon us, because we have sinned against him.¹² He has confirmed his words, which he spoke against us and against our rulers who ruled us, by bringing upon us a great calamity; for under the whole heaven there has not been done the like of what has been done against Jerusalem.¹³ As it is written in the law

The shameless insolence, "double talk," and ruthlessness of Antiochus were notorious. The saints are the godly Jews (7.25,27). 25: The Prince of princes is God, to whom Antiochus' self-deification (11.36) was an affront, and by whom he was broken (2 Macc.9.5). 26-27: Since Daniel is pictured as being in Susa in 552 B.C., and the vision concerns events of 164, the account is to be preserved for that time, for naturally Daniel did not understand it.

9.1-27: The prophecy of the seventy weeks, expounding a prophecy of Jeremiah. 1: According to this writer's chronology the first year of Darius the Mede was 538 B.C. Ahasuerus means Xerxes, a fictitious parent for a fictitious Darius. 2: The seventy years are referred to in Jer. 25.11,12; 29.10. 4-19: With Daniel's prayer of confession compare Neh. chs. 1 and 9. 11: For

of Moses, all this calamity has come upon us, yet we have not entreated the favor of the LORD our God, turning from our iniquities and giving heed to thy truth. ¹⁴ Therefore the LORD has kept ready the calamity and has brought it upon us; for the LORD our God is righteous in all the works which he has done, and we have not obeyed his voice. ¹⁵ And now, O Lord our God, who didst bring thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast made thee a name, as at this day, we have sinned, we have done wickedly. ¹⁶ O Lord, according to all thy righteous acts, let thy anger and thy wrath turn away from thy city Jerusalem, thy holy hill; because for our sins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people have become a byword among all who are round about us. ¹⁷ Now therefore, O our God, hearken to the prayer of thy servant and to his supplications, and for thy own sake, O Lord, cause thy face to shine upon thy sanctuary, which is desolate. ¹⁸ O my God, incline thy ear and hear; open thy eyes and behold our desolations, and the city which is called by thy name; for we do not present our supplications before thee on the ground of our righteousness, but on the ground of thy great mercy. ¹⁹ O LORD, hear; O LORD, forgive; O LORD, give heed and act; delay not, for thy own sake, O my God, because thy city and thy people are called by thy name."

20 While I was speaking and praying, confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God for the holy hill of my God; ²¹ while I was speaking in prayer, the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the first, came to me in swift flight at the time of the evening sacrifice. ²² He came" and he said to me, "O Daniel, I have now come out to give you wisdom and understanding. ²³ At the beginning of your supplications a word went forth, and I have come to tell it to you, for you are greatly beloved; therefore consider the word and understand the vision.

24 "Seventy weeks of years are decreed concerning your people and your holy city, to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place."^v ²⁵ Know therefore and understand that from the going forth of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time. ²⁶ And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off, and shall have nothing; and the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its^w end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war; desolations are decreed. ²⁷ And he shall make a strong covenant with many for one week; and for half of the week he shall cause sacrifice and offering to cease; and upon the wing of abominations shall come one who makes deso-

10 In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a word was revealed to Daniel, who was named Belteshaz'zar. And the word was true, and it was a great conflict. And he understood the word and had understanding of the vision.

2 In those days I, Daniel, was mourning for three weeks. 3 I ate no delicacies, no meat or wine entered my mouth, nor did I anoint myself at all, for the full three weeks. 4 On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I was standing on the bank of the great river, that is, the Tigris, 5 I lifted up my eyes and looked, and behold, a man clothed in linen, whose loins were girded with gold of Uphaz. 6 His body was like beryl, his face like the appearance of lightning, his eyes like flaming torches, his arms and legs like the gleam of burnished bronze, and the sound of his words like the noise of a multitude. 7 And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision, for the men who were with me did not see the vision, but a great trembling fell upon them, and they fled to hide themselves. 8 So I was left alone and saw this great vision, and no strength was left in me; my radiant appearance was fearfully changed, and I retained no strength. 9 Then I heard the sound of his words; and when I heard the sound of his words, I fell on my face in a deep sleep with my face to the ground.

10 And behold, a hand touched me and set me trembling on my hands and knees. 11 And he said to me, “O

Daniel, man greatly beloved, give heed to the words that I speak to you, and stand upright, for now I have been sent to you.” While he was speaking this word to me, I stood up trembling. 12 Then he said to me, “Fear not, Daniel, for from the first day that you set your mind to understand and humbled yourself before your God, your words have been heard, and I have come because of your words. 13 The prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me twenty-one days; but Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, so I left him there with the prince of the kingdom of Persia^x 14 and came to make you understand what is to befall your people in the latter days. For the vision is for days yet to come.”

15 When he had spoken to me according to these words, I turned my face toward the ground and was dumb. 16 And behold, one in the likeness of the sons of men touched my lips; then I opened my mouth and spoke. I said to him who stood before me, “O my lord, by reason of the vision pains have come upon me, and I retain no strength. 17 How can my lord's servant talk with my lord? For now no strength remains in me, and no breath is left in me.”

18 Again one having the appearance of a man touched me and strengthened me. 19 And he said, “O man greatly beloved, fear not, peace be with you; be strong and of good courage.” And when he spoke to me,

10.1-21: A vision of the last days (which continues through 12.13, ch. 10 being prologue, ch. 11 the vision, ch. 12 the epilogue). 1: The third year of Cyrus, 535 B.C. For the first conflict see v. 13. 4: Tigris is a gloss on great river, for Babylon is on the Euphrates. 5: The man was a celestial being, probably Gabriel, in human form, but having angelic splendor. Uphaz, see Jer.10.9. 7: His companions did not see the vision but were affected by the supernatural presence, as in Acts 9.7. 12-13: Michael . . . came to help, as in 9.21-23 Gabriel is God's response to supplication. Conflict in heaven among the angelic patrons of the nations had delayed his coming three weeks, and he got away because Michael, the Jews' patron angel (v. 21), had helped him against the patron angel of Persia. In vv. 20-21 he says he must return, when he expects to be involved with the patron angel of Greece also. That they withstood him suggests they did not want Daniel to be told the things which were to befall the Jews in days yet to come.

I was strengthened and said, "Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me." ²⁰ Then he said, "Do you know why I have come to you? But now I will return to fight against the prince of Persia; and when I am through with him, lo, the prince of Greece will come. ²¹ But I will tell you what is inscribed in the book of truth: there is none who contends by my side against these except Michael, || your prince. ¹ And as for me, in || the first year of Darius the Mede, I stood up to confirm and strengthen him.

2 "And now I will show you the truth. Behold, three more kings shall arise in Persia; and a fourth shall be far richer than all of them; and when he has become strong through his riches, he shall stir up all against the kingdom of Greece. ³ Then a mighty king shall arise, who shall rule with great dominion and do according to his will. ⁴ And when he has arisen, his kingdom shall be broken and divided toward the four winds of heaven, but not to his posterity, nor according to the dominion with which he ruled; for his kingdom shall be plucked up and go to others besides these.

5 "Then the king of the south shall be strong, but one of his princes shall be stronger than he and his dominion shall be a great dominion. ⁶ After some years they shall make an alliance, and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make peace; but she shall not retain the strength of her arm, and he and

10 "His sons shall wage war and assemble a multitude of great forces, which shall come on and overflow and pass through, and again shall carry the war as far as his fortress. ¹¹ Then the king of the south, moved with anger, shall come out and fight with the king of the north; and he shall raise a great multitude, but it shall be given into his hand. ¹² And when the multitude is taken, his heart shall be exalted, and he shall cast down tens of thousands, but he shall not prevail. ¹³ For the king of the north shall again raise a multitude, greater than the former; and after some years^a he shall come on with a great army and abundant supplies.

THE BOOK OF HOSEA

The book of Hosea stands first in that part of the Latter Prophets called the Book of the Twelve, also known as the Minor Prophets because of the brevity of the books in comparison with Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel (see Introduction to the Old Testament, p. xxi).

Hosea's ministry to the northern kingdom followed closely upon that of Amos (see Introduction to Amos). While Amos had spoken as a southerner to a prosperous Israel enjoying an era of peace, Hosea spoke as a native to his own people who were suffering from war with Assyria and in virtual anarchy. Four Israelite kings were assassinated within fourteen years after the death of Jeroboam II. After the Assyrian conquest of 733-732, which resulted in the fall of Damascus, Samaria itself soon fell to the Assyrians (721).

Not all aspects of Hosea's life are clear. It can best be reconstructed, however, from the first three chapters by observing that Hosea deals with Gomer as the LORD deals with Israel; the prophet's personal life is an incarnation of God's redeeming love. Accordingly the sensitive prophet, obedient to his call to take "a wife of harlotry," married the prostitute Gomer. She bore three children, of whom Hosea was presumably not the father (2.4-5), and then left him. But Hosea brought her back publicly (3.1-5) and took her again to himself.

Hosea's ministry dramatizes his message. Though the book is divided into two uneven parts (chs. 1-3; 4-14) and presents serious textual difficulties, it is thoroughly unified by the dominant theme of divine compassion and the love that will not let Israel go. At the heart of Hosea's preaching is a gospel of redeeming love.

THE WORD OF THE LORD THAT came to Hose'a the son of Be-e'ri, in the days of Uzzi'ah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezeki'ah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jerobo'am the son of Jo'ash, king of Israel.

2 When the LORD first spoke through Hose'a, the LORD said to Hose'a, "Go, take to yourself a wife of harlotry and have children of harlotry, for the land commits great harlotry by forsaking the LORD." ³ So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Dibla'im, and she conceived and bore him a son.

4 And the LORD said to him, "Call his name Jezreel; for yet a little while, and I will punish the house of Jehu for the blood of Jezreel, and I will put an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel. ⁵ And on that day, I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel."

6 She conceived again and bore a daughter. And the LORD said to him, "Call her name Not pitied, for I will

1.1: Superscription. The conviction that the word of the LORD comes to a prophet (Jl.1.1; Mic.1.1; Zeph.1.1; Hag.1.1; Zech.1.1) is fundamental to Hebrew prophecy; it asserts that the prophet's inspiration and authority are not from himself but God, who has revealed his will to him (Ezek.2.3-5; 3.10-11; Am.3.7; Zech.1.6), whose personal agent he is (Ex.4.15-16; Is.6.8), and whom alone he must obey (1 Kg. ch. 13; Am.7.14-17; Acts 4.18-20). Hosea means "salvation" or "deliverance." The kings of Judah, see Is.1.1 n., and Mic.1.1 n. Hosea prophesied not only during the reign of Jeroboam II (786-746 B.C.; see Introduction to Amos), but also after his death.

1.2-3.5: Hosea's disciplinary actions against his unfaithful wife and her children and his redemptive love for them exemplify God's dealings with harlotrous Israel and form a living basis for his preaching. Time—the reign of Jeroboam II.

1.2-9: Hosea marries the prostitute Gomer and gives her children prophetically significant names (Is.7.3; 8.3) at the LORD's command. 2: For the land . . . expresses the essence of Israel's sin and her need of redemption. 4-5: Jezreel, meaning "God sows," points backward to the sin of the house of Jehu (1 Kg.19.15-17; 2 Kg. chs. 9-10) and forward to Israel's restoration (Hos.2.21-23). Jeroboam II belonged to the dynasty of Jehu. 6: Because of her sin Israel will not be pitied, and the name of the second child (Hebrew Lo-ruhamah) will be a living reminder no more have pity on the house of Israel, to forgive them at all. ⁷ But I will have pity on the house of Judah, and I will deliver them by the LORD their God; I will not deliver them by bow, nor by sword, nor by war, nor by horses, nor by horsemen."

⁸ When she had weaned Not pitied, she conceived and bore a son. ⁹ And the LORD said, "Call his name Not my people, for you are not my people and I am not your God."^a

¹⁰^b Yet the number of the people of Israel shall be like the sand of the sea, which can be neither measured nor numbered; and in the place where it was said to them, "You are not my people," it shall be said to them, "Sons of the living God." ¹¹ And the people of Judah and the people of Israel shall be gathered together, and they shall appoint for themselves one head; and they shall go up from the land, for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

²^c Say to your brother,^d "My people," and to your sister,^e "She has obtained pity."

² "Plead with your mother, plead—
for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband—
that she put away her harlotry from her face,
and her adultery from between her breasts;

³ lest I strip her naked and make her as in the day she was born,
and make her like a wilderness,
and set her like a parched
land,
and slay her with thirst.

⁴ Upon her children also I will have no pity,
because they are children of harlotry.

⁵ For their mother has played the
harlot;
she that conceived them has acted shamefully.
For she said, 'I will go after my lovers,
who give me my bread and my
water,
my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink.'

⁶ Therefore I will hedge up her^f way
with thorns;
and I will build a wall against her,
so that she cannot find her paths.

⁷ She shall pursue her lovers,
but not overtake them;
and she shall seek them,
but shall not find them.

Then she shall say, 'I will go
and return to my first husband,
for it was better with me then than now.'

⁸ And she did not know that it was I who gave her
the grain, the wine, and the oil, and who lavished upon her silver and gold which they used for Ba'al.

⁹ Therefore I will take back
my grain in its time,
and my wine in its season;
and I will take away my wool and
my flax,
which were to cover her nakedness.

of this. 7: This verse, which exempts Judah, is a later addition. 8-9: The name of the third child (Hebrew Lo-ammi) signifies the breaking of the covenant relationship between the LORD and Israel (Ex.6.7; compare Is.40.1; Jer.31.31-34).

1.10-2.1: Israel's punishment is not final; afterwards she shall be like the sand of the sea (compare Gen.22.17) and again be God's sons (compare Rom.9.25-26). Though these words may have been uttered at a different time, the thought is genuinely Hosean.

2.2-13: Israel will suffer public shame and personal privation like a harlot, because she has adulterated the worship of the LORD with Canaanite Baalism. 3: Is.47.2-3; Ezek.16.37-39; Rev.17.16. 5: Jer.2.23-25; 3.1-2. Israel's lovers and their gifts refer to the immoral fertility rites of Canaanite religion. 7: Hosea takes the metaphor of marriage from the cult of Baal, and boldly calls the LORD husband. 8: The LORD, the universal Creator, is the giver of all good gifts, though Israel may fail to acknowledge this (Gen.1.29-30; Dt.7.13; Jas.1.17). 9: Am.4.6-8.

- ¹⁰ Now I will uncover her lewdness
in the sight of her lovers,
and no one shall rescue her out of
my hand.
- ¹¹ And I will put an end to all her
mirth,

and all her appointed feasts.
- ¹² And I will lay waste her vines and her fig trees,
of which she said,
‘These are my hire,
which my lovers have given me.’
I will make them a forest, and the beasts of the field shall devour them.
- ¹³ And I will punish her for the feast days of the Ba’als
when she burned incense to them and decked herself with her ring and jewelry,
and went after her lovers,
and forgot me, says the LORD.
- ¹⁴ “Therefore, behold, I will allure
her,
and bring her into the wilderness,
and speak tenderly to her.
- ¹⁵ And there I will give her her vineyards,
and make the Valley of Achor
a door of hope.
And there she shall answer as in the days of her youth,
as at the time when she came out

- ¹⁶ “And in that day, says the LORD,
you will call me, ‘My husband,’ and no longer will you call me, ‘My Ba’al.’

¹⁷ For I will remove the names of the Ba’als from her mouth, and they shall be mentioned by name no more.

¹⁸ And I will make for you^g a covenant on that day with the beasts of the field, the birds of the air, and the creeping things of the ground; and I will abolish^h the bow, the sword, and war from the land; and I will make you lie down in safety. ¹⁹ And I will betroth you to me for ever; I will be-troth you to me in righteousness and in justice, in steadfast love, and in mercy. ²⁰ I will betroth you to me in faithfulness; and you shall know the
LORD.

I will answer the heavens
and they shall answer the earth; ²² and the earth shall answer the grain, the wine, and the oil,
and they shall answer Jezreel;ⁱ ²³ and I will sow himⁱ for myself in
the land.

2.14-23: The LORD will woo Israel back, renew his covenant with her, and betroth her to himself forever. 14: The wilderness signifies Israel's early years after the Exodus when she was faithful to the covenant (Ex. chs. 19-24; Jer.2.2-3; compare Ezek.20.33-38). 15: When entering the Promised Land Israel sinned at the Valley of Achor (Jos.7.20-26; Is.65.10). 16: Baal, often used as a proper name of the leading Canaanite deity, means “master,” “lord.” 17-23: The climax of the chapter promises the removal of the Baals, the establishment of a universal covenant (Lev.26.6; Job 5.23; Is.11.6-9; Ezek.34.25-31), the abolition of war (Ps.46.9; Is.2.4), and betrothal to the LORD in steadfast love and faithfulness.

3.1-5: The restoration of Gomer. Hosea buys back his adulterous wife, disciplines her, and affirms his devotion. In a like manner the LORD will restore Israel. 1: Even as the LORD loves the people of Israel, though they turn to other gods; these words disclose the central message of this book: divine love necessitates both Israel's temporary chastisement and her ultimate redemption. Cakes of raisins were used in pagan festivals (Is.16.7; Jer.7.18). 2: Shekel, about

³ And I said to her, "You must dwell as mine for many days; you shall not play the harlot, or belong to another man; so will I also be to you." ⁴ For the children of Israel shall dwell many days without king or prince, without sacrifice or pillar, without ephod or teraphim. ⁵ Afterward the children of Israel shall return and seek the LORD their God, and David their king; and they shall come in fear to the LORD and to his goodness in the latter days.

4 Hear the word of the LORD, O people of Israel;
 for the LORD has a controversy with the inhabitants of the land.
 There is no faithfulness or kindness, and no knowledge of God in the land;
² there is swearing, lying, killing, stealing, and committing adultery;
 they break all bounds and murder follows murder.
³ Therefore the land mourns, and all who dwell in it languish, and also the beasts of the field, and the birds of the air; and even the fish of the sea are taken away.

⁴ Yet let no one contend, and let none accuse, for with you is my contention, O priest.^k

⁵ You shall stumble by day,

the prophet also shall stumble with you by night;
 and I will destroy your mother.

⁶ My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge;
 because you have rejected knowledge,
 I reject you from being a priest to me.

And since you have forgotten the law of your God,
 I also will forget your children.

⁷ The more they increased, the more they sinned against me;
 I will change their glory into shame.

⁸ They feed on the sin of my people; they are greedy for their iniquity.

⁹ And it shall be like people, like priest;
 I will punish them for their ways, and requite them for their deeds.

eleven grams; homer, about six and one-half bushels; lethech, about three bushels. From whom Hosea bought her is not indicated. True redemption is costly (Ps.49.7-8; 1 Cor.6.19-20; 7.23; Gal.4.4-5); Hosea redeemed his wife by love and for a price. 4: During the period of corrective punishment Israel will be deprived of her civil and ceremonial institutions. Pillar, Gen.31.45. Ephod, see Jg.8.24-28 n.; 1 Sam.2.18 n. Teraphim, household gods (Gen.31.19). 5: The phrase and David their king is probably a later Judean addition.

4.1-14.9: Because of her constant rebellion, the judgment of the LORD is upon Israel; yet she will eventually be restored. These themes are elaborated in a series of discourses written after the death of Jeroboam II. The lack of clear order may in part reflect the style of the prophet and may in part be due to accidents in the transmission of the oracles.

4.1-8.14: All Israel has forgotten the LORD and has sought help from other gods and other nations. 4.1-3: The LORD has a controversy with his people because they love neither him nor their fellow Israelites (Mic.6.2). Faithfulness, kindness (steadfast love), and knowledge of God are major theological terms in Hosea (2.19-20; 4.6; 5.4,7; 6.3,6; 10.12; 11.3-4,12b; 12.6). 4-6: The controversy is first of all with the priest and prophet; for, having rejected the knowledge and teaching of God, they have destroyed his people. 7-14: Sin has infected them all, like people, like priest. 13: A reference to high-place sanctuaries and their sacred trees (Jer.2.20).

mountains,
and make offerings upon the hills,

because their shade is good.

Therefore your daughters play the adultery;

for the men themselves go aside with harlots,
and sacrifice with cult prostitutes,
and a people without understanding

THE BOOK OF JOEL

Of Joel himself nothing is known except that he was the son of Pethuel (1.1). Like Obadiah, even his name ("the LORD is God") is not unique, for he shares it with a dozen other Old Testament figures. From his book it appears that he lived in Judah during the Persian period of Jewish history (539–331 B.C.). He was not only well acquainted with the temple at Jerusalem, but was so much interested in its priesthood and services that, like Haggai and Zechariah, he is to be considered a "cultic prophet," that is, a prophet who could exercise his ministry within the life of the temple, even using liturgical forms, and whose message may have been transmitted through priestly circles. As such, Joel helps to mark a notable change in Old Testament prophecy. Taking the characteristic forms of classical prophecy, he expands their apocalyptic and liturgical dimensions.

The dates of Joel's ministry cannot be determined with precision. The majority of historical references in his book, the absence of any mention of the Assyrians or Babylonians, and the heavy borrowing from earlier prophets point to the period from about 400 to 350 B.C.

Joel viewed a locust plague which ravished the country as God's judgment on his people and called them to repentance (1.2–2.27). Using this catastrophe as a dire warning, he went on to depict the advent of the Day of the LORD and its final judgments and blessings (2.28–3.21).

THE WORD OF THE LORD THAT came to Joel, the son of Pethu'el:

² Hear this, you aged men, give ear, all inhabitants of the
land!

Has such a thing happened in your
days,
or in the days of your fathers?

³ Tell your children of it, and let your children tell their
children,
and their children another generation.

⁵ Awake, you drunkards, and weep;
and wail, all you drinkers of wine,
because of the sweet wine,
for it is cut off from your mouth.

⁶ For a nation has come up against
my land,

powerful and without number;
its teeth are lions' teeth,
and it has the fangs of a lioness.
⁷ It has laid waste my vines,
and splintered my fig trees;
it has stripped off their bark and thrown it down;
their branches are made white.

THE BOOK OF AMOS

During the long and peaceful reign of Jeroboam II (786–746 B.C.) Israel attained a height of territorial expansion and national prosperity never again reached. The military security and economic affluence which characterized this age were taken by many Israelites as signs of the LORD's special favor toward them which they felt they deserved because of their extravagant support of the official shrines.

Into this scene stepped the prophet Amos, probably sometime during the decade 760–750 B.C. A native of the small Judean village of Tekoa, he was called by God from a shepherd's task (7.14–15) to the difficult mission of preaching harsh words in a smooth season. He denounced Israel, as well as her neighbors, for reliance upon military might, and for grave injustice in social dealings, abhorrent immorality, and shallow, meaningless piety. Amos' forceful, uncompromising preaching brought him into conflict with the religious authorities of his day. His personal confrontation of the priest Amaziah (7.10–17) remains one of the unforgettable scenes in Hebrew prophecy.

Expelled from the royal sanctuary at Bethel and commanded not to prophesy there again, Amos probably returned to Judah and wrote down the essence of his public preaching in substantially its present form. The book falls into three parts, chs. 1–2, oracles against Israel's neighbors; chs. 3–6, indictment of Israel herself for sin and injustice; and chs. 7–9, visions of Israel's coming doom. Amos became the first in a brilliant succession of writing prophets whose words have left their indelible stamp on later thought about God and man.

THE WORDS OF AMOS, WHO WAS among the shepherds of Teko'a, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Uzzi'ah king of Judah and in the days of Jerobo'am the son of Jo'ash, king of Israel, two years^a before the earthquake.² And he said:

Amos applies the same standards to Israel's neighbors and to Israel. 2: This verse occurs in similar form in Jl.3.16 (compare Jer.25.30). Some scholars consider it an editorial addition. It sounds the solemn theme of the whole section. 3,6,9, etc.: Thus says the LORD and the conclusion says the LORD (Hebrew, “the oracle of Yahweh”) are standard formulas identifying prophetic oracles. The expression for three transgressions . . . and for four indicates “more than enough” (Job 33.14; Pr.30.18). ¹⁴ "For behold, I will raise up against you a nation,
O house of Israel," says the LORD,
the God of hosts;
"and they shall oppress you from the entrance of Hamath
to the Brook of the Arabah."

7 Thus the Lord God showed me:
behold, he was forming locusts in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter growth; and lo, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings.
² When they had finished eating the grass of the land, I said,

"O Lord God, forgive, I beseech
thee!
How can Jacob stand?
He is so small!"

³ The LORD repented concerning this;
"It shall not be," said the LORD.

4 Thus the Lord God showed me:
behold, the Lord God was calling for a judgment by fire, and it devoured the great deep and was eating up the land.

⁶ Then I said,
"O Lord God, cease, I beseech thee!
How can Jacob stand?
He is so small!"

⁶ The LORD repented concerning this;
"This also shall not be," said the Lord God.

7 He showed me: behold, the Lord was standing beside a wall built with a plumb line, with a plumb line in his hand. ⁸ And the LORD said to me,
"Amos, what do you see?" And I said,
"A plumb line." Then the Lord said,
"Behold, I am setting a plumb line
in the midst of my people Israel;
I will never again pass by them;
⁹ the high places of Isaac shall be made desolate,
and the sanctuaries of Israel shall
be laid waste,
and I will rise against the house
of Jerobo'am with the sword."

10 Then Amazi'ah the priest of Bethel sent to Jerobo'am king of Israel, saying, "Amos has conspired against you in the midst of the house of Israel; the land is not able to bear all his words. ¹¹ For thus Amos has said,

and justice into poison, she will be thoroughly punished. 9-10: The sequel to siege or pestilence. Not mention the name of the LORD, perhaps out of fear of further judgment. 14: From Hamath to the Arabah, the farthest extent of Israelite territory (see 2 Kg.14.25).

7.1-9: The first three of five visions of God's judgment. 1-3: Judgment by locusts (Jl.1.4; 2.3). 4-6: Judgment by fire (Jl.1.19). These first two judgments are halted when Amos pleads for mercy. 7-9: Having measured his people with a plumb line (2 Kg.21.13-15) and found them warped beyond correction, the LORD decrees the irrevocable sentence of destruction.

7.10-17. Amos and Amaziah. A prose biographical incident, introduced here perhaps because of the threat against the house of Jeroboam in v. 9. Amaziah was the official priest of the royal

'Jerobo'am shall die by the sword, and Israel must go into exile
away from his land.' "

¹² And Amazi'ah said to Amos, "O seer, go, flee away to the land of Judah, and eat bread there, and prophesy there; ¹³ but never again prophesy at Bethel, for it is the king's sanctuary, and it is a temple of the kingdom."

¹⁴ Then Amos answered Amazi'ah, "I am no prophet, nor a prophet's son;^p but I am a herdsman, and a dresser of sycamore trees, ¹⁵ and the LORD took me from following the flock, and the LORD said to me, 'Go, prophesy to my people Israel.'

¹⁶ "Now therefore hear the word of the LORD.

You say, 'Do not prophesy against Israel,
and do not preach against the house of Isaac.'

¹⁷ Therefore thus says the LORD:
'Your wife shall be a harlot in the
city,
and your sons and your daughters
shall fall by the sword,
and your land shall be parceled
out by line;
you yourself shall die in an unclean
land,
and Israel shall surely go into exile away from its land.'

8 Thus the Lord God showed me:
behold, a basket of summer fruit.^q

² And he said, "Amos, what do you see?" And I said, "A basket of summer fruit."^q Then the LORD said to me,

"The end^r has come upon my people Israel;

I will never again pass by them.

become wailings in that day,"
says the Lord God;

"the dead bodies shall be many;
in every place they shall be cast
out in silence."^t

⁴ Hear this, you who trample upon the needy,
and bring the poor of the land to an end,

⁵ saying, "When will the new moon
be over,
that we may sell grain?
And the sabbath,
that we may offer wheat for sale,
that we may make the ephah small
and the shekel great,
and deal deceitfully with false
balances,

⁶ that we may buy the poor for silver and the needy for a pair of sandals,
and sell the refuse of the wheat?"

⁷ The LORD has sworn by the pride of Jacob:
"Surely I will never forget any of their deeds.

⁸ Shall not the land tremble on this account,
and every one mourn who dwells
in it,
and all of it rise like the Nile,
and be tossed about and sink
again, like the Nile of Egypt?"

⁹ "And on that day," says the Lord
God,
"I will make the sun go down at noon,
and darken the earth in broad daylight.

THE BOOK OF OBADIAH

Nothing is known of the person of the prophet Obadiah; even his name is not distinctive (see v. 1 n.). The problems of date and composition of his brief work, the shortest book in the Old Testament, are not easily solved. Some of the oracles in the book were spoken, or written, soon after Jerusalem fell to the Babylonians in 587 (586) B.C. Obadiah may not have been the originator of these passages, but may have borrowed from collections of sayings transmitted orally by prophetic circles. This could account for the striking similarity between vv. 1–9 and Jer.49.7–22. But if they were not originally Obadiah's, they represent his viewpoint, and tradition regards him as their author.

Verses 10–14 indict the Edomites for outrageous and hostile actions when their Israelite brothers were in peril. Starting from these recent events in the experience of his people, Obadiah, like Joel (see Introduction to Joel), moves on to portray their future consummation. Verses 15–18 announce the day of the LORD's recompense upon the nations for their shameful behavior. A final section (vv. 19–21) proclaims the return of Israel's exiles to the Promised Land, their dominion over Edom, and the LORD's universal sovereignty.

1 THE VISION OF OBADI'AH.

Thus says the Lord God concerning Edom:

We have heard tidings from the
LORD,
and a messenger has been sent
among the nations:
"Rise up! let us rise against her for battle!"

2 Behold, I will make you small
among the nations,
you shall be utterly despised.

3 The pride of your heart has deceived you,
you who live in the clefts of the rock,^a
whose dwelling is high,
who say in your heart,
"Who will bring me down to the ground?"

4 Though you soar aloft like the eagle, though your nest is set among the stars,
thence I will bring you down,
says the LORD.

5 If thieves came to you,

if plunderers by night—
how you have been destroyed!—
would they not steal only enough for themselves?

If grape gatherers came to you,
would they not leave gleanings?

6 How Esau has been pillaged,
his treasures sought out!

7 All your allies have deceived you,
they have driven you to the border;

your confederates have prevailed
against you;

your trusted friends have set a trap under you—
there is no understanding of it.

8 Will I not on that day, says the
LORD,
destroy the wise men out of Edom,
and understanding out of Mount Esau?

9 And your mighty men shall be dismayed, O Teman,
so that every man from Mount
Esau will be cut off by slaughter.

10 For the violence done to your brother Jacob,

you should not have delivered up your deeds shall return on your own head.

drink;
they shall drink, and stagger,^b and shall be as though they had not been.
- ¹⁷ But in Mount Zion there shall be those that escape,
and it shall be holy;
and the house of Jacob shall possess
their own possessions.
- ¹⁸ The house of Jacob shall be a fire,
and the house of Joseph a flame,
and the house of Esau stubble;
they shall burn them and consume
them,
and there shall be no survivor to the house of Esau;
for the LORD has spoken.
- ¹⁹ Those of the Negeb shall possess
Mount Esau,
and those of the Shephe'lah the land of the Philistines;
they shall possess the land of

and Benjamin shall possess Gilead.
- ²⁰ The exiles in Halah^c who are of the people of Israel shall possess^d Phoenicia as far as Zar'ephath;
and the exiles of Jerusalem who are in Sephar'ad
shall possess the cities of the

- ²¹ Saviors shall go up to Mount Zion
to rule Mount Esau;
and the kingdom shall be the LORD's.

Edom was renowned for her wise men (Jer.49.7). 10: Jacob was the father of the Israelites (Gen.49.2; Is.43.1). 11: By failing to help Israel (Judah) in his adversity, Edom became as guilty as the foreigners who entered his gates. Obadiah shares this bitterness against Edom with other writers of the sixth and fifth centuries B.C. (Ps.137.7; Is.34.5-7; 63.1-6; Lam.4.21; Ezek.25.12-14; Mal.1.2-5; see also, from an earlier period, Am.1.11-12). 12-14: Eight-fold indictment of Edom, cast in a very forceful, repetitive style. 15-18: The day of the LORD's judgment upon all the nations, especially Edom. THE BOOK OF JONAH

The book of Jonah is unique among the prophetic books. It contains no collection of oracles in verse against Israel and foreign nations, but presents a prose narrative about the prophet himself. Instead of portraying a prophet who is an obedient servant of the LORD, calling his people to repentance, it features a recalcitrant prophet who flees from his mission and sulks when his hearers repent.

The book is a didactic narrative which has taken older material from the realm of popular legend and put it to new, more consequential use. Its two parts, chs. 1-2 and 3-4, are now united by having in common a central character (Jonah), a similar plot (his ironical conversion of the heathen), and an identical theme (the breadth of God's saving love).

The principal figure of this artful story is an obscure Galilean prophet from Gath-hepher who counseled Jeroboam II (786-746 B.C.) in a successful conflict with the Syrians (2 Kg.14.25) and with whom some of the earlier traditional material was probably associated. Its author, however, must have lived in the post-exilic period because he betrays the influence of Jeremiah and Second Isaiah, opposes the narrow Jewish nationalism exhibited in Ezra, Nehemiah, and Chronicles, and writes in a late form of Hebrew. A date sometime in the fourth or third century B.C. would meet these requirements.

Skilfully and forcefully the book calls Israel back to her universal mission of preaching to all nations the wideness of God's mercy and forgiveness (Gen.12.1-3; Is.42.6-7; 49.6). In spirit, therefore, it remains truly prophetic and justifies its place in the Book of the Twelve Prophets.

NOW THE WORD OF THE LORD came to Jonah the son of Amit'tai, saying, ² "Arise, go to Nin'ev'eh, that great city, and cry against it; for their wickedness has come up before me." ³ But Jonah rose to flee to Tarshish from the presence of the LORD. He went down to Joppa and found a ship going to Tarshish; so he paid the fare, and went on board, to go with them to Tarshish, away from the presence of the LORD.

⁴ But the LORD hurled a great wind upon the sea, and there was a mighty tempest on the sea, so that the ship threatened to break up. ⁵ Then the mariners were afraid, and each cried to his god; and they threw the wares that were in the ship into the sea, to lighten it for them. But Jonah had gone down into the inner part of the ship and had lain down, and was fast asleep. ⁶ So the captain came and said to him, "What do you mean, you sleeper? Arise, call upon your god! Perhaps the god will give a thought to us, that we do not perish."

⁷ And they said to one another, "Come, let us cast lots, that we may know on whose account this evil has come upon us." So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah. ⁸ Then they said to him, "Tell us, on whose account this evil has come upon us? What is your occupation? And whence do you come? What is your country? And of what people are you?" ⁹ And he said to them, "I am a Hebrew; and I fear the LORD, the God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land."

¹⁰ Then the men were exceedingly afraid, and said to him, "What is this that you have done!" For the men knew that he was fleeing from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them.

1.1-16: Jonah's first call to preach to Nineveh, although unheeded, results in the conversion of the heathen sailors. 1-3: Jonah rebels against the divine commission and attempts to flee from God. 1: The word of the LORD, Hos.1.1 n. The word Jonah means "dove." 2: For the wickedness of the Assyrian capital, Nineveh, see Nah. ch. 3. 3: Tarshish, probably in southern Spain (Is.23.1-12; Ezek.27.12,25), represents the farthest point to which Jonah could sail. 4-16: The LORD procures Jonah's recall. He causes a great tempest; for the LORD, the God of heaven, rules

11 Then they said to him, "What shall we do to you, that the sea may quiet down for us?" For the sea grew more and more tempestuous. ¹² He said to them, "Take me up and throw me into the sea; then the sea will quiet down for you; for I know it is because of me that this great tempest has come upon you." ¹³ Nevertheless the men rowed hard to bring the ship back to land, but they could not, for the sea grew more and more tempestuous against them. ¹⁴ Therefore they cried to the LORD, "We beseech thee, O LORD, let us not perish for this man's life, and lay not on us innocent blood; for thou, O LORD, hast done as it pleased thee." ¹⁵ So they took up Jonah and threw him into the sea; and the sea ceased from its raging. ¹⁶ Then the men feared the LORD exceedingly, and they offered a sacrifice to the LORD and made vows.

17^a And the LORD appointed a great fish to swallow up Jonah; and Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

2 Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the belly of the fish, ² saying,

"I called to the LORD, out of my distress,
and he answered me;
out of the belly of Sheol I cried,
and thou didst hear my voice.

³ For thou didst cast me into the deep,
into the heart of the seas,
and the flood was round about me;

all thy waves and thy billows passed over me.

⁴ Then I said, 'I am cast out
from thy presence;
how shall I again look upon thy holy temple?'

⁵ The waters closed in over me,
the deep was round about me;
weeds were wrapped about my
head

⁶ at the roots of the mountains.

I went down to the land whose bars closed upon me for
ever;

yet thou didst bring up my life from
the Pit,

O LORD my God.

⁷ When my soul fainted within me,
I remembered the LORD;
and my prayer came to thee,
into thy holy temple.

⁸ Those who pay regard to vain idols

⁹ But I with the voice of thanksgiving will sacrifice to thee;
what I have vowed I will pay.

Deliverance belongs to the LORD!"

¹⁰ And the LORD spoke to the fish, and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land.

3 Then the word of the LORD came to Jonah the second time, saying, ² "Arise, go to Nin'evah, that great city, and proclaim to it the message that I tell you." ³ So Jonah arose and went to Nin'evah, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nin'evah was an exceedingly great city, three days' journey in breadth. ⁴ Jonah began to go into the sea and the dry land (Pss.65.5-7; 107.23-32; 139.7-12; Mk.4.35-41; Acts ch. 27). 16: Jonah becomes a missionary of his God in spite of himself.

1.17-2.10: Jonah is miraculously saved and returned to dry land. The great fish is not the principal item in the story; like the tempest, the east wind, the gourd, and the worm, it is an obedient agent of God's purpose. 17: Mt.12.38-41.

2.1-9: Jonah's prayer. This psalm of thanksgiving for past deliverance (rather than a petition for help) has only a general theological connection with the prose narrative and was probably not composed by the author of the tale. 2: Pss.18.6; 120.1. Sheol, or Pit (v. 6), is the region of darkness and death (Ps.88.3-12). 3a: Mic.7.19. 3b: Ps.42.7. 5-6: Ps.69.2. 7: Ps.143.4.

3.1-4.11: Jonah and Nineveh. Jonah's second call, although reluctantly and grudgingly obeyed, results in the wholesale conversion of the heathen city. 3: Exceedingly great city; excavations have revealed a city about three miles in length and somewhat less than one and one-half miles wide. The message of the story, not the size of the city, is of primary import.

the city, going a day's journey. And he cried, "Yet forty days, and Nin'evah shall be overthrown!" ⁵ And the people of Nin'evah believed God; they proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them to the least of them.

¹⁰ When God saw what they did, how they turned from their evil way, God repented of the evil which he had said he would do to them; and he did not do it.

4 But it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was angry. ² And he prayed to the LORD and said, "I pray thee, LORD, is not this what I said when I was yet in my country? That is why I made haste to flee to Tarshish; for I knew that thou art a gracious God and merciful, slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love, and repentest of evil.

³ Therefore now, O LORD, take my life from me, I beseech thee, for it is better for me to die than to live." ⁴ And the LORD said, "Do you do well to be angry?" ⁵ Then Jonah went out of the city and sat to the east of the city, and made a booth for himself there. He sat under it in the shade, till he should see what would become of the city.

⁶ And the LORD God appointed a plant,^b and made it come up over Jonah, that it might be a shade over his head, to save him from his discomfort. So Jonah was exceedingly glad because of the plant.^b ⁷ But when dawn came up the next day, God appointed a worm which attacked the plant,^b so that it withered. ⁸ When the sun rose, God appointed a sultry east wind, and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah so that he was faint; and he asked that he might die, and said, "It is better for me to die than to live." ⁹ But God said to Jonah, "Do you do well to be angry for the plant?"^b And he said, "I do well to be angry, angry enough to die." ¹⁰ And the LORD said, "You pity the plant,^b for which you did not labor, nor did you make it grow, which came into being in a night, and perished in a night. ¹¹ And should not I pity Nin'evah, that great city, in which there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand persons who do not know their right hand from their left, and also much cattle?"

5-10: Again Jonah is a successful missionary in spite of himself. 7-9: The pagan king sets a better example than Jonah (4.1). 4.2: Ex.34.6. 11: The point of the book is that God loves every creature in his universe, even the cattle.

THE BOOK OF MICAH

The superscription to this book indicates that Micah was a younger contemporary of Isaiah. The characteristics of the era in which Micah spoke were similar, therefore, to those seen in the ministries of Hosea and Isaiah. The prosperous half-century of peace enjoyed by the northern kingdom of Israel was ended by the death of Jeroboam II and the westward advance of the Assyrians. In 731 B.C. the fall of Damascus marked the end of Syria's freedom; a brief decade later brought the same fate to Israel and its capital at Samaria. Although the kingdom of Judah was spared at that time from the Assyrian yoke, the anti-Assyrian policies of Hezekiah brought Sennacherib of Assyria to Judah in 701 B.C., and Judah was left a weak vassal state.

But unlike Isaiah, Micah was neither of noble descent nor a native of the capital. He came, rather, from the common people, being a citizen of the small village of Moresheth in the Judean foothills southwest of Jerusalem. Therefore Micah looked upon the corruptions and pretensions of the capital through different eyes. Perhaps it was this difference which accounts for Micah's prophecy of the fall of Jerusalem (3.9-12), a major note distinguishing him from his contemporaries and for which he was long remembered (Jer.26.18).

Micah stands solidly with Amos, Hosea, and Isaiah as a fierce champion of pure worship of the LORD and shares with them both the word of judgment against his people (1.2-3.12; 6.1-7.7) and the promise of divine forgiveness and hope in a future restoration. The latter theme of the prophet comes to us in a post-exilic expanded and edited form in 4.1-5.15. The picture of the restored Jerusalem in 7.8-20 comes from the post-exilic period.

THE WORD OF THE LORD THAT came to Micah of Moresheth in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

² Hear, you peoples, all of you;
hearken, O earth, and all that is in it;

and let the Lord GOD be a witness
against you,
the Lord from his holy temple.

³ For behold, the LORD is coming forth out of his place,
and will come down and tread
upon the high places of the earth.

⁴ And the mountains will melt under him and the valleys will be cleft,
like wax before the fire,

like waters poured down a steep place.

⁵ All this is for the transgression of Jacob and for the sins of the house of Israel.

What is the transgression of Jacob?
Is it not Samaria?
And what is the sin of the house^a
of Judah?

Is it not Jerusalem?

⁶ Therefore I will make Samaria a heap in the open country,
a place for planting vineyards;
and I will pour down her stones into
the valley,
and uncover her foundations.

⁷ All her images shall be beaten to pieces,

1.2-3.12: Threats directed against Samaria and Jerusalem because of the corruption of their religious and political leaders form the first major section of Micah's book. 1.2-7: Samaria will be destroyed when the LORD comes in judgment to punish the house of Israel for its transgression. This oracle is to be dated before 721 B.C. 2: Compare Is.1.2; Hab.2.20. 8-16: In a

all her hires shall be burned with
fire,
and all her idols I will lay waste;
for from the hire of a harlot she gathered them,
and to the hire of a harlot they shall return.

For this I will lament and wail;
I will go stripped and naked;
I will make lamentation like the jackals,
and mourning like the ostriches.

⁹ For her wound^b is incurable;
and it has come to Judah,
it has reached to the gate of my
people,
to Jerusalem.

¹⁰ Tell it not in Gath,
weep not at all;
in Beth-le-aph'rah
roll yourselves in the dust.

¹¹ Pass on your way,
inhabitants of Shaphir,
in nakedness and shame;
the inhabitants of Za'anani
do not come forth;
the wailing of Beth-e'zel
shall take away from you its standing place.

¹² For the inhabitants of Maroth
wait anxiously for good,
because evil has come down from
the LORD
to the gate of Jerusalem.

¹³ Harness the steeds to the chariots,
inhabitants of Lachish;
you were^c the beginning of sin
to the daughter of Zion,
for in you were found
the transgressions of Israel.

¹⁴ Therefore you shall give parting gifts
to Mo'resheth-gath;

the houses of Achzib shall be a deceitful thing
to the kings of Israel.

¹⁵ I will again bring a conqueror upon
you,
inhabitants of Mare'shah;
the glory of Israel
shall come to Adullam.

¹⁶ Make yourselves bald and cut off
your hair,
for the children of your delight;
make yourselves as bald as the eagle,
for they shall go from you into exile.

2 Woe to those who devise wickedness
and work evil upon their beds!
When the morning dawns, they perform it,
because it is in the power of their
hand.

² They covet fields, and seize them;
and houses, and take them away;
they oppress a man and his house,
a man and his inheritance.

³ Therefore thus says the LORD:
Behold, against this family I am devising evil,
from which you cannot remove
your necks;
and you shall not walk haughtily,
for it will be an evil time.

⁴ In that day they shall take up a taunt
song against you,
and wail with bitter lamentation,
and say, "We are utterly ruined;
he changes the portion of my
people;
how he removes it from me!
Among our captors^d he divides
our fields."

series of forceful literary puns on the names of the areas to be devastated, the prophet laments that the wound of his people is incurable and that God will bring a conqueror even to the gate of Jerusalem. This lament, perhaps acted out by the prophet himself, stripped and naked (v. 8), may refer to the campaign of 701 B.C. 2.1-11: Because of their uncleanness, which Micah depicts with clarity (v. 2) and bitter realism (v. 11), the Israelites must experience a grievous destruction, for the LORD will hold the nation responsible for its social and moral abuses. 1-2: Ps.36.4; Is.5.8-12; 32.7; Am.8.4. 3: An evil time, Jer.18.11; compare Am.5.13. 4: A taunt song, compare Hab.2.6. 6: Micah quotes the popular preaching of the false prophets

- ⁵ Therefore you will have none to cast the line by lot in the assembly of the LORD.
- ⁶ "Do not preach"—thus they preach—"one should not preach of such things; disgrace will not overtake us."
- ⁷ Should this be said, O house of Jacob?
Is the Spirit of the LORD impatient?
Are these his doings?
Do not my words do good to him who walks uprightly?
- ⁸ But you rise against my people^e as an enemy;
you strip the robe from the peaceful,^f
from those who pass by trustingly with no thought of war.
- ⁹ The women of my people you drive out
from their pleasant houses;
from their young children you take away
my glory for ever.
- ¹⁰ Arise and go,
for this is no place to rest;
because of uncleanness that destroys with a grievous destruction.
- ¹¹ If a man should go about and utter wind and lies,
saying, "I will preach to you of wine and strong drink,"
he would be the preacher for this people!
- ¹² I will surely gather all of you, O Jacob,
I will gather the remnant of Israel;
I will set them together
like sheep in a fold,
like a flock in its pasture,
a noisy multitude of men.
- ¹³ He who opens the breach will go up before them;

they will break through and pass the gate,
going out by it.
Their king will pass on before them,
the LORD at their head.

- 3 And I said:
Hear, you heads of Jacob
and rulers of the house of Israel!
Is it not for you to know justice?—
- ² you who hate the good and love the evil,
who tear the skin from off my people,
and their flesh from off their bones;
- ³ who eat the flesh of my people,
and flay their skin from off them,
and break their bones in pieces,
and chop them up like meat^g in a kettle,
like flesh in a caldron.
- ⁴ Then they will cry to the LORD,
but he will not answer them;
he will hide his face from them at that time,
because they have made their deeds evil.
- ⁵ Thus says the LORD concerning the prophets who lead my people astray,
who cry "Peace"
when they have something to eat,
but declare war against him
who puts nothing into their mouths.
- ⁶ Therefore it shall be night to you,

(Is.30.10; Jer.5.31; Am.2.12. 12-13: This picture of the restored remnant of all Israel, which presupposes the capture of the country and its destruction, was probably contributed by an exilic or post-exilic editor. 3.1-4: The avaricious and irresponsible deeds of Israel's rulers. 2: Compare Is.5.20. Micah here uses the figures of a butcher and wild beast. 4: Futile cry to the LORD, compare Is.1.15. 5-8: The mercenary prophets and seers, who prostitute their solemn office, shall be cut off from God, the source of true revelation. 7: Seers, see 1 Sam.9.9.

with the Spirit of the LORD,
and with justice and might,

Zion shall be plowed as a field;
Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins,
and the mountain of the house a wooded height.

days
that the mountain of the house of
the LORD
shall be established as the highest of
the mountains,
and shall be raised up above the

and say:
"Come, let us go up to the mountain
of the LORD,
to the house of the God of Jacob;
that he may teach us his ways
and we may walk in his paths."
For out of Zion shall go forth the
law,
and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
- ³ He shall judge between many
peoples,
and shall decide for strong
nations afar off;
and they shall beat their swords into
plowshares,
and their spears into pruning
hooks;
nation shall not lift up sword against
nation,
neither shall they learn war any
more;
- ⁴ but they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree,
and none shall make them afraid;
for the mouth of the LORD of hosts has spoken.
- ⁵ For all the peoples walk
each in the name of its god, but we will walk in the name of the LORD our God
for ever and ever.

I will assemble the lame
and gather those who have been driven away,

8: In contrast with the false officials, Micah's call has imbued him with power, justice, and might, because it filled him with the Spirit of the LORD (Is.11.2; 61.1; Ezek.2.2). 9-12: The first section reaches its climax with Micah's bold assertion that, because of corruption which permeates all of its rulers, Jerusalem and the temple itself shall be destroyed. 9: This recalls Am.5.6-7. 10: Compare Hab.2.12. 12: This was quoted at the trial of Jeremiah (Jer.26.18).

4.1-5.15: Prophecies of Israel's glorious future and the restoration of the Davidic kingdom constitute the second major section of the book. Though many scholars date the origin of these prophecies in the post-exilic period, they are quite possibly based on genuine oracles from Micah, edited in their present form after the Exile. 1-5: The exaltation of Jerusalem as a center of worship by the nations; the new age of peace. Verses 1-3 are duplicated in Is.2.2-4. Here, as sometimes elsewhere in the prophetic books, the author of a passage may be unknown; compare Is. chs. 40-66. 1: The mountain of the house, Mount Zion. Highest of the mountains, compare Ezek.40.2. 4: Compare Zech.3.10. 5: Compare Is.2.5. 6-8: The LORD's gracious and those who were cast off, a strong nation;

 and the LORD will reign over them in Mount Zion
 from this time forth and for evermore.

⁸ And you, O tower of the flock, hill of the daughter of Zion, to you shall it come,
 the former dominion shall come, the kingdom of the daughter of Jerusalem.

⁹ Now why do you cry aloud?
 Is there no king in you?
 Has your counselor perished,
 that pangs have seized you like a woman in travail?
¹⁰ Writhe and groan,^h O daughter of Zion,

 for now you shall go forth from the city
 and dwell in the open country;
 you shall go to Babylon.
 There you shall be rescued,
 there the LORD will redeem you from the hand of your enemies.

¹¹ Now many nations
 are assembled against you,
 saying, "Let her be profaned,
 and let our eyes gaze upon Zion."

 the thoughts of the LORD,
 they do not understand his plan,
 that he has gathered them as sheaves to the threshing floor.

¹³ Arise and thresh,

 and your hoofs bronze;
 you shall beat in pieces many peoples,
 and shall devote their gain to the LORD,
 their wealth to the Lord of the whole earth.

²¹ But you, O Bethlehem Eph'rathah, who are little to be among the clans of Judah,
 from you shall come forth for me one who is to be ruler in Israel,
 whose origin is from of old,
 from ancient days.

³ Therefore he shall give them up until the time
 when she who is in travail has brought forth;
 then the rest of his brethren shall return to the people of Israel.

⁴ And he shall stand and feed his flock in the strength of the LORD, in the majesty of the name of the LORD his God.
 And they shall dwell secure, for now he shall be great

THE BOOK OF NAHUM

As is typical of Hebrew prophecy, Nahum's words were prompted by the dramatic events of international history. The proud Assyrian empire, whose power had for centuries been felt and feared from Mesopotamia to the Mediterranean, crumbled quickly after the death of Asshurbanipal (about 630 B.C.). Under the combined assaults of the vigorous Medes from north of Persia and the Chaldeans from southern Babylonia, the ancient capital city of Asshur fell in 614 B.C. When the renowned Nineveh was destroyed in 612, Assyrian domination of the Near East was ended.

The fervent reaction to the overthrow of Assyria, expressed by the peoples long subjected to its yoke, is nowhere more clearly seen than in the book of Nahum. The core of the book is a superb, vivid poem extolling Nineveh's destruction, which Nahum felt to be inevitable. The prophet spells out the reason for the Assyrian downfall in unequivocal terms: it is the LORD's judgment upon an unscrupulous, defiant nation.

This basic theme forms both the strength and weakness of Nahum's thought. It asserts boldly that the LORD is the avenger of cruelty and immorality. But it fails, perhaps only because of a resolute singleness of purpose, to indicate the consequences of this divine justice for Israel itself.

The date of Nahum's triumphal ode lies close to the event it foretells, probably between 626 and 612 B.C. Its author is identified only by his name; even the location of Elkosh (1.1) is uncertain.

THE BOOK OF HABAKKUK

In the present book of Habakkuk at least three distinct literary forms can be recognized. The section 1.2–2.5 is constructed as a dialogue between the prophet and God; the next section (2.6–20), consisting of five woes against a wicked nation, is cast in classical prophetic style; and ch. 3 is a lengthy poem, similar in structure to the Psalms and in its final form obviously meant for liturgical use. Moreover, various historical allusions discernible in the three sections point to different periods. These materials, therefore, may not originally have been a unit. But they are connected by the common theme of theodicy (justification of the ways of God) and now appear as the word of a Hebrew prophet who lived during the height of Babylonian power, most likely in the decade 608–598 B.C.

Although a certain Habakkuk appears in the apocryphal story of Bel and the Dragon, nothing is known about the life of the Old Testament prophet, not even his father's name. His thought, however, is laid bare by the searching questions he asks.

Like Job, the prophet faces honestly the profoundly disturbing problem of why a just God is "silent when the wicked swallows up the man more righteous than he" (1.13). To this oft-recurring question Habakkuk receives an answer which is eternally valid: God is still sovereign, and in his own way and at the proper time will deal with the wicked; "but the righteous shall live by his faith" (2.4).

THE ORACLE OF God WHICH
Habak'kuk the prophet saw.

² O LORD, how long shall I cry for help,

and thou wilt not hear?
Or cry to thee "Violence!"
and thou wilt not save?

³ Why dost thou make me see wrongs
and look upon trouble?

Destruction and violence are before
me;
strife and contention arise.

⁴ So the law is slackened
and justice never goes forth.
For the wicked surround the
righteous,
so justice goes forth perverted.

⁵ Look among the nations, and see;
wonder and be astounded.

For I am doing a work in your days

that you would not believe if told.

⁶ For lo, I am rousing the Chalde'ans,
that bitter and hasty nation,
who march through the breadth of
the earth,
to seize habitations not their own.

⁷ Dread and terrible are they;
their justice and dignity proceed
from themselves.

⁸ Their horses are swifter than leopards,
more fierce than the evening
wolves;
their horsemen press proudly on.
Yea, their horsemen come from afar;
they fly like an eagle swift to devour.

⁹ They all come for violence;
terror^a of them goes before them.
They gather captives like sand.

1.2–2.5: A dialogue in two cycles (1.2–11; 1.12–2.5), between the prophet and God, raising the question of the LORD's just government of the world. 1.2–11: The first cycle. 1.2–4: Habakkuk cries to God for help, protesting that the wicked surround the righteous so that justice is perverted. This section may originally have been concerned with unrighteous members of the Israelite community; in its present context it is directed against the Chaldeans (vv. 6–11, 15–17). 2: Pss.13.1–2; Jer.14.9; Rev.6.9–10. 3: Jer.20.8,10. 4: Ps.119.126; Is.59.12–14; Jer.8.8–10. 5–11: The LORD replies that the Chaldeans, wicked as they are, are the instrument of his own choosing (Is.10.5–27; 41.2–3; 42.24; 44.28; 45.1–6; Jer.5.14–19; 27.6–7; ch. 51). 5: Quoted in Acts 13.41. 6: The Chaldeans, or neo-Babylonians, ruled the ancient Near East from 612 to 539 B.C. (see Introduction to Nahum). 7–11: This tyrannical nation administers a justice all its own and worships its own might.

We shall not die.
O LORD, thou hast ordained them

¹³ Thou who art of purer eyes than to behold evil
and canst not look on wrong,
why dost thou look on faithless men,

and mercilessly slaying nations
for ever?

2 I will take my stand to watch,
and station myself on the tower,
and look forth to see what he will

and what I will answer concerning my complaint.

"Write the vision;
make it plain upon tablets,
so he may read it.

it hastens to the end—it will not

If it seem slow, wait for it;
it will surely come, it will not

⁵ Moreover, wine is treacherous;
the arrogant man shall not abide.^e
His greed is as wide as Sheol;
like death he has never enough.

1.12–2.5: The second cycle. Habakkuk asks how long the Holy One will look on while faithless men persecute those more righteous than they; he then takes his stand to receive the LORD's answer. 12: Rock, a metaphor frequently applied to God (Dt.32.4,18,30,31; 2 Sam.23.3; Pss.18.2,31; 92.15; 95.1; Is.30.29; and elsewhere). 13: Pss.5.4–5; 49; 73. 14: Jer.16.16; Ezek.32.3. 2.1: The "watchtower" indicates both the prophet's eager desire for, and confidence in, the LORD's reply (Pss.5.3; 130.5–6; Is.21.8; Hos.9.8). 2.2–5: The LORD responds with the assurance that although the prophet may not see its final issue, the divine justice is inexorable and will come in due time; in the meanwhile the righteous man must live faithfully. 2: The LORD's answer is to be as plain as a highway sign (Is.8.1; Rev.1.19). 3: Num.23.19; Dan.8.19; 2 Pet.3.8–10; Heb.10.37. 4: The heart of the matter is that the righteous man who is faithful to God and his word shall live and the unrighteous shall fail. Here the contrast is primarily between Israelites and Chaldeans; but the verse has, properly, received wider application (Rom.1.17; Gal.3.11; Heb.10.38–39).

2.6–20: The five woes. These are directed against a nation that plunders peoples, obtains

THE BOOK OF ZEPHANIAH

The superscription to Zephaniah's book traces his ancestry back to Hezekiah and dates his ministry in the reign of Josiah (640–609 B.C.). Since the name Hezekiah is uncommon in the Old Testament, here it presumably refers to the famous Judean king (715–687 B.C.), who was favorably influenced by the preaching of Isaiah and Micah. Zephaniah's intimate knowledge of Jerusalem and its court circles, his failure to denounce the king personally, and the absence of any concern with the poor of the land support the inference that he was of royal descent.

His condemnation of the corrupt practices and religious perversions (1.4–6,8,9,12; 3.1–3,7), officially legislated against by Deuteronomy, indicates that Zephaniah prophesied before Josiah's reforms of 621 B.C. (2 Kg. ch. 23). The allusion to imminent threat from the north (see 1.10 n.), perhaps the barbaric Scythian hordes, further suggests the decade about 630 for Zephaniah's public ministry.

The book can be divided into three sections, coinciding with its three chapters. Chapter 1 proclaims doom on Judah for its religious syncretism, in the form of the destructive day of the LORD, which is "near and hastening fast." Chapter 2 extends the divine judgment to other nations (especially Israel's ancient enemies), which are also guilty; however, a humble seeking after righteousness may mitigate the wrath of that day. Chapter 3 promises comfort and consolation to those who wait patiently for the LORD and "serve him with one accord." The inhabitants of Jerusalem shall rejoice that the LORD their King is in their midst to save them and gather them home (3.20).

THE WORD OF THE LORD WHICH came to Zephani'ah the son of Cushi, son of Gedali'ah, son of Amari'ah, son of Hezeki'ah, in the days of Josi'ah the son of Amon, king of Judah.

1.2–6: The threat of universal destruction caused by Judah's religious syncretism. Zephaniah vigorously condemns the adulteration of the pure worship of the LORD with elements of Canaanite (Baal), Ammonite (Milcom), and Assyrian (host of the heavens) religions. 2–3: Man, mankind, and earth are alliterative in Hebrew, as in Gen. ch. 2 (see Gen.2.7 n.), suggesting the negation of creation. Says the LORD, see Am.1.3 n.

1.7–9: Court officials and royal family will be punished on the day of the LORD's sacrifice. 7: Hab.2.20; Zech.2.13. 9: Leaps, see 2.4 and 1 Sam.5.5 n.

11 Wail, O inhabitants of the Mortar! For all the traders are no more; all who weigh out silver are cut off.
12 At that time I will search Jerusalem with lamps, and I will punish the men who are thickening upon their lees, those who say in their hearts, 'The LORD will not do good, nor will he do ill.'

1.10–13: Merchants and traders will be cut off and the religiously indifferent will be desolate on that day. 10: The enemy will approach Jerusalem from the north, first through the Fish Gate (Neh.3.1–6; 12.39; compare Jer.1.13–16). 11: Traders, literally, "people of Canaan." 12: Thickening, a figure drawn from wine-making to portray indolence.

1.14–18: The day of the LORD is at hand, a day of wrath and ruin, of distress and devastation. On this day neither silver nor gold shall deliver sinful man from the fire of the LORD's zeal. Zephaniah elaborates the preaching of Amos (Am.5.18–20; 8.9–14) that the day of the LORD will be darkness and not light, woe and not weal, upon Israel as well as the Gentiles (see also Is.13.9–16; Ezek.7.19; Jl.1.15; 2.1–2).

THE BOOK OF HAGGAI

When Cyrus conquered Babylon, he not only published a decree (538 B.C.) allowing the captive Jews to return to Palestine but also encouraged them to rebuild the temple at Jerusalem (Ezra 1.1-4). It is possible that under Sheshbazzar's leadership rebuilding was immediately attempted. By 520 B.C., however, no significant progress was evident. A successful effort was then begun, and the new temple was completed in the spring of 515 B.C.

Assisted by Zechariah (see Introduction to Zechariah), the man principally responsible for this major accomplishment was the prophet Haggai. In five addresses, dating from the sixth through the ninth months of 520 B.C., he exhorted Zerubbabel the governor and Joshua the high priest, the joint leaders of the Judean community, to assume official leadership in the reconstruction of the temple, and urged the priests to purify the cultic worship. These twin projects were, first of all, urgent practical steps toward unifying the disrupted religious life of the community. But Haggai saw them also as necessary preparations for the messianic age; upon the completion of these enterprises the wonderful era foreseen by earlier prophets would come, for God would bless his people with fruitfulness and prosperity, overthrow the Gentiles, and establish Zerubbabel as the messianic king on the throne of David.

IN THE SECOND YEAR OF DARIUS THE king, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet to Zerub'-babel the son of She-al'ti-el, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehoz'adak, the high priest, ² "Thus says the LORD of hosts: This people say the time has not yet come to rebuild the house of the LORD." ³ Then the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet, ⁴ "Is it a time for you yourselves to dwell in your paneled houses, while this house lies in ruins? ⁵ Now therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: Consider how you have fared. ⁶ You have sown much, and harvested little; you eat, but you never have enough; you drink, but you never have your fill; you clothe yourselves, but no one is warm; and he who earns wages earns wages to put them into a bag with holes.

⁷ "Thus says the LORD of hosts: Consider how you have fared. ⁸ Go up to the hills and bring wood and build the house, that I may take pleasure in it and that I may appear in my glory, says the LORD. ⁹ You have looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when you brought it home, I blew it away. Why? says the LORD of hosts. Because of my house that lies in ruins, while you busy yourselves each with his own house. ¹⁰ Therefore the heavens above you have withheld the dew, and the earth has withheld its produce. ¹¹ And I have called for a drought upon the land and the hills, upon the grain, the new wine, the oil, upon what the ground brings forth, upon men and cattle, and upon all their labors."

¹² Then Zerub'babel the son of She-al'ti-el, and Joshua the son of Jehoz'adak, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him; and the people feared before the LORD. ¹³ Then Haggai, the messenger of the LORD, spoke to the people with the LORD's message, "I am with you, says the LORD." ¹⁴ And the LORD stirred

1.1-15a: Because the people have neglected the temple, God has punished them. 1: Darius was king of the Persian empire from 521 to 485 B.C. The sixth month of his second year, mid-August to mid-September 520 B.C. Haggai means "festal." Zerubbabel, the grandson of Jehoiachin (2 Kg.24.8-17), was a royal descent from David; as the Persian-appointed governor of Judah, he shared authority with Joshua, the high priest, who also had come from Babylon. 4: The temple had been plundered and burned in 587 B.C. (2 Kg.25.8-17). 5-11: The poor conditions in Judah were God's punishment for the neglect of his house. 13: The messenger up the spirit of Zerub'babel the son of She-al'ti-el, governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Jehoz'-adak, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; and they came and worked on the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, ¹⁵ on the twenty-fourth day of the month, in the sixth month.

Q In the second year of Darius the king, ¹ in the seventh month, on the twenty-first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet, ² "Speak now to Zerub'babel the son of She-al'ti-el, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehoz'-adak, the high priest, and to all the remnant of the people, and say, ³ 'Who is left among you that saw this house in its former glory? How do you see it now? Is it not in your sight as nothing?"

⁴ Yet now take courage, O Zerub'-babel, says the LORD; take courage, O Joshua, son of Jehoz'-adak, the high priest; take courage, all you people of the land, says the LORD; work, for I am with you, says the LORD of hosts, ⁵ according to the promise that I made you when you came out of Egypt. My Spirit abides among you; fear not. ⁶ For thus says the LORD of hosts: Once again, in a little while, I will shake the heavens and the earth and the sea and the dry land; ⁷ and I will shake all nations, so that the treasures of all nations shall come in, and I will fill this house with splendor, says the LORD of hosts.

⁸ The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, says the LORD of hosts. ⁹ The latter splendor of this house shall be greater than the former, says the LORD of hosts; and in this place I will give prosperity, says the LORD of hosts.'"

10 On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet, ¹¹ "Thus says the LORD of hosts: Ask the priests to decide this question, ¹² 'If one carries holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and touches with his skirt bread, or potage, or wine, or oil, or any kind of food, does it become holy?'" The priests answered, "No." ¹³ Then said Haggai, "If one who is unclean by contact with a dead body touches any of these, does it become unclean?" The priests answered, "It does become unclean." ¹⁴ Then Haggai said, "So is it with this people, and with this nation before me, says the LORD; and so with every work of their hands; and what they offer there is unclean. ¹⁵ Pray now, consider what will come to pass from this day onward. Before a stone was placed upon a stone in the temple of the LORD, ¹⁶ how did you fare?" When one came to a heap of twenty measures, there were but ten; when one came to the winevat to draw fifty measures, there were but twenty. ¹⁷ I smote you and all the products of your toil with blight and mildew and hail; yet you did not return to me, says the LORD. ¹⁸ Consider from this day onward, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month. 20 The word of the LORD came a second time to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the month, ²¹ “Speak to Zerub’babel, governor of Judah, saying, I am about to shake the heavens and the earth, ²² and to overthrow the throne of kingdoms; I am about to destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the nations, and overthrow the chariots and their riders; and the horses and their riders shall go down, every one by the sword of his fellow. ²³ On that day, says the LORD of hosts, I will take you, O Zerub’babel my servant, the son of She-al’ti-el, says the LORD, and make you like a signet ring; for I have chosen you, says the LORD of hosts.”

THE BOOK OF ZECHARIAH

Zechariah, whose prophecies date from 520 to 518 B.C. and are found in chapters 1–8, was contemporary with Haggai (Ezra 5.1; 6.14) and shared his zeal for a rebuilt temple, a purified community, and the coming of the messianic age (see Introduction to Haggai). Like Haggai also, Zechariah forms a link between earlier prophecy (especially Ezekiel) and mature apocalyptic (Dan. chs. 7–12). But Zechariah differs from his contemporary in the form and presentation of his message, employing the literary style of night visions and dialogues between God, seer, and interpreting angel. With him, therefore, both the form and imagery of Jewish apocalyptic thought are developed into major proportions.

Chapters 9–14, which nowhere claim to be from Zechariah, portray nothing of the early Persian period but speak rather of the Greeks (9.13). Instead of Joshua and Zerubbabel, unnamed shepherds lead the community. Instead of peace and rebuilding, there are expectations of universal warfare and the siege of Jerusalem. Style, vocabulary, and theological ideas differentiate these chapters from Zechariah's work. Though they may contain some pre-exilic bits, they were written during the Greek period, principally in the fourth and third centuries B.C., by unknown authors. Since the eschatological and messianic themes found in the first section are here further elaborated, the authors are spiritual disciples of Zechariah. The pictures of the messianic Prince of Peace and the Good Shepherd smitten for the flock remarkably foreshadow the New Testament delineation of Christ.

IN THE EIGHTH MONTH, IN THE SECOND year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to Zechari'ah the son of Berechi'ah, son of Iddo, the prophet, saying, ² "The LORD was very angry with your fathers. ³ Therefore say to them, Thus says the LORD of hosts: Return to me, says the LORD of hosts, and I will return to you, says the LORD of hosts. ⁴ Be not like your fathers, to whom the former prophets cried out, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, Return from your evil ways and from your evil deeds.' But they did not hear or heed me, says the LORD. ⁵ Your fathers, where are they? And the prophets, do they live for ever? ⁶ But my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not overtake your fathers? So they repented and said, As the LORD of hosts purposed to deal with us for our ways and deeds, so has he dealt with us."

⁷ On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month which is the month of Shebat, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to Zechari'ah the son of Berechi'ah, son of Iddo, the prophet; and Zechari'ah said, ⁸ "I saw in the night, and behold, a man riding upon a red horse! He was standing among the myrtle trees in the glen; and behind him were red, sorrel, and white horses. ⁹ Then I said, 'What are these, my lord?' The angel who talked with me said to me, 'I will show you what they are.' ¹⁰ So the man who was standing among the myrtle trees answered, 'These are they whom the LORD has sent to patrol the

1.1–6: Introduction: a call to repentance. 1: Mid-October to mid-November 520 B.C. Zechariah, meaning "The LORD is renowned," was the son of the priest Iddo (Ezra 5.1; 6.14; Neh. 12.16). The presence of the phrase the son of Berechiah is due probably to a scribal confusion with the son of Jeberechiah in Is. 8.2, with whom Zechariah the son of Jehoiada (2 Chr. 24.20–22) is also confused in Mt. 23.35. Zechariah had prophetic and priestly interests (see Introduction to Joel). 4: The prophets had continually invited repentance (Is. 1.16–20; 30.15; 55.6–9; Jer. 3.12, 22; 4.3–4; Hos. 10.12; 14.1–7; Am. 5.4, 6, 14). 6b: So they repented . . . , perhaps an editorial addition (contrast 7.11).

1.7–6.15: The word of the LORD to Zechariah in a series of eight visions. 1.7: Mid-January to mid-February, 519 B.C.

¹⁸ And I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, four horns! ¹⁹ And I said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these?" And he answered me, "These are the horns which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem." ²⁰ Then the LORD showed me four smiths. ²¹ And I said, "What are these coming to do?" He answered, "These are the horns which scattered Judah, so that no man raised his head; and these have come to terrify them, to cast down the horns of the nations who lifted up their horns against the land of Judah to scatter it."

² And I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand! ² Then I said, "Where are you going?" And he said to me, "To measure Jerusalem, to see what is its breadth and what is its length." ³ And behold, the angel who talked with me came forward, and another angel came forward to meet him, ⁴ and said to him, "Run, say to that young man, 'Jerusalem shall be inhabited as villages without walls, because of the multitude of men and cattle in it. ⁵ For I will be to her a wall of fire round about, says the LORD, and I will be the glory within her.'"

⁶ Ho! ho! Flee from the land of the north, says the LORD; for I have spread you abroad as the four winds of the heavens, says the LORD. ⁷ Ho! Escape to Zion, you who dwell with the daughter of Babylon. ⁸ For thus said the LORD of hosts, after his glory sent me to the nations who plundered you, for he who touches you touches the apple of his eye: ⁹ "Behold, I will shake my hand over them, and they shall become plunder for those who served them. Then you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent me. ¹⁰ Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion; for lo, I come and I will dwell in the midst of you, says the LORD. ¹¹ And many nations shall join themselves to the LORD in that day, and shall be my people; and I will dwell in the midst of you, and you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you.¹² And the LORD will inherit Judah as his portion in the holy land, and will again choose Jerusalem."

13 Be silent, all flesh, before the LORD; for he has roused himself from his holy dwelling.

3 Then he showed me Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of the LORD, and Satan standing at his right hand to accuse him.² And the LORD said to Satan, "The LORD rebuke you, O Satan! The LORD who has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! Is not this a brand plucked from the fire?"

³ Now Joshua was standing before the angel, clothed with filthy garments.

⁴ And the angel said to those who were standing before him, "Remove the filthy garments from him." And to him he said, "Behold, I have taken your iniquity away from you, and I will clothe you with rich apparel."⁵ And I said, "Let them put a clean turban on his head." So they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him with garments; and the angel of the LORD was standing by.

6 And the angel of the LORD enjoined Joshua,⁷ "Thus says the LORD of hosts: If you will walk in my ways and keep my charge, then you shall rule my house and have charge of my courts, and I will give you the right of access among those who are standing here."⁸ Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, you and your friends who sit before you, for they are men of good omen: behold, I will bring my servant the Branch.⁹ For behold, upon the stone which I have set before Joshua, upon a single stone with seven facets, I will engrave its inscription, says the LORD of hosts, and I will remove the guilt of this land in a single day.¹⁰ In that day, says the LORD of hosts, every one of you will invite his neighbor under his vine and under his fig tree."

4 And the angel who talked with me came again, and waked me, like a man that is wakened out of his sleep.² And he said to me, "What do you see?" I said, "I see, and behold, a lampstand all of gold, with a bowl on the top of it, and seven lamps on it, with seven lips on each of the lamps which are on the top of it."³ And there are two olive trees by it, one on the right of the bowl and the other on its left."⁴ And I said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these, my lord?"⁵ Then the angel who talked with me answered me, "Do you not know what these are?" I said, "No, my lord."⁶ Then he said to me, "This is the word of the LORD to Zerub'babel: Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, says the LORD of hosts.⁷ What are you, O great mountain? Before Zerub'babel you shall become a plain; and he shall bring forward the top stone amid shouts of 'Grace, grace to it!'"⁸ Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying,⁹ "The hands of Zerub'babel have laid the foundation of this house; his hands shall also complete it. Then you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you."¹⁰ For whoever has despised the day of small things

3.1-10: The fourth vision: Joshua and Satan. 1: Joshua, see Hag.1.1 n. In the Old Testament Satan (literally, "the Adversary") is not the incarnation of evil but a functionary of the heavenly court who accuses man of wrong (1 Chr.21.1; see Job 1.6-8 n.). God then acquits ("justifies") or condemns the defendant. 3-4: Filthy garments represent the sin of both priest and people. 5: The clean turban (Ex.28.4) and garments (Lev.8.1-9) symbolize purity, in preparation for the advent of the Messiah. 7: Access, to the heavenly courts; Joshua will present Jerusalem's prayers to heaven. 8: The Branch, a Davidic figure who is to usher in the messianic age (compare Ps.132.17; Is.4.2; 11.1; Jer.23.5; 33.15), here refers to Zerubbabel (see 6.9-15 n.). 10: Compare Mic.4.4.

4.1-14: The fifth vision: a golden lampstand and two olive trees. This vision emphasizes the important position held by Joshua and Zerubbabel (v. 14) in the restored Jewish community. 2: Contrast Ex.25.31-40. The stand with seven lamps may signify the unified community, or God's presence in the whole earth (v. 10b; compare Rev.5.6). 3,11-14: Rev.11.4. The two olive trees may provide oil for the lamps (v. 12), or merely flank them. 6-10a: Through God's shall rejoice, and shall see the plummet in the hand of Zerub'babel.

"These seven are the eyes of the LORD, which range through the whole earth." ¹¹ Then I said to him, "What are these two olive trees on the right and the left of the lampstand?" ¹² And a second time I said to him, "What are these two branches of the olive trees, which are beside the two golden pipes from which the oil^c is poured out?" ¹³ He said to me, "Do you not know what these are?" I said, "No, my lord." ¹⁴ Then he said, "These are the two anointed who stand by the Lord of the whole earth."

5 Again I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, a flying scroll! ² And he said to me, "What do you see?" I answered, "I see a flying scroll; its length is twenty cubits, and its breadth ten cubits." ³ Then he said to me, "This is the curse that goes out over the face of the whole land; for every one who steals shall be cut off henceforth according to it, and every one who swears falsely shall be cut off henceforth according to it. ⁴ I will send it forth, says the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter the house of the thief, and the house of him who swears falsely by my name; and it shall abide in his house and consume it, both timber and stones."

5 Then the angel who talked with me came forward and said to me, "Lift your eyes, and see what this is that goes forth." ⁶ And I said, "What is it?" He said, "This is the ephah that goes forth." And he said, "This is their iniquity^d in all the land." ⁷ And behold, the leaden cover was lifted, and there was a woman sitting in the ephah! ⁸ And he said, "This is Wickedness." And he thrust her back into the ephah, and thrust down the leaden weight upon its mouth. ⁹ Then I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, two women coming forward! The wind was in their wings; they had wings like the wings of a stork, and they lifted up the ephah between earth and heaven. ¹⁰ Then I said to the angel who talked with me, "Where are they taking the ephah?" ¹¹ He said to me, "To the land of Shinar, to build a house for it; and when this is prepared, they will set the ephah down there on its base."

6 And again I lifted my eyes and saw, and behold, four chariots came out from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of bronze. ² The first chariot had red horses, the second black horses, ³ the third white horses, and the fourth chariot dappled gray^e horses. ⁴ Then I said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these, my lord?" ⁵ And the angel answered me, "These are going forth to the four winds of heaven, after presenting themselves before the LORD of all the earth. ⁶ The chariot with the black horses goes toward the north country, the white ones go toward the west country,^f and the dappled ones go toward the south country." ⁷ When the steeds came out, they were impatient to get off and patrol the earth. And he said, "Go, patrol the earth." So they patrolled the earth. ⁸ Then

Spirit Zerubbabel will complete the temple. 12: Perhaps a gloss; no pipes have been previously mentioned. 14: Anointed, literally, "sons of oil," is not the usual designation for "messiah."

5.1-4: The sixth vision: a flying scroll. 1: The scroll represents the word of God materialized (Ezek.2.9-10; Rev.10.9-11; compare Jer.36.2). 2: A cubit, about eighteen inches. 3: The curse is to purify both civil and cultic life (compare Dt.27.14-26).

5.5-11: The seventh vision: a woman in an ephah. Judah will be purified by sending its sin, personified as a woman in an ephah, to Babylon, where the ephah will be worshiped. 6: Ephah, here a container with the capacity of an ephah, about six gallons. 11: Shinar, Babylonia (Gen. 10.10; Dan.1.2). House here means temple. On its base, as though the ephah were an image.

6.1-8: The eighth vision: four chariots. Although details are not clear, this vision probably refers to the inauguration of the messianic age with its judgment upon all the earth. 8: North country, Babylonia, see 2.6 n.

he cried to me, "Behold, those who go toward the north country have set my Spirit at rest in the north country."

9 And the word of the LORD came to me: ¹⁰ "Take from the exiles Heldai, Tobi'jah, and Jedai'ah, who have arrived from Babylon; and go the same day to the house of Josi'ah, the son of Zephani'ah. ¹¹ Take from them silver and gold, and make a crown,^g and set it upon the head of Joshua, the son of Jehoz'adak, the high priest; ¹² and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, "Behold, the man whose name is the Branch: for he shall grow up in his place, and he shall build the temple of the LORD. ¹³ It is he who shall build the temple of the LORD, and shall bear royal honor, and shall sit and rule upon his throne. And there shall be a priest by his throne, and peaceful understanding shall be between them both.'" ¹⁴ And the crown^h shall be in the temple of the LORD as a reminder to Heldai,ⁱ Tobi'jah, Jedai'ah, and Josi'ah^j the son of Zephani'ah.

15 "And those who are far off shall come and help to build the temple of the LORD; and you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. And this shall come to pass, if you will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God."

7 In the fourth year of King Darius, the word of the LORD came to Zechari'ah in the fourth day of the ninth month, which is Chislev. ² Now the people of Bethel had sent Share'zer and Reg'em-mel'ech and their men, to entreat the favor of the LORD, ³ and to ask the priests of the house of the LORD of hosts and the prophets, "Should I mourn and fast in the fifth month, as I have done for so many years?" ⁴ Then the word of the LORD of hosts came to me; ⁵ "Say to all the people of the land and the priests, When you fasted and mourned in the fifth month and in the seventh, for these seventy years, was it for me that you fasted? ⁶ And when you eat and when you drink, do you not eat for yourselves and drink for yourselves? ⁷ When Jerusalem was inhabited and in prosperity, with her cities round about her, and the South and the lowland were inhabited, were not these the words which the LORD proclaimed by the former prophets?"

8 And the word of the LORD came to Zechari'ah, saying, ⁹ "Thus says the LORD of hosts, Render true judgments, show kindness and mercy each to his brother, ¹⁰ do not oppress the widow, the fatherless, the sojourner, or the poor; and let none of you devise evil against his brother in your heart." ¹¹ But they refused to hearken, and turned a stubborn shoulder, and stopped their ears that they might not hear. ¹² They made their hearts like adamant lest they should hear the law and the words which the LORD of hosts had sent by his Spirit through the former prophets. Therefore great wrath came from the LORD of hosts. ¹³ "As I called, and they would not hear, so they called, and I would not hear," says the LORD of hosts, ¹⁴ "and I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations which they had not known. Thus the 6.9-15: The crowning of the messianic leader. This section abounds with difficulties. Originally it probably directed the crowning of Zerubbabel as messianic king, but was revised to refer to Joshua. 11: Zerubbabel should be read for, or perhaps along with, Joshua. 12: Branch is a messianic designation (see 3.8 n.; Hag.2.20-23). 15: The new age will see the return of the exiles, conversion of the Gentiles, and completion of the temple (8.20-23; Ob.19-21; Mic.2.12; 4.1-5.6-8; Zeph.3.9-10.20; Mal.1.11).

7.1-14: An answer to an inquiry about fasting. 1: Mid-November to mid-December 518 B.C. 5: The temple at Jerusalem was burned in the fifth month and Gedaliah the governor was murdered in the seventh (2 Kg.25.8-9,25). These seventy years, see 1.12 n. 9-10: This is the essence of prophetic moral teaching (Is.1.16-17; 55.6-9; 58.6-12; Jer.7.5-7; Am.5.14-15,21-24; Mic.6.8). 12: Neh.9.3; Jer.5.3; 7.25-26; 11.10; Dan.9.11-14. 13: Is.1.15; Jer.7.13-15.

land they left was desolate, so that no one went to and fro, and the pleasant land was made desolate."

8 And the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying, ² "Thus says the LORD of hosts: I am jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I am jealous for her with great wrath. ³ Thus says the LORD: I will return to Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem, and Jerusalem shall be called the faithful city, and the mountain of the LORD of hosts, the holy mountain.

⁴ Thus says the LORD of hosts: Old men and old women shall again sit in the streets of Jerusalem, each with staff in hand for very age. ⁵ And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in its streets. ⁶ Thus says the LORD of hosts: If it is marvelous in the sight of the remnant of this people in these days, should it also be marvelous in my sight, says the LORD of hosts? ⁷ Thus says the LORD of hosts: Behold, I will save my people from the east country and from the west country; ⁸ and I will bring them to dwell in the midst of Jerusalem; and they shall be my people and I will be their God, in faithfulness and in righteousness."

9 Thus says the LORD of hosts: "Let your hands be strong, you who in these days have been hearing these words from the mouth of the prophets, since the day that the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built. ¹⁰ For before those days there was no wage for man or any wage for beast, neither was there any safety from the foe for him who went out or came in; for I set every man against his fellow. ¹¹ But now I will not deal with the remnant of this people as in the former days, says the LORD of hosts. ¹² For there shall be a sowing of peace; the vine shall yield its fruit, and the ground shall give its increase, and the heavens shall give their dew; and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things. ¹³ And as you have been a byword of cursing among the nations, O house of Judah and house of Israel, so will I save you and you shall be a blessing. Fear not, but let your hands be strong."

14 For thus says the LORD of hosts: "As I purposed to do evil to you, when your fathers provoked me to wrath, and I did not relent, says the LORD of hosts, ¹⁵ so again have I purposed in these days to do good to Jerusalem and to the house of Judah; fear not. ¹⁶ These are the things that you shall do: Speak the truth to one another, render in your gates judgments that are true and make for peace, ¹⁷ do not devise evil in your hearts against one another, and love no false oath, for all these things I hate, says the LORD."

18 And the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying, ¹⁹ "Thus says the LORD of hosts: The fast of the fourth month, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Judah seasons of joy and gladness, and cheerful feasts; therefore love truth and peace.

20 "Thus says the LORD of hosts: Peoples shall yet come, even the inhabitants of many cities; ²¹ the inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, 'Let us go at once to entreat the favor of the LORD, and to seek the LORD of hosts; I am going.'

²² Many peoples and strong nations shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem, and to entreat the favor of the LORD. ²³ Thus says the LORD of hosts: In those days ten men from the nations of every tongue shall take hold of the robe of a Jew, saying, 'Let us go with you, for we have heard that God is with you.' An Oracle

The word of the LORD is against the land of Hadrach

and will rest upon Damascus.

For to the LORD belong the cities of Aram,^k

even as all the tribes of Israel;

² Hamath also, which borders thereon, Tyre and Sidon, though they are very wise.

³ Tyre has built herself a rampart, and heaped up silver like dust, and gold like the dirt of the streets.

⁴ But lo, the Lord will strip her of her possessions and hurl her wealth into the sea, and she shall be devoured by fire.

⁵ Ash'kelon shall see it, and be afraid; Gaza too, and shall writhe in anguish;

Ekron also, because its hopes are confounded.

The king shall perish from Gaza; Ash'kelon shall be uninhabited;

⁶ a mongrel people shall dwell in Ashdod;

and I will make an end of the pride of Philistia.

⁷ I will take away its blood from its mouth,

and its abominations from between its teeth;

it too shall be a remnant for our God;

it shall be like a clan in Judah,

and Ekron shall be like the Jeb'usites.

⁸ Then I will encamp at my house as a guard,

so that none shall march to and fro;

no oppressor shall again overrun them,

for now I see with my own eyes.

⁹ Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion!

Shout aloud, O daughter of Jerusalem!

Lo, your king comes to you; triumphant and victorious is he,

humble and riding on an ass, on a colt the foal of an ass.

¹⁰ I will cut off the chariot from E'phraim

and the war horse from Jerusalem;

and the battle bow shall be cut off, and he shall command peace to

the nations;

his dominion shall be from sea to sea,

and from the River to the ends of the earth.

¹¹ As for you also, because of the blood of my covenant with you,

I will set your captives free from the waterless pit.

¹² Return to your stronghold, O prisoners of hope;

today I declare that I will restore to you double.

¹³ For I have bent Judah as my bow;

I have made E'phraim its arrow.
I will brandish your sons, O Zion,
over your sons, O Greece,
and wield you like a warrior's

¹⁴ Then the LORD will appear over
them,
and his arrow go forth like
lightning;
the Lord GOD will sound the trumpet,
and march forth in the whirlwinds
of the south.

¹⁵ The LORD of hosts will protect them,
and they shall devour and tread
down the slingers;^l and they shall drink their blood^m
like wine,
and be full like a bowl,
drenched like the corners of the altar.

¹⁶ On that day the LORD their God will save them
for they are the flock of his
people;
for like the jewels of a crown
they shall shine on his land.

¹⁷ Yea, how good and how fair it shall be!
Grain shall make the young men who gives men showers of rain,

and the diviners see lies;
the dreamers tell false dreams,
and give empty consolation.

Therefore the people wander like sheep;
they are afflicted for want of a
shepherd.

³ "My anger is hot against the shepherds,
and I will punish the leaders;"
for the LORD of hosts cares for his flock, the house of Judah,
and will make them like his proud steed in battle.

⁴ Out of them shall come the cornerstone,
out of them the tent peg,
out of them the battle bow,
out of them every ruler.

⁵ Together they shall be like mighty men in battle,
trampling the foe in the mud of
the streets;
they shall fight because the LORD is
with them,
and they shall confound the riders
on horses.

⁶ "I will strengthen the house of Judah,
and I will save the house of Joseph.
I will bring them back because I have compassion on them,
and they shall be as though I had not rejected them;
for I am the LORD their God and I will answer them.

⁷ Then E'phraim shall become like a mighty warrior,
and their hearts shall be glad as
with wine.
Their children shall see it and rejoice,
their hearts shall exult in the
LORD.

Lo, I will cause men to fall each into the hand of his shepherd, and each into the hand of his king; and they shall crush the earth, and I will deliver none from their hand."

7 So I became the shepherd of the flock doomed to be slain for those who trafficked in the sheep. And I took two staffs; one I named Grace, the other I named Union. And I tended the sheep. ⁸ In one month I destroyed the three shepherds. But I became impatient with them, and they also detested me. ⁹ So I said, "I will not be your shepherd. The word of the LORD concerning Israel: Thus says the LORD, who stretched out the heavens and founded the earth and formed the spirit of man within him: ² "Lo, I am about to make Jerusalem a cup of reeling to all the peoples round about; it will be against Judah also in the siege against Jerusalem. ³ On that day I will make Jerusalem a heavy stone for all the peoples; all who lift it shall grievously hurt themselves. And all the nations of the earth will come together against it. ⁴ On that day, says the LORD, I will strike every horse with panic, and its rider with madness. 20 And on that day there shall be inscribed on the bells of the horses, "Holy to the LORD." And the pots in the house of the LORD shall be as the bowls before the altar;²¹ and every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be sacred to the LORD of hosts, so that all who sacrifice may come and take of them and boil the flesh of the sacrifice in them. And there shall no longer be a trader in the house of the LORD of hosts on that day.

THE BOOK OF MALACHI

Nothing is known about the person of Malachi. Even his name, which means "My messenger," may be only an appellation, based on 3.1 (compare 2.7). The book, however, presents a substantial amount of information about its author's personality. Living perhaps in the period 500–450 B.C., this Jew was devoted to the temple and held a high view of the priesthood and its responsibilities. He speaks frequently of "the covenant" (2.4,5,8,10, 14; 3.1) and shows a great respect for the priestly "instruction" (2.6,7,8,9). Instead of adopting the oracular style regularly used by prophets, Malachi employs a distinctive question-and-answer method of stating his argument. Nevertheless, his emphases upon sin and judgment (2.2,9; 3.3,5) and the advent of the day of the LORD (3.1–2,17; 4.1) mark him as a prophet, and he may best be understood as a "cultic prophet" (see Introduction to Joel).

One central theme dominates Malachi's thought: fidelity to the LORD's covenant and its teachings. From this standpoint he both condemns the priests for corrupting worship and misleading the people (1.6–2.9; 3.3–4) and charges his brethren to remain faithful to their Jewish wives and thus have "godly offspring" (2.13–16). In exhorting Israel to faithfulness Malachi gives also striking descriptions of the worship of the LORD by the Gentiles (1.11,14), the ideal priest (2.5–7), and the blessing of obedience (3.10–12,16–17; 4.2–3). He asserts, further, the fatherhood of God (2.10) and adds to the concept of the day of the LORD (Zeph.1.14–18) the figure of the appointed forerunner (3.1–4; compare 4.5–6). It is fitting that these pages, which point so clearly to the New Covenant, conclude the books of the prophets and precede, in our English Bibles, the New Testament.

THE ORACLE OF THE WORD OF THE LORD to Israel by Mal'achi.^a

2 "I have loved you," says the LORD. But you say, "How hast thou loved us?" "Is not Esau Jacob's brother?" says the LORD. "Yet I have loved Jacob³ but I have hated Esau; I have laid waste his hill country and left his heritage to jackals of the desert."⁴ If Edom says, "We are shattered but we will rebuild the ruins," the LORD of hosts says, "They may build, but I will tear down, till they are called the wicked country, the people with whom the LORD is angry for ever."⁵ Your own eyes shall see this, and you shall say, "Great is the LORD, beyond the border of Israel!"

6 "A son honors his father, and a servant his master. If then I am a father, where is my honor? And if I am a master, where is my fear? says the LORD of hosts to you, O priests, who despise my name. You say, 'How have we despised thy name?'⁷ By offering polluted food upon my altar. And you say, 'How have we polluted it?'^b By thinking that the LORD's table may be despised.⁸ When you offer blind animals in sacrifice, is that no evil? And when you offer those that are lame or sick, is that no evil? Present that to your governor; will he be pleased with you or show you favor? says the LORD of hosts.⁹ And now entreat the favor of God, that he may be gracious to us. With such a gift from your hand, will he show favor to any of you? says the LORD of hosts.¹⁰ Oh, that there were one among you who would shut the doors, that you might

I have no pleasure in you, says the LORD of hosts, and I will not accept an offering from your hand. ¹¹ For from the rising of the sun to its setting my name is great among the nations, and in every place incense is offered to my name, and a pure offering; for my name is great among the nations, says the LORD of hosts. ¹² But you profane it when you say that the LORD's table is polluted, and the food for it^c may be despised. ¹³ 'What a weariness this is,' you say, and you sniff at me,^d says the LORD of hosts. You bring what has been taken by violence or is lame or sick, and this you bring as your offering! Shall I accept that from your hand? says the LORD. ¹⁴ Cursed be the cheat who has a male in his flock, and vows it, and yet sacrifices to the Lord what is blemished; for I am a great King, says the LORD of hosts, and my name is feared among the nations.

2 "And now, O priests, this command is for you. ² If you will not listen, if you will not lay it to heart to give glory to my name, says the LORD of hosts, then I will send the curse upon you and I will curse your blessings; indeed I have already cursed them, because you do not lay it to heart. ³ Behold, I will rebuke your offspring, and spread dung upon your faces, the dung of your offerings, and I will put you out of my presence.^e ⁴ So shall you know that I have sent this command to you, that my covenant with Levi may hold, says the LORD of hosts. ⁵ My covenant with him was a covenant of life and peace, and I gave them to him, that he might fear; and he feared me, he stood in awe of my name. ⁶ True instruction^f was in his mouth, and no wrong was found on his lips. He walked with me in peace and uprightness, and he turned many from iniquity. ⁷ For the lips of a priest should guard knowledge, and men should seek instruction^g from his mouth, for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts. ⁸ But you have turned aside from the way; you have caused many to stumble by your instruction; you have corrupted the covenant of Levi, says the LORD of hosts, ⁹ and so I make you despised and abased before all the people, inasmuch as you have not kept my ways but have shown partiality in your instruction."

10 Have we not all one father? Has not one God created us? Why then are we faithless to one another, profaning the covenant of our fathers? ¹¹ Judah has been faithless, and abomination has been committed in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Judah has profaned the sanctuary of the LORD, which he loves, and has married the daughter of a foreign god. ¹² May the LORD cut off from the tents of Jacob, for the man who does this, any to witness^g or answer, or to bring an offering to the LORD of hosts!

13 And this again you do. You cover the LORD's altar with tears, with weeping and groaning because he no longer regards the offering or accepts it with favor at your hand. ¹⁴ You ask; "Why does he not?" Because the LORD was witness to the covenant between you and the wife of your youth, to whom you have been faithless, though she is your companion and your wife by covenant. ¹⁵ Has not the one God

HOW TO READ THE BIBLE WITH UNDERSTANDING

THE DIVERSITY AND THE UNITY OF THE SCRIPTURES

THE BIBLE belongs to the whole world as no other book does. Parts or the whole of it are available in more than a thousand languages. Christians everywhere pay lip service to it as the supreme authority for their faith. Phrases from its pages have become current speech, and allusions to its stories are widely understood. Yet relatively few people are familiar with it as a whole, and acquaintance for the most part is limited to a small selection of passages. Much is not easy to understand, and not all is equally rewarding for all purposes. What every reader should first understand is the range and variety of the Bible, and what parts can best serve the purpose for which he turns to it.

The opening chapters of the Old Testament deal with human origins. They are not to be read as history, but neither are they to be dismissed as childish myths. They are marked by profound spiritual insight. They teach that God created man to be obedient to him, and that in that obedience man's well-being lay. By disobedience man turned from the true source of his life, so that before Adam and Eve were ejected from the Garden, he hid himself from God. These chapters think of sin not as a theological abstraction, but as something real which recoils upon man to his own hurt. It broke up the first family, brought murder and strife and corruption, and ate like a canker into the heart of man.

These chapters are followed by the stories of the patriarchs, which preserve ancient traditions now known to reflect the conditions of the times of which they tell, though they cannot be treated as strictly historical. That they contain genuine historical memories is increasingly recognized today. Yet here again, it is not for history but for religion that they are preserved, and they have much of abiding value to say to us today. Every reader should be alert to understand not merely God's dealings with the patriarchs, but what he is saying to us through these stories. To take a single illustration, the story of Abraham's narrowly averted sacrifice of Isaac is more than a memory of times when human sacrifice was common, or of the first awakening in Israel's ancestors of the recognition that God did not desire it. It is the story of a man who loved God more than all else and who was willing to surrender to God even the son in whose life his own was bound. There are sacrifices which God does not ask; there are none a man should be unwilling to make.

With the story of the Exodus and the settlement in Canaan we come nearer to historical light, though we are still dealing with idealized history. The main purpose of this narrative is to bring the reader to realize that God chose Israel to be his people and delivered her by his power, thus revealing his own character and laying on her the constraint of obedience. God's election of Israel was to privilege indeed, but it was also to service, and the privilege was bound up with the service.

Into this story the legal sections of the Old Testament have been fitted, and especially all the provisions for the sacrificial ritual of the shrine. Much bears the marks of the social and religious background of the times from which it comes, and not a little is without authority for the Christian. He does not observe the Jewish dietary laws, and in many countries the care for the helpless and needy is no longer left to his charity but is organized by the state; and for the Christian, animal sacrifices are superseded by the sacrifice of Christ. It is to be observed, however, that while the Letter to the Hebrews links the death of Christ with the ritual of the Day of Atonement, other references in the New Testament allude rather to the Suffering Servant of Isaiah 53. That chapter contains the most remarkable thought on sacrifice found in the Old Testament. The Servant was one who willingly gave himself to be sacrificed, a morally blameless man instead of a physically unblemished animal, and his sacrifice was wider in its efficacy than any sacrifice mentioned in the Pentateuch. It availed even for Gentiles, who in penitence confessed that the sufferings he endured should rightly have been theirs. It was because the death of Jesus picked up the meaning of sacrifice in the Old Testament at this, its highest point both in the nature and in the efficacy of the sacrifice, that, for the Christian, ritual sacrifice was superseded in the Cross. For the Jew sacrifice ended when the Temple was destroyed, because perforce it must end. For the Christian it ended when the great concept of Isaiah 53 found its fulfilment at Calvary.

When we come to the books of Samuel and Kings we have much very good history. The unsurpassed account of the reign of David probably comes from the time of Solomon, and it is without equal as historical writing in the literature of any country of the world at so early an age. Not all in these books is of the same historical value, and especially in the stories of Elijah and Elisha there are legendary elements. There is variety of literary forms within a single book. All in these books, as also in the later books of Chronicles, Ezra, and Nehemiah, is concerned with the lessons of history as much as with the history itself. For here, as everywhere, the Bible is a religious book, concerned to remember the past for what it has to say to the present.

The prophetic books offer special difficulty to the modern reader. They contain utterances of the prophets to their contemporaries, often with no indication but their contents to tell us the circumstances of their delivery, and not arranged chronologically. They expose the political and social ills of Israel, the hollow religiosity and the denial of human brotherhood, the rapacity of the rich and the sexual laxity, in a way that may seem to have little relevance to our day. Yet all their oracles spring from enduring religious principles, which are valid in every generation, so that the reader here once more should seek to penetrate beneath all that belongs to the age of the prophets to that which is of abiding significance, that he may then convert it into the terms of his own life and his own day.

The prophetic oracles are mostly in poetry, but the poetic book of the Old Testament par excellence is the book of Psalms. Here we have poems which were created for religious use, many of them probably to accompany the ritual of sacrifice and feast, and they have continued to serve a religious use in public and in private throughout the years. There are verses which grate on our ears, and not all the psalms reach the same heights. But as a whole, they can still nourish the spirit of devotion, and can express the aspirations of our hearts as we set aside the ephemeral and allow them to serve as the vehicle of our approach to God.

Of the wisdom books of the Old Testament, two may be mentioned here. The book of Proverbs is mainly a collection of poetic observations used in the instruction of youth, and governed throughout by the conviction that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and that the way of wisdom is the way of integrity and of obedience to his will. The book of Job carries one of the profoundest messages to be found in the Old Testament. Through its story of a godly man who suffered grievous pain and loss, and who was tormented by the friends who came to comfort him till he was goaded into an appeal both to God and against him until God answered him out of the whirlwind to remind him of the folly of passing judgment on God out of his ignorance, the author teaches that more important than the discovery of the reasons for suffering is the finding of God in suffering. So far from being cut off from God by his suffering, as Job's friends supposed and as Job himself feared, he comes to a new understanding of God through his suffering. His past knowledge of God was but as hearsay compared with the experience he now has, so that instead of continuing to be tormented by questions, he rests in God.

When we pass from the Old Testament to the New, we move in a different world. Yet the two Testaments are bound together in a very real way. Here in the first three Gospels we have stories of Jesus which are linked together by the use of common sources, while in the fourth Gospel we have an independent account which is more concerned to interpret the significance of our Lord. None of the Gospels offers a biography of Jesus, yet by their study we may come to know him better than others may be known from full and careful biographies. By the intimate study of the Gospels we may know much about Jesus; but better than that, we may come to know him and to be infused with something of his spirit.

History is represented in the New Testament by the book of Acts. Yet here again history is not recorded merely for its own sake. The reader is told of the spread of Christianity until in the person of Paul it is carried to Rome, though a great deal that he would like to know is left unrecorded. Yet he can see the spirit of the early church, and can understand its message. More important, he can realize that from the beginning it was perceived that the Christian faith is not something to be enjoyed alone, but to be shared. It is something that is given to the church so that it may be communicated to all men, and only in sharing it with all men is it truly possessed.

In the letters of the New Testament we have reflected some of the churches which were founded by the apostles, and — more important — we have unfolded the significance of the Christian message. The death and resurrection of Jesus are seen not simply as facts of history, but as charged with meaning for us. When the Cross of Christ becomes the organ of our surrender by faith to him, in a profound sense we die with him and are born anew in him. His resurrection becomes the organ of our renewed life, whose essential character lies in the union of our life with him, so that he lives in us, and we are linked with his character and purpose and live no longer unto ourselves but become extensions of his personality in the world. The Son of God lifts us to become the sons of God, in whom our Father is to be seen, and heirs of God, whose heritage is to share his spirit and purpose.

The final book of the New Testament came out of a time of suffering and persecution, like the book of Daniel in the Old Testament, whose character it so much shares. Neither should be read as a cryptic plan of the ages, but as the expression of an undying hope in God and a grand faith that humble loyalty to him transmutes suffering for him into a privilege. The wise reader is less concerned with the intricate symbolism than with the spirit which penetrates it all.

That there is a place for the study of every detail of the Bible in the light of the situation out of which it arose, with all the illumination that philology and archaeology and ancient history can provide, is not for a moment here forgotten. But more important than that is the recognition that in this book are the living oracles of God, which may speak to us and nourish our spirit when we approach them in true devotion and humility. We should always remember the variety of literary forms found in the Bible, and should read a passage in the light of its own particular literary character. Legend should be read as legend, and poetry as poetry, and not with a dull prosaic and literalistic mind.

Of the great themes which run through the Bible and impart to it a unity despite its diversity the wise reader is ever aware. Throughout, God is One who reveals himself to men and who desires their fellowship. He reveals himself in history and through persons, until he finally reveals himself in One who is both God and man. In both Testaments it is the same God who is revealed, and this above all else gives unity to the Bible. At the same time it must be recognized that much in the Old Testament is superseded in the New, and there are ideas of God in the Old Testament which are not to be approved. For though both Testaments bring us revelation of God, the revelation came through men who could not always apprehend it in its fulness. Just as light is modified by the glass through which it passes, while none derives from the glass itself, so revelation whose sole origin is in God is modified and often marred by the personalities through which it comes. That is why the perfect revelation could come only through the perfect Man, and why the incarnation was already implicit in the self-revealing purpose of God.

In both Testaments God is revealed as compassionate and saving. He had compassion on Israel in her Egyptian bondage, and on men who were in the deeper bondage of sin. It has already been said that from the earliest pages of the Bible it was perceived that fundamentally sin is disobedience to God and that by its very nature it curses man. Throughout the Bible God is concerned to save men from sin, but in the New Testament we have the supreme expression of that concern when God in Christ stooped to take upon himself the curse of sin, that by the sacrifice on the Cross deliverance might be wrought. The saving character of God was revealed in bringing Israel out of Egypt; but it was revealed on a new level at Golgotha.

Again, in both Testaments religion is seen in terms of covenant, and the covenant is the response in gratitude for the deliverance that has been accomplished. When Israel was saved from Egypt she went to the sacred mount and there pledged herself in the covenant to the God who had saved her. The deliverance was the unconstrained act of God, whose initiative in grace is the same throughout the Bible. So in the New Testament the Cross is freely accepted by him in whom the character of God is perfectly revealed, and it becomes the organ of our salvation, laying upon us its constraint to bind ourselves in the new covenant to him. In Old Testament and in New the covenant calls for obedience. It is not a bargain but a pledge. That Israel was often faithless to the covenant does not alter its essential character. Her obedience consisted in the cherishing of the revelation that had been given to her in the context of her deliverance and in reflecting the will of God in all her life. In due time she was instructed by the prophets that her faith was not for her alone. She had been chosen by God that through her he might reach all nations, and her election involved her mission. The new covenant in Christ calls for the cherishing of the larger revelation of God given to us in the life and death and resurrection of Christ, and in obedience to his divine will.

Yet another theme which runs through the Bible and belongs to its unity is faith. Faith is something more than a belief about God. When the Israelites stepped on to the sand left by the receding Red Sea, they showed more than a belief about God. And Christian faith is more than an intellectual persuasion. It is the abandonment of ourselves to Christ, something that carries us into him, so that henceforth we live in him and he in us, as the vine and the branch live in each other indissolubly.

In both Testaments the theme of judgment figures. When Adam sinned and isolated himself from God, his self-judgment led to the judgment of exclusion from the Garden. And continually in the Old Testament we find the same thing. The prophets announced the coming judgment when Israel by her disobedience cut herself off from God. All judgment begins in self-judgment. So, too, in the New Testament: "He who does not believe is condemned already" (Jn.3.18). This is the reverse side of the teaching that man's well-being consists in walking in obedience to God. When he does not obey God he walks to disaster, because without God his wisdom is but folly. Yet the judgment of God is ever tempered with mercy. His mercy is shown in his patience and in sending his servants the prophets to warn and to reclaim. It is shown, too, in the sparing of the remnant. Sometimes it is a righteous remnant, spared for its own loyalty, and sometimes it is a remnant spared to preserve for a generation, whose response shall be wiser than its own, the revelation it so lightly regards. From the earliest pages of the Bible the thought of the remnant appears. Noah and his family are a remnant spared at the flood, and throughout the prophetic words of judgment there appear promises of the remnant that shall remain—the remnant to whom alone the heritage of the covenant belongs, and through whom it is to be shared with those who do not belong to Israel according to the flesh. And in the New Testament the Church consists first of a remnant of Israel. The first disciples were all Jews, who inherited the revelation of the Old Covenant and also the new revelation from the same God given in Christ, and who brought the response of faith and obedience, and then shared their heritage with Gentiles who brought the same response.

A rich diversity of types of literature marks the Bible. There is progress in revelation; part of the Old Testament was outgrown before the Old Testament was itself complete, and more was superseded in the New Testament. Yet amid the diversity runs a unity, and in all the progress there is the thread of a true continuity which derives from the God who speaks through it all. The end of true study of the Bible is to hear his voice, and all who have ears to hear may hear it. The wise student of the Bible will welcome every aid to understand its background and meaning, but his supreme need is one no other can supply. It is the humble desire to find God in his word, and to hear his word that it may find response in gratitude and obedience.

1. THE LANDS

§ 1 Lands of the Near East. Seen from the tower of the Russian monastery on the Mount of Olives, Palestine looks like a gable roof pitching eastward and westward. The north-south road, which from the days of old has linked together the highland towns and villages, runs straight along the roof top. To the east barren hills slope down gently at first, and soon precipitously, toward the deep rift of the Jordan valley and of the Dead Sea, the northeastern shore of which is in full sight. The eastern sky line is formed by the Transjordan ridge, which marks the limit of the Syrian desert. On the western horizon the Mediterranean Sea and the coastal plain are visible in the distant haze, while the western slopes of the highlands, past Jerusalem and its suburbs, remain partly hidden, owing to the steep descent.

Toward the south the barren expanses and parched hills of the Negeb isolate Palestine from the countries adjoining the Red Sea: Arabia, the Sinai peninsula wedged between the Gulf of 'Aqaba and the Gulf of Suez, and the lands of the Nile, accessible by way of the isthmus which bridges Asia and Africa. The Negeb thus had economic and strategic importance, for it was the gateway to the Middle East by sea or overland route, as well as Egypt's Asiatic frontier, where the soldiers of Pharaoh guarded the approach to the kingdom.

The topography north of the Syrian border somewhat resembles the Palestinian relief with its successive zones running parallel to the shore line. The Syrian system, however, has a different geological origin. The plain along the shore is reduced to a narrow strip interrupted by rocky spurs projecting from the mountainside. The Lebanon range rises abruptly from the seaboard, culminating at 10,131 feet. Passes are few and high. North of Lebanon the coastal range is noticeably lower. The Orontes and the Litani, flowing respectively northward and southward, drain the depression of the Beqa'a, which is the plain or valley between the Lebanon and the Anti-Lebanon mountains and which leads into the Jordan rift. In their lower course, the Orontes and the Litani turn westward at a sharp angle, dramatically breaking through the barrier of the mountains. East of the Beqa'a, Mount Hermon and the Anti-Lebanon range reach altitudes of respectively 9,232 and 8,625 feet, contrasting with the smaller hills fanning out farther to the north-east. Mountain streams flowing eastward (for example the Pharpar and Abana) irrigate the gardens of Damascus and of the villages which line the northwestern reaches of the Syrian desert.

The arc-shaped ranges of the Taurus and Anti-Taurus, broken only by the watergaps through which the Euphrates and the Tigris reach their lower course, isolate the Anatolian plateau from the Syrian tableland and the plains of Mesopotamia. At all times immigrants, invaders, and merchants from the East, heading for the Mediterranean seaboard, have journeyed along the crescent of fertile land which bends around the northern portion of the Syrian desert. The most important migration ever to follow this route was the migration of the Arameans, who settled in the Syrian districts of the interior, while the coastline continued to be held by the seafaring Phoenicians and while wandering Arabs grazed their flocks on the desert pastures. It is in the wake of the Aramean migration that Abraham and his kin made their first appearance in Palestine, which their descendants were to regard as their homeland.

The above geographical survey sets the stage for the struggle of the Empires, amidst which most of the events of Biblical history took place. The first act, in the second millennium, was the drive of the Hittites from Anatolia against Egypt. It resulted ultimately in a stalemate, and Palestine, at first neutralized between the two rivals, achieved political independence under the Hebrew kings. The second phase was marked by the expeditions of the Assyrian and Neo-Babylonian rulers. They failed to establish their domination permanently over Egypt, but the autonomy of the Hebrew states was brought to an end.

§ 2 The land of Canaan. Having considered Palestine in its geographical setting, we shall now describe its main natural divisions. The Jordan rift parts the country lengthwise from north to south. Western Palestine, between the sea and the river, is a well-defined unit, while Transjordan has no eastern boundary other than the precarious limit between the desert and the sown. The river Jordan is formed by the union of mountain streams from the eastern and southern slopes of Mount Hermon. For some ten miles it flows through the Huleh basin, the lower part of it forming a shallow lake partly covered by thickets of papyrus. For the next ten miles it descends from an altitude of 223 feet above sea level to 695 feet below sea level, as it enters the Lake of Tiberias, or Sea of Galilee. The lower course of the Jordan is less precipitous. From the Lake of Tiberias to the Dead Sea, 95 miles south as the crow flies and 1,285 feet below sea level, the river meanders in an impenetrable jungle (Jer.12.5) of tamarisks, oleanders, and other shrubs, often less than one mile across, to the right and left of which the terrace of the valley (called today the Ghor or Rift), with its sterile layers of marl, extends to the foot of the Transjordan ridge and of the Palestinian highlands. South of the Dead Sea the desert valley of the Arabah prolongs the Jordan rift toward the south, rising gradually to an altitude of 656 feet above sea level, about halfway between the southern shore of the Dead Sea and the Gulf of 'Aqaba.

The boundaries of ancient regions of the Transjordan ridge are clearly defined by the eastern tributaries of the Jordan and of the Dead Sea: north of the Yarmuk, Bashan; between the Yarmuk and the Jabbok, Gilead; between the Jabbok and the Arnon, the kingdom of Sihon and Ammon; between the Arnon and the Zered, Moab; south of the Zered, Edom.

We turn now to the natural divisions of western Palestine, from north to south. Galilee is bounded on the north by the lower course of the Litani, and on the south by the great plain which cuts diagonally from the sea to the Jordan rift. Upper Galilee reaches an altitude of 3,962 feet at Jebel Jermaq, contrasting with the smaller hills of lower Galilee; Mount Tabor, five miles east of Nazareth, is only 1,929 feet high. The Galilean relief is confused. There is no clear-cut parting of the waters flowing westward to the sea and eastward into the depths of the Jordan valley. The geological dislocation of the Galilean range has resulted in a number of basins and plains locked between rocky ridges, but relatively fertile if properly drained, while numerous olive groves thrive on artificial terraces.

At the foot of the Galilean hills lies the Plain of Esdraelon (or Jezreel), bounded on the south by the Carmel range, the northern edge of the highlands of Samaria, and Mount Gilboa. The central part of the Plain of Esdraelon communicates with the Plain of Acco through the gap of the River Kishon, between Mount Carmel and a spur of the Galilean hills, and with the Jordan rift. It is a zone of great agricultural wealth and of strategic importance, as evidenced by a row of fortified cities guarding the access to central Palestine and to the Jordan, including Jokneam, Megiddo, Taanach, Ibleam, and Beth-shean.

The highlands of Samaria and Ephraim rise up from the fertile Plain of Sharon to a maximum height of 3,332 feet. Ascending from the Plain of Esdraelon, the road of the highlands linked together Samaria and Shechem, which controlled the pass between Mount Gerizim and Mount Ebal. Farther south the road followed the watershed almost continually, passing at or near Shiloh, Bethel, Mizpah, Ramah, Gibeah, and Jerusalem. From Shechem a path along the Wadi Far'a gave easy access to the Jordan valley, while mountain roads linked Jericho with Bethel and Jerusalem. The western slopes of Samaria and Ephraim were rich in olive groves and vineyards, the eastern slopes being used as grazing grounds.

The natural divisions of southern Palestine are as follows. (1) The Philistine plain, along the sea. (2) The Shephelah, or Judean lowlands, guarded by the fortress of Lachish. (3) The "Hill Country of Judah," with a maximum altitude of 3,345 feet; the road from Jerusalem to Bethlehem and Hebron follows the watershed most of the time. (4) East of the watershed, the Wilderness of Judah overlooks the precipice of the Dead Sea. (5) The slopes to the south and southwest of the range extend toward the Negeb, without clear-cut limits. The Negeb of Judah and the desert provide extensive grazing grounds. The vineyards of the highlands were famous, and grains were cultivated on a large scale in the Shephelah and in the plain.

2. THE PEOPLE

§ 3 Anthropological data. The Israelites referred to the inhabitants of Palestine, whom they conquered in the time of Joshua, as Canaanites. The majority was of Semitic origin. The Bible names several of their clans, together with the remnants of aboriginal populations. Early in the second millennium important elements of non-Semitic peoples, including Hittites of Anatolia and Hurrians (Horites) from the upper course of the Euphrates, settled in Canaan and mingled with the Semites, or retained their separate identity, like the Hittites of Hebron, from whom Abraham purchased the cave of Machpelah (Gen. ch. 23). The Hurrian contribution to Palestinian culture can be shown by a study of names of persons and places as well as by the products of their arts and crafts. There is evidence of Mediterranean influences in Canaanite art as early as 1500 B.C. A century later written documents attest the presence of elements of population from the Aegean area in the coastal regions of Palestine and in the Egyptian fortress-cities of the Plain of Esdraelon. Another wave brought in the Philistines from Crete, who settled on the southern coastal plain and made deep inroads in the districts of the interior, prior to the conquest of Canaan by the Israelites.

§ 4 Canaanite city-states. Canaanite settlement followed a pattern of decentralization. Small city-states existed side by side in the neutralized no man's land which lay between the overlords of Anatolia and Egypt. The sovereignty of the Pharaohs over Palestine was more nominal than real. They regarded the fortresses of the Plain of Esdraelon and a few posts along the seaboard as adequate for the security of their northern advanced border. For the rest they relied on rivalries among the Canaanite chieftains to make a general rebellion unlikely. The economy of Canaanite Palestine was a rural economy, drawing its resources from agriculture and animal husbandry. Towns were market places and administrative or defense centers, rather than commercial or industrial centers. They contrasted sharply with the Phoenician cities, which subsisted primarily on trade from overseas.

§ 5 The archaeology of Canaan. Archaeological excavations have unearthed the remains of Canaanite towns built on hilltops or on some rocky ledge in the fork of two ravines. The area of such towns seldom exceeded twenty acres. Methods of fortification varied with local conditions. Sloping embankments, eventually faced with huge stones, were common. The walls, usually of sun-dried bricks, were built on foundations of field stones on the shoulder of the embankment. They were often reinforced with rectangular towers. Some larger towns and cities had a double line of fortifications, or an acropolis having its own rampart within the perimeter of the city. City gates were as a rule flanked with towers; two or three pairs of massive piers protruded from either side of the gateway, leaving a passage wide enough to admit one or two chariots; wooden doors equipped with bronze hinge pivots revolving in stone sockets closed the passage. The esplanade outside the gate was used as a market place, open air court room, and meeting place for the city elders.

Supplying the city with water was a vital problem. Springs outside the walls could be intercepted by enemies. In order to obviate this danger several cities had underground passages leading from within the city-walls to a spring which could be walled in and concealed from without. It is presumably through the water shaft of the Jebusites that David's warriors conquered Jerusalem (2 Sam.5.8). Cisterns and reservoirs formed by damming up a ravine collected rain water, while regular wells, wherever possible, tapped the underground water table.

Each Canaanite city-state had its place or places of worship, within or without the walls. So-called high places were open air enclosures marking the area sacred to the gods of the city. The divine power was thought to inhabit a pillar of stone, the maššebah, while a row of raised stones symbolized the families or clans of the worshipers. A sacred tree or a wooden post called the asherah played a role similar to that of the maššebah. A well or basin and a stone altar completed the main furnishings of the high place. In several instances, small rectangular temples, easily identified by utensils used in sacrificial worship, replaced or supplemented the original high place.

Natural caves in the vicinity of the town and sometimes within its perimeter were used for the burial of the dead. When such caves were not available, tombs were dug out of the rock. They consisted of a vertical shaft, eight to ten feet deep, giving access to one or several burial chambers. The dead were laid out on a layer of pebbles or a bench of hewn stones, and were provided with familiar objects, weapons, utensils, and provisions.

3. THE PEOPLE OF THE COVENANT

§ 6 The Patriarchs. The name "Patriarchs" is given to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Israel) and his sons, for whom the twelve tribes were named. The book of Genesis is our primary source for the history of the Patriarchal era. The narratives appear sometimes in duplicate or even triplicate form, suggesting the use of previous written sources or oral traditions. They refer to the Patriarchs as persons, although it is clear that the history of the Hebrew clans is implied in the history of their founders.

Within each generation individuals belonging to the same ancestral stock were dropped from the privileged line of descent. They were regarded as the ancestors of related tribes or nations upon which the Israelites looked with suspicion or hostility, while keeping the memory of their common origin. Such were Lot, "father" of the Moabites and Ammonites; Ishmael, "father" of the Arabs; the sons of Abraham by his concubines, who were sent away "eastward to the east country" (Gen.25.6); and Esau, "father" of the Edomites.

One may gather from Genesis that Abraham stemmed from Aramean shepherds and herdsmen from the Fertile Crescent, who frequented the markets of such important centers as Haran and Ur of the Chaldeans. The Aramean origin of the Patriarchs is further evidenced by the linguistic shift from Aramean to Hebrew, as recorded in Genesis: Abram and Sarai changed their names to Abraham and Sarah when they settled in Canaan (Gen.17.5,15). This linguistic evolution was complete in the days of Jacob, who was nicknamed "the Aramean" (Dt.26.5) but who gave the Hebrew name "Galeed" to a stone marker which he erected jointly with his kinsmen, who called it in Aramaic "Jegar-sahadutha" (Gen.31.47).

The chronology of the Patriarchs has been much debated. All one can say with assurance is that certain cultural features extant in the Patriarchal narratives have their counterpart in the laws of Hammurabi and in the documents of Nuzi, a Hurrian colony in northern Mesopotamia. This points to a date not later than 1700 B.C. for the beginning of the Patriarchal era.

The Patriarchs and their people can be described as semi-nomads who grazed their flocks of sheep and goats in the unsettled areas of Palestine and came into contact with the sedentary populations when trading their cattle, cheese, butter, and wool for articles manufactured by Canaanite craftsmen. Their activity revolved around a number of centers or encampments generally located in the vicinity of urban markets. Each of these encampments had its place of worship, sacred to the god of the clan, and marked with a sacred tree or grove, in the shadow of which an altar was built or a maš-šebah erected, much in the manner of Canaanite high places.

The main encampments of the Patriarchs are recorded in Genesis: Shechem, their first station in Canaan (Gen.12.6-7); the encampment between Bethel and Ai, where Abram and Lot parted (Gen.12.8; 13.3-11); Mamre, where God appeared to Abraham, a short distance north of Hebron, where the cave of Machpelah became the main burial place of the Patriarchs (Gen.13.18; 18.1; 23.7-20); Beer-sheba in the Negeb, where they concluded an agreement with local rulers concerning grazing rights (Gen.21.25-34).

The Jacob narratives suggest a strong tendency toward a sedentary way of life. On his return from the Aramean countries, Jacob built a house at Succoth in the Jordan valley (Gen.33.17). At Shechem he owned a field and a well (Gen.33.19; compare Jn.4.6). Later he is said to have occupied permanently the encampment at Mamre, while he sent his sons to graze their flocks as far as Dothan in northern Samaria (Gen.35.27; 37.17).

The main historical substance of the story of Joseph and his brothers amounts to the following. A famine drove the Israelites out of Canaan. They descended into Egypt and were resettled in pasture lands on the eastern border of the Delta. The attraction which Egypt exercised upon them is well illustrated by tomb-paintings discovered at Beni-hasan in Middle Egypt, representing a caravan of Semitic immigrants in many-colored robes being introduced to the governor. The welcome received by the sons of Jacob and the elevation of Joseph to a position of authority may suggest that the descent of the Israelites occurred when foreign kings of Asiatic origin, the Hyksos, ruled Egypt.

§ 7 The days of Moses. "Now there arose a new king over Egypt, who did not know Joseph." These words in Ex.1.8 refer to the restoration of a national Egyptian dynasty after the expulsion of the Hyksos rulers. Foreigners were regarded with suspicion and hostility. The Israelites were drafted into forced labor under the whip of harsh overseers. A man of the tribe of Levi, Moses, who had to flee for his life after killing one of these Egyptian taskmasters and who sought asylum among Midianite tribesmen, came back to Egypt for the God-inspired purpose of liberating his people. The Israelites fled by night, were miraculously saved from being recaptured by Egyptian forces sent after them, and journeyed to Mount Horeb, or Sinai.

If one assumes Canaan to have been the goal of the Israelites, their march to Horeb through the wild gorges of the peninsula appears preposterous. But we should remember that the Biblical record in no way implies that they chose one of the normal routes from Egypt to Canaan. Nor was their choice guided primarily by strategic considerations. There is ample evidence that Moses' immediate objective was to lead the people to the place where God had ordered them to convene.

The historical contents of the Biblical traditions relative to the covenant at Horeb may be summarized as follows. First, the tribes named after the sons of Jacob (Israel) were for the first time constituted as one nation under the God who had been the protector of the Patriarchs, and whose name Yahweh (see Ex.3.15 note f) covered his mysterious identity. Second, the entire legislation of the Israelites had its leading principle in the covenant, established when the Decalogue was given to Moses. There is little doubt that the statutes, eventually revised to meet new situations, originated in the Mosaic institution. They embody provisions already found in legal codes of the ancient Near East, but the integrating factor, namely ethical monotheism, was unique. Third, the religious organization of Israel was derived, as a whole, from the Sinaitic institution. The worship of the nation revolved around the ark of the covenant, which was the monument of God's presence among his people.

The Biblical descriptions of the ark seem to combine two different conceptions. According to one tradition, the ark was a wooden chest in which the stone tables of the Law were kept. Another tradition regarded the ark as the portable throne of God, who was said to reside invisibly between the cherubim. These were two figures facing each other whose wings overshadowed the "mercy seat," which the author of Exodus regarded as identical with, or structurally related to, the lid of the chest.

The most important station of the Israelites

on their journey to Canaan was Kadesh-barnea in the wastelands of the Negeb, on a caravan road from the Isthmus of Suez to Beer-sheba (Num.13.26; 20.1). From Kadesh an exploring party was sent to reconnoiter the border of Canaan, but a direct invasion from the south proved impossible, and the Israelites detoured via Edom and the territory of Moab, from whence they were to strike from the east (Num. chs. 13-14 and ch. 20ff.).

The chronology of the Exodus is far from certain. We do not know who Joseph's Pharaoh was, nor under whose reign the Israelites fled from Egypt. Numerical data in the Bible, such as the forty years' wandering in the wilderness, cannot be related to Egyptian chronology. They belong in a pattern of symbolism, the meaning of which escapes us. The fact that several Canaanite cities were destroyed in the second half of the thirteenth century B.C., in the opinion of leading archaeologists, suggests a general invasion of Canaan, which can possibly be ascribed to the forces of Joshua. This might substantiate the dating of the Exodus during the reign of Rameses II (see Ex. 1.8 n.).

§ 8 The conquest of Canaan. The pattern of the conquest as recorded in the book of Joshua is one of grand strategy. After the death of Moses the host of Israel under the command of Joshua marched from their encampment down the ridge of Moab, crossed the Jordan, and captured Jericho and Ai, thus gaining a foothold in the central highlands (Jos. chs. 2-8). From thence a successful campaign against the local chieftains, who had formed a league under Adonizedek, "king" of Jerusalem, gave Joshua control of the south (Jos. ch. 10). A sweeping move northward resulted in the defeat of the "king" of Hazor and his associates in Galilee (Jos.11.1-15).

One suspects some artificiality in this literary scheme. The Old Testament itself suggests that unrelated actions were fought by individual clans or by foreign groups allied to the Israelites, like the Calebites who occupied a district southwest of Hebron (Jos.14.6-15). Furthermore the book of Judges makes it plain that in several instances the Israelites had been unable to dislodge the Canaanites from their strongholds. An outstanding example was Jerusalem, which remained in the hands of the Jebusites until it was captured by David (Jg.1.19,21).

The settlement of the tribes is described by the author of the book of Joshua, who gives an outline of their borders and a list of their principal cities (Jos. chs. 13-21). Reuben, Gad, and the half of Manasseh settled in Transjordan on lands formerly held by defeated local chieftains, Sihon the Amorite and Og, "king" of Bashan. Asher, Naphtali, Zebulun, and Issachar occupied the districts of Galilee and part of the Plain of Esdraelon. A third group composed of the western half of Manasseh and of Ephraim, jointly known as the "house of Joseph," settled in central Palestine. On the southern border of Ephraim dwelt Benjamin and Dan, but part of the Danites emigrated to the springs of the Jordan. Southern Palestine fell to Judah, in the inheritance of which Simeon was assigned ill-defined possessions, while the estates granted to the Levites were distributed throughout the territory of the other tribes.

The social significance of the settlement cannot be exaggerated. The tribes, originally nomadic groups of tent-dwellers, now became identified with assigned territories, and the bonds of clansmen descended from a common ancestor were gradually replaced by the solidarity of villagers born in the land they were tilling.

The population of the districts thus apportioned was far from homogeneous. Israelites lived side by side with the Canaanites whom they had overrun but only partially conquered. Canaanite cities were still holding their own in various parts of the country. Some districts were solidly occupied by foreign elements, like the enclave of Caleb in the south of Judah (Jos.15.13-19), or the four cities of the Gibeonites (Jos.9.17) which were to play an important part in subsequent political and religious developments.

The national existence of the Israelites was at first most precarious. The incurable individualism of the tribes, their rivalries and feuds, prevented them from presenting a solid front against the recurrent hostility of their neighbors. The adoption by the Israelites of the way of life of the Canaanites, intermarriages, and participation in local religious cults, were equally pernicious. The book of Judges is full of these problems of coexistence. The ephemeral authority of inspired leaders such as Deborah (Jg.4.4-5.31) and Gideon (Jg.6.11-8.28) could help solve major crises, but offered no permanent remedy against the ingrained anarchy of the Israelites, who had lost the rugged virtues of tribesmen and had not yet matured as citizens.

4. THE HEBREW KINGDOMS

§ 9 Rise of the monarchy. The end of the second millennium B.C., around 1300–1000, was characterized by a general movement of monarchic centralization which did away with the old feudal pattern. Self-supporting states emerged, each under the authority of its king, who had nothing but the title in common with the Canaanite “kings” who lorded it over their kinsmen and the tenants of their estates. Ammon and Moab in Transjordan, as well as the Arameans in Syria, constituted themselves typical monarchies. In the highlands of Samaria, Abimelech, son of Gideon (Jerubbaal), had himself proclaimed king at Shechem (Jg.9.1–57), but he was unable to cope with problems of Hebrew-Canaanite relationships and the attempt proved abortive.

The pressure of external events prompted the Israelites to unite permanently under the scepter of Saul. The Ammonites raided the Israelites of Transjordan and threatened the eastern border of Palestine. In the west the danger came from the Philistines. This people seems to have been ubiquitous, but their principal habitat was the southern half of the coastal plain. Numerous samples of painted pottery, decorated with a combination of geometric patterns and over-stylized figures of birds, have been found in this region and are commonly attributed to Philistine craftsmen. The nation was organized as a federation of five cities, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gaza, Gath, and Ekron, under their “tyrants.” But textual as well as archaeological evidence shows that they were well on the way to infiltrate and eventually to subjugate the whole of Palestine. They held a strict monopoly on iron, a metal which was not used in Palestine prior to 1200 B.C. They controlled the major part of the Shephelah and the Plain of Sharon. Philistine raiding parties plundered the countryside of Judah and Ephraim. Shiloh was ransacked and the ark of the covenant was carried away as a war trophy (1 Sam.4.11). It even seems that the Philistines occupied for some time a strategic outpost in the highlands of Benjamin, intercepting the road between Geba and Michmash.

In the face of such perils the Israelites called Saul, a tribesman of warlike Benjamin, to reign over them. This was in a sense a departure from the religious ideal of Moses, who envisioned Israel as a theocratic nation under God-appointed leaders, but not under a monarch chosen by popular acclaim. Samuel, the last of such leaders who judged Israel, tried in vain to dissuade the people, but their desire prevailed (1 Sam. ch. 8).

The monarchy of Saul had all the characteristics of an emergency dictatorship. He established his capital at Gibeah in the heart of Benjamin. The foundations of his palace-fortress have been unearthed from the hillock of Tell el-Ful, five short miles north of Jerusalem.

A vigorous action neutralized the Ammonite threat. The Philistines were dislodged from their strategic positions and thrown back into the lowlands, but Saul's attack of the Philistine forces holding the Plain of Esdraelon resulted in the defeat of the Israelites. Saul and his son Jonathan were slain and their armor exhibited in the temple of Ashtaroth at Beth-shan (1 Sam.31.10), perhaps to be identified with a little shrine which is dated, on archaeological evidence, from the eleventh to the tenth century B.C.

Even if the monarchy of Saul had not met its tragic fate, it is doubtful whether it could have ever achieved a reasonable measure of stability. The urgent problem of non-Israelite minorities had been treated high-handedly, and Saul had manifested his intolerance as well as his total lack of moral or political restraint in ordering the massacre of the Gibeonites (2 Sam.21.1), in violation of the solemn pledge given them by Joshua. Nor were his policies toward the other tribes of Israel much better advised. The banishment of young David, whom he feared as a potential rival, did much to stir up feelings of suspicion and resentment between the men of Judah and the Israelites of central Palestine.

§ 10 David and Solomon. After precarious days as an outlaw in the wilderness of Judah and a refugee among the Philistines, David was anointed by the men of Judah to reign in Hebron, shortly after 1000 B.C. (2 Sam.2.1–4). After seven difficult years, during which he managed to gain some influence over the northern tribes, he was proclaimed king over the entire nation and made Jerusalem, which he had just captured from the Jebusites, his capital (2 Sam.5.6–10). This was excellent politics, for Jerusalem could be considered neutral ground between Judah and Benjamin. One would no longer think of the king as a man of a tribe eager to lord it over the others, but as the permanent leader and arbiter of the nation, including foreign minorities to which some consideration was to be given.

At first unanimous popular support enabled David to fight the foreign wars to a finish. Ammon was thoroughly defeated, the Philistines were driven back into the plain, and the frontiers of Israel were firmly secured. Yet the particularism of the tribes flared up once again when a party of malcontents led by Absalom, David's own son, forced the king into temporary exile. The revolt was put down with great difficulty (2 Sam. chs. 15-18), and much unfinished business was left for his successor.

David is said to have reigned thirty-three years in Jerusalem (1 Kg.2.11). Toward the end he prevented a crisis of succession by having Solomon anointed and enthroned (1 Kg. ch. 1).

The outstanding achievement of the new reign, to which the Old Testament ascribes a conventional duration of forty years, was the building of the temple. Like all important constructions of this period it required foreign cooperation. Hiram of Tyre provided specialized craftsmen and timber from Lebanon (1 Kg.5.1-12). The temple was part of a compound which integrated the king's palace with the dwelling of the Lord. This arrangement, inspired by the Oriental conception of the king being the incarnation of the divinity, was regarded with misgivings by the prophets, who feared an encroachment upon the transcendence of God (compare Ezek.43.8). The temple of Jerusalem, as a national sanctuary, never completely superseded the shrines of the country, and their persistent survival is denounced in the historical and prophetic writings.

The house of the Lord consisted essentially of a long nave in which were ten lampstands, a table for the bread of the Presence, and the altar of incense. From thence one gained access to the inner sanctuary, a chamber (30' x 30' x 30') containing the ark, which David had brought back from Kiriath-jearim, and two cherubim, fifteen feet high, made of olive wood and overlaid with gold. The "house" was entered from the east by means of a vestibule flanked with pillars of bronze. The altar of burnt offering stood in the courtyard in front of the temple, where the sacrificial service took place. The carved ivories found at Arslan Tash and Megiddo, engraved with winged figures and floral or geometrical patterns, constitute a valid analogy to the decoration of the temple and its furnishings.

In the administrative order the division of the country into fiscal districts, not without some gerrymandering, provided a better integration of minority groups with the Israelites. A new system of government replaced the arbitrary rule of petty tyrants and their satellites. There arose a class of responsible officials similar to the Egyptian scribes, and the names of departmental heads have been preserved in the Bible (1 Kg.4.1-19). Foreign trade and industry were a royal monopoly. The king's commercial agents are mentioned among other crown officials. Special reference is made to the purchase of chariots and teams of horses for the army or for re-exportation abroad (1 Kg.10.26-29). The occupation of the Negeb made possible the exploitation of iron and copper mines east of the Arabah and the establishment of a naval base at Elath (Ezion-geber), the ruins of which have been discovered near 'Aqaba together with those of a smelting plant. A fleet manned by Phoenician sailors sailed periodically to south Arabia, India, and east Africa, bringing back gold, gems, and exotic products (1 Kg.9.26-28; 10.22).

§ 11 The divided monarchy: Judah and Israel. The chronology of David and Solomon may be regarded as conventionalized. Beginning with the schism of Jeroboam and the divided monarchy, however, dates and correlations of the chronologies of Israel and Judah multiply and the historical perspective becomes clearer, though some problems are still much debated. The dates which are given here are in accord with the system proposed by Edwin R. Thiele; for a full conspectus of these, as well as the dates of an alternative system developed by William F. Albright, see the Chronological Table, pp. 1532f.

The personal prestige of Solomon and his efficient administration had driven underground those who favored a divided monarchy. Rehoboam, who succeeded his father in 931 B.C., made himself unpopular from the start (1 Kg. ch. 12). His arrogance and an increased taxation recklessly enforced undid the superficial unity which had been painstakingly achieved. The Israelites of central and northern Palestine seceded under Jeroboam, leaving Judah alone in the south. The common frontier, at first hotly contested, cut transversally through the territory of Benjamin. The dynastic stability of the kingdom of Judah, faithful to the house of David, compensated for the limited extent of its territory; on the other hand, the kingdom of Israel went through eight crises of royal succession during the two centuries of its existence.

Jeroboam fortified Shechem and made it the first capital of the northern kingdom

(1 Kg.12.25). Later he seems to have taken up royal residence at Tirzah, famed for its beauty (1 Kg.14.17; S. of S.6.4). This city remained the capital of the ten tribes until about 880 B.C., when Omri established himself on the hill of Samaria (1 Kg.16.23-24). Archaeological excavations have laid bare the foundations of the palace at Samaria. The entire area was surrounded by a double cased wall. In a room of the king's house were found carved plaques of ivory, partly gilded and inlaid, which had been used to decorate wooden pieces of furniture. They show an eclectic inspiration, combining Egyptian, Oriental, and Mediterranean motifs: the child Horus on a lotus flower, the djed pillar flanked by female deities, lilies, and palmated ornaments, various types of sphinxes and winged figures, a woman's head in a rectangular frame, and animals. They are similar to ivories discovered in the ruins of Hadatu (Arslan Tash), where the Assyrians had carried them as war booty from the palace of Hazael in Damascus. Storehouses contained a large number of broken jars which, judging from inscriptions penned in ancient Hebrew script, contained the oil and wine delivered to the royal treasury in payment of taxes. These inscriptions have made it possible to establish a list of fiscal districts of the northern kingdom, which must have reached a high level of prosperity.

Foreign trade was flourishing. A wealthy class of traders and craftsmen began to develop in urban centers. Close political and economic relations were established between the kingdom of Israel and the Phoenician city-state of Sidon. This, however, did much to bring about a recrudescence of pagan cults which were bitterly opposed by Elijah and other prophets.

A similar evolution took place in the kingdom of Judah. The economy was still predominantly rural. Uzziah (Azariah) did much to intensify the cultivation of the royal domain and ordered the digging of cisterns and the building of watchtowers in the countryside (2 Chr.26.10). Meanwhile craftsmen and merchants set up their shops in the streets of the capital and regional centers such as Hebron and Lachish. The exploitation of the mines in the Arabah and the maritime enterprises of Solomon went on with some intermittence, depending on whether or not the kings of Judah were able to guarantee the security of the caravans through the Negeb and on the Edomite border.

Israel ranged from open hostility to an uneasy coexistence abundant in plots and intrigues, and even to occasional confederation, as, for example, the ill-fated expedition of Jehoshaphat and Ahab against the Syrians (1 Kg.22.29-40), or the campaign of Jehoshaphat and Jehoram of Israel against Mesha, recorded in 2 Kg.3.4-27 and on the so-called Moabite Stone, discovered in 1868 and preserved in the Louvre at Paris.

While Judah felt relatively secure once its northern frontier had been stabilized, the Israelites were much more vulnerable. They had a standing quarrel with the kingdom of Damascus for the possession of Gilead, and their own territory was repeatedly invaded by the Syrian forces. Worse yet, the westward expansion of the Assyrian empire had begun and could not be stopped despite ineffectual attempts by Samaria and Damascus to lay aside their differences and offer a united front against the invaders. The progress of the Assyrians may be followed by means of the Biblical record and of cuneiform texts, from the battle of Qarqar on the Orontes, when Ahab and the Syrians were defeated in 853 B.C., to the imposition of tributes successively upon Jehu (841-814), Menahem (752-742), and Hoshea, the last king of Israel (732-722). The final act was the long siege of Samaria by the armies of Shalmaneser V. Sargon II, who succeeded his brother Shalmaneser in 722 B.C., claimed the ultimate victory. A large number of Israelites from central Palestine was deported, and displaced tribes from the Babylonian borderlands were relocated on the territory of Israel (2 Kg. ch. 17).

The next blow fell on Judah. The campaign of Sennacherib, Sargon's successor, is recorded at length on a hexagonal prism of clay inscribed in Assyrian cuneiform. In 701 B.C. the Assyrians invaded the Philistine plain and the Shephelah and besieged Lachish, the fall of which is represented with great topographic accuracy on reliefs from the palace of Nineveh, preserved in the British Museum (see also 2 Kg. ch. 18). Meanwhile Hezekiah (716-687) worked feverishly to strengthen the fortifications of Jerusalem. A tunnel-aqueduct was hewn from the solid rock to divert the waters of the Gihon to the pool of Siloam, located within the walls (2 Kg.20.20). An inscription in ancient Hebrew script relates the details of the enterprise. Jerusalem, already surrounded, was unexpectedly delivered, owing to an epidemic which all but annihilated the Assyrian forces (2 Kg.19.35).

A troubled period followed, during which the Assyrians meddled continually with the affairs of the kingdom of Judah. Josiah (640–609 B.C.) seems to have gained some brief authority over the territory of Israel, presumably with the agreement of the Assyrian overlords. He initiated a general religious reform, following the discovery of an unknown scroll of the Law in 622 (2 Kg. chs. 22–23). The character of his reformation suggests a definite relation between the scroll discovered in the temple and the book of Deuteronomy. Despite Josiah's efforts, however, a strong current of syncretism still pervaded the religion of the temple. In politics an influential party advocated an Egyptian alliance, which was consistently opposed by the prophets.

The rise of the Neo-Babylonian empire after the collapse of the Assyrian monarchy in 612 B.C. ushered in a new era of hostilities.

Under Nebuchadnezzar "the Chaldeans," following the same itinerary as Sennacherib, captured Lachish, which apparently had been reoccupied by the Judeans. Letters written in ancient Hebrew script, discovered in the ruins in 1935, refer to miscellaneous events which preceded the beginning of the siege of the city in 588 B.C. One of these letters had been sent to the commander of Lachish by a subordinate in charge of an outpost. He notified him that the fire signals from Azekah, ten miles north of Lachish, had ceased; obviously Azekah had just succumbed. Thereafter the siege of Jerusalem followed in short order. The walls were stormed and the temple destroyed in the summer of 586 B.C. The elite of the people of Judah were deported, while proletarians were left in the country under the rule of Babylonian governors.

5. POST-EXILIC PALESTINE

§ 13 The remnant that returned. The Babylonian captivity resulted in a drastic reappraisal by the Jews of their cultural and religious heritage. The exiles had to abandon their way of life as landowners and to adapt themselves to their new environment. They took up various professions, international trade, and banking, as one may gather from numerous tablets of contracts in Neo-Babylonian cuneiform. Soon, however, Babylonian was replaced by Aramaic as the common language in commercial transactions, and this change may account for the fact that part of the book of Daniel is written in Aramaic, and that the so-called square letters of the Aramaic alphabet replaced the ancient Hebrew script.

It became clear that no matter how many exiles might eventually return to the homeland, a substantial number, and these not the least wealthy or the least influential, would stay in Babylonia and even prosper there. The same could be said of the voluntary expatriates who settled in Egypt in increasing numbers. From now on there would be an "Israel abroad."

This all demanded a reinterpretation of Israel's religious heritage, the ritual and sacrificial elements of which had been stressed by the priestly caste at the expense of spiritual values, much to the dismay of the prophets. But now that the temple lay in ruins, the religious life of the exiles had to feed on past memories; henceforward the emphasis would be on the teaching of the Law and the collecting of the utterances of Israel's sages and prophets.

Meanwhile, some of the exiles had not given up dreams of a restoration. Ezekiel outlined for them the ideal image of Israel as a theocracy in conformity with pre-monarchic conceptions, and the ideal temple, which would stand in absolute isolation from everything profane. The Lord God would have nothing in common with earthly rulers.

The dream came true. The armies of Cyrus, king of Persia since 555 B.C., king of the Medes and Persians since 549, entered Babylon and put an end to the domination of the Chaldeans. The new empire was conceived as a commonwealth of provinces enjoying a large degree of autonomy under the control of their viceroys or satraps. Seals and coins, in fact the earliest coins known to have been minted in Palestine, were inscribed with the word Yehud, which was the name of the Persian province of Judea. These coins were used along with the royal gold currency.

The edict of 538 B.C. authorized the exiles to return to their country (Ezra 1.2–4; 6.2–5). This was in execution of a general policy of relocation of "displaced persons" on a voluntary basis. A considerable number of Jews availed themselves of the edict; they organized convoys to journey back to Palestine, where they often found their old homes occupied by the proletarians left by the Chaldeans.

The facts and circumstances of the restoration are recorded in the books of Ezra and

Nehemiah, two scribes who had been endowed with official authority as royal commissioners. The historical substance of these books can be given credit, although the sequence and chronology of the events which they relate pose serious problems. Documentary and archaeological evidence shows that the relocation of the exiles was particularly concentrated in the vicinity of Jerusalem and in the southern part of the Shephelah. Southern Palestine came to be known as Idumea, for the Edomites had settled there after the Babylonian conquest.

The first achievement of the returning exiles was the building of the second temple. The construction had begun under the administration of Zerubbabel, a royal commissioner, who seems to have been subsequently recalled. After several interruptions the work was completed in the spring of 515 B.C. during the reign of Darius. The new sanctuary reproduced the structure of the temple of Solomon, with the essential difference that the invisible presence of God was no longer attached to a man-made object as it had been to the ark.

Next the walls and gates of Jerusalem were repaired under Nehemiah, who organized the men of Judah in gangs, each responsible for a particular section of the rampart. The dedication took place in 443 B.C., during the reign of Artaxerxes I (Longimanus). The work of restoration had been fiercely opposed by Sanballat, governor of Samaria, and Tobiah, the Ammonite. The Samaritans are mentioned in this context for the first time as an organized group hostile to the Jews (Neh.4.2). They were the descendants of the colonists established by the Assyrians in the territory of Israel. They had adopted the religion of the Jews, on the theory that it was fitting to worship the tutelary god of their new country. The center of their cult was the summit of Mount Gerizim; here the few hundred Samaritans who live today in Nablus still gather annually for their Passover rites.

§ 14 The invasion of Hellenism. The conquests of Alexander the Great, from the time of his landing in Troas (334 B.C.) to his death in Babylon (323), revolutionized the political, economic, and cultural life of the entire Near East, including Egypt. In the ensuing struggle for Alexander's succession, Judea was claimed by the Ptolemies of Egypt, until it passed under the allegiance of the Seleucids of Antioch in 198 B.C., when Antiochus the Great defeated the Egyptian forces at Panias.

Hellenistic culture spread through the countries of the Near East at an amazing rate. Greek came to be spoken and written almost everywhere. International trade flourished. The Nabatean caravan leaders, who specialized in the south Arabian transit in competition with the maritime enterprises of the Ptolemies, were soon to organize themselves as an independent state, being followed later by the Palmyrenians, who monopolized the communications with central Asia. Archaeological and documentary evidence points to the importance of Marisa in Idumea, where hellenized Sidonian merchants acted as commercial agents for the Ptolemies. An artistic syncretism developed which combined the traditions of Greek and Oriental architecture, and a similar movement of integration took place between Oriental and Greek cults and mystery religions.

This cultural revolution affected the Jews in various ways. They seem to have been treated with fairness by the Ptolemies, who had adopted a policy of broad tolerance. The so-called "Letter of Aristaeas" attributes to Ptolemy Philadelphus (285-246 B.C.) the initiative in having the sacred writings of the Jews translated into Greek. Whether or not the details of the story are authentic, it appears that the Greek version of the Bible known as the Septuagint had its beginnings at Alexandria in the course of the third century B.C. There were precedents for such a translation of the Bible, parts of which had been rendered into Aramaic and into the Samaritan dialect. The Septuagint, as it was transmitted to the Christian church, was not completed until the beginning of the first century B.C. It was made to include, in addition to the books of the Hebrew Bible, the books of the Maccabees, the historical novels of Tobit and Judith, the Greek additions to Daniel and Esther, the book of Baruch, the Wisdom of Solomon, and Ecclesiasticus. These writings, known as the Apocrypha, are not included in the canon of Protestant Bibles (see p. xxiv). Some of them may be translations of Hebrew or Aramaic originals. Important fragments of a Hebrew and Aramaic text of several of these books were discovered at Qumran by the Dead Sea.

§ 15 The Seleucid policy of imposing Greek culture and customs upon subjugated peoples contrasted with the tolerance of the Ptolemies. To be sure, Hellenism had made inroads among the Jews themselves. There was a strong party favoring the adoption of the new culture, even to the point of apostasy from the Mosaic observances, and it is hinted by some ancient writers that the profanation of the second temple, which Antiochus Epiphanes dedicated to Zeus Olympius in 167 B.C., was not opposed by the Hellenist Jews, who rather welcomed the assimilation of the Lord God to the highest god of paganism.

This was more, however, than the orthodox could bear. They revolted. Their leader, Judas "the Maccabee," of the priestly family of the Hasmoneans, campaigned successfully against the Syrians. The temple was purified in 164 B.C.; this is the origin of the Hanukkah festival of the Jews (Jn.10.22). The autonomy of the Jews was recognized grudgingly by the Seleucid overlords. After the death of Judas in 160 B.C., the Jewish state of the Hasmoneans continued until 40 B.C., thus outlasting the Seleucids, whose discords were brought to an end when Pompey made Syria a Roman province in 63 B.C.

Our sources for the history of the entire period are the books of the Maccabees, Josephus, and archaeological evidence, especially Jewish coinage. The latter reflects the growing ambition of the Hasmoneans, who at first were recognized only as high priests and ethnarchs of the Jewish community but who, beginning with Aristobulus (104-103 B.C.), assumed the title of kings, despite the opposition of the Pharisees.

Growing political and religious divisions weakened the dynasty. The Sadducees, a politically-minded aristocracy, were not adverse to what they regarded as necessary concessions to the spirit of the times. The Pharisees, on the contrary, strove to maintain the separateness of the nation by refining upon the legal observances of the Mosaic code. Another religious sect, related to or identical with the Essenes described by Josephus, sought refuge in complete isolation from national life. Theirs was an ideal of ethical asceticism with strong eschatological overtones, as evidenced by the Zadokite documents discovered in Cairo in 1896, and the scrolls discovered more recently in caves near the ruins of an ancient community center at Qumran by the Dead Sea. These documents throw some light on the way of life and the preaching of John the Baptist, and indirectly on the environment of early Christianity.

§ 16 Rome's order. When Augustus became Emperor in 27 B.C., Syria, which had been under Roman protectorate since its conquest by Pompey, was given the status of an imperial province, governed by a legate.

For reasons of political expediency Palestine and adjacent territories were left under the authority of local princes. After the collapse of the Hasmonean dynasty, Herod the Great had been made king by senatorial decree. He reigned from 37 to 4 B.C., courting the Romans and ridding himself of his enemies astutely and ruthlessly.

Herod's building programs show his versatility: dungeon-like fortress-palaces in secluded parts of the country, where he could retire and plot without being observed, and seek refuge if need be; luxurious country estates in the valley of the Jordan, and a winter palace south of Jericho; public buildings, often inspired by political considerations, as in pagan Ashkelon, Herod's birthplace, and Samaria, where a temple was built to the Emperor Augustus; monumental enclosures around the burial grounds of Machpelah in Hebron and at Mamre, north of the town. The perennial problem of supplying Jerusalem with water was solved by the construction of an aqueduct leading from two groups of springs south of Bethlehem. The fortress covering the northwestern angle of Jerusalem, known as the Tower of the Ovens, was rebuilt as a fortified residence with sumptuous courtyards and apartments.

The construction of the temple of Jerusalem was Herod's chief undertaking. The "house" was surrounded by extensive courtyards lined with porticoes. Josephus describes the successive precincts, access to which was restricted to certain categories of persons according to their degree of consecration to God. Gentiles were admitted only in the outer zone, the limits of which were marked by a railing, trespassers being threatened with death.

After the death of Herod in 4 B.C., Palestine passed under the rule of tetrarchs: Archelaus (4 B.C.-A.D. 6), over Judea and Samaria; Herod Antipas (4 B.C.-A.D. 39), over Samaria; Philip (4 B.C.-A.D. 34), over the districts of Iturea and Trachonitis, south-east of Mount Hermon. Palestine was unified again under Herod Agrippa I, who ruled the tetrarchy of Philip from A.D. 37, Galilee from 39, Samaria and Judea from 41, until his death in 44. Later Herod Agrippa II acquired the tetrarchy of Philip and several Galilean towns from respectively A.D. 53 and 56 to about 100. During the intervals between these reigns, the northern districts were administered directly by the imperial legate of Syria, while Samaria and Judea were placed under the jurisdiction of a Roman procurator residing at Caesarea on the sea (see p. 1534).

§ 17 The sequence of political events in the preceding section supplies the chronological framework for the life of Christ and the activity of his first disciples. Jesus was born about four or five years before the Christian era. (His birth occurred sometime prior to the death of Herod the Great, who, according to Josephus, died shortly before April 12, 4 B.C. The traditional Christian calendar was devised about A.D. 525 by Dionysius Exiguus, a Roman abbot, who unfortunately erred by four or five years in his calculations.) According to Luke (3.1) Jesus was baptized by John in the fifteenth year of Tiberius Caesar. If one counts from the death of Augustus, this comes to A.D. 28/29; but if, as some think more probable, one reckons from the year of the association of Tiberius with Augustus as joint ruler, the date is A.D. 26/27. Luke goes on to say that Pontius Pilate was procurator of Judea, Herod [Antipas] tetrarch of Galilee, his brother Philip tetrarch of Ituraea and Trachonitis, and Lysanias tetrarch of Abilene, a region northwest of Damascus. The year of the crucifixion, under Pontius Pilate, is uncertain, though the year 30 has a high degree of probability. At the time of the conversion of Paul, Damascus was in the hands of Aretas (Hareitat), king of the Nabateans, about A.D. 37 to 40 (2 Cor. 11.32). Acts 18.12 records the presence of Paul in Corinth under the proconsulate of Gallio, A.D. 51/52. According to Acts 24.27 Paul had been in prison for two years when Felix, procurator of Judea, was recalled by Nero, and the apostle, having appealed to Caesar (Acts 25.11-12), was sent to Rome by Festus, who took office about A.D. 60.

The history of the Herodians and of the procurators abounds in riots and attempted rebellions against the ruling power. The glens of upper Galilee were haunted by frustrated Jewish patriots, malcontents, and outlaws of every description. The revolt against the Romans broke out under Vespasian in the summer of A.D. 66. The events of the war are recorded with the utmost detail by Josephus, from the initial successes of the Jews to the siege and destruction of Jerusalem by Titus in 70. The local currency of these years illustrates vividly the general march of events. The Jews had minted silver shekels (erroneously attributed to the Maccabees) as a symbol of national independence. The rapidly deteriorating situation of the Jewish nationalists, when the Roman armies, at first surprised, began to react, is shown by the poorer standards and the scarcity of the Jewish silver shekels from the third year of independence onward, when bronze tokens were used as substitutes. The triumphal arch of Titus, erected at Rome in 71, and imperial coins bearing the words Judaea capta, marked the victory of the Roman arms. A garrison of desperadoes held out until 73 in the fortress of Masada, a former Maccabean stronghold rebuilt by Herod the Great.

In spite of strict administrative measures taken by the Roman legates of Syria, who had jurisdiction over Palestine, another revolt broke out under Hadrian in A.D. 132. References to and letters from the leader, Simon ben Koziba, nicknamed Bar Kochba, have been found in the caves of Murabba'at in the desert of Judah. The Romans were at first unable to stem the rebellion, but reinforcements arrived, and Jerusalem, which had fallen to Bar Kochba's men, was recaptured in 134. The insurrection was brought to an end one year later when Bar Kochba was buried under the ruins of the fortified village of Bittir, where he had made his last stand. Jerusalem was renamed Colonia Aelia Capitolina, and a shrine was dedicated to Zeus and Hadrian in the temple area.

The collapse of Israel as a nation ushered in a new era. Judaism had to forgo its earthly ties, and the Messianic hope had to be reinterpreted. The seed of David was extinct, the temple would not be rebuilt, and the people were scattered among the Gentiles. There remained only the Book, and in the reading of the sacred page Israel would slowly discover its mission in the world.

The church had received from its Founder the mission to preach the gospel to all creatures. Thus the word was proclaimed "in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth" (Acts 1.8), and the power of God confirmed the word. Was this not the true fulfilment of the prophecy of Joel, "I will pour out my spirit on all flesh" (Jl.2.28)? The eternal had broken through into time. Almost from the start the church made a clean departure from historical contingencies, straining forward to what lies ahead: not Israel among the nations, but the nations as the new Israel, brought to the obedience of Christ.

gērāh	gerah		8.81 grains

The practice of weighing unmarked ingots of metal used in commercial transactions prior to the invention of money explains that the names of the units of weight were used later as indications of value, and as names for monetary standards. There is, however, no direct relation between the shekel-weight and the weight of a shekel piece.

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLES OF RULERS

- A. THE UNITED MONARCHY. The length of Saul's reign is not known; David and Solomon are each said to have ruled for forty years, which is often used as a general and somewhat indefinite number. Their reigns must have fallen between about 1020 and 922 (931) B.C., perhaps as follows:

Saul	1020-1000 B.C.
David	1000-961 (or 1000-965) B.C.
Solomon	961-922 (or 965-931) B.C.

- B. THE DIVIDED MONARCHY, JUDAH AND ISRAEL. Problems of the chronology of the kings of Israel and Judah often permit only a tentative solution. The following tables present two widely accepted systems of chronology, one developed by W. F. Albright and the other by E. R. Thiele (the dates of the latter's system are enclosed within parentheses). The two columns are arranged so as to indicate the relationships between the two kingdoms, showing who was reigning in Israel when a given king was reigning in Judah, and vice versa.

JUDAH	ISRAEL
Rehoboam — 922 (931)	922 (931)—Jeroboam

ENGLISH VERSIONS OF THE BIBLE:

THE TYNDALE-KING JAMES TRADITION

Prior to the sixteenth century, translations of the Bible into English were made from the Latin Vulgate instead of from the Hebrew or Greek, and were recorded only in manuscript copies.

To the Anglo-Saxon period belong the paraphrases of the Biblical narrative put into verse by Caedmon, herdsman for the abbey at Whitby (about A.D. 670); a version of the Psalms attributed to Aldhelm, bishop of Sherborne (640-709); a translation of the Gospel of John by the Venerable Bede (d. 735); portions of Exodus and the Acts of the Apostles, and some of the Psalms, by King Alfred (849-901); and a translation of the Heptateuch (Genesis through Judges) by Aelfric, abbot of Eynsham (955-1020). Four complete manuscripts and five fragmentary manuscripts remain of the Anglo-Saxon Gospels; these date from the eleventh to the thirteenth centuries. The famous Lindisfarne Gospels and the Rushworth Gospels are Latin manuscripts written toward the close of the seventh century, with interlinear Anglo-Saxon glosses (translations) inserted three centuries later. There were many Anglo-Saxon Psalters, with the Latin text and an interlinear Anglo-Saxon gloss.

To the Middle English period (1150-1500) belong the Ormulum, a metrical paraphrase of the Gospels, with interspersed moralizations; the Psalter of Richard Rolle (d. 1349), a prose version with commentary; and a prose version of the Psalms which has been attributed to William of Shoreham (about 1270-1350).

The first English versions of the entire Bible were the two associated with the work of John Wyclif, made by translation from the Latin Vulgate between 1380 and 1397. They were copied by hand, and there remain some one hundred and eighty manuscripts, mostly of the second version.

We do not know what part of the work upon the first version was done by Wyclif himself. But that is of no consequence; he inspired it all, including the making of the second version after his death in 1384. Both versions were made by scholars who were his immediate associates. Nicholas Hereford was largely responsible for the first version, which was completed before Wyclif's death. John Purvey, Wyclif's secretary, was responsible for the second version, which was completed by 1397.

Five hundred years earlier, King Alfred had written that he translated the Latin "hwilum word be worde, hwilum andgit of andgite"—that is, "sometimes word for word, sometimes meaning for meaning."

The first version of the Wyclif Bible was a careful literal translation of the Latin Vulgate, with the English words following the order of the Latin words as closely as possible. Purvey gives a striking example of the mischief that may thus be wrought. In 1 Sam. 2.10 the Latin has Dominum formidabunt adversarii eius, which the first version renders, "The Lord shulen drede the adversaries of hym." This follows the Latin word order, but ignores the Latin inflections which show that "adversaries" is the subject of the verb, that the verb for "shall dread" is plural, and that "the Lord" is its object. Purvey changes the translation to read, "Adversaries of the Lord shulen drede hym."

In the "General Prologue" to the second version Purvey states that it is best "to translate after the sentence and not only after the words, so that the sentence be as open, or opener, in English as in Latin"—that is, so that the meaning be as clear, or clearer.

The sixteenth century brought the Bible in English to the common people as a printed book. Beginning with the first of Tyndale's translations in 1526, there appeared in rapid succession eight English versions of the Bible, culminating in the King James Version published in 1611.

The first English version of the Scriptures to be made by direct translation from the Hebrew and Greek was the work of William Tyndale. His New Testament, 1526, was followed by his translation of the Pentateuch in 1530 and of Jonah in 1531. In 1534 he issued a revision of his translation of the New Testament, and in 1535 The New Testament yet once again corrected by William Tyndale. These became the basis of all later revisions and the main source of the authorized versions of the New Testament in English.

Tyndale was bitterly opposed. He was accused of perverting the meaning of the Scriptures, and his New Testaments were ordered to be burned as "untrue translations," intended "for the advancement and setting forth of Luther's abominable heresies." He was finally betrayed into the hands of his enemies, and in October 1536, was executed and burned at the stake.

In 1535 appeared an English translation of the Bible by Miles Coverdale. This was the first complete Bible to be printed in English. It was not a direct translation from the original languages, but was based upon two Latin versions and upon the translations by Tyndale into English, and by Luther and Zwingli into German.

In 1537 a folio volume was published entitled The Bible, which is all the Holy Scriptures, in which are containeyd the Olde and Newe Testaments, truely and purely translated into Englysh, by Thomas Matthew. "Thomas Matthew" was a pseudonym adopted by John Rogers, a friend of Tyndale, who took Tyndale's manuscript translations of the books of the Old Testament from Joshua to Second Chronicles, together with Tyndale's printed translations of the Pentateuch and the New Testament, and published them in this one volume, which he completed by adding Coverdale's version of the rest of the Old Testament and the Apocrypha.

In 1539 Richard Taverner, a layman and a lawyer, clerk of the signet to the king, published a revision of Matthew's Bible, one edition of which was issued in parts in order that people who could not afford to purchase the whole Bible might buy one or more parts. He was a good Greek scholar, and made some changes in the translation of the New Testament which have been kept in later versions.

Meanwhile at Paris, in early 1538, Miles Coverdale had begun a new revision of Matthew's Bible, for which he had been commissioned by Sir Thomas Cromwell, Secretary to King Henry VIII, and Vicar General. The Great Bible, as this was called, was published at London in April 1539. It was the first authorized English version, and a copy was ordered to be placed in every church.

Under Queen Mary the printing of the English Bible ceased and its use in the churches was forbidden. Many English citizens sought refuge on the Continent, and a group of these at Geneva undertook the revision of the English Bible. The Geneva version appeared in 1560. It was set in Roman type instead of the old blackface, and it was a book easy to handle, instead of an unwieldy folio. It was the first English version to use numbered verses, each set off as a separate paragraph.

The Geneva Bible was never authorized, but it became at once the people's book, the household Bible of the English-speaking nations, and it held this place for three-quarters of a century. It was the Bible used by Shakespeare and John Bunyan; and it was the Bible of the Puritans who settled New England. Between 1560 and 1644 at least one hundred and forty editions of the Geneva Bible or New Testament were printed, and it lasted longer in competition with the King James Version than any other English version.

Queen Elizabeth renewed the injunction that a copy of "the whole Bible of the largest volume in English" be placed in every church, and encouraged its reading. Because not enough copies of the Great Bible were available, Archbishop Parker proposed that the bishops themselves make a new revision of the English Bible. The resulting version, known as the Bishops' Bible, was published in 1568. It was authorized by Convocation, and its possession enjoined upon the churches. In 1572 another edition was published, with considerable revision of the New Testament. This revised edition, reprinted in 1602, became the basis of the revision under King James.

In 1582 an English translation of the New Testament was published at Rheims, made from the Latin by Roman Catholic scholars led by Gregory Martin, who had been trained at Oxford University. A similar translation was made of the Old Testament, but not published until 1609. The distinctive characteristic of the Rhemish version of the New Testament is the closeness with which it adheres to the Latin.

On February 10, 1604, after a conference "for hearing and for the determining things pretended to be amiss in the church," King James I ordained: "That a translation be made of the whole Bible, as consonant as can be to the original Hebrew and Greek; and this to be set out and printed without any marginal notes, and only to be used in all churches of England in time of divine service." He appointed fifty-four men as translators, forty-eight of whom are named in the records that have come down to us. They worked in six companies, to each of which was assigned a section of the Bible. Two companies met at Oxford, two at Cambridge, and two at Westminster.

It was provided that each company would consider the work of each other company, and that differences would be resolved by correspondence if possible, and if not, be referred to the general meeting at the end. This was a meeting at London of a committee of six, made up of two representatives from the companies at each of the three centers, which devoted nine months to bringing together and finally editing the work. It was then seen through the press by Dr. Thomas Bilson, bishop of Winchester, and Dr. Myles Smith, of Oxford University; and Smith wrote an extended and informative preface, entitled "The Translators to the Reader." This version of the Bible, with a dedication to King James, was published in 1611.

It is a strange fact that no evidence has yet been found that the King James Version was ever authorized in the sense of being publicly sanctioned by Convocation or by Parliament. But it did not need that. Bishop Westcott, writing one hundred years ago, said: "From the middle of the seventeenth century, the King's Bible has been the acknowledged Bible of the English-speaking nations throughout the world simply because it is the best. A revision which embodied the ripe fruits of nearly a century of labour, and appealed to the religious instinct of a great Christian people, gained by its own internal character a vital authority which could never have been secured by any edict of sovereign rulers."

To this may be added the verdict of Sir Frederic Kenyon: "It is the simple truth that, as literature, the English Authorized Version is superior to the original Greek. It was the good fortune of the English nation that its Bible was produced at a time when the genius of the language for noble prose was at its height, and when a natural sense of style was not infected by self-conscious scholarship. The beauty of the language commended the teaching of the sacred books and made them dear to the heart of the people, while it made an indelible and enduring impression alike on literature and on popular speech" (The Story of the Bible, London, 1936).

An outstanding merit of the King James Version is the music of its cadences. The translators were men experienced in the public reading of the Scriptures and in the conduct of public worship. Their choice of the final wording of a passage was often determined by a marvelously sure instinct for what would sound well when read aloud. Take as an example the successive translations of Pr.3.17, part of a discourse in praise of wisdom, where Coverdale, the Great Bible, and the Bishops' Bible agree in reading: "Her wayes are pleasant wayes and all her paths are peaceable."

The Geneva Bible has: "Her wayes are wayes of pleasure and all her paths prosperitie."

The King James Version gives to the verse a perfect melody: "Her wayes are wayes of pleasantnesse, and all her pathes are peace."

The English Bible owes more to William Tyndale than to any other man, not only because he was the first to translate the Bible from the original Hebrew and Greek, but because the basic structure of his translation has endured through all subsequent changes. It has been estimated that about sixty per cent of the text of the English Bible achieved its final literary form before the King James Version appeared, and that in the King James Version at least one-third of the New Testament is worded exactly as in Tyndale's New Testament, while the sentences of the remaining two-thirds follow the general pattern of the underlying structure of Tyndale's New Testament.

Among the hundreds of phrases and sentences which the King James translators owed to Tyndale, and which have been kept by revisers of our own time, are: "You cannot serve God and mammon" (Mt.6.24); "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow" (Mt.6.28); "where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them" (Mt.18.20); "It is more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts 20.35); "the unsearchable riches of Christ" (Eph.3.8); "out of darkness into his marvelous light" (1 Pet.2.9).

To Coverdale and the Great Bible we owe such phrases as "till heaven and earth pass away" (Mt.5.18); "none of us lives to himself, and none of us dies to himself" (Rom.14.7); "death is swallowed up in victory" (1 Cor. 15.54); "the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world" (Gal.6.14).

From Taverner come these readings: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me" (Mt.16.24); "according to thy word" (Lk. 2.29); "a certain creditor" (7.41); "Master, it is good for us to be here" (9.33); "he would have given thee living water" (Jn.4.10).

From the Geneva Bible come such phrases as: "his word was with authority" (Lk.4.32); "in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us" (Rom. 8.37); "we have the mind of Christ" (1 Cor. 2.16); "all the fulness of God" (Eph.3.19); "the eyes of him with whom we have to do" (Heb.4.13); "so great a cloud of witnesses" (Heb.12.1).

Among the phrases which appeared first in the Bishops' Bible are "persecuted for righteousness' sake" (Mt.5.10); "faithless and perverse generation" (Mt.17.17); "overcome evil with good" (Rom.12.21); "was made in the likeness of men" (Phil.2.70); "the power of his resurrection" (Phil.3.10).

We owe to the Rheims Version such expressions as "Why, what evil has he done?" (Mt.27.23); "owe me no one anything" (Rom.13.8); "the ministry of reconciliation" (2 Cor.5.18); "to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain" (Phil.1.21).

For two and a half centuries the King James Version maintained its place as the Authorized Version of the English-speaking peoples, without any serious consideration of its revision. But in the 1850's a movement toward revision began to gather strength, and in 1870 the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury appointed a Committee to undertake it. The Revised Version of the New Testament was published in 1881, of the Old Testament in 1885, and of the Apocrypha in 1895. The American Standard Version, a variant edition containing the renderings preferred by the American scholars who had cooperated in the work of revision, was published in 1901.

In 1928 the copyright of the American Standard Version was acquired by the International Council of Religious Education, and thus passed into the ownership of the churches of the United States and Canada which were associated in this Council through their boards of education and publication. The Council appointed a committee of scholars to have charge of the text of the American Standard Version and to undertake inquiry as to whether further revision was necessary. After more than two years of study and experimental work, this committee decided that there was need for a thorough revision of the version of 1901, which would stay as close to the Tynedale-King James tradition as it could in the light of present knowledge of the Hebrew and Greek texts and their meaning on the one hand, and present usage of English on the other.

In 1937 the revision was authorized by vote of the Council, which directed that the resulting version should "embody the best results of modern scholarship as to the meaning of the Scriptures, and express this meaning in English diction which is designed for use in public and private worship and preserves those qualities which have given to the King James Version a supreme place in English literature."

The Revised Standard Version of the New Testament was published in 1946, of the Old Testament in 1952, and of the Apocrypha in 1957. The publication of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible was authorized in 1951 by vote of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

The revised versions of 1881-1901 made permanent advances in their recognition of the principle that Hebrew poetry is to be translated as poetry, in characteristic parallelism, and in their giving due weight to the text of the ancient Greek manuscripts of the New Testament which had been discovered since 1611.

But the Revised New Testament of 1881, said Charles H. Spurgeon, the great London preacher, was "strong in Greek, weak in English." The revisers were literalists, especially in the New Testament. Their ideal of translation was a meticulous word-for-word reproduction of the Greek text in English words, using the same English word for a given Greek word whenever possible, leaving no Greek word without translation into a correspondent English word, following the order of the Greek words rather than the order natural to English, and attempting to translate the tenses and the definite article with a precision alien to English idioms. The result is that the Revised Version and the American Standard Version are distinctly "translation English."

The problem of the archaic language of the King James Version was ineffectively handled by the revisers, who changed some of the misleading words but actually increased the use of other archaic terms, such as aforetime, haply, holden, howbeit, would fain, must needs, peradventure. Where the King James Version reads, "this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you" (1 Th.5.18), the 1881-1901 revisers changed it to "this is the will of God in Christ Jesus to you-ward" (so also in Rom.8.18, Gal.5.10, Col.1.25). A full account of archaic words and obsolete meanings in the King James Version and the revised versions of 1881-1901 is given in The Bible Word Book, by Ronald Bridges and Luther A. Weigle.

It is one of the ironies of history that the King James Version remained unrevised for two hundred and sixty years, then was revised with the utmost care, but that almost immediately there began the period which Sir Frederic Kenyon has called the Age of Discoveries, since it "has seen discovery after discovery widening our knowledge of the Bible text and its early history, and testing the results at which the scholars of 1881 had arrived by evidence with which they were totally unacquainted." (For a description of some of these discoveries, see pp. xii, xiii, 1528 above.)

The Revised Standard Version has taken full account of the new knowledge of the history, geography, religions, and cultures of Bible lands, and of the rich new resources for understanding the vocabulary, grammar, and idioms of the Biblical and related languages. It also breaks away from the literalism and mechanical exactitude of the revisions of 1881–1901, and returns to the basic structure and more natural cadence of the Tyndale-King James tradition. The review of the Revised Standard Version in The Scotsman of Edinburgh concluded with the statement: “In general it may be claimed, whatever criticism may be directed to this or that minor detail of text or diction, that here we have the most significant and adequate of existing revisions, the one most tenacious in its style and form of the tradition of the English Bible.”

Paraphrases and new translations, usually of the New Testament, have appeared from time to time, such as those by Henry Hammond, 1653; Richard Baxter, 1685; Daniel Mace, 1729; Edward Harwood, 1768; Andrews Norton, 1855; Leicester Sawyer, 1858. A group of scholars produced The Twentieth Century New Testament, 1898–1901; thereafter have come new translations by R. F. Weymouth, 1903; James Moffatt, 1913; Edgar J. Goodspeed, 1923; J. B. Phillips, 1947–1958; and The New English Bible: New Testament, 1961. Moffatt’s translation of the Old Testament appeared in 1924; and a translation of the Old Testament by J. M. Powis Smith and other scholars (1927) was published with the Goodspeed New Testament as The Bible: An American Translation. Work upon the translation of the Old Testament for The New English Bible is scheduled for completion in the late 1960’s. None of these translations, each new and “modern” in its time, has come within the scope of this chapter, which is concerned with the development of the Tyndale-King James tradition.
